PREFACE TO THE FOURTH EDITION.

IN offering the Fourth Revision of this work, the author wishes to express his appreciation of the kindly reception which has been extended to the work by the legal profession of this country. The task of keeping up to date a complete text book on the Incorporation and Organization of Corporations has not been an easy one. The increase in the size of the present volume over that of the earlier editions finds its explanation in the following statement. A very considerable addition has been made to the Synopsis Digest of the Incorporation Acts of the Several States with a view to not only revising them up to July 1st, 1912, but at the same time enlarging the Synopsis Digest itself. A number of additional miscellaneous forms have been added, which it is believed will add materially to the usefulness of the work.

THE present work might with no inconsiderable degree of fitness have been entitled "A Treatise on Comparative Incorporation Law in the Several Commonwealths of the United States." Such a work if properly prepared should not fail to interest the active practitioner as well as the public at large. One of the greatest difficulties met with in the preparation of the volume here presented, has been to successfully condense the subject matter thereof without eliminating any matters of real importance. If, in place of the customary copious references so freely offered in support of principles of corporation law universally considered to be sound, the reader finds only a single citation, he may rest assured that careful investigation has satisfied the author that it represents the prevailing doctrine relative to the particular proposition in support of which it has been cited. This method, it is believed, will meet with favor at the hands of the profession for the following reasons :

The vast majority of the decisions of the courts of this country rendered prior to 1870, in so far as they relate to questions of corporation law, are for the most part a veritable legal "junk-shop" representing either what is now "horn-book law," or else overruled cases. Many of these contain enunciation of principles of corporation law the soundness of which no one in these days would venture to dispute, or else they represent propositions of law which are no longer regarded as sound. The corporation law of to-day, by engrafting into its subject matter accepted principles of agency and estoppel, has assumed a form which the corporation lawyer of fifty years ago would find great difficulty in recognizing.

In the preparation of this work utility and accuracy have been kept constantly in mind. The writer has made free use of certain exceptional facilities that have been open to him through his professional connections, including access to a large number of forms as well as a great deal of correspondence with state officials in the various commonwealths. The forms for drawing charters in the various states, while prepared by the author, have also been approved in every instance by competent attorneys who reside in the state under the laws of which the draft of the charter was made.

All of this has been, it is hoped, to the advantage of the profession and the public at large.

A TREATISE

ON THE

INCORPORATION AND ORGANIZATION OF CORPORATIONS.

INTRODUCTION.

THE development of the modern business corporation act has been most curious and interesting. Previous to the year 1837 charters could be procured only by special act of the legislature. In that year the legislature of Connecticut passed the first business corporation act that went into force and effect in the United States. It was drawn by Theodore Hinsdale, of Winchester, Connecticut, a Yale graduate of the class of 1821. As this act forms the basic work of most of the business corporation acts of to-day, it deserves more than passing notice. It was drafted for the purpose of permitting incorporation thereunder of companies for the purpose of carrying on a manufacturing, mechanical, mining, and quarrying business. The statutory powers of corporations incorporated thereunder were enumerated as follows: To sue and be sued, to have a common seal, to elect officers, to fix their compensation and duties, to establish by-laws, to employ agents, mechanics, and laborers. Incorporation was limited to one purpose, to be distinctly and definitely set forth in the articles of agreement which were required to be signed by all the incorporators. A board of directors was provided for; also a president, secretary, and treasurer. Power was given to the corporation to forfeit stock of stockholders for non-payment of stock subscriptions. The corporation also had a lien upon the stock of its members for debts. After the articles were signed and the corporation organized and the articles of association published, the officers were required to make and file with the Secretary of State (and a duplicate thereof with the town clerk of the town where the corporation was to transact its business) a certificate setting forth, (1) the purpose of the corporation; (2) the amount of its capital stock; (3) the names of stockholders and the number of shares held by each. Annual reports were made obligatory. Stockholders were made liable for all capital refunded to them, and made personally liable for the declaration of illegal dividends.

The passage as well as the operation of the first Connecticut act was watched closely by the legislative bodies of the neighboring States, with the result that by 1850 there were in the neighborhood of a score of general business corporation acts in force and effect in various parts of the country modelled with some few exceptions closely after the Connecticut act above referred to. The operation of these general acts was so satisfactory that a new element appeared in the passage by various States of constitutional amendments forbidding absolutely the creation of private corporations for purposes of profit by special act of the legislature. This has been continued until at the present time special charters cannot be procured save in seven of the Commonwealths.

The next development is to be noted along the line of enlargement of corporate purposes and powers. Gradually the restriction of the earlier incorporation acts limiting the right and benefits thereof to those desiring to incorporate companies for manufacturing and mining purposes was removed so as to permit practically of incorporation for any lawful purpose. At the same time there came a demand on the part of prospective incorporators for greater powers than were permitted at common law, —such, for example, as the right to perform constituent acts outside of the domiciliary State, to hold stock and bonds in other corporations, and to amend their charters unrestrictedly. In this way there came to be found in many of the corporation acts a large number of extraordinary powers which were not recognized at common law. This served to greatly popularize the corporate form of organization as compared with individual, partnership, or joint stock company enterprises. The result which followed was natural. The several State legislatures proceeded one after the other to enact statutes compelling incorporators when organizing corporations to pay a license tax graduated according to the capitalization of the corporation. In this way certain States — notably New Jersey, New York, Delaware, West Virginia, and Maine — have secured a very large revenue — all to the satisfaction of the average tax-payer.

It is characteristic of State legislatures that they never fail to take advantage of an opportunity to relieve a majority of voters from the burdens of taxation at the expense of a few. Doubtless it was with this laudatory purpose in mind that they next proceeded to enact statutes requiring corporations to pay an annual license tax based upon either their authorized capitalization, the amount of capital invested in the State, or the amount of dividends paid annually to stockholders. The success of a few States in securing large revenues from both organization and license taxes resulted in legislative action in other States taken with a view to securing a proper share of the incorporation business, which had hitherto enured to the benefit of two or three favored Commonwealths. This may be properly described as the era of the "tramp corporation." That is, it was about this time that there appeared a well-defined tendency on the part of incorporators to go outside of the State of their residence for a charter under which they planned to do business exclusively in some foreign State. The result has been that incorporators have gradually accustomed themselves to going for their charters to those States which are commonly known as leading incorporating States. In this group will be found at the present time New Jersey, New York, Delaware, West Virginia, South Dakota, Maine, Nevada, Arizona, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Virginia, Oklahoma, North Carolina, and Alabama.

Speaking in general terms, it may be said that a great majority of the business corporation acts in force in this country to-day are sadly in need of revision. Thus, for example, the incorporation acts of Iowa, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Arizona, Mississippi, and the District of Columbia are more or less crude in construction, and lack many of the essentials of complete and satisfactory acts. The incorporation laws of Georgia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland are veritable "legal antiques," and would bear revision without any injury whatever to the best interests of those Commonwealths. The incorporation acts of Indiana, Minnesota, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, and Louisiana are so involved as to lead to almost certain confusion when an attempt is made to take advantage of their provisions.

In regard to the attitude taken by the legislatures of the several States in the framing of these General Acts, attention is called to some remarks of the Committee on Corporations addressed to the legislature of Massachusetts in 1903, which were as follows:

“The history of corporations, as well as the logic of the case, shows that there are possible two general theories as to the State’s duties in creating corporations. First, the old theory that being creatures of the State, they should be guaranteed by it to the public in all particulars of responsibility and management; and the modern, quite opposite theory that, in the absence of fraud in its creation or government, an ordinary business corporation should be allowed to do anything that an individual can do. Under the old theory the capital stock of a corporation was, in the law, considered to be a guarantee fund for the payment of creditors as well as affording a method of corporate enterprise. There resulted from this principle not only the fundamental proposition that the capital stock, being in the nature of a guarantee fund, should be paid for at its par value in actual cash, but all the other provisions to protect creditors or other persons having dealings with the corporation, such as that the debts of a corporation should not exceed its capital stock, designed primarily in the interest of creditors, and secondarily in that of the stockholders, who are looked after as carefully as if they were wards of the State when dealing in corporation matters. Under the modern theory, the State owes no duty to persons who may choose to deal with corporations to look after the solvency of such artificial bodies; nor to the stockholders to protect them from the consequences of going into such concerns, the idea being that in the case of ordinary business corporations the State’s duty ends in providing clearly that creditors and stockholders shall be at all times precisely informed of all the facts attending both the organization and the management of such corporations, and particularly that there shall be full publicity given to all details of the original organization thereof.”

It may be of some practical value at this point to inquire briefly what are the advantages of conducting business under corporate management rather than as an individual or a copartnership enterprise. These advantages may be enumerated as follows:

First, Immunity from individual liability for debts arising out of the conduct of the business.

INTRODUCTION.

Second, The securing of the element of perpetuity for the life of the enterprise in hand, so that the death of any of the parties interested does not interfere with the conduct of the business.

Third, The good-will and prestige of the business is not then the property of an individual, but belongs to the corporation.

Fourth, The ease with which capital is obtained for the use of the business through the sale of stock, thus doing away with the danger or necessity of admitting general or special partners into the concern.

Fifth, The facility with which money can be obtained by the sale of bonds or preferred stock.

Sixth, The ease with which individual interests in a business may be sold or transferred, without the necessity of obtaining the consent of a third party to the sale.

Seventh, The removal of the danger of being ruined through the dishonesty or extravagance of a partner.

Eighth, The small expense connected with the incorporation of an enterprise.

Ninth, The wide and far reaching extension of the powers of a corporation as compared with that of individuals and copartners.

But the advantages of corporate management being stated, the question then arises : Where should the business man of to-day go to procure a charter for the enterprise he may have in hand ? With forty-five States, five Territories, and the District of Columbia all offering facilities for incorporation, the task of selection therefrom is by no means an easy one. Where the capitalization is small or the corporate purposes simple, it is sometimes, though not always, best to procure a charter from the State where the principal prospective incorporators reside or where they propose to carry on the company's business. On the other hand, if the capitalization is to be sought in other localities, the proposed corporate business interstate in character, or the prospective capitalization large, and the corporate purposes sought for broad in character, then it may be of great advantage to procure a charter in some outside State. Under such circumstances recourse is usually had to what are recognized as the leading incorporating States already referred to.

But to go further, it may be stated that a proper investigation into the question as to where to look for a charter best suited to the immediate purposes of the proposed corporation must necessarily entail an investigation among many others into the following matters :

1. Nature of the business corporation act of the State wherein it is proposed to incorporate.

2. Policy of such States towards corporations, domestic and foreign.

3. Publicity required as to the condition of corporations organized under the laws of that particular State.

4. Extent of legislative control over private corporations.

5. Nature of corporate powers desired.

6. Initial expense.

7. Amount of annual franchise tax, if any.

8. Amount of capitalization permitted, and the par value of shares allowed.

9. Time within which the capital stock must be paid up.

10. Question as to whether stockholders' and directors' meetings must be held within the State in which the charter is procured.

11. Question as to whether the principal office of the corporation may be maintained outside of the State of its organization.

12. Ascertainment of the question as to whether stock can be legally issued for property or services instead of for cash.

13. Inquiry as to what extent the appraisal of the board of directors of the property or services paid for by the issuance of stock is conclusive upon the creditors of the corporation seeking, in case of insolvency, to enforce an alleged liability for unpaid stock.

14. Power to issue preferred stock.

15. Par value of the corporate shares desired.

16. Power to create debts.

17. Ease or difficulty with which the charter may be amended.

18. Amount of stockholders' liability, if any.

19. Extent of directors' liability, if any.

20. Ease or difficulty with which the corporation may be dissolved.

21. Nature of the laws of the various States with reference to the terms and conditions under which foreign corporations may do business therein.

Each of the foregoing questions has its proper bearing when it comes to deciding where to go for a charter for some particular business enterprise which it is proposed to prosecute under the form of corporate organization.

INTRODUCTION.

A discussion of each of these matters will be found in Part I. of the present treatise.

Turning now to the character of the business corporation acts passed by the legislatures of the various States and Territories, it will be apparent to all that many of them are "wonderfully and fearfully made."

If one were to attempt to characterize and compare the various incorporation acts of the several States and Territories, it would be found a task of great difficulty, for the reason that it is almost impossible to find a logical basis for classification. Any number of arbitrary classifications might be adopted, but these would be of no value to either the practitioner or the public at large. Whatever attempt may be made here along this line must be based solely upon the most general lines of similarity of the incorporation acts of various States. As a preliminary to this, it has been noted that certain States and Territories are known and recognized as "leading incorporating States." The ones to which reference is made are New Jersey, New York, Delaware, West Virginia, Maine, South Dakota, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Arizona, Nevada, District of Columbia, and Virginia. The great majority of charters taken out annually in this country are procured in the foregoing enumerated States and Territories.

By many the New Jersey act is considered to be a model of what a business corporation act should be. This fact, coupled with the large revenue secured by the State of New Jersey through this medium, has resulted in the passage in other States of statutes modelled more or less closely after the New Jersey act. This fact prompts the first classification that will be attempted here, which will be termed the "New Jersey Class." Within the limits thereof may be properly included not only New Jersey, but New York, Delaware, West Virginia, Alabama, Nevada, North Carolina, New Mexico, and Virginia as well.

Another classification would embrace a large number of Western States and Territories, which to a greater or less extent have modelled their corporation acts along the same general lines as that of California. This class may properly be referred to as the "California Class," and included therein will be found Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Utah, Wyoming, Texas, and Arizona.

INCORPORATION AND ORGANIZATION OF CORPORATIONS.

Another group will be known as the "Maine Group," for the reason that the plan has been therein adopted of having the corporation organized before a certificate of incorporation or organization is filed with or issued by the State officials. In this class belong Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, and Indian Territory.

Iowa and Nebraska have acts very closely resembling each other, and may be grouped as the "Iowa Class." In another group, which we shall call the "Pennsylvania Class," are to be found Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Florida, Mississippi, and Kansas. The distinguishing feature of this class is that the incorporation scheme adopted embraces a petition for incorporation by the incorporators addressed to State officials, to be followed by the filing of a certificate of incorporation if the petition is favorably acted upon.

Another group may be known as the "Kentucky Group," in which belong Kentucky, Ohio, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont. The resemblance here, it must be admitted, is more fancied than real, and probably does not depend upon any actual intent to copy the first Kentucky act. In the "Michigan Class" are to be found Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, all of which possess acts resembling each other in certain features. It is impossible to place Georgia, Indiana, Louisiana, Maryland, and Tennessee in any specified class. They all possess inadequate and certainly unique business corporation acts, which are not likely to be copied by any other State in this day and generation.

PART I.

INCORPORATION AND ORGANIZATION OF CORPORATIONS.

CHAPTER I.

DRAFTING THE CHARTER.

§ 1. General Remarks on Corporate Charters. — Incorporation is a form of expression of the sovereign political power of the State in the creation of a juristic person possessing such limited powers as may be granted to it by the legislative branch of our State or national government. The growth of the corporate form of organization affords an example of the rapid evolution from a somewhat circumscribed beginning to proportions that can only be described in this age of industrial trusts and combinations as colossal in character. Even the courts have not infrequently called attention to the modern disposition to incorporate everything.¹

Much of this is due no doubt to the passage by the various State legislatures of what are commonly known as "business corporation acts." The phrase "business corporation," in this connection, is a broad term, and includes all corporations engaged in business for profit, as distinguished from municipal and eleemosynary corporations.² The creation of corporations organized for profit by special act is now forbidden by constitutional provision in all but seven of the States.³ The existence throughout the country of general incorporation acts has fully reversed the old policy of granting exclusive privileges of any kind to corporations.⁴

§ 1 INCORPORATION AND ORGANIZATION OF CORPORATIONS. [PART I.

The purpose of restricting the power to create corporations by special act has been well set forth as follows: "To inaugurate the policy of placing corporations of the same kind upon a perfect equality as to all future grants and powers by making such laws applicable to all parts of the State and thereby securing the vigilance and attention of its whole representation, and, finally, of making the judicial construction of their powers or the restrictions imposed upon them equally applicable to all corporations of the same class."¹

It is universally recognized in this country that legislative authority is essential to the creation of a corporation.² Incorporators cannot come together and agree to become a corporation without conforming to legislative requirements.³ It has been well said "that there is an obvious reason for making such organization by written articles of agreement a condition precedent to the exercise of corporate rights. It is the basis upon which all subsequent proceedings are to rest, and is designed to take the place of a charter or act of incorporation by which corporate rights and privileges are usually granted. If there were no such provisions, there would be an absence of any provision by which the right to exercise corporate powers could be definitely fixed and established, and there would be no means of ascertaining the rights of stockholders and of persons dealing with such association."⁴

The charter of a company together with the general laws of the State of its creation, enumerating and limiting the powers of all corporations of that class, constitutes the measure of its powers, and the enumeration thereof implies the exclusion of all other powers except such as are incidentally or necessarily implied.⁵

The instrument by which corporations are created is known by different names in various parts of the country. The term "charter" is a word which has descended to us from the common law existing in England long before the United States became a nation. It originally referred to the specific grant of certain privileges running from the sovereign to a subject. Subsequently it was applied in this country to a specific act of the legislature creating a corporation with distinct and exclusive purposes and powers. With the advent of the passage of general business corporation acts in this country, the word "charter" has been replaced by such terms as "articles of incorporation," "articles of association," "certificate of incorporation," "certificate of organization," and "petition for incorporation." It goes without saying that under the Business Corporation Acts referred to there must be articles of some sort properly executed.¹

It has been said that the essence of a corporation consists, first, in its capacity to have perpetual succession under a special name and in an artificial form; second, to take and grant property and contract obligations, sue and be sued by its corporate name as an individual; and third, to receive and enjoy corporate privileges and immunities. The first two are the privileges of the incorporators, and the third is the franchise of the corporation.²

As far back as 1612 Lord Coke enumerated the essentials of a corporate charter as follows: (1) lawful authority for incorporation; (2) persons to be incorporated; (3) corporate name; (4) domicile; (5) words sufficient in law enumerating the purposes and powers of the corporation. All of these essentials and many more, which by statute are made essentials, are to be found in the business corporation acts of to-day.

Referring now briefly to those matters which are by statute in this country made necessary parts of articles of incorporation, the following may be said: with the exception of Arkansas, Georgia, Indian Territory, Maine, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Vermont, all have incorporation acts requiring that the duration of corporate existence shall be set forth in the articles of incorporation.

Again, all but New Hampshire and Tennessee require a statement as to the number and par value of shares. More than half the States prescribe that the names of the first or temporary board of directors shall be inserted in the articles, while most of the remaining States require that the number of directors only shall be inserted. Fully half the States authorize the insertion in the articles of provisions for the issuance of preferred stock. A few of the Commonwealths require that the articles shall contain a statement as to the amount of stock subscriptions, the amount of capital stock paid in, and the amount of capital with which the corporation will begin business. Alaska, Arizona, Delaware, Louisiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Utah require that the date of the annual meeting shall appear in the articles. Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin expressly authorize the insertion in the articles of provisions for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation. If it is desired to protect stockholders from personal liability for corporate debts, there must be inserted in the articles of incorporation of companies organized under the laws of Arizona, Delaware, Iowa, Kentucky, and Utah provision specifically exempting stockholders from such liability.

And so the enumeration might be continued almost indefinitely of special provisions required in particular States in connection with the incorporation of corporate enterprises.

Finally, attention is called to the various steps necessary to create a corporation under the modern business corporation acts, qualified in every respect to carry out the purposes for which it is formed. These steps may be enumerated as follows: (1) the drafting of the articles of incorporation; (2) the signing of the articles by the requisite number of incorporators, and acknowledgment of the same before an officer duly authorized to take such acknowledgments; (3) filing and recording the articles with the proper State and county officials after payment of the requisite organization tax and filing and recording fees; (4) organization of the corporation ready for the transaction of business; (5) securing the necessary permit from State officials (if any is required) to transact business within the domiciliary State.¹

§ 2. Incorporators. — An incorporator is one of the constituents of a corporation, who by petition or by means of the execution of articles of incorporation invokes the exercise of the supreme political power of the State in the creation of a corporation for the benefit of himself and associates and their successors in interest.²

The words "corporator" and "incorporator" have essentially the same meaning. The qualifications of incorporators vary with the State from which the charter is sought. The usual number of incorporators required by the various acts varies from one to five. In Iowa and Nebraska one person may incorporate.¹ Residential requirements on the part of incorporators exist in Alaska, California, Idaho, Kansas, Maryland, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, and Wisconsin. Failure to state residence of incorporators in articles is, however, not fatal to corporate existence.⁴

The general rule is that citizenship is not necessary unless specifically required by the statute of incorporators.⁵ It has been said that in the absence of statute providing otherwise incorporators must be stockholders.⁶ The rule, however, appears to be otherwise in Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Tennessee, and Georgia.⁷ In a majority of the States, however, statutes expressly prescribe that incorporators must be subscribers for at least one share of the capital stock of the proposed corporation.

If married women are under no disabilities, they may act as incorporators.⁸ Aliens may be incorporators if statute does not provide otherwise.⁹

Some of the States expressly limit the right to become incorporators to natural persons. However, where no such express limitation exists, there is no question but what the word "person," when used in the statute limiting such matters, would not permit corporations to act as incorporators.¹⁰

The rule seems to be that incorporators must be of full age.¹¹ Incorporators must also be known persons.¹² The modern rule seems to be that incorporators are merely conduits for the purpose of organization for the benefit of future stockholders.¹ Under this rule there can be no valid legal question raised at this day as to the legality of the use of what are commonly known as "dummy incorporators" in the organization of corporations.²

§ 3. Corporate Name.—Every corporation, like an individual, must have a name under which its business must be carried on. It has been said "that the name goes to the very being of the creation, the knot of the combination, without which corporations could not do their corporate acts, without which it is unable to implead and be impleaded, to take any action until it hath gotten a name."³ The word "company," which is usually a part of the corporate name, does not necessarily imply a corporation.⁴ In Alabama, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Kansas, Kentucky, Missouri, North Carolina, and Virginia statutes exist which provide that the corporate name must end with some such word as "association," "company," "corporation," "club," "society," "syndicate," or "limited."⁵

In a number of the States corporations upon organization are forbidden to take the same name as that of an existing domestic corporation, or one so similar as to be calculated to deceive or cause confusion.⁶ Some few of the States go still further and forbid the use of the name of any foreign corporation by newly created domestic corporations, provided the former has secured a permit to do business in the State. The States here referred to are Connecticut, Delaware, Kentucky, Massachusetts, New York, Utah, Virginia, and West Virginia. In the absence of such statute there is ordinarily no restriction on the right to take the corporate name of a foreign corporation.⁷

The corporate name is the property of the corporation, and equity will protect the corporation in any jurisdiction from the fraudulent use of another name so like it as to deceive the public and rob it of its business.¹ The mere fact that the corporation against whom a restraining order is asked for has secured a charter in that particular State while the complaining corporation has never been incorporated there or even procured a permit to do business there, will not in most jurisdictions prevent the granting of such relief.²

Where statutes exist, such as have been referred to, forbidding the use of similar corporate names, while the attitude of the Secretary of State in such cases with respect to the issuance of a certificate of incorporation is ministerial, yet he has reasonable discretion in the matter and cannot be mandamusd when exercising such discretion.³ In protecting the use of a corporate name the courts proceed on the theory that such name should be protected in equity on principles analogous to those which prevail in the use of trademarks.⁴

§ 4. Corporate Purposes. — By corporate purposes is meant the specific declaration in the articles of incorporation of the nature of the business which the corporation is authorized to carry on. Such statement is a matter which primarily concerns the stockholders, and to a less degree the State under whose authority the corporation is created.

In the granting of corporate privileges it is important to specify the purposes and objects because the courts should have some guide in keeping them within the powers granted and conveyed. Unless they be specified with particularity in the petition or in the granting thereof, they might do as they pleased and the law be powerless to restrain them.⁵ The purposes enumerated in the articles of association, read in connection with the general laws under which the charter is procured, is the measure of the powers of the corporation.⁶

It must be remembered that articles of association under general acts are the productions of private citizens gotten up in the interest of the parties who propose to become incorporated, and who are stimulated by their zeal for personal advantage rather than for the general good. They are, so far as permitted in accordance with the law, substitutes for legislative action in the place of the will of the people of the State as formerly expressed by acts of the legislature. While it was true at one time that all grants from the State to corporations were strictly construed, this principle has been subject to considerable modification of late years. This is owing to the passage of general incorporation acts which were undoubtedly framed and passed with the intent to liberalize the law in respect to such grants.¹

“It is fundamental that a corporation can be created and exist only by statutory authority, and if a corporation organizes under a general act and inserts in its articles of incorporation regulations and provisions additional to those required by the creative statute, such additional regulations and privileges are voidable at the will of the State, nor is the corporation permitted to place any restrictions on the manner of exercising its corporate duties other than the statute provides. If the corporation claims the right to exist for a certain purpose, it must show that it was organized under a statute authorizing the creation of a corporation for that particular purpose.”²

The statutes of the various States differ of course with respect to the character of the purposes for which corporations may be formed. Some of them permit incorporation for any lawful business, without any limitations whatsoever. The phrase “other lawful business,” found in so many of the statutes, is, according to the weight of authority, held not to be subject to the noscitur a sociis rule, and is used as a “catch-all” for the purpose of including any kind of business for pecuniary profit not otherwise provided for.³ In setting out the purposes, this must be done with reasonable certainty and definiteness. For example, an application for a charter was refused in Pennsylvania, where it was stated that, in addition to certain enumerated objects, the corporation was organized for "such other purposes as might be agreed upon in the future."¹

In many of the States express mention is made of the various specific purposes for which corporations may be created. As a general rule the incorporators are required to set out in their articles of association the specific purpose or purposes for which the proposed corporation is to be organized.²

Turning now to the various States, we find the following statutory provisions relative to the purposes for which business corporations may be created. In Alabama for any general business or lawful enterprise. In Arizona for the transaction of any lawful business. In Arkansas for the transaction of any lawful business. In Colorado for any lawful purpose. In California for any purpose for which individuals may associate themselves. In Connecticut for the transaction of any lawful business. In Delaware for the transaction of any lawful business or to promote or conduct any legitimate object or objects. In Florida for the transaction of any lawful business. In Georgia for any purpose intended for pecuniary profit. In Idaho for any purpose for which individuals may lawfully associate themselves. In Illinois for any lawful purpose. business, but only a manufacturing and a mercantile business can be carried on by the same corporation. In Minnesota for the transaction of any lawful business. In Mississippi for any lawful purpose. In Missouri for any purpose intended for profit or gain. In Montana for the transaction of any kind of manufacturing, mining, chemical, or mercantile business, or for any lawful commercial or industrial business, or for carrying on any branch of business designed to aid in or protect the interests of the company. In Nebraska for the transaction of any lawful business. In Nevada for any branch of trade or business, commerce, foreign or domestic. In New Hampshire for the transaction of any lawful business. In New Jersey for any lawful purpose or purposes whatever. In New Mexico for mining and manufacturing or other industrial purposes. In New York for any lawful purpose or purposes. In North Carolina for engaging in any lawful business. In North Dakota for any purpose for which individuals may lawfully associate themselves. In Ohio for any purpose for which individuals may lawfully associate themselves, except for carrying on a professional business. In Oklahoma for mining, manufacturing or other industrial purposes. In Oregon for the purpose of engaging in any lawful enterprise, business pursuit, or occupation. In Pennsylvania for the transaction of any lawful business, but not for more than one kind of business. In Rhode Island to carry on any ordinary business. In South Carolina for any purpose or purposes whatsoever or two or more combined. In South Dakota for the transaction of any lawful business. In Tennessee for the trade of the merchants, and for mining, boring, manufacturing, and other specified purposes. In Texas for manufacturing or mining and the purchase of goods, wares, and merchandise ; also for buying and selling agricultural products and for other specified purposes. In Utah for any purpose for which individuals may lawfully associate themselves. In Vermont for carrying on any object or business not repugnant to public policy or the laws of the State. In Virginia for any purpose which may be lawfully conducted by individuals or by a body politic and corporate. In Washington for any trade or business. In West Virginia for any purpose or business useful to the public for which a firm or copartnership may be lawfully formed. In Wisconsin for any lawful business or purpose whatever. In Wyoming for the transaction of any kind of manufacturing, mining, mercantile, and chemical business or any business designed to aid in the industrial or productive interests of the country.

The foregoing enumeration of purposes for which corporations may be created in the various Commonwealths named above, should be qualified by the statement that in most of them special acts are provided for certain classes of corporations, such as banks, trust companies, insurance companies, etc., under which corporations of that character must be incorporated. Among the few States in which corporations may be created for any lawful purpose whatever including the excepted classes above referred to are Alabama, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Finally, attention is called to the fact that in some few of the Commonwealths the statutes require that the certificate set forth the particular trade to be carried on. Such a provision is in legal effect equivalent to requiring that the purpose or object of the proposed corporation be set forth.

§ 5. Number of Corporate Purposes Permitted. — Difficulty frequently arises in determining whether under the provisions of some particular business corporation act parties may incorporate for the transaction of more than one line of business. In some of the States, notably, Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia, the acts are so framed as to clearly authorize incorporation of companies for any number of purposes not covered by special acts. In all the remaining States, with the exception of District of Columbia, Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, and Wyoming, the matter is greatly simplified by State officials construing the statutes of their respective States to permit the incorporation of companies for the transaction of any number of lines of business not regulated by special statutes.

In Georgia, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, and Texas the different lines of business are divided into classes. Generally speaking, parties are not permitted to incorporate for lines of business included in more than one of these classes.¹ In Wyoming the law requires the certificate of incorporation to have but one general object. In Ohio only one purpose may be inserted. In Kansas and Missouri the number of purposes is only limited by the provision of law that the name of the corporation shall indicate the nature of the business to be carried on by it.

Some suggestions along the line of determining the question as to the number of purposes which may be inserted in articles of incorporation in any particular States may be here presented, Where the statute permits corporations to be formed for several purposes named in the alternative, separated by the disjunctive conjunction "or," it is held that a corporation cannot be organized thereunder for more than one of such purposes, and that articles of incorporation which include more than one of them are void, and that incorporation under them will be refused.¹

Again, it would appear that where incorporation for only one purpose is permitted, incorporators must make a choice of such purpose themselves in the first instance, for the courts have quite generally refused to make it for them.²

On this general subject the Supreme Court of Texas in a recent case spoke as follows: "A charter must set forth the purpose for which it is formed. This for the reason that if it had been intended that a corporation might be created for two or more of the purposes specified in the statute, it would have been proper to have stated 'purpose or purposes for which it is formed.' The use of the word 'purpose' in the singular number tends to show that it was the intention of the legislature to authorize the creation of a corporation for only one purpose. It may be true that the use of the singular number may not be the conclusion of the question, and that if there were other purposes in the act which either by express declaration or clear implication indicate that it was intended to authorize incorporation for two or more of the designated purposes, whether in the same subdivision or not, we should so hold.³

Finally, it may be said that unless the statute expressly or impliedly permits the insertion of more than one purpose in the articles, the insertion of two or more purposes therein will clearly justify State officials in refusing to allow the filing of the same.⁴

§ 6. Collateral Attack upon Corporate Purposes and Powers. — The term “collateral attack,” as used in corporation law, has reference to the attempt of parties other than the State (in direct proceedings) to question the validity of a corporation’s existence and purposes or its right to exercise corporate powers. The law reports are full of conflicting decisions relating to the general subject of collateral attack upon corporate existence, purposes, and powers. The seemingly hopeless confusion which exists among the courts on this subject is largely due to a failure on their part to recognize that the matter has, by a gradual process of statutory and judicial legislation, become at the present time an academic one. It is proposed at this point to discuss at length not only the question of the right to collaterally attack the legality of corporate purposes as set forth in articles of incorporation, but as well to consider in this same connection the right to collaterally attack the validity of corporate existence and the right to exercise corporate powers. This for the reason that all these questions are so closely related to each other as to properly permit of discussion at one and the same time.

At the outset, a word should be said as to the policy that would seem to dictate the establishment of statutory and judicial rules, forbidding the impeachment by indirect methods of a corporation’s right to exist. In the first place, such attacks are rarely made except in an attempt to defeat the ends of justice, by setting up defences to actions brought against debtors by corporations, in which the parties interposing the same have generally no direct interest whatever. If the State legislatures had not by legislation, and the courts by an extended application of the doctrine of estoppel, forbidden such collateral inquiry into these matters, it would have been impossible in a great number of cases for litigants to enforce their just rights in courts of law. If such a right were admitted in one case, it must be in all. Corporations might thus be called upon years after their creation to establish the validity of corporate existence, purposes, and powers, which public policy should hold to be valid as against all parties except the State.¹

Having already observed that the question of the right to collaterally attack corporate existence, purposes, and powers has become largely an academic one, it will now be proper to substantiate this statement. That the discussion of this question may proceed along logical lines, attention is first called to the alleged right to collaterally attack the validity of corporate existence.

In twenty-six of the States and Territories collateral inquiry into the legality of corporate existence is expressly forbidden by statute, the right to impeach such existence being expressly reserved to the State alone by means of direct proceedings brought for that purpose.¹ Thus, in California it is provided that where a corporation claims in good faith to be a corporation and doing business as such, its right to exercise corporate powers shall not be inquired into collaterally in any private suit to which such de facto corporation may be a party.

In Delaware the law provides "that no corporation shall be permitted to set up or rely upon the want of legal organization as a defence in any action against it, nor shall any person transacting business with such corporation, or sued for injury to its property be permitted to rely upon such want of legal organization as a defence." In Georgia the law provides that the existence of a corporation claiming a charter, under the color of law, cannot be collaterally attacked, and that all who dealt with the corporation as such are estopped from denying its corporate existence. In Iowa, Kentucky, and Nebraska statutes exist essentially the same as that in force in Delaware as cited above. In Nebraska the law provides that evidence that the corporation is doing business under a certain name shall be prima facie proof of its due incorporation or existence pursuant to law.

In Montana collateral inquiry into corporate existence is expressly forbidden, until the fact that there was in fact no such corporation has been adjudged in a direct proceeding brought for that purpose. In South Carolina, it is provided that no irregularity shall be held to vitiate the corporation until a direct proceeding to set aside or annul the charter be commenced by the proper authorities of the State, and all acts and contracts entered into shall have the same force and effect as if no irregularity existed.

In South Dakota, North Dakota, and Oklahoma the law provides that the due incorporation of any company claiming in good faith to be a corporation and doing business as such, its right to exercise corporate powers shall not be inquired into collaterally. In Tennessee the law provides that the validity of corporate existence shall not be collaterally questioned. Persons acting as a corporation, the law says, will be presumed to be legally incorporated until the contrary is shown, and no such franchise shall be declared annulled or forfeited except in a regular proceeding brought for that purpose. In Texas no person who shall have assumed an obligation to an ostensible corporation as such shall resist the enforcement of such obligation on the ground that there was no such corporation until that fact has been adjudged in a direct proceeding for that purpose.

In Arizona persons acting as a corporation under the provisions of the incorporation act in force in that Territory are by law presumed to be legally organized until the contrary is shown, and no franchise can be declared to be annulled or forfeited except in regular proceedings brought for that purpose. The law also provides that no persons acting as a corporation under such act shall be permitted to set up or rely upon the want of legal organization as a defence to any action brought against them as a corporation, nor shall any person who shall be sued under a contract made with such corporation sue for an injury done to its property or for a wrong done to its interest be permitted to rely upon such want of legal organization in his defence.

Finally, in Mississippi it is provided that it shall not be a defence in any action against a corporation that there was a defect or informality in its organization.

Again in twenty-nine of the States authority is given to State officials to issue certificates of due incorporation. Of this number fourteen are not included in the list of States forbidding collateral attacks upon corporate existence. In such States it is safe to say that the issue of such a certificate is in itself a final adjudication against all parties except the State that a corporation has a legal existence to the extent that it cannot be collaterally attacked by third parties. Particularly where it is organized by the voluntary action of the requisite number of incorporators with the approval and consent of an officer of the State possessing authority in the premises, under an enabling statute permitting corporations of that particular description to be organized thereunder.¹

The theory upon which the rule here stated is based seems to be that State officials in issuing a certificate of due incorporation act under a general statute passed by the legislature, and under the terms thereof become agents as it were thereof for that purpose. It therefore follows that the act of such State officials in certifying as to due incorporation, is in effect the act of the legislature which has the supreme power of creating corporations. So it may be safely said that, according to the best current of authority, where the statute gives the State official authority to issue a certificate of due incorporation, such certificate is evidence thereof against all the world except the State.¹

Again it should be noted that in many of the States the statute itself gives certain probative force to the charter so issued, by providing that the certificate of incorporation, or a certified copy thereof, shall be evidence to a certain designated extent and for certain purposes. Thus in Connecticut, Kansas, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Ohio statutes exist providing that a certified copy of the certificate of incorporation shall be prima facie evidence of the legal existence of the corporation. In Colorado, Oklahoma, Oregon, Texas, West Virginia, and Wyoming statutes provide that such certificate shall be evidence of the existence of the company. In California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Louisiana, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming such a certificate is prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. In New York the certificate of incorporation of any corporation when duly filed is presumptive evidence of its incorporation. In Arkansas a certified copy of the articles is made prima facie evidence of the due formation and of the existence and capacity of the corporation. In Colorado it is made evidence of the existence of the corporation. In Connecticut it is evidence of the legal existence of the corporation, and it is there provided that it shall serve all the purposes of a charter for the corporation. In Delaware it is made evidence in any court of law or equity. In Georgia a certified copy of the petition for incorporation and order granting the same is made evidence of such incorporation in any court. In Kentucky the law provides that it may be used as evidence in any action for or against the corporation. In Maryland it may be used as evidence in all legal proceedings. In Michigan it is prima facie evidence of the due formation, existence, and capacity of such corporation. In Minnesota it is provided that it shall be evidence in all courts of such incorporation. In New Jersey it is evidence in all courts and places. In North Carolina it is prima facie evidence of the organization and incorporation of the company purporting thereby to have been established. In Pennsylvania it is evidence for all purposes. In Rhode Island a certificate must be received in evidence before any court, tribunal, or authority. In Tennessee it is competent evidence in any proceeding. In West Virginia it shall be received as evidence of the existence of the corporation. In Wyoming it is provided that it shall be evidence of the existence of the company.

Again, in Massachusetts and Indiana the law provides that the certificate of record shall be conclusive evidence of the existence of such corporation. In Wisconsin it must be received as conclusive evidence of the existence of the corporation or of the organization thereof in all cases where such facts are collaterally involved.

Again, in Alabama the certificate of the probate judge states specifically that the incorporators are duly organized as a corporation for the purposes expressed in the declaration, having the power, capacity, and authority conferred by law. In Florida the law provides that "letters patent" shall be conclusive evidence of the existence of the corporation in all actions where the question of the existence is only collaterally involved, and prima facie evidence in all other actions and proceedings. In Indiana the order of the court declaring the existence of a corporation entered "ex parte" is conclusive as to the fact of such existence. In Mississippi the law provides that the powers specified in the charter shall by the approval of the Governor be vested in such corporation, and it shall go into operation at the time and on the terms and conditions specified.

Again, certain statutes exist providing that after certain preliminary steps have been taken as prescribed by statute such incorporators and their successors and assigns shall thereupon become a body politic and corporate for certain specified purposes. These statutes really provide that upon the observance of certain specified preliminary conditions relative to the making and execution of articles of incorporation, the incorporators, their successors and assigns, shall be a body politic and corporate under the name and for the purposes stated in the articles. The foregoing is the statutory provision as it exists to-day in substance in South Dakota, North Dakota, and Oklahoma. In Virginia the law provides that they shall be a body politic and corporate by the name set forth in the said certificate and upon the terms and powers set forth therein, so far as not in conflict with law. In Pennsylvania the law provides that they shall become a corporation upon the purposes and terms named in the charter. In Maryland they are declared to thereby become a body politic and corporate according to the objects, purposes, articles, conditions, and provisions in said instrument contained. In Maine they are declared to be a corporation, with all the rights and powers and subject to all the duties, obligations, and liabilities provided by law.

In Connecticut a copy of the certificate of organization is prima facie evidence that the corporation has been duly organized and is duly authorized to exercise all its corporate powers. In Maine the certificate of the Secretary of State that the corporation has been duly organized is evidence of the corporate existence of the corporation. In South Carolina a certificate is issued by the Secretary of State that the corporation is fully authorized to commence business under its charter for the purposes indicated in the written declaration of the incorporators.

It is not claimed that the statutory provisions here referred to operate so as to preclude entirely collateral attack upon corporate existence, purposes, and powers. The most that is claimed for them where they do not make certain instruments conclusive evidence of corporate existence, purposes, and powers, is that they shift the burden of proof and render the likelihood of collateral attack more remote.¹

¹ As to meaning of conclusive evidence, see American Order, etc. v. Merritt, 151 Mass. 558; 24 N. E. 918. As to meaning of prima facie evidence, see Holmes v. Gililand, 41 Barb. (N. Y.) 569; Knapp, etc. Co. v. Strand, 4 Wash. 686; 30 Pac. 1063;

It has now been fairly demonstrated, it is hoped, that in the majority of the Commonwealths collateral inquiry into corporate existence is either prohibited by statute or else is forbidden by implication, by reason of the issuance of certificates of due incorporation, under proper legislative authority, by State officials. In the few remaining States and Territories the courts have either by a process of judicial legislation or by an extended application of the principle of estoppel, practically made it impossible to successfully attack in collateral proceedings the due existence of a corporation. This on grounds of enlightened public policy.¹

The judicial legislation above referred to covers the cases where it is impossible to apply principles of estoppel either on account of the absence of any conduct on the part of parties litigant showing their recognition of the corporation's existence, or else is inapplicable by reason of such parties having never in any way dealt with the corporation or recognized its corporate existence.²

Having now considered at some length the question as to the right to collaterally attack the validity of corporate existence, there naturally follows an inquiry as to the right to attack the validity of corporate purposes and powers when the same are inserted in the articles of incorporation. It would seem to follow, as a logical sequence, that if the rule be once established forbidding collateral attack upon corporate existence, this same rule should operate as well to prevent collateral attack upon corporate purposes and powers. This for the reason that if a corporation exists at all it must necessarily exist with such purposes and powers as are inserted in the articles of incorporation which called the corporation into being.

As has already been observed, a large number of the States have enacted statutes forbidding collateral attack upon corporate existence. For the reasons already stated, it would appear that these statutes would be equally efficacious for the purpose of prohibiting collateral attack upon corporate purposes and powers.

Again, as has already been stated, a large number of the incorporation acts provide that the certificate of incorporation shall be issued by certain designated State officials. Where such certificates are issued under express or even implied authority of the State, the rule unquestionably is that the validity of corporate purposes and powers not per se illegal, inserted in the articles of incorporation, cannot be attacked except by the State in a direct proceeding brought for that purpose.¹

If, however, the charter is issued without the express or implied approval of the State officials, — their duty being merely to certify to the fact and to mark them when filed as public documents in their respective offices, — then the insertion of purposes not authorized by the statute, yet not unlawful per se, would probably not render the charter valid for all purposes even when filed.²

To sum up briefly the propositions herein presented, it may be said that collateral inquiry into the legality of a corporation's existence, purposes, and powers is forbidden in this country, (1) by statutes expressly forbidding such collateral attack; (2) by reason of authority vested in state officials to issue certificates of due incorporation which for the reasons already stated are not open to collateral attack; (3) by reason of statutory provisions giving to certified copies of articles of incorporation certain probative effect; (4) by an extended application of the principle of estoppel forbidding such collateral attacks; (5) by a process of judicial legislation denying on grounds of public policy the right of parties other than the State to attack the legality of corporate existence, purposes, and powers.

§ 7. Effect of Inserting Illegal Purposes. — There seems to be a sound basis in law for permitting collateral attack upon purposes that are illegal per se. This for the reason that a distinction clearly exists between purposes which are merely unauthorized by the terms of the general incorporation act, and those purposes which are forbidden by express statute,—civil or penal. In the latter case it seems clear that even the approval by a State official of such unlawful purposes as evidenced by the issuance by them of certificates of due incorporation, do not forbid collateral attack thereon in any suit whereby the corporation seeks to benefit by the insertion of such unlawful purposes in its articles.¹

The rule might be still further extended so as to apply to purposes which may be lawful in a general way, yet which may be deemed unlawful on account of the limitations inserted in the articles upon the means by which such purposes are to be carried out.² The same principle would apply where the purposes are clearly contrary to the public policy of the State.³ But if purposes are lawful on their face, they will, as against all but the State, be presumed to be such.⁴ Where some of the purposes are merely unauthorized, while others are valid and proper, the insertion of the unauthorized purposes will not vitiate the incorporation.⁵ But where any of the purposes are illegal per se, the State officials would be clearly justified in refusing to allow the articles to be filed, though some of them are lawful.⁶

§ 8. Corporate Powers, Classification of. — By “corporate powers” is meant the right or authority of a corporation to act along certain lines prescribed for it in the instrument whereby it was created. The tendency of modern decisions is to assimilate the powers of private corporations to those of individuals and copartnerships.⁷ It is unnecessary to say that a corporation cannot assume for itself powers of action, irrespective of statute, by the mere declaration thereof in its articles of incorporation.⁸ Neither can they be created by by-law.⁹

“we take the general doctrine to be that the powers of corporations organized under general statutes are such and such only as are conferred by statute. Conceding the rule applicable to all statutes, that what is fairly implied is as much granted as what is expressed, it remains that the charter of the corporation is the measure of its powers, and that the enumeration of these powers implies the exclusion of all others.”

The foregoing is true only as to certain classes of powers which are hereinafter referred to as “express powers.” The rule is not applicable either to what are known as “common law powers” or to the “incidental powers” of corporations. Corporate powers may properly be divided into three general classes, to wit: (1) Common Law Powers; (2) Express Powers; (3) Incidental Powers. Generally speaking, there is no existing rule or principle by which corporations created for a certain specific object or to carry on a particular trade or business are to be held to be prohibited from all other dealings or transactions not coming within the exact scope of those designated. Undoubtedly the main business of a corporation is to be confined to that class of operations which properly appertains to the general purposes for which this charter was granted. But it may also enter into contracts and engage in transactions which are incidental or auxiliary to the main business, or which may become necessary or profitable in the care and management of the property which it is authorized to hold. The same is true as to certain powers which are held to exist at common law even in the absence of any specific reference to such powers in the articles of incorporation.

§ 9. Common Law Powers, Definition of; Enumeration of. — Common law powers are those which the law bestows upon corporations irrespective of statute or charter provisions, as being necessary for the carrying out of the purposes for which it was created.¹ The common law gives to corporations the powers belonging to corporations of their class, unless there is something in the nature of the corporation or in the terms of its charter, or in the act under which it was incorporated inconsistent with the exercise of the powers, or there is some general statute restricting the same.²

State v. Company, 144 Mo. 562; 46 S. W. Sutton's Hospital Cases, 5 Coke's Rep. 253.

The common law powers here referred to may be enumerated as follows: (1) the right to the use of a corporate name; (2) the right to perpetual succession; (3) the right to acquire, hold, and dispose of corporate property; (4) the right to appoint corporate officers and agents; (5) the right to establish by-laws for the government of the corporation, its officers and members; (6) the right to sue and be sued.

An examination of the various corporate acts in force in the several States and Territories will serve to show that without exception they contain an enumeration more or less full of the common law powers above referred to. In Indiana the statute refers to them as common law powers, and proceeds to enumerate them.¹

§ 10. Right to a Corporate Name. — The right to the use of a corporate name is a power well recognized both at common law and by statute. Corporations have a property right to the use of such name in the transaction of their business which the courts will always protect.² They are recognized in law only by their corporate name.³

The name is said "to be the very being of their constitution; the knot of their combination; without which they could not do their corporate acts; for it is unable to implead and be impleaded, to take any action until it hath gotten a name."⁴

The action of State officials in granting the use of a name, it may be observed, is not conclusive, for courts of equity will nevertheless protect corporations in the use of their name.⁵ State officials have, however, the power to protect the use of corporate names when applications are made for charters, even when the proposed name is not exactly similar to that of existing corporations.⁶

The right to have a corporate name is in itself a common law power; but it is one which is not alienable.⁷

§ 11. Right of Perpetual Succession. — The "right of perpetual succession" under a designated corporate name is one of the common law powers of a corporation. The words "perpetual succession" do not refer to the duration of the life of the corporation, where this is specifically limited either by statute or by the articles of incorporation, but merely operates to grant the continuation of corporate life during the period so prescribed.¹ Perpetual succession ordinarily merely conveys the right of continued unbroken succession for the period of time limited for the corporate existence.²

§ 12. Right to adopt and use a Corporate Seal. — It is an inseparable incident to every corporation that it may have a common seal, and make, alter, and renew the same at pleasure.³ The doctrine of the common law requiring the use of a corporate seal in the execution of corporate contracts is practically obsolete, and the seal is now required, in the absence of express statute, only when it would be required of a natural person under similar circumstances.⁴ Ordinarily the exercise of this power is delegated by the stockholders to the directors by means of an appropriate by-law.⁵

§ 13. Power to acquire, hold, and dispose of Real and Personal Property. — No doctrine of the common law is more clearly and undeniably established than that which concedes to corporations an inherent right to acquire and hold title to real and personal property, except so far only as they may be restricted by the objects of their creation or the limitations of their charter.⁶ The power to acquire such property, when not restricted by statute, is only limited by the rule that it must be such as is reasonably necessary or convenient to enable it to accomplish the purposes for which it was created.⁷

Formerly the amount of real property which a corporation might purchase and hold was very generally limited by statute in most of the Commonwealths. The existence of such statutes may be traced to the policy of the common law and to the existence in England of statutes known as statutes of mortmain, which prohibited corporations from taking and holding real estate without licenses from the king or Parliament.⁸ However, in most of the States such restrictions have been done away with, and corporations may now hold such property, both real and personal, as the attainment of their corporate purposes may require. In any event, the general power of a corporation to hold real estate is primarily a question between the corporation and the State, and cannot ordinarily be raised by third parties.¹ Where such statutes exist the corporation has of course no power to exceed the statutory limit as against the State.²

The general rule is that corporations, unless forbidden by statute, have implied power to take property by devise.³ The same rule applies with respect to the power of taking and holding property in trust, provided in so doing it acts within its corporate powers.⁴ The power of a corporation to sell and convey is as broad as the power to purchase and hold, and is granted on the same terms.⁵

§ 14. Power to appoint Corporate Officers and Agents.—At common law corporations have the inherent power, irrespective of statute or charter provision, to elect directors and executive officers and to appoint such agents as the business of the corporation require.⁶

§ 15. Power to establish By-laws.—Every corporation has the implied power to enact such by-laws as may be necessary for the proper government of the corporation, its officers, and stockholders.⁷

Sometimes the statutes prescribe the nature of the by-laws to be adopted and authorize penalties for violation thereof.⁸

§ 16. Power to sue and be sued. — It has been the rule of the courts from time immemorial to recognize and enforce the power of corporations to sue and be sued under and by their corporate name as incident to such corporate existence.¹

§ 17. Express Powers, Definition of; Enumeration of. — Express powers are those which are either granted to all corporations alike by statute, whether inserted in the charter or not, or else are those which are permitted by statute to such corporations as may see fit to take advantage of them, by reserving such powers in the charter itself. Statutes of the character first referred to are construed by the courts to be ipso facto read into the charter, thereby becoming part and parcel of it. On the other hand, the last-named powers can only be availed of by the corporation when, as has been stated, they are specifically reserved or set forth in the articles of incorporation. Express powers relate not only to the right to engage in a special line of business as set forth in the statement in the articles of the object or purposes for which the corporation is formed, but they relate as well to other powers which are here termed “express,” inasmuch as they depend upon the existence of specific statutes authorizing their exercise by such corporations as desire to avail themselves thereof. These express powers may be divided into twenty-eight classes, enumerated as follows: (1) power to purchase its own capital stock; (2) power to subscribe for, purchase, and hold stock in other corporations; (3) power to consolidate with other corporations; (4) power to transact all or any part of its business outside of the State of its origin; (5) power to extend its corporate existence; (6) power to change its corporate name; (7) power to increase or decrease its capital stock; (8) power to issue preferred stock; (9) power to change the corporate purposes; (10) power to change the number of directors; (11) power to change its domiciliary office or place for the transaction of its business; (12) power to acquire and enforce a lien upon stock of the corporation to secure the payment of debts due the corporation from stockholders; (13) power to levy assessments against the stockholders with the right to forfeit the stock for non-payment thereof; (14) power to authorize voting at stockholders’ meetings by proxy; (15) power to allow cumulative voting at the election of directors; (16) power to issue stock as full paid and non-assessable in exchange for property or services; (17) power to sell the corporate assets; (18) power to voluntarily dissolve the corporation without recourse to the courts; (19) power to insert in the charter provisions for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation; (20) power to authorize directors to adopt by-laws; (21) power to authorize appointment of executive committee from board of directors; (22) power to enlarge or diminish corporate powers; (23) power to change par value of shares; (24) power of bondholders to vote at elections of directors; (25) power to classify directors; (26) power to amend articles before organization; (27) power to surrender charter before organization; (28) power given to minority stockholders to compel purchase of their holdings upon consolidation.

Of the foregoing enumerated powers, the following when expressly authorized by statute are applicable to all corporations alike, whether reserved or enumerated in the articles of incorporation, to wit: The power to consolidate with other corporations; to perform constituent acts outside of the State of its origin; to extend its corporate existence; to change its corporate name; to increase or decrease its capital stock; to change the corporate purposes, the number of its directors, its domiciliary office or place for the transaction of its business; to acquire and enforce a lien upon stock of the corporation to secure the payment of debts due the corporation from stockholders; to levy assessments against the stockholders with the right to forfeit stock for non-payment thereof; to authorize voting at stockholders' meetings by proxy; to permit cumulative voting at election of directors (unless such right is merely made permissible by statute); to issue stock as full paid and non-assessable in exchange for property or services; to sell the corporate assets in their entirety; to voluntarily dissolve the corporation without recourse to the courts; to authorize the directors to adopt by-laws (unless such authority is by statute required to be reserved in the articles of incorporation); to appoint an executive committee; to enlarge or diminish the corporate powers; to change the par value of shares; to amend articles before organization; to surrender charter before organization; power given to minority stockholders to compel purchase of their holdings upon consolidation.

Of the remaining express powers it is probably in accord with the general current of authority in this country to say that to be available to the corporation they must be reserved or specified in the articles of incorporation. The powers to which reference is here made may be enumerated as follows: To subscribe for, purchase, and hold stock in other corporations; to transact all or any part of its business outside of the State of its origin; to issue preferred stock; the power to insert in the charter provisions for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation; power of bondholders to vote at election of directors; power to classify directors; and possibly power to purchase its own capital stock.

§ 18. Power of Corporations to purchase their own Stock.— There is considerable conflict of opinion in this country relative to the question whether a corporation may purchase its own stock without express statutory authority so to do. One line of decisions holds to the view that such power exists only when expressly conferred by statute no matter what the purpose may be.¹ Other courts of equally high standing take the view — and this we believe to be the true one — that every corporation has implied power to purchase its own stock provided it does so in good faith and without prejudice to the rights of creditors.² It has been said that, “generally speaking, a corporation, when acting within the scope of the purposes of its organization, has the same power to contract with reference to such powers as an individual. We believe the rule to be well settled in the United States by the overwhelming weight of authority and reason that a private corporation may purchase its own stock if the transaction is fair and in good faith; if it is free from fraud, actual or constructive; if the corporation is not insolvent and in process of dissolution, and if the rights of creditors are in no way affected thereby.”³

Where there is no formal corporate action taken, authorizing the purchase of the company’s own stock, a purchase made thereof, even though all the stockholders separately consented thereto, would be invalid as against creditors.⁴

Some of the States expressly authorize corporations to purchase shares of their own capital stock, while others expressly forbid it.¹ The rule of course does not apply to those cases where statutes exist expressly authorizing the forfeiture of stock for non-payment of assessments.² The purchase by a corporation of its own stock does not extinguish it.³ Many of the States have statutes expressly forbidding corporations to vote their own stock when held or owned by them. Even in the absence of such statute, it is probable that the courts would enjoin corporations from voting their own stock.⁴ By statute in a number of States corporations are forbidden to purchase their own stock.⁵

§ 19. Power to subscribe for, purchase, and hold Stock in other Corporations. — The prevailing rule in this country is that unless the power is expressly given by statute or by reservation of such right in the charter, corporations have no implied power to subscribe for, purchase, or hold stock in other corporations.⁶

An attempt has been made in some States to establish the rule that where the statute does not expressly prohibit such act, the corporation may purchase stock in other corporations without any express authority so to do, provided the circumstances are such as to render the transaction a necessary and proper means for accomplishing the objects of its creation.⁷

If, however, there is no statutory prohibition in the matter and the State officials permit the insertion in the articles of the power to purchase and hold stock in other corporations, the exercise of such power is unquestionably valid.⁸ In the same connection it may be observed that a corporation cannot organize subsidiary companies unless such power is given in express terms in the charter or by necessary implication from the powers thereby conferred.⁹

In Alaska, District of Columbia, and Georgia corporations are forbidden by statute to hold stock in other corporations.

§ 20. Power to consolidate with other Corporations. — Corporations cannot consolidate as against dissenting stockholders, however desirable or beneficial the consolidation may be, unless legislative authority is granted to that end.¹ In the exercise of the police power of the State it may lawfully prohibit the consolidation of corporations.²

Consolidation of corporations to a greater or less extent is permitted by statute at the present time in the States of Alabama, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maine, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia. An attempt has been made to lay down the rule that in order to effect a lawful consolidation as between two corporations, the power to so consolidate must be conferred by each of the States under whose laws they were created.³ A better rule, however, and the only practicable one seems to be this: That either statutory power to dispose of all the assets of the corporation, or in the absence thereof, the consent of all the stockholders must be obtained to the sale of the assets of one corporation to another. Consolidation in this way then takes the form of a selling out and of accepting money or shares in the new corporation in return for the assets of the old.⁴

§ 21. Power to transact all or any Part of the Corporate Business outside of the State of its Domicile. — If there are no statutory restrictions, a corporation has implied power to carry on its business at any place within the State in which its charter is procured.⁵ The statutory requirement requiring the corporation to fix in the articles its principal place of business does not prohibit under ordinary circumstances the transaction of other business within the State.⁶

commenting upon the right of a corporation to transact business beyond the limits of the domiciliary State, spoke as follows :

“It is very true that a corporation can have no legal existence out of the boundaries of the sovereignty by which it is created. It exists only in contemplation of law, and by force of the law ; and where that law ceases to operate, and is no longer obligatory, the corporation can have no existence. It must dwell in the place of its creation and cannot migrate to another sovereignty. But although it must live and have its being in that state only, yet it does not by any means follow that its existence there will not be recognized in other places ; and its residence in one state creates no insuperable objection to its power of contracting in another. It is indeed a mere artificial being, invisible and intangible ; yet it is a person for certain purposes in contemplation of law. . . . Natural persons through the intervention of agents are continually making contracts in countries in which they do not reside ; and where they are not personally present when the contract is made ; and nobody has ever doubted the validity of these agreements. And what greater objection can there be to the capacity of an artificial person, by its agents, to make a contract within the scope of its limited powers, in a sovereignty in which it does not reside ; provided such contracts are permitted to be made by them by the laws of the place.”¹

The strictly legal existence of a corporation is confined to the State which created it, and it can exercise its powers in another State only by permission, express or implied, of the legislative power thereof ; but the mere right to purchase and sell property will be recognized and protected in any State subject only to the limitations that the exercise of such right shall not be contrary to the laws or settled policy of the latter State or prejudicial to its interests or those of its citizens. Unless the Constitution or statutes declare a contrary rule, the courts of another State are bound to recognize the right of a foreign corporation to collect debts due to it, by receiving a conveyance of land.²

In order, however, to avoid complications that might possibly arise through hostile action on the part of stockholders or of foreign States, statutes have been enacted in a number of the Commonwealths expressly authorizing the transaction of business in foreign states and jurisdictions.¹

Under the progressive incorporation acts in force in many of the States at the present time it is unquestionably permissible to organize corporations in one State for the exclusive purpose of transacting their entire business in other States and Territories.²

§ 22. Power to perform Constituent Acts outside of the Domiciliary State.— By constituent acts is meant such corporate transactions as are separate and apart from its ordinary business dealings with third parties; such, for example, as the organization of the corporation in the first instance, the adoption of by-laws, the issuance of stock certificates, the election of directors and officers, and the holding of stockholders' meetings.³ As a general rule such constituent acts cannot be performed without the domiciliary State.⁴

The legislature may, of course, authorize the performance of constituent acts beyond the limits of the State. This has been done in a number of the Commonwealths. It is probably safe to say that aside from organization meetings the presence of stockholders of the corporation at a meeting held without the State will estop them from attacking the validity of the proceedings had at such meeting.⁶

of the Commonwealths perpetual existence is permitted in the incorporation of companies therein. The power to extend such existence is not of any material importance in these Commonwealths. Twenty-five of the incorporation acts specifically provide for the extension of corporate existence. Without such statutory authority corporate existence cannot be extended.¹

In some of the States extension of corporate existence must be accompanied by the payment of an organization tax, as is the case of new corporations. Thus, in New Jersey, where such a provision exists, it has been held that such tax must be paid even though the extension of the corporate existence was obtained in the guise of an amendment to the charter.²

§ 24. Power to change the Corporate Name.— Without statutory authority so to do corporations cannot change their name.³ If the proposed change of name conflicts with the name of an existing domestic corporation, State officials are justified in refusing to allow the certificate showing the adoption of the new name to be filed.⁴

Some of the States, as, for example, New York and California, only permit change of name by application to the courts.

§ 25. Power to increase or decrease Capital Stock.— A corporation has no implied power to either increase or decrease the capital stock.⁵ Such power must be conferred in express terms by the incorporation act under which the corporation is organized.⁶

Power to increase or decrease capital stock vests in the stockholders and not in the directors.⁷ Frequently incorporation acts provide that the stock shall not be diminished to less than the amount of the corporate debts. Such is the case in California and other States. Certificates of stock issued on a fictitious increase of stock are void.⁸

preferential or additional rights not enjoyed by the holders of common shares are called "preferred stockholders." The issuance of preferred stock is a mode by which a corporation obtains funds for its enterprise, without borrowing money or contracting a debt.¹ The question as to whether or not preferred stock may be issued by corporations without express authority by law is a somewhat difficult one to settle. In twenty-five of the States the question is settled by the existence of statutes expressly authorizing the issuance of preferred stock, and even in those States where no such statutes exist it is, with some few exceptions, the custom of the State officials to permit the insertion in the articles of incorporation of provisions authorizing the issuance of preferred stock. The action of such officials is certainly conclusive as against all the world except the State.³

The true rule governing the matter now before us is, in the opinion of the writer, best set forth in the case of Campbell v. American Zylonite Company.⁴ In this case the articles of incorporation divided the capital stock of the corporation into shares, equal in amount and value. Some time after incorporation one of the stockholders executed a blank assignment of certain stock owned by him to a third party as security for a loan. Subsequently all the stockholders, except the owner of this pledged certificate, at a meeting duly called for that purpose, voted to surrender to the corporation, without consideration, forty per cent of their stock, and authorized the corporation to reissue this forty per cent in the form of preferred shares. The legality of this act was contested by the holder of the pledged certificate, and in passing upon the legal question involved, the court spoke as follows:

"The right of every shareholder to his proportion of the profits of the corporation was vested, and in the absence of some power to change the relative value of the shares conferred by statute or by the articles of incorporation, no change could be made without the consent of all the shareholders. . . . The assignee of shares having possession of the certificates, although holding under unregistered transfers, are not bound by contracts between the registered shareholders, the corporation and all the other shareholders which are not within the express or implied powers of corporations or of their shareholders. As between the assignor and the assignee, the unregistered assignment was not void. It follows that the change in the relative value of the shares which this corporation and its registered shareholders sought to effect was not within the express or implied powers conferred upon the corporation or shareholders, and that their action is not binding upon the holder of the assigned certificate who did not consent to the issuance of the preferred shares."

In *Kent v. Quicksilver Company*¹ the court addressing itself to the question now before us, spoke as follows :

"There arises the query whether there was power in the corporation to distinguish between the stockholders in it to form them into two classes, and to give to one class rights in the corporate property and business and earnings from which the other was shut out. We are not prepared to say that at the first the corporation might not have lawfully divided the interest in its capital stock into shares arranged in classes, preferring one class to another in the right which they should have in the profits of the business. The charter gave power to make such by-laws as it might deem proper consistent with Constitution and law. We know of nothing in the Constitution or the law that inhibits a corporation from beginning its corporate action by classifying the shares of its capital stock, with peculiar privileges to one share over another, and thus offering its stock to the public for subscriptions thereto. No rights are got until a subscription is made. Each subscriber would know for what class of stock he put down his name, and what right he got when he thus became a stockholder. There need be no deception or mistake, there would be no treading upon rights previously acquired; no contract, express or implied, would be broken or impaired. Shares of stock are in the nature of choses in action, and give the holder a fixed right in the division of profits or earnings of the company so long as it exists, and of its effects when it is dissolved. That right is as inviolable as is any right in property, and can no more be taken away or lessened against the will of the owner than can any other right, unless power is reserved in the first instance, when it enters into the constitution of the right; or is properly derived afterward from a superior law giver. It is manifest that any action of a corporation which takes hold of the shares of its capital stock already sold and in the hands of lawful owners, and divides them into two classes, — one of which is thereby given prior right to a receipt of a fixed sum from the earnings before the other may have any receipt therefrom, and is given an equal share afterward with the other in what earnings may remain, — destroys the equality of the shares, takes away a right which originally existed in it, and materially varies the effect of the certificate of stock. It is said that when a corporation can lawfully buy property or get money on loan, any known assurance may be exacted and given which does not fall within the prohibition, express or implied, of some statute. But the prohibition to such action as this is found not, indeed, in a statute commonly so called, but in the constitutional provision which forbids the impairment of vested rights, save for public purposes and on due compensation. The right which a stockholder gets on the purchase of his share, and the issue to him of the certificate therefor, is such a vested right. It is contended that the power so to do is an incidental and implied power necessary to the use of the other powers of the corporation, and is a legitimate means of raising money before securing the agreed consideration therefor. We have already conceded that it is legitimate to borrow money and to secure the repayment of it with a compensation for the use of it. But that is when it is done in such way as to put the burden upon every share of stock alike, and to enable every share of stock to be relieved therefrom alike; in such way as to preserve the equality of right and privilege and value of the shares, and maintain intact the contract thereto with the stockholders.

“We are, therefore, of the opinion that there was no power in the corporate body, nor in a majority of the stockholders, to provide by by-law for the creation of a preferred stock, so as to bind a minority of the stockholders not assenting thereto.”

In what has been stated a most important principle has been referred to, which, it is believed, is controlling upon the question at hand. This principle to which reference is here made is that the charter proceeds from the State, and that nothing can be legally done by the corporation acting through its stockholders not authorized either by statute or by the charter itself. Thus it is clear that in these States where the statutory right to issue preferred stock is not granted and the charter itself only provides for common stock, no preferred stock can be legally issued by the stockholders as against the State, except by amending the charter itself. This, too, even where the stockholders consent.¹

This question is likely to be presented in a troublesome form where common stock has been pledged to creditors before the preferred stock was issued.²

From a careful examination of the authorities it may be said

² See generally Lockhart v. Van Alstyne, 31 Mich. 76; McGregor v. Insurance that in order to constitute an issue of preferred stock valid as against all the world, there must be a statute authorizing it, or provision therefor inserted in the charter. To make the issue valid as against all but the State, the consent of all of the holders of common stock to the issuance of preferred stock is, doubtless, all that is necessary.¹ It is hardly necessary to add, in addition to the foregoing, that the total amount of common stock added to the preferred stock so issued must not in any case exceed the total authorized capital stock of the corporation.

The rights of holders of preferred stock depend upon the terms of the statute or of the charter or by-law authorizing it.² Ordinarily the power to authorize the issuance of preferred stock vests in the stockholders and not in the directors.³

Where a portion of the stock of the corporation is issued as preferred, no creditor of the corporation can object, provided the money paid for the stock reaches the treasury of the corporation, and the dividends on the stock are not to be paid except out of net profits.⁴ Unless the statute provides otherwise, preferred stockholders may be deprived of the right which they would otherwise have, to vote their stock in the same manner as common stockholders.⁵ This is commonly done either by charter provision or by a by-law adopted before any preferred stock is issued.

Preferred stock cannot be lawfully issued with the provision that it shall bear interest absolutely.⁶ In order to make preferred stock a lien upon the corporate assets statutory authority is necessary.⁷

§ 27. Power to change the Corporate Purposes. — In the early days the right of amendment, when the same related to altering the original purposes of corporations, was jealously guarded and limited both by statute and by judicial construction. In later years there has been evinced greater liberality in this regard, as evidenced by granting to corporations unlimited power of amendment. The only real difficulty in this connection arises when an attempt is made to so completely change the original purposes for which a corporation was formed as in effect to create a new corporation. Under the Pennsylvania Incorporation Act governing amendments, it was held that this could not be done.¹

The present attitude of the courts on this subject is well shown by a recent New Jersey decision, — that of Meredith v. New Jersey Zinc & Iron Company.³ In this case the right of amendment, even when producing fundamental changes in the corporate purposes, was sustained.⁴

It appears clear that under the liberal power of amendment existing to-day in the majority of the States, any changes may be made, no matter how fundamental, by the consent of all the stockholders. And where the matter is simply one between the corporation and the State, the right to make such an amendment cannot, in the States referred to, be questioned when adopted by the requisite number of stockholders.

§ 28. Power to change Number of Directors. — Only in those States where the number of directors is required to be fixed in the articles, is it necessary to have statutory authority to change the same. In other States the matter of amendment may be regulated by the by-laws. However, in the larger number of the Commonwealths, the power to amend the articles with reference to changing the number of directors is required to be based upon express statutory authority so to do.⁵

§ 29. The Power to change the Corporate Domicile and Principal Place of Business. — As will hereafter be seen, it is essential to corporate existence that the corporation should have a home.¹ It is the naming of the domiciliary office in the articles which fixes the residence of the corporation for jurisdictional purposes, and fixes the usual place for holding stockholders' and directors' meetings. If it is desired to change the domicile, or if the location of the corporation's principal place of business is to be transferred from one place to another, an amendment to the articles must be had under legislative sanction.² It should, however, be noted in this connection, that the corporation's domicile and its principal place of business are not necessarily one and the same thing.³

Again, if, as is the case in some States, the name of the agent upon whom process upon the corporation may be served, is required to be set forth in the articles, in order to lawfully substitute a new agent, an amendment to the articles is necessary, made pursuant to statutory authority given in the premises.⁴

§ 30. Power to acquire and enforce a Lien upon Stock to secure the Payment of Debts Due the Corporation. — In a large number of the States statutes exist expressly granting to corporations the right to enforce a lien upon the stock of its members for the purpose of securing the payment of debts due from such members to the corporation.

The courts are not by any means in entire agreement as to whether statutory authority to enforce such a lien is essential to its validity. Some courts, of excellent repute, maintain the affirmative, and others take the opposite view.⁵ It seems fairly certain that at common law such a right did not exist.⁷

The true view appears to be that while at common law a corporation had no lien on the shares of its capital stock for the debts due it from the stockholders, nevertheless such a lien may be acquired either when given by statute or when such right is preserved by inserting provisions therefor in the Articles of Incorporation, or by the passage of a valid by-law, or by inserting a provision therefor in the stock certificates.¹

§ 31. Power to levy Assessments against the Stockholders with the Right to forfeit their Stock for Non-payment thereof. — With some few exceptions the right to forfeit stock for non-payment of valid assessments levied against it is preserved by statute in most of the States and Territories. Even in the absence of such statute the right to forfeit stock for non-payment of valid assessments when given to the corporation by its by-laws will probably be enforced by the courts. In any event the common law remedy would exist, giving the corporation the right to recover judgment against the delinquent stockholders for the amount of such assessments.³

In all cases the right to forfeit stock is considered to be merely a cumulative remedy.⁴ The right to levy assessments upon stockholders does not exist after payment by such stockholders for their stock in full, unless the power to do so is conferred either by statute, by the articles of incorporation, or by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders.⁵ But even in the absence of express power to declare a forfeiture of stock for non-payment, a corporation may sue for amount of subscription to the capital stock, and on failure to collect the amount subscribed may secure payment by sale of stock subscribed.⁶

On the general subject of assessments the following may be said : provisions for the forfeiture of capital stock for the non-payment of assessments must be just and reasonable in order to be valid.⁷ The terms of the statute in any event must be strictly complied with.⁸ The power to levy assessments rests in the directors by virtue of their office and not in the stockholders.⁹ Even where the statute expressly gives power to the stockholders to levy assessments they may doubtless delegate this power to directors.¹ Directors, however, cannot lawfully delegate such power to ministerial officers.²

§ 32. Power to authorize Voting by Proxy at Stockholders' Meetings.—At common law the right of stockholders to vote by proxy was not recognized. The right in order to be available must be granted either by statute, charter, or appropriate by-law.³ Voting by proxy is not however per se unlawful.⁴ Therefore the right may be secured to stockholders by appropriate by-law duly passed even without a statute authorizing it.⁵

§ 33. Power to permit Cumulative Voting at Election of Directors.—The right of cumulative voting exists where a stockholder has a number of votes equal to the number of shares held by him multiplied by the number of directors to be chosen, and is allowed to cast or distribute them as he sees fit. The purpose thereof is to secure minority representation on the board of directors. To authorize cumulative voting the right must be preserved either by constitutional, statutory, or charter provision or by the passage of a by-law looking to that end.⁶

If the right is conferred absolutely by constitutional or statutory provision, it cannot be taken away by means of a by-law or resolution denying such right to stockholders.⁷

In twenty-one of the Commonwealths the right to cumulate votes is secured to stockholders either by constitutional enactment or by statutory provision.

§ 34. Power to issue Stock as full paid in Exchange for Property or Services.—In the quaint wording of an English case, "stock must be paid for, in the absence of constitutional or statutory provision providing otherwise, "in meal or in malt;" that is, in money or in money's worth.⁸ Forty of the States have enacted laws authorizing the payment of stock not only in cash but in services or property. Some of the States — for example, Alabama and Virginia — have somewhat elaborate provisions on the subject.

Thus, in Alabama, stock may be issued in exchange for all such real and personal property as may be necessary or convenient for the efficient construction, operation, and maintenance of its works or plants, lines, shops, factories, or other buildings, or for the conduct and management of its business or as its purposes may require.¹

In Virginia the new Incorporation Act authorizes subscriptions to the capital stock to be paid for in money, land, or other property, real or personal, leases, options, mines, minerals, mineral rights, patent rights, rights of water or easements, contracts, labor, or services.³

Even in those few Commonwealths where no statutes exist authorizing the payment of stock in property or services, the courts will presume that corporations have inherent power to purchase property and labor and pay for the same in stock instead of money, provided the transaction whereby the stock is to be issued in exchange for such property or services is made in good faith and no fraud is perpetrated upon stockholders or creditors.⁴

The statute to prohibit absolutely the payment of subscriptions to the capital stock in property or services must be clearly restrictive in character.⁵ The only effect apparently of the absence in particular Commonwealths of any provision, constitutional or statutory, authorizing the payment of stock in property or services, is to induce the courts to adopt what is known as the "true value rule"⁶ rather than the "good faith rule."⁷ But in the Commonwealths referred to, the character of the property, labor, or services accepted in exchange for stock must be strictly such as the corporation under its charter has the power to acquire, and when property is so taken it must be fairly represented to the corporation and for a just, lawful, and needed equivalent for the money subscribed.⁸

§ 35. Power to dispose of Corporate Assets as an Entirety.—In ten of the Commonwealths express power is conferred upon corporations to dispose of their entire corporate assets by obtaining the consent of a certain percentage of the stockholders to such disposition. Much controversy has arisen as to whether or not express statutory power is necessary in order to authorize transfer by a corporation of the entire corporate assets. At common law neither the directors nor a majority of the stockholders had power to sell or otherwise transfer all of the property of an acting and prosperous corporation able to achieve the objects of its creation as against the dissent of a single stockholder.¹

The view is taken by the New Jersey court in *Coler v. Company*³ that the sale of the corporate assets as an entirety is equivalent to a dissolution, and therefore can only be done through the courts under statutory authority. Many courts, however, take the view that it can be done where it is not in fraud of the rights of creditors or in violation of charter or statutory restrictions, and this, too, by a majority of the stockholders against the dissent of a minority where the exigencies of the business seem to require it.⁴ Thus, it has been asserted that "it is a well settled rule that a strictly private corporation has the same right to dispose of its property that an individual has, and that when insolvent or in a failing condition it may sell all thereof without the consent of all of the stockholders. It is the general rule, however, that neither the directors nor a majority of the stockholders of a corporation have power at common law to sell or otherwise transfer all its property while the corporation is a going, prosperous concern against the dissent of any shareholder."⁵

corporation is not alienable.¹ The sale of all the corporate property does not operate to dissolve the corporation.²

§ 36. Power to voluntarily dissolve the Corporation without Recourse to the Courts.—The dissolution of a corporation is a peculiar function that rests primarily in the legislature, and is conferred upon courts or upon the corporation itself, only by explicit legislative authority.³ Stockholders, in the absence of statutory provision, cannot extinguish the corporate charter or dissolve the corporation, nor can a court of equity accomplish a similar result at their instance.⁴ In all the States some provision is made for dissolution of corporations. For example, in Alabama, Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia the incorporators have the right to surrender the charter before organization. In twenty-seven of the Commonwealths corporations may be dissolved under statutory authority without recourse to the courts.

The doctrine that dissolution can only be effected by the joint act of the State and corporation is set forth in a Massachusetts case as follows:⁶ "Charters are in many respects compacts between government and corporators. And as the former cannot deprive the latter of their franchises in violation of the compact, so the latter cannot put an end to the compact without the consent of the former. It is equally obligatory on both parties. The surrender of the charter can only be made by the formal act of the corporation; and will be of no avail until accepted by the government. There must be the same agreement of the parties to dissolve, that there was to form the compact. It is the acceptance which gives efficacy to the surrender. Dissolution of a corporation, it is said, extinguishes all its debts. The power to dissolve itself by its own act would be a dangerous power, and one which cannot be supposed to exist."⁷

In this connection it may be observed that the stockholders alone have power to surrender the charter.¹ It will be remembered, of course, that the expiration of the time limited by the charter as a corporation's term of existence is held in most jurisdictions to result in the dissolution of such a corporation.² But neither insolvency nor sale of all of the corporate property, nor cessation of business operates to dissolve the corporation.³

But in the absence of any provision in the charter limiting corporate existence, the corporation is entitled to perpetual life.⁴ If the articles provide for a longer period of corporate existence than the law allows, the excess is void.⁵ In many of the States statutes exist providing that the corporation shall continue in existence for periods ranging from three to five years after the expiration of the time limited for its existence for the purpose of winding up its affairs.⁶

A majority of the States delegate to the courts the power to dissolve the corporation on application of stockholders or creditors.⁷ The fact that certain States make the directors trustees for creditors on dissolution does not necessarily take away the jurisdiction of courts of equity to appoint a receiver.⁸ Many States have statutes providing that upon the expiration of the time limited by their charter as the duration of their corporate existence, they shall nevertheless be continued for a certain period of time in order to permit of the winding up of the corporate affairs. Without such statutory provisions suits cannot be maintained against the corporation after such period has expired.⁹

§ 37. Power to insert in the Charter Provisions for the Regulation of the Internal Affairs of the Corporation. — The incorporation acts of eighteen of the States contain provisions relative to the contents of certificates of incorporation, authorizing the insertion therein of provisions for the regulation of the business of the corporation, or for the purpose of defining or limiting the powers of the corporation, its officers, directors, and stockholders.

Unless the law expressly permits the insertion of such provisions in the certificate of incorporation, State officials are justified in refusing to accept and file certificates containing such provisions. This generally on the ground that in the absence of statutory provision so authorizing, they are properly the subject of by-laws and not proper for insertion in the certificate of incorporation.¹

Leaving out of consideration the fact of acceptance by State officials, and approval by them of certificates of incorporation containing such provisions as are here referred to, when there is no statute authorizing the same, the following may be said: The general test as to whether provisions not called for by the statutes are valid when inserted in certificates of incorporation must be determined from their character. If they are not powers, but are merely in the nature of by-laws, they are invalid as not being called for by the statute. If they are powers, but not authorized by statute, to permit such insertion in the certificate of incorporation would be equivalent to saying that the legislature had clothed the incorporators with a number of their legislative functions.² On this general subject the opinion of the Supreme Court of Alabama in a leading case in that State is instructive: "It is apparent," observes the court, "that the creation of corporations under general law rather than by special act was not intended to work any essential change in their nature and character. Whether deriving existence from a special law, or from incorporation under the general law, the corporation is an artificial being of legislative creation, having no other powers or properties than such as the law confers, or which may be incidental to their very existence. The mode of incorporation the statutes have carefully prescribed. The persons proposing to be incorporated must file and cause to be recorded in a designated public office a declaration in writing, stating the name of the corporation, the objects for which it is formed, the amount of the capital stock, the number of shares into which it is divided, the names of the stockholders, and the number of shares each may hold. The office and the effect of the declaration the statutes do not leave in doubt — when recorded, the persons signing it and their successors become a body corporate by the name stated therein and with the powers conferred by law. It is an acceptance by the corporation, under the name designated, for the objects expressed, of the corporate powers and capacity the law confers, and a statement of the principal constituents of the corporation, — the amount of the capital stock, the names of the stockholders, and the quantity of interest each has in the capital stock. There is no authority of law for introducing more into it, and if more be introduced, it is mere surplusage, not adding to or detracting from the force of the declaration. A controlling purpose, as we suppose, in authorizing or in compelling the creation of corporations under general laws, is to secure uniformity and equality of corporate powers, functions, and privileges; that all corporations of the same class, formed for like purposes, should possess the same capacities and properties, and exercise and enjoy the same franchises and privileges. Unless it was intended to work a radical change in the nature and character of these artificial beings, the mere creatures of the law, and to subvert the whole theory which has prevailed in reference to them, it cannot have been contemplated that they should for themselves create powers and privileges by declaration or reservation, whether the declaration or reservation is expressed in the articles of incorporation or in the by-laws ordered by the corporators for their government. Such declarations or reservations would soon become more liberal and diverse than was the liberality and diversity of the grants of corporate powers by special legislative enactment, the evil it was intended to remove. Of every corporation formed under the general law, the law itself becomes the charter, defines and enumerates the powers which are to be exercised, the nature and extent of corporate franchises and privileges. The declaration of incorporation, the by-laws adopted for corporate government, do not form the charter, or define or enumerate the corporate powers. These are the acts of the corporators. The charter is the grant from the sovereign power of the State, and by that source only can be varied or enlarged.”¹

§ 38. Power to authorize Directors to adopt By-Laws. — In a number of the States statutes exist authorizing the directors to adopt by-laws under certain conditions. The conditions here referred to are usually either that the right referred to should be expressly inserted in the certificate of incorporation, or, in lieu thereof, that the stockholders expressly delegate this power to the directors. Unless the statute or charter provides otherwise, the by-laws must be adopted by the stockholders.¹ However, where the right to adopt by-laws is expressly limited to the directors, it is exclusive.

§ 39. Power to authorize Appointment of Executive Committee from the Board of Directors. — In Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Jersey, Virginia, and West Virginia statutes exist expressly authorizing directors to appoint an executive committee from their own number to whom may be delegated, to such extent as shall be provided in the by-laws, any of the powers of the board of directors. There has as yet been no fair test in the courts as to the validity of such statutes where an attempt has been made by the directors to practically delegate all their powers to an executive committee. A reasonable view of the matter would seem to be that where the statute clearly conveys such power it is valid when exercised by an executive committee duly appointed from the full board of directors pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided.³

The power of the board of directors is not a delegated authority, and when the transaction of the business of the company will be facilitated by the appointment of an executive committee such appointment may unquestionably be made.⁴

§ 40. Power to enlarge or diminish Corporate Powers. — The right here referred to becomes one of importance only in those States wherein it is permitted to insert specific corporate powers in the articles of incorporation. The powers here referred to are such, for example, as the right of the corporation to acquire its own stock; to hold stock and bonds in other corporations; to delegate to directors power to adopt by-laws, etc. It will be found that wherever such a right exists the power to amend will be found sufficiently broad to permit of the enlargement or diminishing of corporate powers by complying with the terms of the statute relative to such amendments.¹

§ 41. Power to change Par Value of Shares. — Where the charter fixes the number and par value thereof, a corporation cannot increase or diminish the par value of its shares without legislative sanction.² If however the certificate of incorporation says nothing as to the number and par value of shares, they may doubtless be changed by the stockholders of the corporation without legislative sanction.³

The legal effect of a change in the number of shares without any corresponding increase or decrease in the par value thereof, is to increase or decrease the capital stock, and this can only be done by permission of the legislature.⁴

In thirty-six of the States the par value of the capital stock may be any amount, while in the remainder such par value is limited from amounts ranging from one dollar to one hundred dollars per share. In some few of the States it will be noted that the provisions of the statutes limiting amendments fail to authorize changes in the par value of the shares of capital stock.

§ 42. Power of Bondholders to vote at Election of Directors. — Very few of the States have enacted statutes giving to bondholders the right to participate in the election of directors. Virginia and Delaware are the exceptions to the general rule. Most of the States provide that the board of directors shall be elected by the stockholders, and thus by implication forbid the giving of the right to bondholders to vote at such election.⁵ However, if neither by constitutional or statutory provision bondholders are barred from participating in the election of directors, such right may be bestowed upon them either by provision therefor in the charter or by proper by-law duly adopted.⁶

§ 43. Power to classify Directors. — Ordinarily the tenure of directors is fixed by statute, and where so fixed these provisions are of course controlling. If the statute requires directors to be elected annually, this by implication prohibits the classification of directors for terms in excess of the statutory limit.¹ In a large number of the States statutes exist expressly authorizing classification of directors.

If the statute does not require annual election of directors, there would appear to be nothing illegal in a corporation's classifying its directors in any manner it sees fit so to do, provided (in the absence of statutory regulations) directors hold their office at the pleasure of the corporation.

§ 44. Power to amend Articles before Organization. — As has already been seen, the power to amend, if it exists at all, must be derived from the legislature. Very few of the Commonwealths have granted to incorporators the right to amend articles of incorporation before organization. Statutes, however, to that effect exist in Alabama, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, North Carolina, and Virginia.

§ 45. Power to surrender Charter before Organization. — It is often an advantage to a corporation which does not care to avail itself of the right to actively engage in business, to surrender its charter to the State before organization, without going through the expensive and usually complicated proceedings incident to dissolution. Such right is expressly given in Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia.²

§ 46. Power given to Minority Stockholders to compel Purchase of their Holdings upon Consolidation. — In the States of Alabama, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Delaware, and New York statutory protection is afforded to minority stockholders in case the corporation has consolidated with another. The Connecticut statute may be briefly summarized as an example of such statutes.³

The act provides that any stockholder in any corporation consolidating, who at the time of such consolidation objects thereto in writing, may, within ten days after the agreement of consolidation has been filed for record in the office of the Secretary of State, demand in writing from the consolidated corporation payment of his stock; and such corporation shall within three months thereafter pay him the value of his stock at the date of such consolidation. In case of disagreement as to the value thereof, such value shall be ascertained by three disinterested persons, to be chosen, one by the stockholder, one by the directors of the consolidated corporation, and the third by the two thus selected; and in case their award is not paid within thirty days from this date it shall become a debt of said consolidated corporation and may be collected as such. Upon receiving payment of the amount awarded, such stockholder shall transfer his stock to the consolidated corporation, which shall dispose of it on the best terms attainable.¹

§ 47. Incidental Powers, Definition and Enumeration of. — An incidental power is one that is directly necessary or proper to the execution of an express power, and not one that has a slight or remote relation to it.² The term expresses those powers which flow necessarily out of the exercise of the express powers conferred by statute or by charter.³

The exercise of a power that might be beneficial to the principal business of the corporation is not necessarily incident to it.⁴ The principal incidental powers may be enumerated as follows: (1) power to make contracts; (2) power to borrow money; (3) power to give and accept customary evidences of debt; (4) power to mortgage or pledge real and personal property; (5) power of amotion.

The implied powers which a corporation has in order to carry into effect those expressly granted, and to accomplish the purposes of its creation, are not limited to such as are indispensable for these purposes, but comprise all that are necessary in the sense of appropriate, convenient, and suitable, including the right of reasonable choice of means to be employed. Acts of a corporation which if standing alone or engaged in as a business would be beyond its implied powers, are not necessarily ultra vires when they are incidental to or form part of an entire transaction which in its general scope, is within the corporate purpose. The validity of such a transaction is to be determined from its general character considered as a whole rather than by segregation into individual parts and each regarded as distinct from the other.¹

§ 48. Power to make Contracts.—A corporation is a creature of law, and may do any act or thing under contract the same as natural persons might do, subject to the rights conferred on it by the law of its creation or by its charter.² Where chartered in one State for any purpose, it may lawfully make a contract in furtherance of that purpose in any other State where not prohibited by the laws thereof.³

§ 49. Power to borrow Money.—The power to borrow money in carrying out the purposes of the corporation's organization is one of the incidental corporate powers.⁴ In this connection it may be said that the power to borrow money has been held to imply the power to issue bonds.⁵ However that may be, in addition to an enumeration in the statute of the power to borrow money, a majority of the business corporation acts expressly confer the right upon corporations to issue bonds.

§ 50. Power to give and accept Customary Evidences of Debt.—This incidental power includes the right of corporations to make notes or bills of exchange, to accept drafts and notes, and to draw checks.⁷

§ 51. Power to mortgage and pledge Real and Personal Property—Every corporation has the incidental power to mortgage and pledge its real and personal property in order to procure and secure necessary loans to be made to the corporation.⁸ It is sometimes said that a corporation has power to pledge both its issued and unissued shares.⁹

§ 52. Power of Amotion.—The power of amotion has reference to the removal of officers and directors. The term "disfranchisement" has reference solely to the deprivation of the right to vote as against stockholders.¹ The right is delegated by statute to the stockholders in fifteen of the Commonwealths. In the absence of such statute there is no power in the stockholders to remove directors before the expiration of their allotted terms, except for cause, provided such terms are fixed by statute.³

It seems to have been the rule of the common law that every corporation had an implied power to remove directors for cause when their terms of office were not prescribed by statute.⁴ In New York it has been held that the power to remove directors may be covered by by-law.⁵

The main grounds which justify amotion where no statute exists limiting the same, are the conviction of crime on the part of directors, misconduct in office, and violation of statutory provisions.⁶ If the charter or statute provides steps which must be taken to remove directors, such statute must be strictly followed.⁷ In the exercise of this power the stockholders meet, charges must be preferred, and the director removed by a majority vote.⁸ Equity will not interfere in such matters in the absence of usurpation or gross negligence.⁹

§ 53. The Modern Doctrine of Ultra Vires.—To define in a general way the ancient doctrine of ultra vires is to say that a contract of a corporation which is unauthorized by or in violation of its charter, or entirely outside of the scope of the express purposes of its creation or beyond the powers granted to it by the charter or by statute, is void in the sense of being no contract at all, because of a total want of power to enter into it; that such contract will not be enforced by any species of action in a court of justice; that being void ab initio, it cannot be made good by ratification or by any succession of renewals, and that no performance on either side can give validity to the unlawful contract, or form a foundation of any right of action upon it.¹⁰

¹⁰ See Thompson on Corporations, vol. v. § 5968; for history of doctrine of ultra

The necessities of modern business and the arrival by the courts at a better conception of the true relations governing the matter, have brought about radical changes in the doctrine as here stated. What we propose to do in this connection is to set forth what may be termed "the modern doctrine of ultra vires." Preliminary to this a statement should be made showing how the doctrine of ultra vires originated, and how it came to be applied from time to time.

In the early days corporations were created mainly for public purposes, and it was in connection with quasi-public corporations that the doctrine of ultra vires first originated. In view of this fact, as has been well stated, there was no reason why the doctrine should ever have been applied to private corporations not formed for public purposes.¹

The grounds of the old doctrine are stated by Judge Gray as follows:² "That the charter of a corporation which contains its grant of powers is a public statute, which all persons are bound to take notice of and be governed by; that the restraints thereby established on the alienation of the franchises of the property of the corporation are founded on considerations of public policy, which neither the corporation nor any other persons can be allowed to evade or disregard." In a later case, when sitting on the United States Supreme Court bench, the same judge observed:³ "The reason a corporation is not liable on a contract ultra vires are the interests of the public that the corporation shall not transcend the powers granted; the interests of the stockholders that the capital stock shall not be subjected to the risk of enterprises not contemplated by the charter, and therefore not authorized by the stockholders in subscribing for the stock; the obligation of every one entering into a contract with a corporation to take notice of the legal limits of its powers."

Turning now to this statement, attention should be called to those reasons which have aided a great majority of the courts in evolving a new doctrine of ultra vires better suited to the conditions of the present time. In the first place, except in the case of what is known as "quasi-public-private corporations," the public has no direct interest whatever in the nature of the powers vested in them. Corporations are no longer created by special act, except in a few cases, and it would be a poor rule which would require a stranger to take notice of the contents of charters not public and difficult to obtain. In modern times the placing in articles of incorporation of a large number of purposes, in some cases giving the corporation almost unlimited scope along business lines, has practically removed the objections spoken of above, to the effect that capital shall not be subjected to the risk of enterprises not contemplated by the charter.

Turning now to the changes already referred to, as having taken place in the doctrine of ultra vires, they may be stated in the form of the following propositions: (1) "The claim that a contract is void, because under the charter beyond the power of a corporation is seldom recognized as a defence to an agreement otherwise objectionable, and never where it would defeat the ends of justice or become a shield against wrong;"¹ (2) the doctrine of ultra vires is not usually applied where the party setting it up has received a benefit from the unlawful act relied upon as a defence;² (3) where the most that can be said of a corporate act is that it is an abuse of power, the State alone can act;³ (4) the doctrine that persons dealing with corporations are bound to take notice of their power is now practically done away with by the application of the doctrine of estoppel in the case of completed contracts.

Again, it should be carefully noted that by the fullest application of the doctrine of estoppel where attempts have been made to set aside contracts on the ground that they were ultra vires of the corporate powers, the courts have practically revolutionized the doctrine as it once existed in this country. The doctrine of estoppel here referred to is of the character referred to by Lord Denman in Pickard v. Sears,⁴ where he says that where one by his words or conduct wilfully causes another to believe in the existence of a certain state of things, and induces him to act on that belief so as to alter his own previous position, the former is precluded from averring against the latter a different state of things as existing at the same time. By an extended application of the doctrine laid down by Lord Denman, the courts hold that where there has been no express violation of the law the corporation is estopped by its own contract or conduct from setting up, as a defence to an action to enforce such contract, that it was not in the power of the corporation to make it. So too the courts hold that where a private corporation enters into a contract in excess of its granted powers and has received the benefits of the contract which the other parties acted upon, the corporation is estopped to repudiate the contract on the ground that it was ultra vires. Repeatedly the courts have held that where a contract with a corporation — the making of which is beyond its chartered powers — has been fully executed by both parties to the contract, neither of them can assert its invalidity as a cause of action as against the other.

Again, it may be stated that where a corporation has acted in excess of its granted powers or in the face of express or implied statutory prohibition it is clear that there can be no objection raised on that ground between it and a private party, for this can only be raised by the State in a direct proceeding to forfeit the franchises of the corporation.¹ Again, it may be stated that the doctrine of estoppel, as well as the doctrines of ratification and confirmation by acquiescence, apply under modern rules to ultra vires contracts.²

An Ohio court has divided unauthorized acts of a corporation into two classes: (1) where it has no power to do what it promises or to receive what is promised; (2) where it has no power to do what it promises but may receive what is promised. In each class, it was said, if action is brought, one of three states of fact will appear: (a) where it has performed its promise, but the other party has not; (b) where the other party has performed, but it has not; (c) where neither party has done all that was promised. In case 1 a the corporation cannot recover; the contract has no existence. In case 2 a the corporation may recover for performance if it has eliminated the ultra vires element and there is no want of mutuality. In cases 1 b and 2 b what remains to be done is ultra vires, and neither party can recover. In cases 1 c and

2 c neither party can recover because the contract is ultra vires. Recovery cannot be helped by promises of the officers. Pure assertion of law cannot give rise to estoppel. Nor is recovery aided by the fact that a consideration was conveyed to an individual as trustee for the corporation.¹

§ 54. Corporate Domicile. — Corporations, like individuals, must have a place of abode.² As far back as Lord Coke's time a place of abode was held to be of the essence of a corporation.³ Unless provided otherwise by statute, the rule at the present time is that corporations to have any legal existence must have a home within the boundaries of the State which creates it.

In the words of Justice McAdam in Kruse v. Dusenbury,⁴ "A corporation cannot become a tramp. It must have a domicile — not in theory, but in fact — within the sovereignty which created it. . . . A corporation in the nature of things must have some office or place of business in the State where it was incorporated, so that creditors may know where to find it, that they may present and if necessary prosecute their just demands. The statute contemplates that such place of business shall exist not only in name, but in fact; for, if the corporation has no place of business in the state where it was incorporated, it does not affect the charter, but it cannot have branch offices elsewhere. Like a live tree, it cannot consist of branches only, but must take root in its native soil before it can extend its branches into other States."

Most of the States have statutes expressly requiring the maintenance of a domiciliary office within the State of the corporation's origin, and failure to comply with this requirement renders the charter of such corporation liable to forfeiture upon proper action taken by the State.⁵

Thus in Minnesota a charter was forfeited for the failure on the part of the corporation to maintain a domiciliary office therein. In this case,⁶ the court observed, "that independently of statute, it is incumbent upon a private corporation to keep its principal place of business, its books and records, and its principal offices in the State where it is incorporated, to an extent necessary to the fullest jurisdiction and visitatorial power of the State and its courts and the efficient exercise thereof in all proper cases, and that a forfeiture may be adjudged for a violation of this common law obligation.”¹

The authorities have on more than one occasion brought actions to forfeit charters of corporations for failure to maintain domiciliary offices therein.²

In the words of one court, a corporation “must have some fixed office or place of business in the State where it is incorporated, so that creditors may know where to find it.”³ Again, the object of naming the domicile is to fix the place for the holding of stockholders’ and directors’ meetings, and to fix a location for the books of the corporation where the stockholders and creditors may demand an inspection thereof, if this right is given to them by statute.⁴ Another purpose is to fix the venue of actions brought against a corporation where the law requires that suits shall be brought in the county where the defendant resides. In those States which have statutes expressly authorizing a corporation to transact all of its business outside of the domiciliary State, this provision for a domiciliary office is of the utmost importance.

A corporation cannot have two domiciles at the same time.⁵ The domicile, residence, and citizenship of a corporation are in the State from which the charter was procured.⁶ The place of residence is in the county where the principal office is located.⁷

The principal office of a corporation and the place for the transaction of its business are not one and the same thing. A corporation may have its office in one locality and transact its business in another.⁸

§ 55. Board of Management. — A corporation without a responsible management is like a boat without oars, a ship without sails. It must have certain recognized and duly appointed agents to represent the stockholders in the management of the company. These agents are generally known as a board of directors, or less commonly as a board of trustees. Twenty of the States require the names of the first board of directors to be inserted in the certificate of incorporation, while of the remainder nine require merely the number of directors to be stated therein. Twenty-two of the States prescribe residential requirements for directors, while others require that all directors shall be stockholders. The number of directors required by the various business corporation acts vary from an unlimited maximum to a minimum of one.

Where the statute requires the number of directors to be set forth in the articles, the incorporators cannot name a number less than the minimum required by law.¹ The power to have and elect directors is inherent in every corporation, irrespective of statute. In fact, it is an essential feature of corporate existence.³

In the absence of express provision in the charter or by-laws the management of the business of the corporation is vested in the Board of Directors and not in the stockholders.⁴ Failure to name directors in the articles when the same is required by statute will justify State officials in refusing to file articles.⁵ Merely providing for executive officers in the articles is insufficient.⁶ The original directors named in the certificate of incorporation under direction of the incorporation act are directors de jure, clothed with all the powers of the corporation, and may exercise the same powers as though elected by the stockholders.⁷

§ 56. Capital Stock. — Capital stock is the fund of money or other property fixed as the basis for conducting the business of the corporation, and contributed by the corporators to the capital, and is usually represented by shares issued to subscribers to the stock on the initiation of the enterprise.¹ Capital stock from another aspect is the security for creditors of the corporations, and entitles the owners thereof to participate in the management of corporate business and share in its profits and in its surplus after payment of corporate debts.² Shares of stock, on the other hand, are simply the muniments and evidence of the holder's title to a given share in the property and franchises of the corporation in which he is a member.³ Frequently the words "capital" and "capital stock" are used interchangeably to express the property and assets of the corporation.

It is not altogether clear whether express authority to issue shares of capital stock is necessary, yet it has been repeatedly held that in order to increase or reduce the capital stock of a corporation, legislative authority is necessary. The prevailing view seems to be in favor of the necessity of legislative authority.⁴

In the absence of statutory or charter requirements neither subscription for capital stock nor payment thereof is necessary to corporate existence.⁵ If the charter of a corporation does not fix the amount of its capital stock, it must be fixed by the stockholders, or, with their consent, by the directors.⁶ Stock can be issued only by direction of the corporation.⁷

In many of the Commonwealths the minimum amount of capital stock which a corporation may have is fixed by statute. Very few of the States limit the maximum amount of capitalization.⁸ To determine the amount of capital stock that a corporation has, preferred stock must always be included therein.⁹ It is not always an easy question to determine who are and who are not stockholders. The question must usually be determined by the particular facts of each case.¹

Sometimes the incorporation act requires the articles to state the time when and the manner in which stock shall be paid for. It is sufficient in this connection to say, for example, that the stock shall be paid for in cash, and that no certificate of stock shall issue until such payment is made.² The statement may be broadened if desired by setting forth in the articles that the stock shall be paid for in property, at such times and of such a character and with such notice to the subscribers as the directors shall deem for the best interests of the corporation.³

Where the statute requires the amount of the capital stock to be stated, it has been held sufficient to simply state the number of shares and the par value of the same.⁴

§ 57. Limitations upon Amount of Capital Stock. — As has already been observed, the great majority of the incorporation acts provide that the amount of capital stock which the corporation is to have shall be fixed in the articles of incorporation. This is the usual and often the only limitation on the amount of capital stock which any particular corporation is authorized to have. However, in fourteen of the Commonwealths the minimum capital stock of all corporations is fixed by statute, while in three of them the maximum capitalization is also prescribed.

In this connection the words of the court in *Barry v. Merchants Exchange Co.*⁶ are peculiarly instructive. In that case Chancellor Sanford observed: "That the capital stock of a corporation is the aggregate amount of the funds of the incorporators which are combined together under a charter, for the attainment of some common object of public convenience or private utility. This amount is fixed in the act of incorporation. It is thus limited, in reference to the convenience of the intended incorporators, and for the information and security of the public at large. To the incorporators it prescribes the amount and the subdivisions of their respective contributions to the common fund; the voice which each shall have in the control and management; and the apportionment of the profits of the enterprise. To the community it announces the extent of the means contributed and forming the basis of the dealings of the corporate body, and enables every man to judge of its ability to meet its engagements and perform what it undertakes. And when the statute requires the stock to be paid in before the corporation can transact business, security to those contracting with it is thereby superadded to the information of its resources. These objects for the public benefit are such as the legislature had in view in limiting the amount of capital stock, and requiring a specified sum or proportion to be paid in. One other consideration dictates the amount thus fixed. This is the probable and reasonable extent of the means requisite to the accomplishment of the end proposed, qualified in many cases by the unwillingness of the legislature to create these artificial beings with an undue amount of capital."

§ 58. Par Value of Capital Stock. — In thirty-six of the States the par value of the shares of the capital stock may be any amount. In the remainder the par value is limited by statute. Where the corporation act does not require that the number and par value of shares be set forth, the presumption is that the legislature intended that this should be fixed by the stockholders of the corporation at the organization meeting.¹ The matter may be entrusted by the stockholders to the directors if desired.³

The question sometimes arises as to whether changing the par value of shares without increasing or decreasing the capital stock constitutes such a "variation" therein as to come within the statutory prohibition forbidding such variation without legislative authority. The prevailing rule seems to be that such variation may be made only by conforming to the statute (if any exists) authorizing amendments to the charter in this regard.⁴

§ 59. Amount of Stock Subscriptions. — Unless made so by statute, no subscription, in whole or in part, of the capital stock of a corporation is necessary, either to the validity of a corporation's existence or to its right to transact business.¹ The rule, however, that exists in this country to-day is doubtless opposed to the common law rule on the subject.² The States of Washington, Illinois, and Missouri require subscriptions to the full amount of the authorized capital stock.³

Fourteen of the Commonwealths require the amount of stock subscribed for by each incorporator to be set forth in the articles, while others require the amount of stock with which the corporation will commence business to be stated. A few prescribe that the amount of stock actually subscribed shall be set forth.⁴ Sometimes provisions are found requiring the residences of subscribers to the capital stock to appear in the articles.⁵

Any person capable of contracting may subscribe for stock or become a stockholder. This includes aliens, married women, and corporations.⁶ Subscriptions for stock must be made through commissioners where the law so provides.⁷ But even where such subscriptions are made through parties other than commissioners contrary to the statute, such subscriptions may be afterwards ratified by the proper party.⁸

Occasionally attempts are made to limit by charter provisions the amount of stock which may be owned by any one stockholder. Such provisions are generally held void, as not called for by the governing statute.⁹ An important question that arises in connection with the general subject of stock subscriptions, amount of stock paid in, and amount of capital with which the corporation may begin business, has reference to the effects which follow a failure on the part of the corporation to comply with such statutory requirements. In general, it may be said that the penalties which follow a failure to comply with such provisions are generally along the following lines:

First, they afford a basis for an action to be brought by the State looking to the forfeiture of the charter. Secondly, they sometimes result in rendering the incorporators liable as co-partners, the courts holding that by failing to comply with the statute they have forfeited their right to immunity from individual liability for what would otherwise be distinctively corporate debts. Thirdly, in some jurisdictions a penalty is prescribed by statute making directors and officers liable for all debts contracted before the statutory requirements above referred to have been complied with.

It goes without saying that corporations cannot legally issue stock in excess of their authorized capitalization.¹ However, this does not mean that bona fide purchasers of such shares are without remedy, for ordinarily in such cases both the corporation and its officers are liable.²

§ 60. Amount of Stock paid in.—It has already been observed that neither the subscription to nor the payment of the whole amount of capital stock authorized by the charter is a condition precedent to the legal existence of the corporation unless it is made so by a governing statute. Ordinarily, it merely goes to the right to transact business, without subjecting the directors or the corporate officers and agents to personal liability.³ However, in some few of the States the corporation acts provide that before the corporation may commence business a certain percentage of the capital stock shall be paid in. Where the articles fail to so set forth the amount of stock paid in as required by statutes, this does not affect ipso facto the legality of the corporation's existence, but it is a matter which can only be taken advantage of by the State in quo warranto proceedings.⁵

Statutory payments must be made in the manner and time provided by statute, and they must be paid in in good faith.⁶

Failure to state, in the affidavit relative to the amount of stock paid in, that such payments had been made in good faith to the directors is not fatal, as the bona fides of the transaction will be implied.¹

§ 61. Amount of Stock with which a Corporation may begin Business. — Some few of the States require that the amount of capital with which a corporation will begin business shall be set forth in the articles. In some cases, as in New Jersey and New York, the minimum amount is prescribed by statute. The failure, however, to actually pay in the prescribed amount of capital stated in the articles will not operate to destroy the corporate existence.²

§ 62. Duration of Corporate Existence. — At one time there was a tendency on the part of the States to limit the duration of corporate existence of corporations to a definite period in the supposed interest of the public.³ At the present time in twenty-six of the Commonwealths perpetual charters may be procured under the business corporation acts in force therein. In the remaining States the periods vary from one hundred years to twenty. Even in these States provision is made for extension of corporate existence by complying with the statute in such case made and provided.⁵

The phrase "perpetual succession" has been held not to be equivalent to perpetual existence.⁶ The naming of a period of corporate existence in the charter in excess of that permitted by law will not render the charter void, but the corporate existence will not be continued beyond the statutory period.⁷

It is scarcely necessary to say that the continuance of active corporate existence during the entire period limited by the charter is not binding upon the corporation.⁸ A difficult question often arises when the corporation attempts to continue its active business as a corporation and to perform its corporate functions after the expiration of its charter. Ordinarily this is a matter which concerns the State alone.¹ Under such circumstances, in order to protect third parties, the courts recognize such corporations as corporations de facto on the ground that there is clearly authority for their attempting to act as corporations.² Many courts of high authority have held that a corporation is dissolved and ceases to exist when its charter expires.³ In many States there are statutes permitting corporations to exist as such for certain purposes after the expiration of their charter. The purpose of such statutes is to grant to the corporation time to close up its corporate affairs. It has been held that the object of such statutes is not to limit but to enlarge corporate privileges so that the corporation may continue active business throughout the whole charter period.⁵

§ 63. Date of Annual Meeting.—In Alaska, Arizona, Delaware, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Utah the corporation acts require that the date of the annual meeting of the corporation be inserted in the articles. Such provisions are to be regarded as directory rather than mandatory, and their legal effect is essentially the same as if such provision was merely made in a valid by-law of the corporation. In Arkansas, Louisiana, and Tennessee the date of the organization meeting must appear in the certificate of incorporation.⁶ Even when the statute requires that the directors shall be chosen at the annual meeting, this has no reference to the election of the first board at the organization meeting.⁷

§ 64. Limitation upon Corporate Indebtedness.—In the absence of constitutional or statutory provision, there are no limitations imposed upon corporations with respect to the amount of indebtedness which they may incur.⁸ The whole extent of corporate credit is measured and controlled by its capital. The laws of trade have placed more efficient barriers than the State legislatures to the power of corporate borrowing. In Alaska, Arizona, Florida, Iowa, Minnesota, and Nebraska, the incorporation acts require that the maximum amount of indebtedness which the corporation may incur shall be set forth in the articles of incorporation.

In twenty-two of the Commonwealths statutes, either expressly or by implication, prescribe the amount of indebtedness which corporations may incur.¹

When the phrase "implied limitation upon corporate indebtedness" is used, reference is had to that not uncommon form of limitation where directors or stockholders are made liable for corporate debts in case the corporate indebtedness exceeds a certain definite amount.²

§ 65. Exemption of Stockholders from Personal Liability. — While there is no common-law liability imposed upon stockholders for corporate debts, nevertheless parties may lawfully contract to any extent they see fit as to their own personal liability for such indebtedness.³

In order that stockholders may avoid personal liability for corporate debts it is necessary in Arizona, Delaware, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, and Utah, to insert provisions in the certificates of incorporation expressly exempting stockholders from such liability.

§ 66. Adoption of By-Laws by Directors. — In a large number of the States and Territories the incorporation acts expressly provide for delegation of power to directors to make, alter, or repeal by-laws.⁴ In many of the States in order that the corporation may have this power it is necessary to insert provision therefor in the charter.⁵ Unless the power to make, alter, or repeal by-laws is thus delegated to the board of directors, it can only be exercised by the stockholders.⁶

§ 67. Provisions for the Regulation of the Internal Affairs of the Corporation.—In a number of the States statutory authority is to be found for inserting in the articles of incorporation any provisions that may be desired relative to the regulation of the business, and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, creating, defining, and limiting the powers of the corporation, the officers, and the stockholders. Under such authority the clauses which are usually inserted are the following: giving the directors power to sell all the business of the corporation as an entirety; the power to sell entire corporate property at the request of a majority of the stockholders; giving the right to directors to make and alter by-laws; giving the power to directors to borrow money upon bond and mortgage without authority therefor being first given by the stockholders; power to appoint additional vice-presidents and assistant secretaries and treasurers; to declare dividends; to reserve and fix working capital; to appoint an executive committee from the board of directors; giving stockholders power to remove directors; giving power to create a lien upon stock for indebtedness due company from stockholders; provision for the examination of books by the stockholders, and in connection therewith power to insert private publicity clause; to provide for cumulative voting and limiting the power to vote; reservation of power to change provisions in the articles of incorporation; power to create preferred stock.

§ 68. Miscellaneous Provisions Relative to Contents of Articles of Incorporation.—It would be impossible to enumerate all the peculiar provisions under the several business corporation acts which exist in the various States. Among those not already referred to are the following: Statement of the amount of stock subscribed for by the incorporators; a list of all parties who have subscribed for stock as preliminary to incorporation.¹

In setting forth the subscribers to the capital stock it is sufficient to use above the first name the words "names,"

"residences," "shares," and then immediately follow the same with the names of the subscribers to the capital stock.¹ Among other provisions are those requiring the naming of an agent upon whom service of process upon the corporation may be served;² another, a statement of the manner of conducting the business of the corporation.³ A number of the States require the names and residences of the incorporators to be set forth in the articles.⁴ Sometimes it is necessary to secure the approval of the Attorney-General to the form and contents of the articles.⁵

§ 69. Construction of Charter.— Under the liberal provisions of the modern incorporation acts, the articles drawn thereunder necessarily assume, by the sole action of the incorporators, numerous powers, many of which have been heretofore of a public character, affecting the interests of the public very largely and very seriously. The Supreme Court of the United States has taken the view that, for the reasons just given, these articles do not commend themselves to the judicial mind as a class of instruments requiring or justifying any very liberal construction. That court has said in this connection, that where the question is whether they conform to the authority given by statute in regard to corporate organization, it is always to be determined upon a just construction of the power granted to them with a due regard for all other laws of the State upon that subject.⁶

In construing charters the following rules seem to govern the courts: First, the intention of the legislature must be given due weight.⁷ Second, due consideration must be given to the policy of the State with reference to such matters as evidenced by the character of legislation. Third, all ambiguities in the terms of the articles of incorporation must be construed against the corporation in favor of the public.⁸ Fourth, words should be given their ordinary meaning.⁹ Fifth, the construction given

PROCURING THE CHARTER.

§ 70. Signing the Articles.— With but few exceptions the business corporation acts of the various Commonwealths provide that the articles shall be signed by the incorporators.¹ It is not requisite to the validity of such articles that they be signed within the State from which the charter is procured.² The articles may be drawn on separate sheets, the last one of which only need be signed by the incorporators.³ If the incorporator is unable to write he may sign the articles by his mark.⁴ The full name need not be signed.⁵

If seals are required by statute they must be used.⁶ The use of a power of attorney to sign articles would probably not be sanctioned where the statute calls for additional matters which are necessarily personal in their nature.⁷

§ 71. Acknowledgment of Execution of Articles.— With some few exceptions, the incorporation acts of all the States require that the articles of incorporation shall be acknowledged by the incorporators, before some officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments of deeds. There must in all cases be a proper number of acknowledgments.⁸ Where the statutes designate some particular officer to take the acknowledgment, the charter is voidable if taken before any other official.⁹ A failure, on the part of the officer taking the acknowledgment, to certify that the incorporators were personally known to him will not invalidate the incorporation proceedings.¹

Even where the statutes require the organization meetings to be held within the domiciliary State, it is not necessary that the articles be signed and acknowledged therein.²

The omission of immaterial parts of the acknowledgment does not operate to render the incorporators liable as partners.³ In order to entitle articles to be filed with the proper State official, they must be signed and acknowledged in all respects as required by law.⁴

§ 72. Publication of Articles.—In ten of the Commonwealths the law requires that either the petition for a charter or the charter itself or the substance thereof shall be published for a prescribed length of time. The original theory upon which such requirements are based appears to have been that the creation of a corporation should be attended with all possible publicity, in order that all the world might acquaint itself with the fact that it is dealing with a corporation and not with a natural person.⁵ At the present time the legislatures seem to proceed on the basis of furnishing the newspapers with additional paid matter on the theory that they need it in their business. However that may be, it still remains true that the statutes governing publication of articles must be substantially complied with, otherwise the charter may be declared void at the instance of the State.⁷

It has been held that the publication of more than the law requires will not invalidate the legality of the publication.⁹

§ 73. Affidavit as to Stock Subscriptions. — The laws of Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Vermont, and West Virginia require in addition to the ordinary acknowledgment of the execution of the articles, that the same be accompanied by an affidavit showing that the amount of stock required by law as a preliminary to doing business as a corporation has been duly subscribed.¹ The same matter appears in the certificate of organization required in Arkansas, Connecticut, Indian Territory, Maine, and Virginia.

On the other hand, the incorporation acts of Alabama, California, Delaware, Idaho, Kentucky, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, and Washington merely require that the amount of stock subscriptions be set forth in the articles.

As to the content of the affidavits as to stock subscriptions, it is sufficient if they serve to show clearly that the statute relative to the same has been substantially complied with.²

Unless the statute designates some officer before whom such affidavit be sworn to, it may be made before any officer authorized to administer oaths and to certify to the same.³

§ 74. Anti-Trust Affidavit. — Some few of the States — such, for example, as South Dakota, Missouri, and Illinois — require either of the incorporators before organization or of certain designated officers of the corporation after organization that they certify and make oath to the effect that the corporation is organized for the transaction of a lawful business and not for the purpose of enabling the corporation to violate the provision of the anti-trust act in force in that particular Commonwealth. Just what practical purpose the requirements here referred to serve, it would be difficult to say. In its practical operation it is usually a mere formality, and has, so far as observation goes, seldom served any useful purpose.⁴

§ 75. Special Requirements in Particular States. — Owing to the varied requirements existing in the several States and Territories relative to the steps necessary to procure charters under the laws thereof, it will be impossible to do more than merely refer to a few of these requirements not already discussed. Under the statutes of some of the States it is necessary before a charter can issue that the capital stock either be subscribed for in whole or in part.¹ In others it is necessary that all or part of the authorized capital stock be actually paid in.² However, in many of the States it is not necessary that the capital stock be subscribed for as a condition precedent to corporate existence.³ Some of the States require that the certificate shall show the amount of the capital stock, the amount actually paid in, and that it shall give the names and residences of the shareholders, and the amount of stock which each has subscribed. Where such provisions exist substantial compliance therewith is essential to the creation of a de jure corporation.⁴

Sometimes incorporation acts require that the certificate shall state the maximum amount of indebtedness which the corporation is authorized to incur.⁵ In Indiana the articles must contain an impression or description of the seal.⁶ In Georgia charters are issued by the courts upon petition therefor. Here as well as in other cases the statute governing the matter must be substantially complied with.⁷

In some States the law requires that the certificate shall set forth the name and location of the principal place of business of the corporation. Such provision must be substantially complied with.⁸

In Pennsylvania, where the incorporation act required the application for a charter to show the place of business of the proposed corporation, and the application merely stated location of its office, it was held insufficient. This for the reason that a corporation may have its office in one place and its place of business in another.⁹

tion bestows upon State officials the duty of examining articles of incorporation and passing upon their legal sufficiency and authorizes State officials to certify that the incorporators have become a corporation, then the issue of such certificate becomes an adjudication that the corporation has been duly formed until the State has vacated the charter by proper proceedings taken in the courts.¹ Usually this duty is bestowed upon the State department which is a branch of the executive, and cannot therefore pass upon questions which are purely judicial.² It is confined to an examination as to whether the purposes of the proposed corporation are legal on their face and whether conditions precedent have been complied with so that a charter should properly issue.³

The main points to which State officials should address themselves in passing upon corporation papers presented to them are as follows: (1) Have the requisite number of incorporators signed the articles of incorporation? (2) Have the articles been properly acknowledged by the incorporators? (3) Is the corporate name mentioned in the articles one that can be lawfully used by the proposed corporation? (4) Have the statutory requirements relative to the contents of the articles of incorporation been substantially complied with?⁴

Generally speaking, permission to file charters may be refused upon the following grounds: If the name of the proposed corporation is identical or closely resembles that of an existing corporation, the State officials may exercise their discretion and refuse to pass the charter.⁵

It has been held, however, by a court of excellent authority that a statute prohibiting the corporation from assuming a name in use by any other organization or so closely analogous to it as to mislead the public is designed to protect domestic corporations.⁶

Generally speaking, the action of the Secretary of State in issuing a license or certificate of incorporation is ministerial.¹ Neither State officials nor the courts can with respect to incorporation add new conditions to those prescribed by statute.² Generally, the test of the extent of powers of ministerial offices is the right to compel performance by mandamus.³

It is an almost universal rule that after the certificate is once issued, the officer who issues it has no power to revoke the certificate. For this purpose application must ordinarily be made to the courts.⁴

§ 77. Right to Mandamus State Officials for refusing to file Articles.— Ordinarily mandamus is the proper remedy where State officials refuse to file a certificate of incorporation, provided the duty of receiving and filing the same is lodged with them.⁵

§ 78. Organization Tax.— By the term “organization tax,” as here used, is to be understood the amount of money exacted by the State from individuals in return for a grant from the former to the latter of the right or privilege of being a corporation; that is, of doing business in a corporate capacity and under the privilege or franchise which when incorporated the company may exercise. The right or privilege to be a corporation or to do business as such body is one generally deemed of value to the corporation, which is the right or privilege by which several individuals may unite themselves under a common name and act as a single person with a succession of members without dissolution or suspension of business and with a limited individual liability. The grant of such a right or privilege rests entirely in the discretion of the State, and may unquestionably be accompanied with such conditions as the legislature thereof may judge most befitting to its interests and policy.

Thus the latter may require of the incorporators, as a condition to the original grant of the franchise as well as of its continued exercise, that the corporation pay a specific sum to the State.⁶

There are two broad grounds for sustaining the power of the State to impose organization taxes. The first of these is their inherent power to regulate corporations. Corporate capacity itself is a franchise. No persons can make themselves a body corporate and politic without legislative authority.¹ The other ground referred to is the inherent power of the State to enact such legislation as may be necessary in order to raise revenue for State purposes.²

The term "organization tax" should be carefully distinguished from the phrase "franchise tax;" the latter referring to the tax imposed by the State upon corporations for the privilege of doing business in a corporate capacity after incorporation. All of the States and Territories with the exception of Arizona, Arkansas, District of Columbia, Georgia, Indian Territory, Louisiana, and Oklahoma, impose graduated organization taxes upon corporations organized under their laws. There can be no question as to the validity of such graduated taxation.³ The same is true even when in such matters the legislature distinguishes, as is the case in West Virginia and New Hampshire, between resident and non-resident domestic corporations.⁴

At the present time it is a rule of almost universal application that the payment of an organization tax is a condition precedent to corporate existence.⁵ Organization taxes cannot be evaded on the ground that the corporation calls itself an "eleemosynary" corporation when in fact it is otherwise.⁶

The State is not bound to permit corporations to consolidate or to extend their corporate existence, and for this reason it may lawfully impose the payment of an organization tax as a condition precedent to consolidation or to the extension of its corporate existence.⁷

§ 79. Form in which Charter is granted. — In only twenty-nine of the States do the corporation acts expressly provide for the issuance of a certificate of incorporation or charter by State officials. In some few of the remainder the power to issue such instruments is assumed by the officers having the matter in charge without any express authorization therefor in the statute. In the remaining States proof of incorporation is usually had by procuring certified copies of the articles of incorporation. The matter becomes one of practical importance in connection with the right of third parties to collaterally attack not only the corporate existence but the corporate purposes and powers as well. This matter has already been discussed at length in a previous section.¹

Ordinarily the commencement of corporate existence dates from the time when the certificate of incorporation is issued. Where the statute expressly provides for the issuance of a charter by State officials the latter have no discretion in the matter, and must issue the same upon demand of the parties who have legally entitled themselves to the same.² The certificate must be issued immediately, and must be in the form, if any, prescribed by the statute.³ The Secretary of State should always affix his seal to the certificate of incorporation.⁴

§ 80. Filing and Recording in Local County Offices. — Generally speaking, it is part of the plan adopted by the various legislatures in the enactment of general incorporation acts, to provide in addition to requiring that articles of incorporation be filed with some designated State official, that they always be filed in one or more local county offices. Usually the latter requirement is confined to the provision that they be filed in the county where the corporation's domiciliary office is located. However, in some few of the States such articles must be filed in every county wherein the corporation transacts its business or holds real property. In some of the States, such as California and Maryland, more importance appears to be attached to the filing of the articles in the local county office than with State officials.⁶

The purpose of filing articles in county offices has been said to be in order that persons dealing with the corporation may have an easy and public inspection of the basis of its corporate organization.¹ With some few exceptions corporate existence is not made to depend upon the filing of the articles in the local county offices. In any event, where such filing is not had, the corporation is treated as a corporation de facto, if not de jure.² The foregoing is certainly true in the absence of any proceedings by the State in the nature of quo warranto.³

In some States the filing of articles in designated offices is specifically made a condition precedent to the legal existence of the corporation, while in others it is merely made a condition precedent to the right of the corporation to engage in business as such.⁴ It has been held, however, in Missouri that in order to the creation of corporate existence articles must be filed in both State and county offices.⁵

At the present time it is safe to say that as to third parties the validity of corporate existence will be presumed even when articles have not been filed in local county offices as required. But in some jurisdictions attempts have been made to hold the incorporators liable as partners under such conditions.⁶

§ 81. Distinction between de jure and de facto Corporations. — A corporation de jure is one whose right to exercise corporate functions would prove invulnerable if assailed by the State in quo warranto proceedings.⁷ A de facto corporation, on the other hand, is one the legality of whose existence may be inquired into by the State in quo warranto proceedings. The general rule is that to prove the existence of a corporation de facto it is necessary to

§ 82. Right of Parties other than the State to collaterally impeach Corporate Existence. — The right here referred to has already been considered somewhat at length in connection with a discussion of the right of third parties to collaterally attack corporate purposes and powers.² There are some additional matters, however, not already discussed to which attention will now be called.

As has already been suggested, the courts have taken varied and conflicting views relative to the right of parties other than the State to collaterally attack the existence of a corporation with whom they chance to be involved in litigation. The diverging views here referred to may be classified as follows: (1) the view that the State alone can test the question whether or not a corporation which has procured a charter from the proper State officials is in law as well as in fact a corporation;³ (2) the view that this question may be inquired into by third parties, but that it is sufficient in such cases for the corporation to show substantial compliance with the conditions prescribed by the general incorporation act in order to prove that it is a corporation de jure as well as de facto;⁴ (3) the view that the matter may be inquired into by third parties, and that under such circumstances it is necessary that the corporation shall show strict compliance with each and every condition precedent prescribed by the general incorporation act in order to establish the fact that it is a corporation de jure as well as de facto.⁵

For purpose of convenience these three diverging views may be distinguished as follows: referring to the first as to the true, the second as the substantial compliance, and the third as the strict compliance rule. Space will permit of discussion here of only the first of the rules just referred to.

The legislatures alone, as has been shown, can create a corporation. Under the modern practice these bodies have passed general incorporation acts entrusting the execution of the law to the executive department of the government. Under the rule now generally established, either by statute or judicial construction, in most of the States a corporation becomes a corporation de facto from the moment the charter or certificate of incorporation is issued by the proper State authorities.¹ The basis of holding such certificates as conclusive of corporate existence as against all the world except the State is that where by reason of such certificate a corporation is held out to the world as ready to undertake business, most disastrous consequences would follow to commercial undertakings if any private person was allowed to go back and enter into an examination of the circumstances attending the original incorporation.²

The power which creates the corporation it is needless to say should alone have the power to take it away. It should not be permitted to parties other than the State for this reason to collaterally impeach corporate existence, for to permit such impeachment would be in legal effect to permit third parties, for the purpose at least of that particular action, to destroy the effect of the previous action of the State in the premises. On grounds of public policy as to all parties but the State, it should under such circumstances be conclusively presumed that the statutory requirements relative to incorporation have been duly complied with.³ A corporation must of necessity be presumed to be rightfully in possession of the franchise and rightfully exercising the power which the legislative grant confers. Individual right is not invaded if the presumption is true in fact and there is no usurpation. It is the State — the sovereign — whose rights are invaded and whose authority is usurped. The individual could not create the corporation, could not grant, define, or limit its powers; any grant of these by the sovereign cannot lessen his right. There can consequently be no cause of complaint by the citizen, and no right to inquire whether the corporate existence is rightful, de jure, or merely colorable.¹

Corporations may exist either de jure or de facto. If of the latter class, they are under the same protection of the law and governed by the same legal principles as those of the former so long as the State acquiesces in their existence and exercise of corporate functions. A private citizen whose rights are not invaded and who has no cause of complaint has no right to inquire collaterally into the legality of its existence. This can only be done in a direct proceeding on the part of the State from whom is derived the right to exist as a corporation and whose authority is usurped.²

A corporation de facto may legally do and perform every act and thing which the same entity could do and perform were it a de jure corporation. As to all the world except the paramount authority under which it acts and from which it receives its charter, it occupies the same position as though in all respects valid, and even as against the State, except in direct proceedings to arrest its usurpation of powers, its acts are to be treated as efficacious.³

Finally, it may be observed that the principle here contended for has been held by at least one court to be applicable to a case where a corporation had incorporated under an unconstitutional law, yet nevertheless the validity of the corporation's existence could not be collaterally attacked, as it had been chartered by the implied consent of the State.⁴

§ 83. Right of State to attack Corporate Existence in Direct Proceedings. — This section has reference only to actions brought by the State for the purpose of testing the legality of corporate existence where it is alleged that there has been a failure on the part of the incorporators to perform all the conditions prescribed by statute as a precedent to corporate existence. rate powers without being legally incorporated, for the purpose of ousting them from the exercise of such powers.¹

In all such proceedings as against the State not merely a de facto corporate existence must be shown, but a de jure existence as well. The general prevailing view at the present time seems to be that, as against the State in such proceedings, it is necessary to show a specific statute authorizing the creation of corporations of the character of the one against which the quo warranto proceedings are brought, and also substantial compliance in the preliminary organization of the corporation with all conditions precedent prescribed by statute.²

In quo warranto proceedings the burden of proof is upon the corporation to show that it has been legally incorporated.³ In the proceedings of the character referred to it has been well said that "public policy demands that the power to oust de facto corporations from the exercise of corporate powers because of failure to comply substantially with conditions precedent be sparingly exercised."⁴

Were the rule otherwise, disastrous consequences would follow in the commercial world, and in all such cases the courts should take extraordinary care to see that the rights of third parties are fully protected. In proceedings brought by the State, the most important matter to be looked at is whether there has been a failure on the part of the incorporators to comply with the provisions of the statute, which are merely directory as opposed to those that are mandatory. A "directory" provision is one which the legislature did not intend as essential to corporate existence, and the failure to comply with which is a mere irregularity and is not fatal to corporate existence. A "mandatory" provision, on the other hand, is one which must be substantially complied with in order to create a corporation de jure.⁵ Whether the particular provision of the statute is directory or mandatory is to be determined by "the intention and true meaning of the legislature deduced from the act and sometimes aided by other acts in pari materia and extraneous circumstances.”¹ Even as against the State it is only necessary that a mandatory provision shall be substantially complied with.²

§ 84. When does Corporate Existence commence? — Where the statute provides, as it does in some of the Commonwealths, that the articles of incorporation shall be filed with State officials or in some local county office or both, the general rule is that the corporate existence dates from the time of filing of the articles with such officials and not from the time it begins to do business.³ The foregoing seems to be the rule in force in the majority of States. Some of the States, however, provide by statute as to when corporate existence shall commence, as, for example, Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.⁴ In a number of the States corporate existence depends not merely upon filing articles with the Secretary of State, but also upon filing the same in the local recording office of the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is to be located, as, for example, in Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Maryland, Montana, New Jersey, Utah, and Wisconsin. In some few of the States the statute by reason of its peculiar provision seems to contemplate the corporate existence shall commence before the filing of articles of incorporation with any official, either State or county; this for the reason that the certificate required to be filed with such officials must be signed by corporate officers. States to which reference is here made are Arkansas, Illinois, Indian Territory, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, and Missouri.

⁴ See Part II., Synopsis-Digest of the Corporation Laws of the several States and Territories.

There seems to exist in some jurisdictions the theory that in the matter of determining when the corporate existence commences reference must be had, first, to the primary franchise of being a corporation vesting in the incorporators and next to the secondary franchise to do certain specific acts which vests in the corporation.¹ Again, in some States, while filing articles of incorporation constitutes a condition precedent to the creation of corporate existence, it is also a condition precedent to the right of doing business.²

Ordinarily corporate existence does not commence until all conditions precedent are performed.³ There is a very obvious distinction between such acts as are declared to be necessary steps in the process of incorporation and such as are required of the individuals seeking to become incorporated, but which are not made prerequisites to the assumption of corporate powers. With respect to the former any material omission will be fatal to its existence as a corporation de jure, as against the State. In respect to the latter, failure to comply therewith is not ordinarily accompanied by forfeiture of its charter powers, but rather goes to the question of the personal liability of the individuals who attempt to do business as a corporation without having complied with all the conditions subsequent.⁴

Corporate existence in this immediate connection ordinarily means full authority to transact business as such in contradistinction to the qualified existence of such corporations which dates from the time of filing the articles of association with the Secretary of State.⁵ So too, in those States where organization precedes the filing of a certificate of incorporation, it has been held that a corporation has a qualified existence from the date of the incorporators' first meeting.⁶

In Illinois corporate existence does not commence until the reception of a license from the Secretary of State to take stock

subscriptions.¹ It would of course follow, from the necessities of the case, that before a corporation can contract as such, it must have a full and complete organization.² While ordinarily such organization is not necessary to the commencement of corporate existence, it is sometimes made so by statute.³

CHAPTER III.

ORGANIZATION OF CORPORATIONS AFTER INCORPORATION.

§ 85. The Incorporators' Organization Meeting. — That a corporation shall have a full and complete organization and existence as an entity before it can enter into any kind of contract or transact any business, would seem to be self-evident. A corporation until organization has no franchises or faculties. Its existence before is but a qualified existence. Its powers are limited for the time being to the right to organize itself into an active corporate organization, and, as we have seen, those engaged in bringing it into being have no power to bind it by contract unless so authorized by the charter. Until organization as authorized by the charter, it does not possess the right to exercise its corporate functions, nor has it a valid existence for all purposes.¹

In this connection it was observed in a leading case, that "it is often stated in the books that a corporation is created by its charter. This is not precisely correct. The charter only confers the life and provides the instruments by which it may become an acting entity. Such a corporation has been well defined to be an artificial being, existing only in contemplation of law. The instruments provided to bring the artificial being into active operation are the persons named in the charter, and those who by virtue of its provisions may become associated with them. These persons — the incorporators — as natural persons have no such power. The charter confers upon them a new faculty for this purpose, a faculty which they can have only by virtue of the law which confers it."²

The better, if not the prevailing, rule appears to be, that not only are the incorporators named in the articles of incorporation entitled to participate in the organization meeting thereof, but also all subscribers to the preliminary stock subscription to the capital stock of the proposed corporation may do so.³

§ 86. Organization Meeting, how called.—The more recent incorporation acts, such as are in force in Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, North Carolina, and West Virginia, point out specifically how the organization meeting of a corporation is to be called. Where no such statutes exist the better and safer practice is for all the incorporators, as well as the subscribers to the preliminary subscription agreement to the capital stock of the proposed corporation, to sign a waiver and agreement fixing the time and place for the organization meeting of the corporation.¹

It has been held that all are not required to be present at the organization meeting who sign the articles of incorporation unless the statute requires it. A majority, it is said, is sufficient.² The safer practice, however, is to comply with the rule stated above.³

Virginia is one of the few States possessing a statute giving the incorporators the right to assign their interests as such in a prospective corporation. Failure to call a meeting as provided by statute is to be regarded as a breach of a condition subsequent and is not fatal to the creation of a valid corporation.⁴

§ 87. Organization Meeting, where held.—It was laid down at an early date by the Supreme Court of Maine in Miller v. Ewer,⁵ that all acts and proceedings of persons pretending to act in the capacity of incorporators when assumed without the bounds of the sovereignty granting the charter are absolutely void. The principle established in Miller v. Ewer has been quite generally adopted in other parts of the country.⁶

The reasoning of these cases is to the following effect: the charter bestows upon the incorporators certain privileges which they can possess only by virtue of the law which confers it; that law is inoperative beyond the bounds of the legislative power by which it was enacted; that, as the foregoing faculty cannot accompany the incorporators beyond the bounds of the sovereignty which creates it, they cannot possess or exercise it there, and can have no more power there to make the artificial being act than other persons not named or associated as incorporators. Therefore any attempt to exercise such a faculty there is merely a usurpation of authority by persons destitute of it and acting without any legal capacity to act in that manner. If the foregoing reasoning be sound, it follows that all fundamental corporate acts and proceedings when assumed without the bounds of the sovereignty granting the charter are absolutely void. The principle here stated has been materially qualified in a large number of jurisdictions by an extended application of the doctrine of estoppel. As an example of this, attention is called to the case of Handley v. Stutz.¹

This was a case where a Kentucky corporation at a meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, held outside of the State, increased the capital stock of the company from one hundred twenty thousand dollars to two hundred thousand dollars. It was contended that this increase was illegal, for the reason that the meeting of the stockholders authorizing it was held outside of the State of Kentucky. The court, in its opinion upon this point, spoke as follows :

“Nor were the proceedings of such meeting any less binding upon those participating in it by reason of the fact that it was held outside of the boundaries of the State under the laws of which the company was incorporated. By act of the Kentucky Legislature, it is provided, that all elections for directors and other officers by private corporations shall be held within the territorial limits of the State of Kentucky, and that any such election held outside of Kentucky shall be void. Beyond the election of officers, however, there is no statutory restriction of corporate action to the limits of the State, and in the absence of such inhibition the proceedings of such meeting would, with regard to directors’ meetings, be binding upon all those participating in it, as well as upon those acting upon the faith of its validity or receiving the stock authorized to be issued at said meeting. It is true that there are cases holding that stockholders’ meetings cannot be legally held outside of the home State of the corporation, but the question has generally arisen where a majority present had attempted by their action to bind a dissenting minority, or had taken action prejudicial to the rights of third persons. Indeed, so far as we know, the authorities are uniform to the effect that the action taken at such meeting was binding upon those who participated in or partook of the benefits of them. In this case the meeting was attended by all the stockholders but two, who were present by proxy. The vote increasing the stock was unanimous, and it does not lie in the mouth of those who participated in this act, or received the stock voted at this meeting, to question its validity."¹

Unquestionably the legislature has the legal right, in the absence of constitutional provision, to provide that all meetings of corporations, whether organization or otherwise, may be held outside the State.²

§ 88. Steps Necessary to complete Organization.—The principal matters which demand attention at the organization meeting of a corporation may be enumerated as follows: (1) the adoption of by-laws; (2) election of directors; (3) providing for the issue and payment of the capital stock of the corporation. The subject of the adoption of by-laws and the payment of the capital stock of the corporation will be left for subsequent consideration.

With respect to the matter of the election of a board of directors the following may be said. Many of the incorporation acts require that the names of the first board of directors shall be set forth in the articles of incorporation, and this ordinarily obviates the necessity of electing a new board at the organization meeting of the corporation.³ Unless the statute so requires it, it is not necessary, in order to give the incorporators the right to participate in the organization meeting, that they be stockholders.⁴ But ordinarily it is contemplated by the incorporation acts that the incorporators shall be stockholders or subscribers for capital stock.

The right to vote stock is an incident to stock ownership, and was recognized at common law as a property right.¹

In some few of the States, statutes exist limiting the right of stockholders to own more than a certain percentage of the total stock of the corporation.²

Sometimes the incorporators are appointed commissioners to take stock subscriptions. It has been held that the failure of such commissioners to take the oath of office as required by statute, will not render the subscriptions void.³ Where authority to open books of subscription is given by statute to the incorporators, this authority may be exclusive, so that subscriptions cannot lawfully be received by others. Such subscriptions, however, may of course be ratified by proper parties.⁴

Ordinarily the election of officers is by statute devolved upon the board of directors. However, in some few of the States certain officers are required to be elected by the stockholders.

§ 89. Adoption of By-Laws.—A by-law is in effect a continuing rule of action for the government of the corporation, its members and officers.⁵ The purpose of a by-law is to regulate and define the duties of the stockholders between themselves and the conduct of the officers and the management of the corporate affairs.⁶

All corporations have the implied power to make by-laws for the government of the corporation and the management of its affairs.⁷ Unless otherwise provided by statute, the by-laws must be adopted by the incorporators at their organization meeting or else by the stockholders at a meeting duly called for that purpose.⁸

Some few of the States, among them being South Dakota, North Dakota, and Oklahoma, permit incorporators to adopt by-laws, whether they are subscribers for the capital stock of the proposed corporation or not. Statutory provisions exist in several of the states, expressly permitting provision to be made, if desired, for the adoption of by-laws by the directors. In the absence of any such statutory authority, by-laws adopted by the directors are not binding unless subsequently ratified by the stockholders.¹ On the other hand, if the directors are vested by statute with exclusive power to pass by-laws, those passed by the stockholders are not valid.²

The adoption of by-laws is a constituent act, and for this reason they must be adopted within the State by whose laws the corporation was created, if action of stockholders is necessary to their adoption.³ In the absence of statutory power or charter provision, by-laws can be altered or repealed by the stockholders alone.⁴

In the absence of statutory prohibition, the power to amend or alter by-laws may be delegated by the stockholders to the directors. In general by-laws must be adopted in conformity to the charter and be reasonable and proper.⁵

The by-laws of a private corporation will be interpreted by the courts as interpreted by the corporation.⁶

The reasonableness of a by-law is a question of law and not of fact.⁷

In drawing by-laws the following rules should govern: they should be made certain;⁸ they must be directed to all within the sphere of their operation;⁹ they must operate equally upon all to whom applied;¹⁰ they must be lawful as against members possessing rights, and must be reasonable.¹¹

Sometimes the statute requires by-laws to be adopted within thirty days after incorporation and copied into a book of by-laws.¹² Such statutes are clearly directory and not mandatory.

directors is inherent in all private corporations irrespective of statute.¹

The election of directors in connection with the organization of a corporation ordinarily follows the adoption of by-laws. After the organization the election of directors is usually had at the annual meeting of the corporation. In giving the notice of such annual meeting it is customary to specify in the notice that a board of directors is to be chosen.²

In choosing the directors it is incumbent upon the incorporators or stockholders, as the case may be, to observe the provisions of the statutes relative to the number of directors to be chosen and their qualifications as to stock-holdings, residence, and citizenship if any such are prescribed by statute. In the absence of such statutes as exist in many of the States authorizing the dividing of directors into classes, so that only a certain portion of the board are elected annually, the full board must be elected each year. In the absence of statute making the ownership of stock a qualification for holding the office of director such ownership is not necessary.³ Even where the statute requires that directors shall be stockholders, it is not necessary that they shall become such before their election if they become stockholders before entering upon the duties of their office.⁴ In the election of directors by the incorporators it is sufficient in order to qualify him that a director be a subscriber for stock, though no certificate has in fact been issued.⁵ Where ownership of stock is necessary to qualify one as a director, the prevailing rule seems to be that the moment a director ceases to be a stockholder, he ceases to be a director de jure (but not de facto) without proceedings having first been taken to remove him.⁶

Where a director is required to take an oath of office before entering upon the discharge of his duties, his failure to take such an oath will not prevent him from becoming a director de facto.⁷ Any person who can be a business agent for another can, if possessed of statutory qualifications, become a director.⁸ Ordinarily it is not necessary that resignations of directors be accepted in order to become effective.¹

Persons owning a majority of stock have a right to elect directors.² It is a fundamental principle in corporation law that a majority of stockholders shall control the policy and regulate the business affairs of the corporation, and to this each stockholder impliedly agrees when he acquires stock in the corporation.³ However, in order to insure minority representation on the board, cumulative voting for directors is permitted in a large number of the States. Where such right to cumulate votes is mandatory such right cannot be taken away by by-law.⁵

The fact that a corporation begins business with an insufficient number of directors does not invalidate debts contracted by them, nor deprive it of its corporate rights and privileges unless some action is taken by the State to that end.⁶ Failure to elect a board of directors annually does not work dissolution. The old board will hold over by implication of law.⁷ This is a rule not only established by statute in a large number of the States, but is a well established rule of corporation law in the absence of such statutes.⁸ In the election of directors a majority vote of all present is sufficient, provided a majority of the stock is represented at the meeting.⁹ Vacancies in the board of directors cannot be filled by the remaining directors, but must be filled by the stockholders, unless such power is expressly granted by statute.¹⁰ Even where the right to fill vacancies is given to the remaining directors it is probably true that there must be present at the meeting a majority of the whole number of directors prescribed by the charter, and that such vacancy be filled by a majority vote thereof.¹¹

Unless regulated by statute or by-laws, the board of directors may fix any place within the domiciliary State at which annual meetings for the election of directors may be held.¹ Where there are mandatory provisions in the charter, statute, or by-laws as to place of holding annual meetings these must be followed.² Where the certificate of incorporation is required to fix the number of directors, such number cannot be changed except by amendment thereof.³

In connection with the general subject of election of directors the question not infrequently arises as to the validity of the so-called "voting trusts" now becoming so common in this country. The prevailing and it is believed the true rule on this subject is set forth in Clowes v. Miller,⁴ where it was held that in the absence of any improper motive such trusts are valid.⁵ It is, in the absence of such improper motives, merely a convenient method of voting by proxy.

In the absence of statute, charter provision, or valid by-law to the contrary, holders of preferred stock have the same rights in the election of directors as belong to the holders of common stock.⁶ It has been held that stockholders may in voting for directors change their vote while the election is in progress.⁷ Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel canvassing of votes at election of directors to determine whether or not such election was valid.⁸

In some of the States there are certain statutory officers known as "Inspectors of Election," who must be chosen preliminary to the election of the board of directors. These inspectors should be chosen in the mode provided in the by-laws.⁹ Inspectors have no power, express or implied, to pass upon the eligibility of directors.¹⁰ The failure to have the inspectors sworn before acting as such will not invalidate an election.¹¹ In the absence of statutory provision or regulation by by-laws providing otherwise, the power to appoint inspectors of election lies with the stockholders alone.¹

§ 91. Power to hold Meetings for the Election of Directors without the Domiciliary State.—The general rule unquestionably is that in the absence of statute or unanimous consent of all the stockholders no election of directors by the stockholders can be legal, so as to make them directors de jure, when had at a meeting called without the limits of the State under whose laws the corporation is created.²

Twelve of the Commonwealths have statutes expressly authorizing the holding of stockholders' meetings without the domiciliary State. In any event, it seems to be now well settled that where all the stockholders meet without the State and transact business thereat, even though such business be the annual election of directors, the stockholders present at such meeting are estopped to question the validity of the proceedings had thereat.⁴ An excellent method of validating any action taken by stockholders at meetings held without the domiciliary State is to have subsequent action taken by the stockholders at a meeting called within the State ratifying what has been previously done by them without the State. This, it has been held, cures all previous defects.⁵

§ 92. Voting by Proxy.—At common law, voting of stockholders at annual meetings or special meetings was required to be done in person.⁶ In the absence of statute, charter provision, or valid by-law giving stockholders this right, the same rule would apply at the present day.⁷

Owing to the unquestioned right of a corporation to adopt a valid by-law permitting voting by proxy, even in the absence of a statute authorizing it, the question has ceased to be one of any great practical importance in the country to-day. Besides this, statutes exist in all of the States and Territories, except Arizona and Georgia, expressly authorizing the voting of stock by proxy. It should be observed, however, that where the right to vote by proxy is given by statute without restriction it cannot be qualified by by-law.¹

Proxies may be issued in blank and lawfully filled in by the holder.² It has been held that stockholders cannot give an irrevocable proxy to secure the payment of a debt.³ It is against the settled rules governing the control of corporations that an irrevocable power of attorney which directs the vote on stock, should be vested in a person who has no interest in the stock or is not a representative of a person interested therein.⁴

The foregoing suggests the question as to whether or not voting trusts, so common at the present time, are valid. A "voting trust" may be defined to be an agreement of stockholders to give any designated trustee the right to vote at his discretion through stockholders for a given period of time. It may be said that such voting trust is valid where neither the purposes nor the means used contravene any constitutional or statutory provision or well-recognized principles of public policy, and are within the scope of the powers of the contracting parties.⁵

§ 93. First Directors' Meeting.—The principal business to be transacted at the first meeting of the board of directors of a corporation is (1) the election of the officers provided for in the by-laws; (2) the carrying into effect the resolutions passed at the organization meeting of the stockholders, if any, looking to the payment of the stock in property, or, in lieu thereof, the passage of a resolution by the board of directors ordering an assessment, either in whole or in part, upon the par value of the capital stock. The general rule appears to be that unless the governing statute or a by-law of the corporation expressly provides that directors' meetings should be held within the domiciliary State, that such meetings may be held without the limits of such State if desired.¹

Some courts, however, apparently distinguish in this regard between meetings of the board of directors for the election of officers and those meetings merely called for the transaction of routine business. Such courts hold that meetings of the first class must be held within the domiciliary State, while the others may be held without such State if desired.² In nearly half of the States statutes exist authorizing the holding of directors' meetings without the State. It is unquestionably true that where incorporators can perform constituent acts outside of the domiciliary State directors can elect officers in like manner.⁴

When calling the directors together for their first meeting, the mode of notice provided for in the by-laws must be given. In the absence thereof personal notice must be given, or a waiver of notice must be had from each of the directors.⁵ It is hardly necessary to state in this connection that no director can lawfully delegate power to act for him to another person.⁶

At common law a majority of the directors present and voting at a meeting was necessary to constitute a quorum of the full board.⁷ In some few of the States, notably Oregon, statutory provisions exist permitting less than a majority of the board of directors to constitute a quorum. Provisions in statutes and by-laws requiring the election of directors to be held on a specified date are ordinarily construed to be merely directory.⁸ The general rule is that a majority of the directors constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and a majority of the quorum have power to bind the corporation by their votes.¹

§ 94. Election of Corporate Officers. — In nearly all of the States statutes exist designating certain officers that business corporations must have, and providing that such officers shall be elected by the board of directors duly convened for that purpose. Where, however, as is sometimes the case, this power is devolved upon the stockholders by statute, then directors have no power to elect such officers.² In the absence of such statutes as are here referred to, giving the directors power to elect officers, it must be admitted that the current of authority is to the effect that the power then lies in the stockholders alone.³

The law implies that directors shall hold their office until their successors have been elected and qualified.⁴ Where vacancies occur in the board of directors they must be filled, in the absence of statute, charter provision, or by-law giving the power to the directors, by the stockholders only, and even where the power to fill vacancies is lawfully bestowed upon the remaining directors, vacancies can then be filled only by action of a majority of the authorized number of directors.⁵

Questions of policy, or management, or expediency of contract or action, or consideration of gross misappropriation or unlawful appropriation of corporate funds to the detriment of corporate interests, are left generally to the decision of the directors if their powers are without limitation and free from restraint. To hold otherwise would be to substitute the judgment and discretion of others in place of those determined on by the scheme of incorporation.⁶

§ 95. Appointment of Executive Committee. — The incorporation acts of Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Jersey, North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia all authorize the appointment by the board of directors from their own number of an executive committee to whom may be entrusted most of the ordinary duties that devolve upon the full board of directors.

It was at one time held that the performance of any duties by the board of directors involving the exercise of discretion and judgment could not be so delegated.¹ The modern rule, even in the absence of statute, is that directors have the power to delegate to a part of their own number authority to perform any part of the ordinary business of the corporation, even though it involves the exercise of the broadest judgment and discretion.²

In any event, whenever a question is raised as to the validity of acts done by an executive committee, the ratification of their action by the full board will undoubtedly correct all defects in the act complained of which would have been valid in the first instance if performed by the board itself.³

§ 96. Stock Assessments. — Where the capital stock of a corporation is not all issued in the first instance in exchange for property, it is customary for the board of directors to pass a resolution at their first meeting, making an assessment upon the stock of stockholders either for its entire par value or some fractional part thereof. Generally speaking, in order to sustain a right of action on stock subscriptions, it is necessary to show that a valid call or assessment has been made.⁴ An assessment is a rating or fixing of the proportion by the board of directors or by the stockholders, which every subscriber is to pay of his subscription, of which notice is given, which notice is referred to as a "call."⁵

While it is doubtless true that a "call" may be made either by the directors or the stockholders, nevertheless it is usually made by the directors. This of course necessitates the organization of the corporation as a preliminary to the making of a valid assessment.⁶ The purpose of the "call" is to fix the time for payment where that is not provided for either by statute, charter provisions, or by-law.⁷ The better rule seems to be that the directors have implied power by virtue of their office to make assessments.¹

In any event, shareholders may delegate such power to the directors when the same is given to them by statute or by-law.² It is questionable, however, whether the directors have power in their turn to delegate the power of making assessments to some ministerial officer.³ In the making of assessments the utmost care should be observed to see that all the statutory requirements relative to the same are complied with.

§ 97. Certificates required to be made by Officers or Directors after Organization. — In Maine, Massachusetts, Arkansas, and Indiana the statutes require that the board of directors together with certain of the corporate officers shall file a certificate of organization with certain officers. Ordinarily the failure to file such certificate would not affect the legal character of the corporation unless there was a statutory provision to that effect.⁴ In Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee, and Utah a certificate of due organization is issued to the corporation by State officials.⁵

In New York, New Jersey, District of Columbia, Nevada, Indiana, Massachusetts, North Carolina, and Colorado the law requires that after the payment, either in whole or in part, of the capital stock a certificate shall be made and filed in the proper State office setting forth the facts relative to such payment.⁶ In some of the States, notably New Jersey, failure to file such certificate renders the officers neglecting or refusing to make such certificate for thirty days after written request so to do, jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted before the filing of such certificate.⁷

Unless there is a penalty provided, such provisions are merely directory.⁸

§ 98. Time in which Corporation must organize and commence Business. — Over half of the States have provisions upon their statute books requiring corporations to organize and commence business within from one to five years after the issuance of their charter.¹ Usually the penalty for failure to so organize and commence business is the right given to the State to bring proceedings for the forfeiture of the corporation's charter on the ground of non-user thereof during the statutory period. It is undoubtedly true, however, that as against all but the State failure to organize and commence business within the time limited by statute will not prevent it from becoming a corporation de facto.²

§ 99. Stock Certificates. — Stock certificates are the muniments and evidence of the holder's title to a given share in the property and franchises of the corporation in which he is a member.³ Subscribers to the capital stock upon complying with the terms of their subscription are entitled to certificates of stock showing the number of shares owned by them. These certificates must be signed by the officers designated for that purpose by statute or, in the absence of statutory provision, by such officers as are designated in the by-laws for that purpose.⁴ A seal is not necessary to the validity of a corporation of stock in a corporation (although it is customary to affix one), and this, too, even in the presence of statutory requirements.⁵ Neither is it necessary to the validity of a stock certificate that it should be issued in the State of the corporation's domicile.⁶ Generally speaking, however, the stock certificate book, seal, and stock transfer books must be kept within the State unless the statute provides otherwise.⁷

Statutory provisions exist in nearly all the States providing the minimum and maximum par value of shares of capital stock.⁸ In some few States the statute expressly provides that all the stock certificates issued by a corporation shall be of a uniform par value. Even in the absence of such a mandatory provision, it is at least

CHAPTER IV.

ISSUANCE AND PAYMENT OF CAPITAL STOCK.

§ 100. General Remarks as to the Issuance and Payment of Capital Stock upon the Organization of a Corporation. — In connection with the issuance and payment of capital stock following the organization of a corporation, several important matters should be considered, such, for example, as the time within which the capital must be paid in; the question as to how the capital must be paid in with reference to whether in cash, in property, or in services; and, finally, consideration of the safest and most convenient method to be adopted by the corporation so that it can sell a portion of its capital stock at less than par, if necessary, for the procuring of working capital for the corporation; and this, too, without subjecting the purchasers of such stock to any liability to creditors for alleged unpaid stock subscriptions thereon.

It appears that in certain of the States, notably South Dakota and Tennessee, it is not necessary that any of the capital stock be either subscribed or paid in, in order that the corporation may transact business.¹ In the several States provisions of the several incorporation acts in force therein differ greatly in regard to the matter of the time within which capital stock must be paid in. New York requires that half of the authorized capital be paid in within one year; Missouri, fifty per cent thereof immediately; Maryland, one-fourth of the capital must be paid in each year; in Indiana, manufacturing corporations must pay in all their capital within eighteen months. Twenty of the States require a certain percentage of the capital to be paid in, in order to commence business; while in twenty-five a certain percentage of the authorized capital must be subscribed. As a general rule the effect of the provisions of law here referred to when they are not complied with has been held not to affect the existence of a corporation as a corporation de jure, but merely afford ground for a judgment of ouster in a proper action brought by the State for that purpose.¹

Sometimes the statutes go further and require certificates as to the payment of the capital stock to be filed in designated offices.²

§ 101. Manner of Payment of Capital Stock.— Probably no subject of corporation law is more involved in apparently hopeless confusion than that growing out of the question of the payment of capital stock of corporations where the rights not only of stockholders, but creditors as well, are involved. Frequent attempts have been made from time to time by both State legislatures and the courts looking to the enactment or declaration of rules which will remove the question from its present vague and unsatisfactory form into the realm of certainty and security. It may not be without its practical value to trace here the sporadic development of the various doctrines that have been advanced from time to time relative to both how the capital stock of a corporation may be paid in, and when so paid in whether the valuation placed upon the property accepted by the corporation in exchange for stock, shall be conclusive alike upon stockholders and creditors. The common law rule with reference to the manner of payment of the capital stock of a corporation appears to have been from time immemorial that it must have been paid for either in money or money's worth.³ In this country such a rule seems to have obtained at an early date. Even when required, by constitutional provision or statute, that stock should be paid for in cash, nevertheless the courts early adopted the view that the same might be paid for in money or money's worth. Otherwise it would simply put the corporation to the necessity of issuing stock in the first instance for money, and then ordering it to be immediately paid out for necessary labor, property, or services.⁴

The next step in order of development was the enactment of either constitutional or statutory provisions expressly authorizing the payment of stock of corporations in money, property, or services. Later came a wave of constitutional enactments mainly confined to the Western States, to the effect "that no corporation should issue stock except for money, labor done, or property actually received, and declaring that all fictitious increase of stock should be void." In early times, when the number of corporations formed were few in number, and their charters limited to a few purposes, the courts were seldom called upon to determine whether or not capital stock had been actually paid in in accordance with law,—this for the reason that in most cases the mode of payment of such stock had been in cash. However, early in the nineteenth century the question became a vital one through the not infrequent attempts on the part of certain corporations to pay for their stock in property taken at a valuation which in the opinion of many was largely fictitious if not fraudulent. When such corporations became insolvent, creditors, and sometimes before that time stockholders, brought the question in its practical form before the courts as to whether such valuation were binding not only upon the corporation, but upon its creditors as well. It was such a case which led Justice Joseph Story in 1824 to give utterance to the famous "trust fund doctrine" to the effect that the capital stock of a corporation is to be regarded at all times as a fund held in trust by the corporation for the benefit of its creditors.¹

In its practical application the trust fund doctrine was found to be an instrument of injustice rather than of justice. Besides this it had never received the sanction of the common law, as it existed in England before the Revolution, and had not in its last analysis any right to demand recognition on the broad basis laid down for it by its founder. By degrees the majority of the courts refused to recognize the trust fund doctrine, at least in its original form, and declared upon the only safe ground, which was that stockholders should only be held liable to creditors on stock issued in exchange for property, upon the ground of fraud.² At the same time the courts divided upon the question whether in the appraisal of property taken in exchange for capital stock corporations should be required to appraise such property at its true value without regard to the intention of the parties upon whom the duty of making such appraisal was imposed, or whether they should treat all such appraisals as conclusive upon both the corporation and creditors when made in good faith and where no actual fraud appeared in the transaction. At this time, too, the courts almost universally decided to distinguish in this regard between the rights of the corporation and its stockholders on the one hand and the rights of creditors on the other. Such a distinction as is here referred to was evidenced by the adoption of the rule now recognized everywhere that a valuation placed upon stock by the corporation may be valid and binding upon the corporation and its stockholders and yet not conclusive as against creditors.¹

The doctrine here referred to is well stated by Judge Showalter in a Federal case as follows :²

“Whatsoever may have been in fact the value of the property turned over to the company for its stock, the latter agreed to take it for the stock. The persons interested were the stockholders, and there was no dissent on the part of any person concerned in what was thus done. Neither any person thus holding stock nor any person who afterwards became a stockholder by assignment from one who then held stock can now make complaint on behalf of the corporation against the lawfulness of that transaction. This I take to be the settled law on that subject.”

The next evolutionary step is to be found in the recognition by both the legislatures and courts of a number of the Commonwealths of the unsatisfactory results attending the application of not only the narrow and falsely conceived “true value rule” above referred to, but that of the “good faith rule” as well. It was clearly seen that something further was needed in order to remove the subject for all time from its situation of uncertainty and doubt. Both the legislatures and the courts of these Commonwealths undertook to remedy the matter, with what success it will hereafter appear. Certain of the States, such as New Jersey, New York, Delaware, West Virginia, Connecticut, and others, enacted statutes providing in substance that in those cases where corporations attempted to issue their capital stock as fully paid in exchange for property, the valuations placed upon such property by the board of directors thereof should, in the absence of actual fraud or gross overvaluation, be conclusive in the premises. Again, other States sought to remedy the evil in a surer, if less generally satisfactory form. Thus, for example, Michigan, Virginia, Florida, and other States have acts upon their statute books requiring a description of the property which they desire to accept in exchange for their capital stock to be submitted to State officials in order that the valuation placed upon such property by the corporation may be approved by such State officials before the stock can be issued; the act further generally providing that after such appraisal has been approved by the State officials, it should be conclusive in the premises.

Turning now to the efforts of the court on their part to remedy the evil above referred to, the following may be said. Without in terms adopting what is hereinafter referred to as the "speculative value rule" the courts in recent years have often recognized, in connection with attempts on the part of corporations to issue stock as full paid in exchange for property, the distinction that clearly obtains between property which has either a well-known or easily ascertained market value and that other species of property of the character commonly known as "speculative," which without any present large intrinsic value, possesses nevertheless in almost every instance a large value for future speculative purposes, not determinable, however, by the ordinary market value standards. Such a rule, when generally recognized, will have the effect in law of practically dividing corporations into two great classes with respect to the question of issuing stock thereof in exchange for property, to wit, non-speculative and speculative corporations.

On the subject now before us certain portions of the able report of the Massachusetts legislative committee on corporations rendered in 1903, is so peculiarly instructive and appropriate that we venture to quote the following extract therefrom:

"The history of corporations, as well as the logic of the case, shows that there are possible two general theories as to the State's duty in creating corporations: first, the old theory that, being creatures of the State, they should be guaranteed by it to the public in all particulars of responsibility and management; and the modern quite opposite theory that, in the absence of fraud in its organization or government, an ordinary business corporation should be allowed to do anything that an individual may do. Under the old theory, the capital stock of a corporation was, in the law, considered to be a guarantee fund for the payment of creditors, as well as affording a method of conveniently measuring the interests of the individual owners of a corporate enterprise. There resulted from this principle not only the fundamental proposition that the capital stock, being in the nature of a guarantee fund, should be paid up at its full par in actual cash, but all the other provisions to protect creditors or other persons having dealings with the corporation: such as, that the debts of a corporation should not exceed its capital stock, designed primarily in the interest of creditors and secondarily in that of the stockholders, who were looked after as carefully as if they were the wards of the State when dealing in corporation matters. Under the modern theory the State owes no duty to persons who may choose to deal with corporations, to look after the solvency of such artificial bodies; nor to stockholders, to protect them from the consequences of going into such concerns, the idea being that in the case of ordinary business corporations the State's duty ends in providing clearly that creditors and stockholders shall at all times be precisely informed of all the facts attending both the organization and the management of such corporations, and particularly that there should be full publicity given to all details of the original organization thereof.

"The committee has had little hesitation in determining which of these theories it should adopt. The limit of capitalization both in amount and in valuation to the net tangible assets of the corporation has unquestionably had much to do with the arrest of corporate growth in this Commonwealth. Good-will, trade-marks, patents may unquestionably be valuable assets, which, under our present method, may not be capitalized. Admirable as this theory may have been, of payment of capital stock in full in cash, the condition is so easily avoided in practice that the result is that our existing law promises a protection which, in reality, it does not afford, and is merely an embarrassment to those who feel obliged to comply not only with the letter but with the spirit of the law. It is no longer true that persons dealing with corporations rely upon the State laws to guarantee their solvency or their proper management. The attempts of the Commonwealth to do so by laws still remaining on its statute books result, as we apprehend, only in a false sense of security; and we believe that the act proposed, while giving up the attempt to do the impossible thing, will really, by its greater attention to the details of organization required to be made public by all corporations, result in an advantage to stockholders and creditors more substantial than the present partial attempt to enforce a principle impossible of complete realization and which is, under existing laws, easily evaded.

“It is impossible to reconcile or combine the two systems. Either the old theory must be maintained, under which the State attempts though vainly to guarantee both to stockholders and creditors that there is one hundred dollars of actual value behind each one hundred dollars of par value of capital stock, or some other system must be adopted which, while not being chargeable with the vagueness and laxity of the newer legislation of other States, will permit a share of capital stock, although nominally one hundred dollars in value, to represent, as the word implies, only a certain share or proportion, which may be more or less than par, of whatever net assets the corporation may prove to have. Under a system of this sort the State machinery will only provide that the stockholders and, perhaps, the creditors, may at all times have access to the corporation records or returns in such manner as clearly to show, both at organization and thereafter, all of the property or assets of which such share of capital stock actually represents its proportion of ownership.

“The question of monopoly the committee does not conceive to have been left to its consideration. The limitations now existing on the capitalization of business corporations are, no doubt, attributable to the sentiment which has always existed against monopoly, but it is clearly the policy of the Commonwealth, as shown in its recent legislation, to do away with the attempt to prevent large corporations, simply because they are large. Moreover, it is apprehended that the question of monopoly, or rather of the abuse of the power of large corporations, does not result necessarily from the size of corporations engaged in business throughout the United States. In the opinion of the committee, some confusion has been created, in the discussion of the form of so-called trust legislation, by a failure to appreciate that its real object is not to protect the investor, who can or should learn to take care of himself, or the creditor who has already learned to do so. The real purpose of such legislation is the protection of the consumer. In other words, there is no reason for an arbitrary limitation of capitalization unless it can be used as a means of creating a monopoly which will influence the price of commodities. In the opinion of the committee, the question of capitalization is not a contributing factor in the fight for a monopoly. The United States Steel Company would have no greater and no less a monopoly of the steel business if it were organized with one-half of its present capitalization. The Standard Oil Company has a very conservative capitalization, and yet it is the most complete monopoly of any industrial corporation in this country.

“At all events, it is no better for the State to leave its citizens at the mercy of the large corporations created by other less careful sovereignties, than to permit the organization of corporations adequate to the demands of modern business under its own laws, subject to its own more careful regulation and control. Under our State and Federal system it is practically impossible for any one State, by its own laws, to control foreign corporations, but so far as possible at present the committee has sought to subject them to the same safeguards of reasonable publicity and accurate returns, both as to organization and annual condition, as the State requires of its own corporations. The simple requirement of an annual excise tax, based on the capitalization of such foreign corporations, will serve to bring them under the control of this State, and the way will be open for their further regulation if desirable. This annual tax has been levied upon the same principle as the corresponding tax paid by home corporations. The State should impose no greater burden on foreign corporations than on its own, but should, so far as possible, subject them to its own laws.

“The committee would repeat its opinion that, so far as purely business corporations are concerned, and excluding insurance, financial, and public service corporations, the State cannot assume to act, directly or indirectly, as guarantor or sponsor for any organization under corporate form. It can and should require, for itself and for the use of all persons interested in the corporation, the fullest and most detailed information, consistent with practical business methods, as to the details of its organization, the powers and restrictions imposed upon its stockholders, and as to the property against which stock is to be or has been issued.

“Capital stock may be paid for in cash or by property. If it is paid for in cash, it may be paid for in full or by instalments, and a machinery has been created for protecting the corporation against the failure of the subscribers to stock to pay the balance of their subscriptions. If stock is paid for by property, the incorporators and not the State are to pass upon its value. Before any stock, however, can be issued for property, a description of the property sufficient for purposes of identification, to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Corporations, must be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. This document becomes a public record, and may be consulted by any one interested in the corporation. If the officers of a corporation make a return which is false and which is known to be false, they are liable to any one injured for actual damages. If a full and honest description is made of property against which stock is issued, a stockholder cannot complain because of his failure to inform himself by personal examination or investigation of the value of the property in which he is, or contemplates becoming, an investor.

"The second principle upon which the committee has acted in its specific recommendations is this: that the State should permit the utmost freedom of self-regulation if it provides quick and effective machinery for the punishment of fraud, and gives to each stockholder the right to obtain the fullest information in regard to his own rights and privileges before and after he becomes the owner of stock."

§ 102. Payment of Capital Stock in Services. — The statutes of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Maine, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin expressly authorize the payment of stock in services. It sometimes becomes a question of importance to know just what is meant by "services" as used in this connection.¹ Frequently attempts are made to issue stock to persons gratuitously for the use of their name in the promotion of the corporation under the theory that permission to use their name is a proper service rendered to the company, against which stock may be issued. The current of authority seems to be against this proposition.²

Still again, the constitutional provision which exists in many of the States declaring all fictitious increase of stock void militates against such lines of procedure.³

Oftentimes an attempt is made to issue stock to promoters of corporations under what is known as "promotion stock." The promoters are usually the incorporators, and as such are not entitled to gifts of stock.⁴ However, if in the promotion of the company services and time have been employed, the same may be recompensed to the extent of the just value of such services.

§ 103. Payment of Capital Stock in Property. — In most of the Commonwealths statutes exist expressly authorizing the payment of capital stock of a corporation in property. Even in the absence of such statute stock may doubtless be issued in the same manner, provided the purchase of such property is within the express or implied powers conferred by the charter and the property is of such a character as to be suitable for the specific purpose for which the corporation was formed.¹ Some few of the States describe in considerable detail just what kinds or classes of property may be accepted by the corporation in exchange for its capital stock. The incorporation acts of Alabama, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, and New Jersey are particularly full in this regard. In the absence of such provisions corporations under the restrictions stated above may accept in payment of their capital stock all kinds of real and personal property having some monetary value, such as mining lands, gas lands, patent rights, secret formulæ, trade-marks, and the good will of an established business.²

The payment of capital stock may be made in notes, bonds, or mortgages in the absence of any statutory or charter prohibition.³ But as to creditors, if the notes, bonds, or mortgages should turn out to be worthless, the parties accepting such stock might be compelled to pay the par value of such stock in money.⁴ So it has been held that stock of a corporation may be paid for in advertising,⁵ in a license to take minerals from lands,⁶ and in stock in other corporations.⁷

In other words, capital stock of a corporation may be issued against any property which the corporation is authorized to purchase, or which is necessary for its legitimate business.⁸

One of the most frequent questions with which an attorney has to deal in connection with the organization of a corporation has reference to devising some safe method whereby stock may be legally issued in the first instance as full paid and non-assessable, to be thereafter sold below par if necessary for the purpose of procuring a working capital for the company. The main thing to be kept in mind in connection with the foregoing is to see that the stock is so issued that future purchasers thereof shall not be liable thereon either to the corporation or to creditors. This can be accomplished most satisfactorily in the following manner.

Have the corporation accept the proposition to issue its capital stock, either in whole or in part, against real or personal property to be thereafter duly conveyed or transferred to the corporation. Next the property so conveyed or transferred should be appraised at a valuation which will stand the test according to the character of the property so conveyed or transferred of either the good faith or the speculative value rules already referred to. The next step is for the party to whom such stock is issued to transfer such stock, either in whole or in part, back to the corporation under a trust agreement providing that the same shall be sold at such times and at such prices as to the board of directors of the corporation will seem advisable for the purpose of procuring the necessary working capital. Under such circumstances the stock so transferred, while originally issued at par, may be sold at the best price obtainable, and the purchasers will not incur liability beyond the agreed price even to subsequent creditors.¹ The same is true of stock that has been forfeited for non-payment of assessments.²

§ 104. Statement of True Value Rule. — In connection with the appraisal of property taken by a corporation in exchange for its capital stock, the courts have established various rules with a view to laying down some satisfactory principle upon which such appraisal may be based in those cases where creditors seek to enforce as against the holders of such stock an alleged liability for unpaid stock subscriptions. The various rules here referred to may be enumerated as follows: "the true value rule," "the good faith rule," and "the speculative value rule." It is to the first of these that our attention will now be directed.

What is known as "the true value rule" is a natural outgrowth of the adoption by many of the courts of the trust fund doctrine enunciated by Judge Story in Wood v. Dummer.³ This may be stated as follows: That the courts will not treat anything in the shape of property accepted by the corporation in exchange for its capital stock as payment thereof except to the extent of the true value of the property received, wholly without regard to the presence of fraud or the absence of good faith in the transaction.¹

Not only has the true value rule been adopted by many courts, irrespective of statute, but it has found legislative recognition as well. Thus the incorporation act of Alaska requires that such property shall be assessed at its true money value; that of Connecticut and Delaware, at its actual value; in Kentucky, at its market price; in North Dakota and South Carolina, at its true money value; in Tennessee and Utah, at its fair cash value, and Florida, at a just valuation. In Connecticut, Massachusetts, and North Dakota the necessity of making such appraisal according to the strict letter of the statute is very forcibly suggested by making the directors liable to all parties injured thereby in case they fail to make such appraisal as directed by the act. Statutory provisions which exist in so many of the States declaring all fictitious increase of stock void have been held by the courts not to make the validity of an over-issue of stock dependent upon the inquiry whether the money or property received therefor was of equal value in the market with the stock so issued, or to restrict private corporations acting without the approval of their stockholders in the sale of their stock for money, property, or labor done upon such terms as they might deem proper, provided always that the transaction is a real one, based upon present consideration, having reference to legitimate corporate purposes, and is not merely a device to evade the law and accomplish that which is forbidden.²

§ 105. Statement of Good Faith Rule.—As has already been observed in a previous section,³ the trust fund theory of Justice Story no longer obtains in a majority of the States. With the absence of any general recognition by the courts of this doctrine, there necessarily followed the abrogation of the true value rule, which was based largely upon the trust fund doctrine. In its place has appeared in many jurisdictions what is known as the "good faith rule." The true value rule in its practical application was harsh and unconscionable, was wholly in the interest of creditors, and made little account of the interests of equally innocent stockholders. The good faith rule, on the other hand, while often difficult of practical application, is much more liberal and fair to all concerned than the rule which it is now so rapidly supplanting. It may be stated as follows :

That where the governing statute authorizes the shares to be paid for in property instead of cash, or where the law of the State concedes this power, then the fact that they are so paid for at a fair valuation of the property, affords no ground of complaint to the creditors, provided such payment is made and accepted in good faith. In fact, in order to render the transaction void either gross over-valuation or actual fraud must be shown.¹

In order to obtain a clear understanding of the distinction that exists between the true value rule and the good faith rule, it is necessary to understand the reasons which actuated so many of the courts in repudiating in the first instance the trust fund doctrine in order to clear the way for the adoption by such courts of the good faith rule. Nowhere will be found a better statement of this matter than that presented by Justice William Mitchell of the Minnesota Supreme Court in the case of Hospes v. Northwestern Manufacturing Company.²

"It is difficult," said Justice Mitchell, "if not impossible, to explain or reconcile decisions and cases bearing upon the trust fund doctrine, or, in the light of them, to predicate the liability of the stockholder upon that doctrine. But by putting it upon the ground of fraud, and applying the old and familiar rules of law on that subject to the peculiar nature of a corporation and the relation which its stockholders bear to it and to the public, we have at once rational and logical ground on which to stand. The capital of a corporation is the basis of its credit. It is a substitute for the individual liability of those who own its stock. People deal with it and give it credit on the faith of it. They have a right to assume that it has paid in capital to the amount which it represents itself as having; and if they give it credit on the faith of that representation, and if the representation is false, it is a fraud upon them; and in case the corporation becomes insolvent the law, upon the plainest principles of common justice, says to the delinquent stockholder, 'Make that representation good by paying for your stock.' It certainly cannot require the invention of any new doctrine in order to enforce so familiar a rule of equity. It is the misrepresentation of fact in stating the amount of capital to be greater than it really is that is the true basis of the liability of the stockholders in such cases; and it follows that it is only those creditors who have relied, or who can fairly be presumed to have relied, upon the professed amount of capital, in whose favor the law will recognize and enforce an equity against the holders of 'bonus stock.' This furnishes a rational and uniform rule, to which familiar principles are easily applied, and which frees the subject from many of the difficulties and apparent inconsistencies into which the 'trust-fund' doctrine has involved it; and we think that even when the 'trust fund' doctrine has been invoked the decision in almost every well-considered case is readily referable to such a rule."

Another statement of the good faith rule is to be found in Kelley v. Company,¹ to the following effect: If the nature of the property and the extent of the valuation are such that the latter might have been due to errors of judgment, then to render the transaction invalid as against creditors actual fraud must be shown, and the question is one of fact. On the other hand, if the over-valuation is so gross that it could not have been due to mere errors of judgment, the transaction will be held fraudulent as a matter of law.²

§ 106. Statement of "Speculative Value Rule."—It must be admitted that neither the "true value rule" nor the "good faith rule" affords a satisfactory basis for determining all questions that may arise relative to the issuance of the capital stock of a corporation as full-paid and non-assessable in exchange for property transferred to it. In practice, neither the inequitable "true value rule" nor the fairer "good faith rule" will be found to rest on any satisfactory or substantial basis. Of late years, without in terms calling it by that particular name, courts of high repute have in substance adopted what will be termed here the "speculative value rule." This may be defined as that rule whereby a corporation is permitted, in issuing its capital stock as full paid and non-assessable in exchange for either real or personal property, to appraise the latter at its potential speculative value, looking towards its future development rather than at its present intrinsic value. The statement of the rule would be incomplete without adding that in all cases where such appraisal is questioned, the burden of proof of attacking the same is upon the creditor.

The rule in its practical application throws upon the creditor the burden of showing that, viewed from a purely speculative standpoint, the appraisal made by the corporation of such property constituted not merely an over-valuation, but a fraudulent over-valuation as well. Before attempting to discuss at length the "speculative value rule," as stated above, it might not be without its advantage to trace briefly those evolutionary steps along legal lines which appear to have paved the way for a fuller recognition on the part of the courts of the rule here contended for. In the first place, we have the enunciation by Justice Story, in 1824, of the now all but moribund "trust fund doctrine" already referred to.¹ Then ensued a period of years when the courts, one after another, proceeded to adopt the doctrine just mentioned, although it was unknown to the common law. Gradually, however, it came to be recognized that the trust fund theory was wrong in principle as well as inequitable, leading in its practical operations to harsh and unconscionable results. This gradually led to the adoption by many courts of a better and more enlightened doctrine which predicated the liability of stockholders to creditors, not upon the trust fund doctrine, but upon the sounder ground of fraud.²

² See statement of this doctrine by

This was followed by the enunciation on the part of certain courts of several important rules governing the question of the burden of proof in cases where attempts were made by creditors to enforce an alleged stockholder's liability, on the ground that the property against which such stock had been issued had been grossly over-valued. A fair presentation of the rules here referred to may be found in the opinion of the Supreme Court of Minnesota, in Hastings Malting Co. v. Iron Range Brewing Co.,¹ reading as follows:

"In principle it can make no difference whether the stock issued as paid up is bonus stock, pure and simple, or whether it was sold for cash for less than its par value, or for property at a gross over-valuation. In the first two cases the question of fraud would be one of law, for on the issuing by the corporation of its stock as paid and its acceptance by the stockholders when in fact nothing was ever paid for it, or where a sum of money less than its par value was paid and accepted for it, there is no opportunity for a mistake of judgment; the law in such cases presumes an intention to defraud. Ordinarily, however, the question is one of fact.

"Upon principle and authority a corporation may in good faith issue paid up shares of its stock for the purchase of property at a fair valuation, and in such case the corporation and its creditors are bound by it.

"In the practical application of the rule it must be kept in mind that fraud, actual or constructive, is the basis of the stockholders' liability to the creditor. On the one hand, the value of the property is to be determined, not from subsequent events, but as of the time of the transaction, and from the nature, situation, and condition of the property as they honestly appeared to the parties at the time. Although there was in fact an over-valuation of the property, it will not render the stockholders liable for the deficiency if it was the result of an honest mistake or error of judgment. On the other hand, where the nature and condition of the property are such that its value is well known and understood, or is capable of being readily estimated and ascertained, and the property is transferred to the corporation at a gross over-valuation for paid-up shares, the transfer is prima facie fraudulent as to subsequent creditors, and as against them the burden is upon the shareholders to rebut the presumption."

It is a principle of law universally recognized that, except in cases of trust relationships, the burden of proof in all cases relative to proof of fraud is cast upon the party who alleges that such fraud exists.¹

By no stretch of the imagination can the relationship that exists between creditors of a corporation and the corporation itself be termed a "trust relationship." The relation is neither confidential nor fiduciary, as the same is construed by the courts.² There is no more reason for treating this relationship as one of trust than there is in the case of ordinary creditors and debtors. It was doubtless, however, as a sort of concession to the fanciful trust fund doctrine of Justice Story, that there early appeared a tendency, upon the part of certain courts, to engraft thereon the absurd principle that, where the board of directors of a corporation have duly appraised in the first instance property taken by the latter in exchange for its capital stock, the rule should obtain that where such property has a well known or easily ascertained value, and is taken at a valuation which to the court seems greatly in excess of its real value, then in such cases it will be presumed that such valuation is not made in good faith, but is made for a fraudulent purpose. To overcome this presumption the burden is upon the stockholders to introduce satisfactory evidence explanatory of this presumptively fraudulent over-valuation. Some courts even went further, and asserted that where the over-valuation was so great that the fraudulent intention appeared on its face and it is not explained, it should be held fraudulent as a matter of law, without submitting the question to a jury.

These drastic rules had full sway for a number of years, until certain of the courts saw fit to modify their rigor to no inconsiderable extent. Then the rule was enunciated that where stock has been paid for either in property or services, although it appears that there was an over-valuation in appraising the same, yet if it appears to the court not to be so gross and unconscionable as to compel it to say, as a matter of law, that it must have been intentional, it will be presumed that the valuation was honestly made, and the burden of attacking the same will be upon the creditors who seek to hold the stockholders upon an alleged stockholders' liability for unpaid stock subscriptions.³

So much, then, for the historical development of the various doctrines relative to the subject matter now before us. Turning again to consider the "speculative value rule," the same must be looked at from two separate and distinct standpoints, to wit: (1) as dividing all properties which a corporation proposes to take over in exchange for its capital stock into two broad and well-defined classes, known respectively as "speculative" and "non-speculative" properties; (2) as establishing a rule for appraising the value of speculative properties based not upon the intrinsic value of the same, but rather upon their availability for purposes of speculation, looking towards an enhancement of their present value by the future expenditure of funds in the development thereof.

Let us now turn our attention to the classification of properties above referred to designated as "speculative" and "non-speculative." "Speculative" properties may be defined as those whose nature is such that they have not only a present intrinsic value, but a considerable potential value as well, speculative in its nature, and dependent upon future development in order to arrive at a definite estimation as to the amount thereof. Non-speculative properties, on the other hand, are those whose intrinsic worth alone gives them a market value or a value which can be easily ascertained by reference to well-recognized standards of value. In the first class of properties might be enumerated mining rights, patent rights, oil and gas lands, secret processes and trade secrets, patent medicines, etc. In the second class might be named real estate to be employed for business, dwelling, farming, and grazing purposes, stock in trade and personal property which is the common subject of bargain and sale between man and man at current prices, determined by the law of supply and demand. In the opinion of the Supreme Court of Minnesota, in Hastings Malting Company v. Iron Range Brewing Company, cited above, it will be noted that the rule that is to be applied in those cases where the nature and condition of the property are such that its value is well known or understood, or is capable of being readily estimated and ascertained, is clearly stated. The opinion, however, fails to state with equal clearness the rule that is to be applied where the value of the property is not of the character just described, but is of that type herein referred to as "speculative," having no present or well-known readily ascertained value, but depending entirely upon future development in order to determine what such value may be. By implication only is the true rule in such cases suggested by the Minnesota court. However, in Kelly v. Clark,¹ the Montana Supreme Court in effect declares the rule in such cases to be that where the property is speculative in character, and as such the alleged over-valuation thereof may have been possibly due to errors in judgment, then the burden of proof is upon the creditors seeking to attack the valuation by showing actual fraud in the transaction.

Let us turn now to the question as to how the valuation of speculative properties is to be ascertained. Generally speaking, the rule to be adopted is this: "What, under all the circumstances, considering the proposed use to which it is to be put, and the general purpose for which the corporation was created, is the fair value of the property against which its capital stock is to be issued?"² In this age of speculative enterprises it is a matter of common knowledge that the value of properties taken over by corporations about to embark in speculative enterprises is dependent almost wholly upon their availability for the purpose in hand and upon the promise which external appearances give them as to their having a large and considerable potential value. Thus, for example, sixty square feet of land may have a very small intrinsic value when considered as farming, grazing, or residence property, and yet possess an immense potential value when treated as mining property. It is the expectation of success which induces investors to put their money into such enterprises, and which justifies a valuation far in excess of the property's intrinsic value. Such valuations, it must be admitted, are necessarily arbitrary in character. This fact the legislatures in many States have recognized, and the courts should not hesitate to do the same.³

The value of property which is transferred to the corporation is also not to be estimated by what it cost the promoter. It is the speculative and experimental results which afford a basis for the large valuation. By value in such cases is meant the speculative value for the uses and purposes of the company in its proposed speculative enterprise, and not the actual market value or the actual intrinsic value thereof at the time the properties are taken over by the company.

The view of the matter here presented was first suggested, it is believed, by the United States Circuit Court many years ago in the case of the South Mountain Consolidated Mining Co.¹ At the trial below in this case the court spoke as follows :

“The mode in which mining companies are formed is familiar to all. The owners of the property, or persons expecting to become such, by complying with a few simple formalities form themselves into a corporation, to which the property is conveyed. The amount of capital stock which is required to be stated in the certificate of incorporation is usually fixed at a purely arbitrary sum, and divided into as many shares as convenience or caprice may dictate. It neither bears nor is intended nor supposed by the public to bear the slightest relation to the real value of the property — a value nearly always conjectural and very often imaginary.”

In this same case on appeal the court observed as follows :²

“The mode of forming mining corporations is well known to any body. A prospector finds, as he supposes, a valuable mine. It requires capital to work it which he does not possess. He goes to the money and business centres, where he finds capitalists accustomed to organize corporations for the development of new mines, and makes such arrangements as he can. He presents such evidence of the value of his mine as he has obtained. Little is known of the real value. It may be worth nothing and it may be worth millions. Parties are found willing to take hold of the enterprise. They agree to incorporate and fix the capital stock at some purely nominal amount, and divide it into a certain number of shares, corresponding to the amount of capital adopted. The owner of the mine, for an agreed number of shares and in consideration of the promises of the other parties to assist in the development of the mine, conveys the mine and receives for it the amount of stock agreed upon. The other parties, for their services in organizing and managing the company and its business, receive a large portion of the stock, this being usually a considerable amount of stock reserved by the company, which is put upon the market and sold for such price as can be obtained, to raise a fund to secure machinery and develop the mine. The price of this stock is of course determined by the prospect of the mine, its location, and its probable richness, and the confidence of the public reposed in the experience, ability, and character of those having the management. Mining corporations are sui generis. They are organized and carried on upon principles wholly different from banking, railroad, insurance, and ordinary commercial corporations having a subscribed capital stock."¹

But nowhere is the speculative element in the valuation of property better considered than by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in the case of *Iron Co. et al. v. Hays et al.*² The facts in this case briefly stated are as follows :

A corporation was organized by two co-partners to take over certain lands owned or leased by them and believed to contain gas and oil. They capitalized the company for $500,000, and issued the whole of its capital stock to themselves against the properties above referred to. These latter had an intrinsic value representing but a very small percentage of the capitalization of the company. The incorporators retained $175,000 of the capital stock of the corporation for their own benefit, and transferred the balance to the corporation in trust to be sold by the board of directors thereof for the purpose of procuring working capital for the corporation. Later on, the lands proved to be practically worthless, and the company became insolvent, and creditors thereof sued the stockholders, alleging that the stock held by them had not been fully paid for. In passing upon the various legal questions involved, the court spoke as follows :

"Attention should be called first to the method of organization, to the facts showing the situation of the parties, the necessity for obtaining corporate powers, and the provision made for a working capital with which to enter upon the proposed corporate enterprise.

"The corporators had been partners. As such they had been engaged in procuring leases and drilling wells in search for oil. In their search they had not been successful, but two of the wells drilled by them proved to be valuable gas wells. This, taken in connection with other developments in the same general region, was well calculated to induce the belief that they were the possessors of a large and valuable gas territory that should be promptly developed and utilized or its value would steadily decline by reason of drainage from the operation of others. They could not utilize their gas without transporting it to a market. They could not transport it to advantage except as a natural gas company possessing the powers conferred by law. This determined them to organize a corporation for the production and transportation of natural gas and to transfer their gas wells and leases to the corporation. When this had been decided on, the first question to present itself was, how shall the partnership convey its property to the corporation so as to secure to its members the same relative interest in the stock of the corporation they now have in the partnership property? The next question was, how shall we secure the necessary working capital to enable the corporation to go forward with the work of producing, transporting, and selling natural gas? In a general way these questions were answered by the adoption of the scheme already referred to. The value of the properties held by the firm was set down at $175,000, the working capital needed at $325,000. To meet both purposes the capital stock of the corporation was fixed at $500,000. It was all to be issued as paid up stock in exchange for the property conveyed to the corporation, subject to the agreement that all except $175,000 thereof was to be contributed to the treasury to be sold as a means of raising the money needed for a working capital. . . .

"In what respect, then, have the defendant stockholders failed in the performance of their undertaking to the corporation? The scheme was to turn over all the gas wells, leases, etc. to the corporation for $175,000, and provide it with the means of prosecuting the gas business by putting into its treasury paid up stock, or what should be sold as paid up stock, to the amount of $325,000 more. . . .

"The court below found 'that the facts in evidence, connected with the fact that within a few months it was demonstrated that the property was of very small value, threw on the stockholders the burden of showing clearly that the sale from themselves to themselves was in good faith on a reasonable belief in the value of the property.' But what has the fact that, after some months spent in development of their territory, the corporation found itself disappointed in its productiveness and a heavy loser in consequence, to do with the good faith of their purchase or the reasonableness of the price?

"These are to be judged of by the facts before them when the arrangement was made. The character of the gas wells already opened, the extent of the territory covered by the leases, its relation to other developments, its nearness to an adequate market, and the probable duration of the supply within reach, were the considerations that would affect the judgment of buyers and sellers and of the business public as to its value. The subsequent disappointment must therefore be left out of the case, and the transaction examined in the light in which it was seen when the arrangement was entered into. When this is done and the absence of any suggestion or finding of fraud is remembered, it is not easy to see what there is in the case to shift the burden of proof or to require the stockholders to establish the good faith of the transaction which the plaintiffs have not attacked. The action proceeds on the theory that the subscriptions to the capital stock are wholly unpaid. The proofs show that they were paid exactly in accordance with the agreement, and that this payment had been recognized by the corporation from the first. The decree, as finally made, seems to rest on the conclusion that although paid they were paid in property which was taken at too high a price. It is true that no such thing was alleged in the bill or shown in the proofs, but if the value of the property is to be determined in the light of subsequent events, a light which the parties did not have when this sale was arranged, the conclusion of the court below would be reasonable. The trouble with it, however, is, that it rests on the intrinsic value of the property as ascertained by actual developments made after the sale, while the real question relates to the apparent value as indicated by the circumstances existing at the time of the sale. . . .

"We should agree with the court below that the property was sold at more than its actual value, if that value was to be determined by subsequent results rather than by prospects as they appeared at the time of sale. But if the parties were mistaken in relation to its value, we do not see how, in the absence of any averment of fraud in the transaction, the sale can be disregarded and the subscriptions to the capital stock treated as unpaid. The proofs show that they were paid exactly in accordance with the agreement under which they were made, and until that agreement is attacked as fraudulent, the creditors stand in no better position than the corporation itself. The decree is reversed so far as it requires payment of the stock subscriptions or any part thereof."¹

So much, then, for the question as to the proper basis for appraising property of a speculative character when the same is transferred to the corporation in exchange for its capital stock. Let us add a few more words to what was said in the foregoing opinion relative to the question as to where the burden of proof lies in such cases, when the valuation placed upon the property is impeached by creditors who seek to enforce an alleged stockholder's liability for unpaid stock subscriptions. Let us note in this connection, first, the statement of the law made by the Court of Appeals of Maryland in Brandt v. Ehlen,² where the court observed "we take the law to be well settled, that a company may receive, in payment of the shares of its capital stock, any property which it may lawfully purchase. So long as the transaction stands unimpeached for fraud, the courts will treat as a payment that which the parties shall agree to be a payment, and this too in cases where the rights of creditors are involved." The Supreme Court of Massachusetts in a recent case¹ observed that it appears to be well settled that in the absence of fraud an agreement can ordinarily be made by which stockholders can be allowed to pay for their shares in patents, mines, or other property to which it is not easy to assign a determinate value. At least, one court of high authority has adopted the rule that where one becomes a creditor of a corporation knowing the manner in which its stock has been paid, he is deemed to waive his right to assert that there has been an over-valuation of the property against which the corporation issued its stock.² It is to go but a step forward to say that in the case of corporations engaged in speculative enterprises it is a matter of common knowledge that shares are to be paid for in property appraised at its potential rather than its present intrinsic value, and that therefore the rule stated above should obtain, even in the absence of actual knowledge on the part of creditors as to the manner in which the capital stock of the corporation had been issued. Again, where stock has been paid for by the conveyance of property to a corporation of the character known as "speculative" and upon which a valuation has been placed, — not its present intrinsic value, but rather its prospective value after development thereof, — then in such cases the courts should presume that the valuation was honestly made and place the burden upon the creditor of attacking the transfer.³

The ordinary practice, as has been observed, is for corporations engaged in non-speculative enterprises to issue stock for property which has a well-recognized market value or one which can be easily ascertained. In regard to such corporations, where the nature and condition of its property is such that its value is well known or understood or is capable of being readily estimated and ascertained, and the same is transferred to the corporation at a gross over-valuation for paid up shares, it would unquestionably be proper for courts to treat such transactions as presumptively fraudulent, and to place the burden of proof upon the stockholders in such cases to rebut such presumption by clear and satisfactory proof. On the other hand, where the corporation is engaged in speculative enterprises of the character above referred to, and stock is issued against property accepted by the corporation at a valuation not based upon the present intrinsic value of the same, but avowedly (as is the universal custom) at its potential speculative value (to be determined after development thereof by the corporation which has acquired the property), then the practical attitude for the courts to take in such cases would be to adopt what is termed here the "speculative value rule," and to attach to the valuation placed by the corporation upon such property the presumption that it was honestly made, and place the burden of proof in such cases upon the creditor attacking the transaction. In practical operation it will be found that the shifting of the burden of proof would be equivalent in nearly all cases to making the valuation placed upon the property in any case, whether speculative or non-speculative in character, conclusive respectively upon the stockholders and the creditors. The reason of this is that in the case of non-speculative properties it is easy to demonstrate that the same has been grossly overvalued; as, for example, by showing the market value of the same. Again, in the case of speculative enterprises the same is true for the reason that the valuation placed upon the properties from a speculative standpoint, if honest and fair, would be such as to render it practically impossible as a matter of proof to show that such valuation was fraudulent or grossly overvalued, — this for the reason that in every such case it will be found that there exists an immense margin for honest difference of opinion, and although it may appear that there were serious errors of judgment, nevertheless it will be found in practice that such valuations should not and will not be set aside except for actual fraud.

It is the recognition of the necessity of shifting the burden of proof according to whether the property against which stock is issued is speculative in character or not, which, in connection with the basis of appraisal already referred to, affords a practical basis for the operation of the speculative value rule. Finally, the following may be said:

Upon principle and in the interest of justice both to the stockholders and creditors alike, in determining the question whether stock has been in fact fully paid, the line should be drawn with the utmost clearness and distinctness between ordinary corporations such as trading, mercantile, banking, insurance, etc., whose capital stock is formally subscribed for and ordinarily paid in in cash or in real and personal property having a well-recognized or easily established market value on the one hand, and those corporations on the other hand incorporated for the express and avowed purpose of engaging in speculative enterprises — such, for example, as corporations organized to take over mining properties, oil and gas lands, patent and patent rights, secret processes, concessions, franchises, etc. In this era of speculative enterprises the courts can no longer remain blind to the fact that the stock of such corporations is not intended by the incorporators or understood by the creditors or the public generally to represent anything but certain property having a speculative value, which may or may not ultimately prove to be worth the par value of the stock against which the latter has been issued. The credit obtained by such corporations concerning which the courts have in the past displayed such intense solicitude in the interest of creditors to the exclusion of the interests of equally meritorious stockholders, is seldom, if ever, extended to the corporation without full knowledge on the part of creditors as to the nature of the assets of the corporation, or as to the manner in which the stock has been issued in exchange for property of a speculative value.

§ 107. Effect of Appraisal of Property by Directors under Statutory Authority, when taken in Exchange for Stock. — The incorporation acts of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Montana, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia all contain provisions relating to the effect of appraisal of property by directors when taken by the corporation in exchange for its capital stock. The provisions of the New Jersey act may be given as an example of such legislation. The statute referred to reads as follows : ¹

“ Any corporation formed under this act may purchase mines, manufactories, or other property necessary for its business or the stock of another company or companies owning a mine, manufactory, or producing mills or other property necessary for its business, and issue stock to the amount of the value thereof, in payment therefor, and the stock so issued shall be full-paid stock and not liable to any further call, nor shall the holder thereof be liable for any further payments under any of the provisions of this act, and in the absence of actual fraud in the transaction the judgment of the directors as to the value of the property purchased shall be conclusive."

In commenting upon the foregoing section in the case of Donald v. American Smelting & Refining Co.,¹ the court spoke as follows:

"The distinction between the contemplated issue of corporate stock for property and its issue for money lies not in the rule for valuation, but in the fact that different estimates may be formed of the value of property. When such differences are brought before judicial tribunals, the judgment of those who are by law entrusted with the power of issuing stock to the amount of the value of the property, and upon whom therefore is placed the first duty of valuing the property, may be accorded considerable weight. But it cannot be deemed conclusive when duly subjected to judicial scrutiny, nor is it necessary that conscious over-valuation or any form of fraudulent conduct on the part of its primary valuers should be shown to justify judicial interposition. Their honest judgment, if reached without due examination of the elements of value, or if based in part upon an estimate of matters which really are not property, or if plainly weighed by self-interest, may lead to a violation of the statutory rule as surely as would corrupt motives. The original issue of corporate stock is a special function in the exercise of which the legislature has fixed the standard to be observed, and it is the duty of the courts, so far as their jurisdiction extends, to see that this standard is not violated either intentionally or unintentionally. When corporate stock has once been issued for property purchased, then the legislature has directed the application of a different rule. In the words of the statute, 'the stock so issued shall be full-paid stock, and not liable to any further call, neither shall the holder thereof be liable for any further payment under the provisions of this act; and in the absence of actual fraud in the transaction the judgment of the directors as to the value of the property purchased shall be conclusive. Under these provisions, after the property has been purchased and the stock issued therefor, nothing short of actual fraud in the transaction can impair the right of the holder to hold his stock as full-paid stock, free from further call.'"²

§ 108. Effect of Appraisal of Value of Property by State Officials when the same is taken by Corporations in Exchange for their Capital Stock. — Owing to the conflicting decisions of the courts of the various States relative to what does and what does not constitute as against creditors full payment of the capital stock of a corporation, attempts have been made by the legislatures of a number of the States to remedy this situation by means of statutory enactments. Such legislative enactments may be said to be indicative of the public policy of the State in that regard. The “public policy of the State,” as the term is used in this connection, frequently varies from time to time. In the absence of express statutes of the character here referred to, it has been said that it is not to be measured by the private combinations or notions of the persons who happen to be exercising judicial functions, but by reference to the enactments of the law-making power, and in the absence of them to the decisions of the courts. When, however, the legislature has spoken on a particular subject and within the limits of its special powers, its utterance then becomes the public policy of the State.¹ In view of the fact that the near future is likely to see many attempts by other legislatures to solve the question here referred to by the enactment of statutes governing the same, the matter now under consideration should receive careful attention.

It is a fair supposition to say that the passage of such acts in this country originated doubtless in a desire to transfer to this country certain sections of what is known as the “English Company’s Act of 1867.” Under the act just referred to, corporations which desired to accept property in exchange for their capital stock were required to register in a designated government office a description of the property against which any particular corporation proposed to issue its full-paid shares. The construction by the English courts put upon this section of the English Company’s Act does not seem to give to the legislative provision referred to the full effect which is claimed for such statutes in this country. In substance the holding of the English courts in this regard is as follows:

That where the property is so registered under the act it is not unlawful for the vendor to sell such property to the corporation in exchange for stock having a par value in excess of what the vendor paid for the property. That ordinarily the court will not in the interests of stockholders or creditors go behind the contract and inquire whether the consideration represents the full value against which the shares are issued unless the contract itself is impeached or the consideration on the face thereof appears to be insufficient or elusory.¹

Turning now to the statutory enactments in this country of the same character, they may be explained as follows: In Florida the incorporation act there in force provides that incorporators may provide in the charter that the capital stock, either in whole or in part, shall be payable in property, labor, or services, at a valuation fixed in the charter. The latter must also contain a general description of the property to be taken in exchange for stock. In Utah the statute is very similar to the one in force in Florida. In Massachusetts the articles of organization must set forth the amount of capital stock to be issued, the amount thereof to be paid for in cash, and the amount thereof to be paid for in property. If such property consists of real estate, its location and the amount of stock to be issued therefor must be stated. If any part of such property is personal, it must be described in detail. The whole matter is then submitted to and passed upon by the commissioners of corporations. But the statute makes no provision relative to what the legal effect thereof shall be as to creditors where the issuance of stock in exchange for property is approved by the commissioners of corporations.

Unquestionably the most effective statute in existence is to be found in the Michigan act,² which in prescribing the requisites of articles of incorporation reads in part as follows: "The amount of capital paid in at the time of executing the articles, which shall not be less than ten per cent of the authorized capital, etc. Such capital stock may be paid in either cash or in other property, real or personal; but where payment is made otherwise than in cash there shall be included in the articles an itemized description of the property in which such payment is made, with the valuation for which such item is taken, which valuation shall be conclusive in the absence of actual fraud."

² Session Laws of 1903, § 232.

The intent of the legislature would clearly appear to be to establish conclusively that the property received and accepted by the corporation under the authority of the State in exchange for its stock constituted a fair equivalent of the amount of stock so given. It would seem to forbid all claim of fraud thereafter to be made, and to establish the valuation as conclusive upon both stockholders and creditors.¹

§ 109. Meaning of Non-Assessable Stock. — In entering upon the subject of non-assessable stock as contrasted with full-paid stock the discussion of the former will be confined to questions arising between the corporation and its stockholders, while the latter will be discussed from the standpoint of the stockholder in his relation to creditors. It is unquestionably within the power of a corporation to agree with stockholders that stock shall be issued to them at less than par, and that when so issued shall not be subject to any further assessments on the part of the corporation.²

In West Virginia, Nevada, Wyoming, and other States this principle has found recognition in the incorporation acts in force in those Commonwealths. The West Virginia act will serve as a fair example. The law there provides in substance as follows: that upon the vote of three-fourths of the stockholders corporate stock may be sold or disposed of at less than par. The act then goes on to provide that nothing therein contained shall be construed as to prevent any mining or manufacturing company from issuing stock and negotiating the sale of the same in payment of real and personal estate for the use of the corporation at such price and upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon by the owners and directors or stockholders of the corporation, and any subscriber to the capital stock of any such corporation may pay for the same by the transfer and conveyance to such corporation of real or personal property upon such terms as may be mutually agreed upon. All stock so issued shall be full paid and not liable to any further call or assessment.

Such a statute as is here referred to unquestionably has the effect of making the stock non-assessable as between the corporation and the subscribers to its capital stock, but it clearly has not the effect of preventing subsequent creditors in case of insolvency compelling the payment of any unpaid balance on such stock.¹ On this subject Judge Showalter, in Northern Trust Co. v. Columbia Straw Paper Co.,² spoke as follows :

“Whatever may have been in fact the value of the property turned over to the company for its stock, the latter agreed to take it for the stock. The persons interested were the stockholders, and there was no dissent on the part of any person in what was done. Neither any person then holding stock, nor any person who afterwards became a stockholder by assignment from one who then held the stock, can now make complaint on behalf of the corporation against the lawfulness of that transaction. This I take to be the settled law on that subject.”

In the absence of statutory authority conferred upon the corporation or in the absence of unanimous consent of all the stockholders, it is clear that the directors of a corporation have no power to assess shares which have been fully paid up.³

§ 110. Meaning of Full-Paid Stock. — The term “full-paid stock” as here used may be defined to be stock whose par value has been paid either in cash or in property, the ownership of which does not subject the holder thereof to any further liability either to the corporation or to the creditors. The mere declaration that stock is full paid, either by resolution or by stamping upon the stock this statement, does not make it so, at least as to creditors.⁴

It has already been said that stock may be issued for less than its par value to subscribers as full paid and non-assessable and be binding as between the corporation and the stockholders.⁵ Where statutes exist declaring that stock issued in a particular manner shall be full paid and non-assessable, they are merely to be construed to the effect that stock may be issued in this manner, and that the holders thereof shall not be held liable to further calls or assessments on the part of the corporation, but such immunity will not be extended in such suit so as to prevent subsequent creditors enforcing their claims for the payment of the unpaid residue.¹ Many of the States have statutory provisions to the effect that no corporation shall issue stock except for money paid, labor done, or property actually received, declaring all fictitious increase of stock to be void. Under such provisions an original issue of stock as fully paid at less than par will be held to be void.²

Many cases will be found bearing upon the question as to the validity of so-called "bonus" or "promotion stock." In regard to the validity of such stock the courts differ. One line of decisions is represented by the courts of New York and Massachusetts. In *Christensen v. Eno*³ the New York Court of Appeals spoke as follows:

"It may be admitted that the liability of subscribers on unpaid stock subscriptions constitutes an asset of the corporation which cannot be given up by the corporation without consideration on the part of creditors. The unissued shares of a corporation are not assets. When issued, they represent the proportionate interest of the shareholders in the corporate property, — an interest, however, subordinate to the claims of creditors. There are unquestionably public evils growing out of the creation and multiplication of shares of stock in corporations not based upon corporate property. The remedy is with the legislature. But the liability of a shareholder to pay for the stock does not arise out of his relation, but depends upon his contract, express or implied, or upon some statute, and in the absence of either of these grounds of liability, we do not perceive how a person to whom shares have been issued as a gratuity has by accepting them committed any wrong upon the creditors or made himself liable to pay the nominal face of the shares as upon his subscription or contract."⁴

On the other hand, courts of almost equal authority have refused to treat such stock in the interest of creditors as full paid and non-assessable, and have enforced in their favor an alleged stockholders'

CHAPTER V.

LEGISLATIVE CONTROL OVER DOMESTIC CORPORATIONS.

§ 111. Statement of Principal Methods by which Legislative Control over Domestic Corporations is obtained. — Under our modern system legislative control over domestic corporations ordinarily takes the following forms, to wit: (1) control over amendment of corporate charters; (2) reservation on the part of the State of the right to repeal all charters; (3) control over dissolution of corporations; (4) by the exercise through State officials of the right to forfeit charters by means of quo warranto proceedings; (5) by means of the exercise of the police power; (6) through legislative investigation into corporate affairs; (7) by requiring annual reports of corporations; (8) by compelling corporations to permit inspection of their books and records for the benefit of stockholders and creditors; (9) by means of anti-trust legislation; (10) by the enactment of statutes regulating the internal affairs of the corporation; (11) by the imposition of liability upon stockholders for corporate debts over and beyond their liability for unpaid stock subscriptions; (12) enactment of statutes imposing liability upon directors for misfeasance or non-feasance in office; (13) by means of legislative control over the extension of corporate existence; (14) by the exercise of the right of taxation upon corporations; (15) by regulating the right of consolidation of corporations.

§ 112. Amendment of Charters. — A glance at the general business acts in force in the several States and Territories will serve to show that in all of them more or less attention has been paid by the legislatures to the question of the right to amend — with more or less freedom — articles of incorporation. In a majority of these the power of amendment will be found to be practically unlimited. In nine the limitations imposed are not wide in scope, while in eleven the power referred to may be characterized as being very narrow in its practical operation.¹ The practical questions to be considered in this immediate connection have reference, first, to ascertaining in what body the legislatures have seen fit to place the power of amendment, and, secondly, an inquiry whether the power when granted, apparently in the broadest terms, is in legal effect without any limitations whatsoever.

As a general rule, the directors have no power to amend charters unless such right is expressly conferred upon them by statute. Power to amend resides exclusively in the stockholders.² Turning now to the second inquiry referred to above, the following may be said. With respect to the right on the part of majority stockholders to exercise the power of amendment, there are two practical views of the question which deserve consideration. The first has reference to the effect, if any, the exercise of such right may have upon the right of the corporation to enforce stock subscriptions which were made in reliance upon the corporate purposes set forth in the original charter. The other relates to the binding effect of such amendments, when had, upon dissenting minority stockholders who have previously paid up their stock subscriptions.

In the first case it appears to be the generally accepted view that when a party makes a subscription to the capital stock of a corporation he does it in reliance upon the implied understanding that no changes shall be made in the charter without his consent which produce material and fundamental changes therein.³ The rule however can clearly not apply where the changes made were trifling or immaterial or were in furtherance of the original objects of the corporation.⁴ There is a well-defined tendency at the present time on the part of many courts to take the view that in order that a subscriber to the capital stock may escape liability on his subscription on the ground that there has been a material amendment to the charter since his subscription was made, that such amendment must necessarily have brought about changes of the most radical and fundamental character.¹

Turning now to the second question here referred to, the following may be said. Important questions frequently arise as to the right of majority stockholders to amend the charter of the corporation against the dissent of minority stockholders so as practically to create an entirely new corporation with purposes and powers wholly different from those conferred in the original charter.

Before the passage of the modern liberal amendment acts, specifically authorizing majority stockholders to change ad libitum corporate purposes and powers, the rule undoubtedly was that majority stockholders had no power to depart, under the guise of an amendment to the charter, from the objects for the accomplishment of which the corporation was created. At that time majority stockholders would be enjoined on the application of minority stockholders from making fundamental and radical changes in the original corporate purposes, which had the effect of practically creating a new corporation, with power to engage in lines of business wholly foreign to that set forth in the original charter.² But whatever the rule may have been in times past, changed conditions have brought about material modifications therein.

Owing to the recent statutory enactments in the great majority of the Commonwealths relative to amendment of charters, it may be said that this question has ceased to be one of great practical importance at the present time, however it may have been in the past. In view of these statutory provisions it may be said that as a general rule the extent of the power of amendment when exercised by a majority of the stockholders according to the statute in such case made and provided, depends entirely upon the terms of such statute and the construction given by the courts thereto.³ If broad in scope, they unquestionably permit majority stockholders to bring about radical and even fundamental changes in corporate purposes and powers if they so desire.

The question here presented is one of so much practical importance that it deserves more attention than has been yet given it. The New York Court of Appeals in *Buffalo & New York City Railroad Co. v. Dudley*¹ laid the foundation for the establishment in that State of the present just rule that there obtains with reference to the right of majority stockholders to materially change the corporate purposes against the dissent of minority stockholders. In that case the court permitted a change of name and an extension of the line of the railway by means of an amendment to the original charter. In passing upon this point the court spoke as follows :

“The stock subscription having been valid so as to give a right of action in case of non-payment to the corporation, did the alteration of the charter and the extension of the road subsequently absolve the defendant from his liability upon such subscription? The right to alter was reserved in the charter, and the subscription must be taken to have been made subject to having such additional powers conferred as the legislature might deem essential and expedient. The change is not fundamental. The new powers conferred are identical in kind with those originally given. They are enlarged merely, the general objects and purposes of the corporation remaining still the same. It may be admitted that under this reserved power to alter and repeal the legislature would have no right to change the fundamental character of the corporation and convert it into a different legal being, for instance, a banking corporation, without absolving those who did not choose to be bound. But this they have not attempted to do. The additional powers are of the same character and have been regularly acquired from a legitimate source of power, and if they had been fairly exercised the defendant, although the change may have operated to his pecuniary disadvantage, is still bound by his undertaking. The whole matter is manifestly a question of power; and if the power was legitimately acquired and has been exercised without fraud, the rights of the parties are in no respect changed as between themselves whether the alteration is beneficial or injurious to the defendant's interest.

N. W. 897; Mercantile Statement Co. v. People v. Green, 116 Mich. 505; 74 N. W. v. Kneal, 51 Minn. 263; 53 N. W. 632; 714.

Whether he has made or lost by the change in no respect affects the question of authority in the plaintiff."

Many years later this same court, in discussing the respective rights of majority and minority stockholders or corporations, spoke as follows :

"The court would not be justified in interfering even in doubtful cases, where the action of the majority might be susceptible of different constructions. To warrant the interposition of the court in favor of the minority shareholders in a corporation or joint-stock association, as against the contemplated action of the majority, where such action is within the corporate powers, a case must be made out which plainly shows that such action is so far opposed to the true interests of the corporation itself as to lead to the clear inference that no one thus acting could have been influenced by any honest desire to secure such interests, but that he must have acted with an intent to subserve some outside purpose, regardless of the consequences to the Company and in a manner inconsistent with its interests. Otherwise the court might be called upon to balance probabilities of profitable results to arise from the carrying out of the one or the other of different plans proposed by or on behalf of the different shareholders in a corporation, and to decree the adoption of that line of policy which seemed to it to promise the best results, or at least to enjoin the carrying out of the opposite policy. This is no business for any court to follow."¹

It is difficult to find a better presentation of the more modern and better view taken of the question now under discussion than that to be found in the opinion of the Massachusetts Supreme Court in Durfee v. Old Colony & Fall River Railway Company.² While the case had special reference to the right of a State legislature to exercise its reserved right to amend corporate charters so as to produce radical changes in the purposes named in the original charter, nevertheless the reasoning is equally applicable to those cases where majority stockholders attempt equally radical amendments under general acts permitting such stockholders to amend charters on their own initiative.

"We suppose," said Chief Justice Bigelow in the case referred to, "it may be stated as an indisputable proposition, that every person who becomes a member of a corporation aggregate by purchasing and holding shares agrees by necessary implication that he will be bound by all acts and proceedings, within the scope of the powers and authority conferred by the charter, which shall be adopted or sanctioned by a vote of the majority of the corporation, duly taken and ascertained according to law. This is an unavoidable result of the fundamental principle that the majority of the stockholders can regulate and control the lawful exercise of the powers conferred on a corporation by its charter. A holder of shares in an incorporated body, so far as his individual rights and interests may be involved in the doings of the corporation, acting within the legitimate sphere of its corporate power, has no other legal control over them than that which he can exercise by his single vote in the meetings of the company. To this extent he has parted with his personal right or privilege to regulate the disposition of that portion of his property which he has invested in the capital stock of the corporation, and surrendered it to the will of a majority of his fellow corporators. The jus disponendi is vested in them so long as they keep within the line of the general purpose and object for which the corporation was established, although their action may be against the will of a minority however large. It cannot, therefore, be justly said that the contract, express or implied, between the corporation and the stockholders is infringed or impaired by any act or proceeding of the former which is authorized by a majority, and which comes within the terms of the original statute creating and establishing their franchise, and conferring on them capacity to exercise control over the rights and property of their members. On the contrary, the fair and reasonable implication resulting from the legal relation of the stockholders and the corporation is, that the majority may do any act either coming within the scope of the corporate authority, or which is consistent with the terms and conditions of the original charter, without and even against the consent of an individual member." Again, in this same opinion the court observed that, "in creating a corporation, no contract is made by the legislature with the individual members or stockholders, any further than they are represented by the artificial body which the act of incorporation calls into being. They have no other rights except those which exist or grow out of the constitution of the body corporate of which they are members. To this can we only look, in order to ascertain whether there has been any breach of contract or violation of chartered rights. It constitutes, of itself, the contract by which the rights of all parties are to be governed. When, therefore, it is expressly provided between the legislature on the one hand and the corporation on the other, as part of the original contract of incorporation, that the former may change or modify or abrogate it or any portion of it, it cannot be said that any contract is broken or infringed when the power thus reserved is exercised with the consent of the artificial body of whose original creation and existence such reservation formed an essential part. The stockholder cannot say that he became a member of the corporation on the faith of an agreement made by the legislature with the corporation, that the original act of incorporation should undergo no change except with his assent. Such a position may be asserted with more plausibility, if there was an absence of a clause in the original act of incorporation providing for an alteration in its terms. In such a case it might perhaps be maintained that there was a strong implication that the charter should remain inviolate, and that the holders of shares invested their property in the corporation relying upon a contract entered into between it and the legislature that the provisions of the act creating it should remain unchanged. But it is difficult to see how such a construction can be put on a contract which contains an express stipulation that it shall be subject to amendment and alteration. If it be asked by whom such amendment or alteration is to be made, the answer is obvious: by the parties to the contract, the legislature on the one hand and the corporation on the other; the former expressing its intention by means of a legislative act, and the latter assenting thereto by a vote of the majority of the stockholders, according to the provisions of its charter. It is nothing more than the ordinary case of a stipulation that one of the parties to a contract may vary its terms with the assent of the other contracting party. In such case, all persons claiming derivative rights or interests under the original contract, with notice of its terms, would be bound by the amendment or alteration to which the parties should agree. It is a mistake, therefore, to say that the contract of a stockholder with a corporation established under our statutes binds the latter to undertake no new enterprise and engage in no business or operation other than that contemplated by the original charter. This interpretation puts aside the express provision authorizing an amendment or alteration of the act of incorporation, and gives it no effect as against a stockholder without his assent, although he bought his stock or subscribed for his shares subject to the legal effect of such a stipulation. The real contract into which the stockholder enters with the corporation is, that he agrees to become a member of an artificial body which is created and has its existence by virtue of a contract with the legislature, which may be amended or changed with the consent of the company, ascertained and declared in the mode pointed out by law. Having, by virtue of the relation which subsists between himself and the corporation as a holder of shares, assented to the terms of the original act of incorporation, he cannot be heard to say that he will not be bound by a vote of the majority of the stockholders accepting an amendment or alteration of the charter made in pursuance of an express authority reserved to the legislature, and which by such acceptance has become binding on the corporation."

In some few of the States, as for example Ohio,¹ the law provides that no amendment shall change substantially the original purposes of the organization. In many of the States great similarity is to be observed in the formalities necessary to be taken in order to legally amend the charter. Usually the matter is brought to the attention of the stockholders by a resolution passed by the board of directors directing the calling of a meeting of the stockholders for the purpose of passing upon certain proposed amendments. A meeting of the stockholders is then called in the manner prescribed by statute, if any, or according to the method set forth in the by-laws. If the requisite number of stockholders vote in favor of such amendment, a certificate to that effect is usually made by the officers of the corporation and filed in the same offices as is required in the case of the original articles of incorporation. Thereupon the amendment ordinarily becomes effective. If the statute does not prescribe the method of amending the charter, the only safe plan to pursue is to adopt substantially the same procedure therefor as is prescribed by statute in the case of original articles.²

¹ See Revised Statutes of Ohio, sec. 3258a; also State v. Taylor, 55 O. St. 61; N. W. 113. Picard v. Hughey, 58 O. St. 577.

§ 113. Reserved Right of the State to repeal Charters. — Without exception, under the system of incorporation now in vogue, each of the several States and Territories reserves the right in the granting of corporate charters under general acts to alter, amend, or repeal the same at any future time. The presence of such enactments is due to the decision of the United States Supreme Court in Dartmouth College v. Woodward,¹ wherein that tribunal announced the principle that the charter of a private corporation was entitled to protection from alteration, amendment, or repeal on the part of State legislatures under the clause of the Federal Constitution forbidding impairment of the obligation of contracts. When this case was decided, it became obvious at once that “many acts of incorporation which had been passed as laws of a public character, partaking in no general sense of a bargain between the States and the corporations which they created, but which yet conferred private rights, were no longer subject to alteration, amendment, or repeal except by the consent of the corporate body, and that the general control which the legislatures creating such bodies had previously supposed they had the right to exercise, no longer existed.” It was no doubt with a view to suggesting a method by which the State legislatures could retain in a large measure this important power without violating the provisions of the Federal Constitution, that Justice Story, in his concurring opinion in the Dartmouth College Case, suggested that, “when the legislature was enacting a charter for a corporation, a provision in the statute reserving to the legislature the right to amend or repeal it must be held to be a part of the contract itself, and the subsequent exercise of the right would be in accordance with the contract and could not therefore impair its obligation.”²

With respect to the right to repeal, the power of the legislature in this regard, when exercised, is all but absolute, and the courts ordinarily will not inquire into the legislative motive for exercising it. Under such circumstances it will be presumed that the power is properly exercised.³ The only exception appears to be that the courts will interfere where the legislature has exercised its power of repeal so wantonly and causelessly as palpably to violate the principles of natural justice.⁴

Another question, however, is presented when the legislature attempts to alter or amend the charter. In order to justify the exercise of this power by the legislature the same must be so exercised as not to defeat or substantially impair the object of the grant or any rights vested under it which the legislature may deem necessary to secure either that object or some public right.¹ From the foregoing it is to be seen that the reserved power to repeal and alter is not unlimited. On this subject the U. S. Supreme Court, in Union Pacific Railroad Co. v. United States,² spoke as follows:

“That the power to alter or amend a charter even when reserved has a limit no one can doubt. All agree that it cannot be used to take away the property already acquired under the operation of the charter or to deprive the corporation of the fruits actually reduced to possession of contracts lawfully made. It may safely be affirmed that the reserve power may be exercised to almost any extent to carry into effect the original purposes of the grant or to secure the due administration of its affairs so as to protect the rights of stockholders and creditors, and for the proper distribution of its assets. Also to protect the rights of the public and of the incorporators or to promote the due administration of the affairs of the corporation. The alterations must, however, be reasonable. They must be made in good faith, and be consistent with the object and scope of the act of incorporation. Sheer oppression and wrong cannot be inflicted under the guise of alteration or amendment.”

§ 114. Legislative Control over Dissolution of Corporations.—Legislative control over dissolution of domestic corporations (omitting any reference to forfeiture of charters by State action,) is exercised in the following four ways: (1) by prescribing the maximum duration of corporate charters; (2) by permitting corporations to surrender their charters before organization; (3) by authorizing voluntary dissolution, with or without recourse to the courts; (4) by enacting statutes authorizing involuntary dissolution on application of stockholders or creditors. Each of these matters will now be taken up briefly for discussion.

(1) Legislative limitations upon corporate duration. In the absence of any provision in the governing statute or in the charter limiting corporate duration, the corporation is entitled to perpetual existence.¹ The legislature may however, if it sees fit, limit the duration of corporate existence to any specific number of years. This right has been exercised in a majority of the States. Upon expiration of the period of time limited in the charter as the duration of corporate life, dissolution results by operation of law.³ If the articles provide for a longer period of duration than the law allows, then the excess is of no force or effect.⁴

In many of the States statutes exist continuing the existence of corporations after the expiration of the period limited in their charters for certain periods of years in order to permit them to close up their corporate affairs. Such statutes may be lawfully enacted subsequent to the creation of the corporation, for the reason that they provide for the enforcement of rights which equity recognizes even in the absence of statute.⁵

(2) Surrender of charter before organization. Statutes exist in the States of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin expressly permitting corporations to surrender their charters either prior to organization or to the commencement of corporate business. It is unquestionably true that in order to render such a surrender valid it must have been made under authority of the statutory provision enacted, which is of course equivalent to acceptance by the State.⁶

(3) Voluntary dissolution with or without recourse to the courts. "Charters," it has been said, "are in many respects compacts between the government and the corporators. And as the former cannot deprive the latter of their franchises in violation of the compact, so the latter cannot put an end to the compact without the consent of the former. It is equally obligatory on both parties. The surrender of a charter can only be made by some formal act of the corporation, and will be of no avail until accepted by the government. There must be the same agreement of the parties to dissolve that there was to form the compact. It is the acceptance which gives efficiency to the surrender. Dissolution of a corporation extinguishes all its debts. The power of dissolving itself by its own act would be a dangerous power, and one which cannot be supposed to exist.”¹

The foregoing statement of the law is unquestionably based upon both reason and authority. Accordingly, a corporation may dispose of all its assets, cease entirely to do business, and neglect to elect officers or hold meetings of any kind, yet it cannot be legally dissolved by any action of its stockholders or a surrender of its charter unless such surrender is authorized by some statute.²

Where statutes exist authorizing dissolution of corporations prior to the termination of the period limited in their charters, such statutes are of course equivalent to an acceptance by the legislature of the surrender of the charter. All that is necessary is that the statute shall be substantially complied with in order that the dissolution may be effective.³

It may be remarked, in passing, that no cessation or abandonment of its corporate business, failure to hold corporate meetings or to elect officers, alienation or loss of all its property, has the effect in law of dissolving the corporation.⁴

(4) Involuntary dissolution on application of stockholders and creditors. Most of the States have enacted statutes giving courts possessing equitable powers the right to wind up corporations for cause shown upon application of some stockholder or on petition of creditors. But such proceedings, even when the corporation is insolvent, do not necessarily dissolve the corporation, unless the statute that is invoked expressly so provides.⁵

It has been expressly held that corporations are not dissolved by statutory proceedings in bankruptcy or insolvency, or by appointment of receivers in equity or by assignment for the benefit of creditors.¹

§ 115. Forfeiture of Charters.—At common law forfeiture of charters was accomplished by means of seire facias, or by an information by the proper State officials in the nature of a writ of quo warranto.² “An information for the purpose of dissolving a corporation or of seizing its franchises,” it has been said, “cannot be brought except by the authority of the Commonwealth, exercised by the legislature or by the attorney or solicitor-general acting under its direction or ex officio in its behalf. For the Commonwealth may waive any provision of any condition, express or implied, on which the corporation was created; and courts cannot give judgment for the seizure by the Commonwealth of the franchises of any corporation unless the Commonwealth be a party in interest to the suit and assents to the judgment.”³

A corporation cannot within the meaning of the law forfeit its rights and seal up the corporation. A corporation without rights, without legal capacity to do anything, not even to acquire rights, is an impossibility. It has never been seriously contended that mere non-performance of conditions subsequent on the part of a corporation has the effect ex proprio vigore to put an end to corporate life. By such non-performance the corporation is not ipso facto dissolved or deprived of its corporate existence or corporate rights, but it is simply exposed to proceedings in behalf of the State to establish and enforce a forfeiture. The State which gave the corporate life may take it away. The State which imposed the conditions may waive their performance, and the corporate life may run on until the State by proper proceedings (ordinarily quo warranto, or in the nature of quo warranto) interposes and enforces a forfeiture.⁴

Courts of equity have no inherent jurisdiction, in the absence of statute conferring the same, to decree a dissolution of a corporation or declare a forfeiture of its charter on any grounds.⁵

The principal grounds under the statute upon which charters will be forfeited may be enumerated as follows: (1) non-user of corporate franchises; (2) mis-user or abuse of corporate powers; (3) for non-performance of conditions precedent to valid existence as a corporation; (4) for non-performance of conditions subsequent to valid continuance of existence as a corporation; (5) for violation of express statutes; (6) for non-payment of taxes; (7) for insolvency. These will now be taken up briefly for separate consideration.

(1) Forfeiture for non-user of corporate franchises. It is a well-established doctrine of the law that courts should proceed with extreme caution in proceedings which have for their object the forfeiture of corporate franchises; nor should such a penalty be visited except for plain abuse of power by which the corporation fails to fulfil the designs and purposes of its organization.¹ Again it has been well said: "It is not every failure to perform a duty imposed that will work a forfeiture. It must be something more than accidental negligence, something more than an excess of power, something more than a mere mistake in the mode of executing the acknowledged powers; and though a single act of simple non-feasance may be a ground of forfeiture, a specific act of non-feasance not committed wilfully and not producing or tending to produce mischievous consequences to any one, and not being contrary to formal regulations of the charter, will not be."²

All these judicial utterances are little more than a declaration of the fact that the policy of the State, of its officers and courts should be to encourage in all legitimate ways the organization and operation of all corporations organized to promote any legitimate enterprise. "The rights, privileges, and franchises of such corporations," it has been well said, "should not be declared forfeited, and they should not be ousted and excluded therefrom, except for solid, weighty, and cogent reasons, for the violation of a positive or prohibitory statute and not of a statute whose provisions are permissive and apparently directory, and never upon mere technical grounds."³

The term "forfeiture of charter for non-user of corporate franchises," as here used, has a very broad signification. It may have reference to action taken by the State with a view to forfeiture of corporate charters on any one of the following grounds: failure to organize the corporation within the time prescribed by statute;¹ failure to carry on the business enumerated in its articles;² failure to elect officers;³ failure to maintain domiciliary office within the State;⁴ failure to commence business within the time designated by statute.⁵

(2) Forfeiture for misuse or abuse of corporate powers. "To work a forfeiture on the ground of misuser or abuse of corporate powers, there should not only be a wrong, but one arising from wilful abuse or improper neglect. The corporate default must be something more than accidental negligence or mere mistaken excess of power, or mistake in the mode of exercising an acknowledged power. There must be an abuse of trust, of such a nature as would render a trustee liable to forfeit his station on the complaint of his cestui que trust if the question stood on the relation between them. Corporations are political trustees. Have they fulfilled the purposes of their trust or acted in good faith with a view to fulfilment? is the question to be asked when they are called upon to forfeit their charter, either for acts of commission or omission."⁶

"It appears to be settled," observed the New York Court of Appeals, "that the State as prosecutor must show on the part of the corporation accused some act against the law of its being which has produced or tends to produce injury to the public. The transgression must not be merely formal or accidental, but material and serious, and such as to harm or menace the public welfare. For the State does not concern itself with the quarrels of private litigants. It furnishes for them sufficient courts and remedies, but interferes only where some public interest requires its action. Corporations may and often do exceed their authority where only private rights are affected. But when the transgression has a wider scope and threatens the welfare of the people, they may summon the offender to answer for the abuse of its franchises or the violation of its corporate duty."⁷

(3) Forfeiture for non-performance of conditions precedent. Even a corporation defectively organized may have what is termed a "de facto existence," so that it cannot ordinarily be impeached by parties other than the State. Nevertheless the right to bring proceedings to forfeit the charter of such corporation vests with the State which may bring proceedings to forfeit the same and oust it from the exercise of corporate powers.¹

(4) Forfeiture for non-performance of conditions subsequent. It has been well settled that charters of corporations may be forfeited by proper action brought by the State for failure to comply with conditions subsequent which are clearly mandatory and not merely directory in their nature.²

(5) Forfeiture for violation of express statute. This is one of the clearest grounds for the exercise by the State of its right to forfeit charters. The most common ground for the exercise thereof is in connection with anti-trust legislation.³

(6) Forfeiture for non-payment of taxes. Several of the States authorize forfeiture of charters for non-payment of organization and annual franchise taxes. This right has been exercised with great frequency, and constitutes unquestionably a valid exercise of the power of such legislature over corporations.⁴

(7) Forfeiture for insolvency. In the absence of statutory provision to that effect, insolvency alone will not authorize the State to forfeit corporate charters.⁵ However, it is unquestionably valid for a State to prescribe that if a corporation be insolvent for a certain length of time it shall constitute a forfeiture of its charter.⁶

§ 116. The Police Power of the State.—The police power of the State comprehends all those general laws of internal regulation which are necessary to secure the peace, good order, health, and comfort of society, but the proper limit in its bearing upon charter rights and privileges of private corporations for public uses would seem to be this : That the legislature may at all times regulate the exercise of the corporate franchises by general laws passed in good faith for the legitimate ends contemplated by State police power ; that is, for peace, good order, health, comfort, and welfare of society ; but it cannot under the color of such laws destroy or impair the franchises itself, or any of the rights or powers which are essential to the exercise of it.¹

After the decision of the United States Supreme Court in Dartmouth College v. Woodward,² that court proceeded to enunciate the doctrine that in the exercise of what is termed "police power," the several States might pass laws as a valid exercise of such powers when otherwise they would be forbidden to do so under Section 10, Article 1, of the Constitution of the United States, which forbids the impairing of the obligations of contracts by means of laws enacted by them.

The police power arises primarily from the nature of the social contract, just as when each person upon becoming a member of a society must of necessity relinquish some of the rights and privileges which, as an individual and considered alone, he might retain. The Supreme Court of Massachusetts in *Commonwealth v. Alger*³ says : "All property is subject to such reasonable restrictions and regulations established by law as the legislature under the governing and controlling power vested in them by the Constitution may think necessary and expedient."

In *Gibbons v. Ogden*⁴ the United States Supreme Court held that the police power is lodged with the several States. In *Providence Bank v. Billings*⁵ the court took another step forward, and held that the abandonment on the part of the State of its power of regulation in this regard ought never to be presumed in any case where the purpose of the State to abandon it does not clearly appear.

In the License Cases⁶ the court held that, in the exercise of its police power, a State may pass quarantine and sanitary laws damaging and even destroying property in some cases. In *Bartemeyer v. Iowa*⁷ the court held that a State law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors was a valid exercise of the police power. In *Beer Company v. Massachusetts*¹ the court held that as a measure of police regulation, looking to the preservation of public morals, a State law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors is not repugnant to any clause of the Constitution of the United States.

In *Mugler v. Kansas*² it was held that a State may absolutely prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and may declare places where such liquors are manufactured or sold to be nuisances, and may authorize the destruction of such liquors found therein, and of all property used in keeping and manufacturing such nuisances. Such a statute is valid as to such liquors lawfully manufactured before the enactment of the statute, and although it greatly deteriorates the value of the property lawfully used in such manufacture before the enactment of the statute.

In *Munn v. Illinois*³ it was held that when the owner of property devotes it to a use in which the public has an interest, he in effect grants to the public an interest in such use, and must to the extent of that interest submit to be controlled by the public for the common good as long as he maintains the use.

In *Fertilizing Company v. Hyde Park*⁴ the right of State authorities to compel the removal of a bone fertilizing business from a location near the village to a point farther removed, was held to be valid as an exercise of the police power.

In the *Slaughter House Cases*⁵ the court held that the power of State legislatures to make a contract of such a character that under the provisions of the Constitution it cannot be modified or abrogated does not extend to subjects affecting public health and public morals, so as to limit the further exercise of legislative power over those subjects, to the prejudice of the general welfare.

To summarize briefly the general doctrine of the federal Supreme Court on this subject, the same may be done by presenting the following abstract propositions:

(1) Laws for the welfare and safety of a community being essential to the existence of every State, it cannot be supposed to have been within the intention of the original thirteen States to limit this power by assenting to the Federal Constitution.⁶

(2) Generally speaking, the extent to which a State can regulate the business or affairs of a corporation depends upon the nature of the business — whether it affects the public closely or remotely. If it is of such a character or magnitude that the public are directly interested in its proper management, then it falls within the proper sphere of legislative control.¹

(3) Being an inherent right as well as a duty, the legislature may pass enactments looking towards the safety of life and property, and general laws of this nature are a legitimate exercise of the “police power.” Thus it may compel railroads to fence tracks, maintain cattle guards, put up signboards at crossings, construct viaducts, require all trains to stop at intersections of railroads, etc.²

(4) Laws intended to prevent or remove nuisances are clearly within the “police power” of the State.³

(5) A State may pass laws for the protection of its inhabitants against the evils of intemperance, even though existing contracts be affected thereby.⁴

(6) Laws regulating the employment of persons of a certain age in manufactories are a valid exercise of the general power of the State to enact laws to secure the health and education of the community.⁵

(7) A State may by statute protect the interest of employees when the common law affords no protection; as for example, a law providing that all railroad companies shall be liable for wages due to day laborers employed by contractors engaged to construct the company’s railroad and works was held to be valid.⁶

(8) A State may by general laws regulate the use and disposition of property within its jurisdiction, although existing incorporated companies be thereby affected.⁷

(9) A State may pass laws for the protection of the morals of its citizens, even though vested corporate rights be thereby affected.¹

§ 117. Legislative Investigation into Corporate Affairs. — The statutes of California, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, and Wisconsin contain express provisions for the appointment of legislative committees to examine into the affairs of corporations organized under their laws. The provisions of the South Dakota act may be quoted as exemplifying the nature of such statutory provision. It reads as follows :

“The legislative assembly, or either branch thereof, may examine into the affairs and condition of any corporation in this State at all times ; and for that purpose any committee appointed by the said assembly, or either branch thereof, may administer all necessary oaths to the directors, officers, and stockholders of such corporation, and may examine them on oath in relation to the affairs and conditions thereof ; and may examine the safes, books, papers, and documents belonging to such corporation, or pertaining to its affairs and condition, and compel the production of all keys, books, papers, and documents by summary process, to be issued on application to any circuit court or any judge thereof, under such rules and regulations as the court may prescribe.”²

Such an inquiry as is authorized by the statutes just referred to has been held not to constitute a judicial act, and is therefore considered a valid exercise of legislative powers.³ On this particular subject the Supreme Court of Massachusetts spoke as follows :

“The inquiry into the affairs or defaults of a corporation with a view to continue or discontinue it, is not a judicial act. No issue is framed. No decree or judgment is passed. No forfeiture is adjudged. No fine or imprisonment is imposed. But an inquiry is had in such form as is deemed most wise and expedient, with a view to ascertaining facts upon which to exert legislative power or to learn whether a contingency has happened upon which legislative action is required.”⁴

requiring annual reports from domestic corporations. The validity of such statutes was considered by the Supreme Court in the case of Eagle Insurance Company v. State of Ohio.¹ The court in its opinion therein spoke as follows :

“The right of the plaintiff in error to exist as a corporation and its authority in that capacity to conduct the particular business for which it was created were granted subject to the condition that the privileges and franchises conferred upon it should not be abused or so employed as to defeat the ends for which it was established, and that when so abused or misemployed they might be withdrawn or reclaimed by the State in such way and by such modes of procedure as were consistent with law. Although no such condition is expressed in the plaintiff's charter, it is implied in every grant of corporate existence. Equally implied in our judgment is the condition that the corporation shall be subject to such reasonable regulations in respect to the general conduct of its powers as the legislature may from time to time prescribe which do not materially interfere with or obstruct the substantial enjoyment of the privileges the State has granted only to secure the ends for which the corporation was created. If this condition be not implied, then the creation of corporations with rights and privileges which do not belong to individual citizens may become dangerous to the public welfare through the ignorance or misconduct or fraud of those to whose management their affairs are entrusted. It would be extraordinary for the legislative department of a government, charged with the duty of enacting such laws as may promote the health or morals or prosperity of the people might not when unrestrained by constitutional limitations upon its authority, provide by reasonable regulations against the misuse of special corporate privileges which it has granted, and which could not except by its sanction, express or implied, have been exercised at all.”

The conclusion of the court in the case just referred to was that the charter of the corporation did not exempt it from obligations to comply with the subsequently established police regulations of the State, requiring certain corporations to make annual statements of their condition.

§ 119. Inspection of Corporate Books.—In all the Commonwealths but five statutes have been enacted requiring the keeping of certain corporate books and giving to stockholders, and sometimes to creditors as well, the right to inspect the same. At common law stockholders had the right to inspect books and papers of the corporation at reasonable times and for a proper purpose.¹ Creditors had no such common law rights.

On this subject the New York Court of Appeals in the Matter of Steinway² spoke as follows:

"The elementary works unite in holding that the incorporator has the right in question and that mandamus is the proper remedy. We think that according to the decided weight of authority a stockholder has the right at common law to inspect the books of his corporation at a proper time and place and for a proper purpose, and that if this right is refused by the officers in charge, writ of mandamus may issue in the sound discretion of the court with suitable safeguards to protect the interests of all concerned. It should not be issued to aid a blackmailer, nor withheld simply because the interest of the stockholder is small, but the court should proceed cautiously and discreetly, according to the facts of the particular case. To the extent, however, that an absolute right is conferred by statute, nothing is left to the discretion of the court but the writ to issue as a matter of course, although even then doubtless due precautions may be taken as to time and place so as to prevent interruption of business, or other serious inconvenience. We do not think, however, that the statute now in force in this State is exclusive, or that it has abridged the common law right of stockholders with reference to the examination of the corporate books. By enabling the stockholder to get some information in a new way, it did not impliedly repeal the common law rule, which enabled him to get other information in another way, for the courts do not hold the common law to be repealed by implication unless the intention is obvious. By simply providing an additional remedy the existing remedy was not taken away. The statute merely strengthens the common law rule with reference to one part thereof, and left the remainder intact."

The right of inspection of corporate books is not the inspection of the idle, the impertinent, or the curious, but an inspection with a laudable object to accomplish, or a real and actual interest upon which is predicated the request for information disclosed by the books.³

³ State ex rel. Bourdette v. Company, 49 La. Ann. 1556; 22 So. 815.

The purpose of requiring a copy of stock books and books of account at the corporation's domiciliary office is to protect the rights of stockholders and to aid the State in exercising its visitatorial powers, or to enable creditors or stockholders to ascertain the number of shares standing in the names of each so as to levy execution and attachment thereon. The mere fact that a domestic corporation has kept its books in another State when required by law to keep its books at its domiciliary office, is not a ground for dissolving the corporation when parties entitled to inspection of such books have never been refused the right to inspect the same at the domiciliary office.¹

§ 120. Anti-Trust Legislation.—The term "trust" includes any form of combination or combinations between corporations or between corporations and individuals for the purpose of regulating production and repressing competition by means of the power thus centralized.²

Under the common law agreements, pools, trusts, or combinations between persons or corporations looking towards any absolute restraint of trade or to regulate prices or to promote monopolies, were against public policy, and as such were unlawful and void. But when the question of public policy is at issue, certain matters should be noted.

It has been well said "that the public policy of the State varies from time to time. It is not to be measured by the private combination or combinations of the persons who happen to be exercising judicial functions, but by reference to the enactment of the law-making power, and in the absence of them to the decisions of the courts. When, however, the legislature has spoken upon a particular subject and within the limits of its constitutional powers, its utterance is the public policy of the State."³

Congress dealt with illegal trade combinations in relation to interstate commerce as early as 1887, when it passed the Interstate Commerce Act, and later on, July 2, 1890, it passed what is known as the "Sherman Anti-Trust Act." Since that time thirty-three of the States have passed more or less stringent anti-trust acts. All this legislation has been framed with the same purpose.

In some of these acts an arbitrary distinction is made between dealers and producers. Such provisions have under certain circumstances been declared to be "class legislation," and as such are invalid under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

Under this principle the anti-trust acts of Illinois and Texas have recently been declared to be unconstitutional.¹

In the note below will be found the dates of the passage of the earlier anti-trust acts in the several States.²

§ 121. Regulation of Internal Affairs.—In many of the States the regulation of the internal affairs of corporations has been largely delegated by statute to the corporations themselves. Such is the case in Alabama, Connecticut, Delaware, Iowa, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

In other of the Commonwealths, without express provision of law permitting the same, State officials allow clauses for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation to be incorporated in articles of incorporation filed with them. As an example of the statutes above referred to, attention is called to the provisions of the New Jersey Act, which reads as follows :

"The certificate of incorporation may also contain any provision which the incorporators may choose to insert for the regulation of the business and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, and any provision creating, defining, limiting, and regulating the powers of the corporation, the directors, and the stockholders or any class or classes of stockholders." ¹

Without such statutory authority State officials are unquestionably justified in refusing to allow articles of incorporation to be filed containing such clauses as are here referred to.²

The Court of Appeals of New York in an early case, commenting upon the legal effect of the insertion of provisions in the articles not authorized by the incorporation act, spoke as follows :

"The want of authority for this provision would not affect the validity of the corporation. The articles must contain the statements affirmatively required by the act, because those statements constitute the conditions precedent to the right of the company to become incorporated. If unauthorized provisions are added, all the acts done pursuant to such provisions will be void, but until the company is proceeded against for abuse of its franchises its rights as a corporation will not be affected by such unauthorized provisions." ³

The more modern view in regard to such matters is that where State officials are either expressly or impliedly empowered to pass upon the validity of articles of incorporation submitted to them with a view to filing in their office, the approval of such State official once obtained renders such clauses as are here referred to valid as against all but the State, even when their insertion in the articles is not expressly authorized.⁴

§ 122. Liability of Stockholders for Debts of the Corporation. — The general subject of stockholders' liability may be best discussed under three heads : (a) Liability for unpaid stock subscriptions ; (b) Double liability as established by statute in certain States; (c) Special liability as established by statute in certain States.

(a) Liability for unpaid stock subscription. The statutes which exist in nearly every Commonwealth in the Union making stockholders liable for unpaid stock subscriptions are merely declaratory of the common law.¹ The liability of stockholders of corporations for unpaid stock subscriptions with reference to creditors is oftentimes confused with their liability to the corporation itself. The latter liability is directory and the right to enforce it may be waived by the corporation. In the absence of such waiver the subscribing stockholders are bound by the contract of subscription to pay the full value of their shares in such instalments and in such manner as may be prescribed by the laws of the State or by-laws of the corporation. In such cases the liability may be enforced by the ordinary remedies. The corporation usually has a lien upon the stock, and may sell the same in satisfaction of the debt, and may collect the deficiency, if any, by action against the delinquent stockholders.

On the other hand, as the corporation is a legal entity distinct from the stockholders who constitute it, no debts or obligations incurred by it can, in the absence of a direct statutory provision, impose any lawful liability upon the stockholders. But in equity, under what is termed the "trust fund doctrine," the debts of the stockholders to the corporation are regarded as equitable assets of the corporation and may be reached by the creditors if the legal assets prove insufficient. This trust fund doctrine derives its main support at the present time from the Supreme Court of the United States, but it has secured recognition in many jurisdictions.

As stated in Sanger v. Upton,² "The capital stock of an incorporated company is a fund set apart for payment of its debts. It is publicly pledged to those who deal with the corporation for their security. Unpaid stock is as much a part of this pledge, and as much a part of the assets of the company as the cash which has been paid in.

"The stockholders thus become individually liable for the debts of the corporation, to the extent of the unpaid balance on their stock. They are also in some States subject to other statutory liabilities hereinafter set forth. The statutory remedy is usually by equitable action, but in some States by an action at law.

Under nearly all such statutory provisions, the liability of stockholders is intended merely as a secondary security for creditors in case the assets of the corporation are insufficient to meet its debts, but in special cases stockholders may be made parties defendant in an original action, and if they are obliged to pay any debt of the corporation they may bring an action against the corporation for the amount so paid, and are usually entitled also to exact contribution from the other stockholders."

The only other questions which are of practical importance in connection with the present subject may be restricted to two classes: one relates to the liability for unpaid stock subscriptions to creditors as between the transferor and the transferee, and the other relates to the liability to creditors of pledgees and trustees of stock.

With reference to the first question it may be said that the question depends upon the law of the State in which the stockholder may reside and in which action may be brought.¹ In most States transferors of stock are not subject to stockholders' liability, and are thereafter released from liability for assessments made by the corporation.²

In the absence of statutory provision to the contrary, a bona fide transfer of stock perfected on the books of the corporation, discharges the transferor from any further liability either to the corporation or to creditors for calls made after the transfer and for calls made prior thereto, and the transferee takes his place and becomes liable for calls made after the transfer but not for calls made before.³ The distinction which clearly obtains between one who holds his stock by transfer and one who is an original subscriber to the stock of the corporation, must be carefully noted. The former may in good faith discharge himself from liability for unpaid instalments by due transfer of his shares, while the latter cannot obtain immunity in this way. The subscriptions for stock and the acceptance of a certificate for the shares constitute a contract between the subscriber and the corporation by which he engages to pay the remaining instalments on demand from the corporation. From this agreement the subscriber cannot recede without the consent of the corporation.⁴ In some of the States this matter is regulated by statute. In Maine, Massachusetts, North Carolina, West Virginia, the original subscriber alone is liable. In Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Virginia the original subscriber remains liable as well as the transferee.¹ In Georgia, Ohio, Tennessee, and Oregon the original subscriber is liable upon default in payment by the transferee. In Mississippi and Wisconsin the original subscriber remains liable for the debts contracted before his ownership or those contracted thereafter. In California, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, and Tennessee the original subscriber remains liable for the debts of the corporation contracted during his ownership and not for debts contracted after such transfer. In Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, and Wyoming upon the transfer of stock the transferee becomes liable for all debts contracted both before and after transfer, and the transferor is discharged in all these States as to debts contracted after such transfer, and in some of these States from liability for debts contracted before such transfer as well.²

Turning now to the question of liability of pledgees and trustees of stock, it may be said that unless protected by statute, as is the case in New York, Missouri, California, and Michigan, the prevailing rule seems to be that pledgees and trustees of stock are liable thereon to the extent of the unpaid portion of the stock held by them.³

On the other hand the Supreme Court of the United States has enunciated a different doctrine to the effect that a pledgee of stock taken as collateral security or as a loan is not subject to personal liability for the debts of the corporation imposed on other shareholders unless he has either become the owner of the shares in fact or has held himself out to be the owner, and thereby estopped himself from denying his personal liability as such.⁴

(b) Double liability as established by statute in certain States. What is known as the "double liability" of stockholders for debts of the corporation which existed formerly in a large number of States, has now been so far removed by statute that it exists at the present time in the case of ordinary business corporations in only two States, to wit, California and Minnesota.¹ In the last-mentioned State it does not exist in the case of corporations organized exclusively for the purpose of carrying on a manufacturing, mining, or mechanical business.²

(c) Special liability as established by statute in certain States. Stockholders at common law were not liable for debts of the corporation beyond their liability for unpaid stock subscriptions.³ Personal responsibility of stockholders is inconsistent with the conception of corporate liability at common law, and for this reason, if it exists at all, must rest upon some positive statute.⁴

The particular liability under consideration here arises by reason of the existence of statutory provisions that may be stated as follows: Liability of incorporators as partners through failure to legally organize the corporation. In Florida, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Wisconsin stockholders are individually liable by statute for failure to comply with certain prescribed regulations in regard to organization and publicity.⁵ In a few of the States the courts construe the liability of incorporators where they have failed to legally organize the corporation, not as partners at all. This on the ground that no such relationship or liability is contemplated by the incorporators, and that the creditors' only remedy is against the officers and agents who actually made the contract.⁶

In Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, North Dakota,

§ 124. Extension of Corporate Existence. — In order to extend corporate existence special legislative action is necessary.⁸ In nearly all of the States statutes exist providing that for a period of three years after the term of existence limited by its charter has expired, the corporation shall continue to exist for the purpose of winding up its affairs. Express power to extend corporate existence is granted in twenty-five of the Commonwealths.

Where corporations are permitted under their charter to make their term of existence perpetual, this right to extend corporate existence is of very little practical importance. As, however, perpetual existence is permitted in only twenty-seven of the States, it is a question of much practical importance in the remainder. It has been held by at least one court of excellent repute that where the power of amendment of the charter is unlimited, even though it does not refer specifically to the right to extend corporate existence, it may nevertheless be used for that purpose.¹⁰

When so extended, it must pay an organization tax if the law

so provides, even though existence is extended under guise of an amendment.¹

§ 125. Taxation of Domestic Corporations.—Legislative control over domestic corporations is exercised by means of the unquestioned right of such legislatures to impose a tax upon their organization and annually thereafter in the form of a franchise tax. The latter may be defined to be a tax levied by the State upon the capital of a corporation in return for the privilege of exercising its corporate powers within the limits of the State levying such tax. On the general subject of franchise tax the New York Court of Appeals in a recent case² spoke as follows:

“The system of taxation in this State is so complicated as to invite mistakes on the part of those who are called upon to enforce the law. In some instances the tax is laid upon property and in others upon rights and privileges connected with the property. There is direct taxation of real estate and of some personal property, indirect taxation of other personal property, taxation of the capital stock of corporations and of their franchises, taxation upon the right of succession to the property left by decedents, and the like. . . .

“There is, first, an organization tax, payable to the State, which is imposed but once, and is exacted for the privilege of becoming a corporation. Next, there is a tax upon the real estate owned by the corporation in this State, which is assessed the same as if it were owned by an individual. The personal property of the corporation is not directly taxed, but its capital stock and surplus after deducting the assessed value of its real estate and making some other deductions, is assessed at its actual value. Finally, there is a franchise tax on corporations which is payable annually to the State, ‘computed upon the basis of the amount of its capital stock employed within this State.’ This is not a tax upon property, although it is measured by the value of property, but upon the right of a corporation to exist and exercise the powers granted by its charter. These forms of taxation do not all rest upon the same principle. The organization tax is in the nature of a license fee for the right to become a corporation. The tax upon real estate is a direct tax upon real property, while the franchise tax is not laid upon property at all, but is imposed upon the corporation for the privilege of carrying on business in this State and exercising the corporate franchises granted by the State. The distinction between a tax upon the property of a corporation and a franchise tax, although well established and of great importance, is easily overlooked, as we find from our own experience."

With reference to organization taxes there can be no question raised as to the constitutionality of such taxation.¹

The constitutionality of franchise taxes being imposed upon the franchise as a species of property is clearly within the constitutional powers of State legislatures.² In all of the States and Territories, with the exception of Alaska, Arkansas, District of Columbia, Georgia, Indian Territory, and Oklahoma, graduated organization taxes are imposed upon domestic corporations.

With respect to annual franchise taxes these are imposed only in the States of Alabama, Colorado, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Washington, and West Virginia. In Alabama, Colorado, Maine, North Carolina, Oregon, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, and West Virginia the tax is levied upon the total amount of authorized capital stock, irrespective of the amount that may have been issued and outstanding.

In Delaware, Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Ohio the tax is graded according to the amount of capital stock issued and outstanding. In New York the tax is determined largely by the dividends on the par value of the amount of capital stock authorized. It is also graded on the amount of capital stock employed within the State.

§ 126. Regulation of the Right of Consolidation.—To accomplish a valid consolidation of two corporations that are organized under the laws of the same or of different States, legislative authority is necessary. It is not over-stating the matter to say that legislative authority is as necessary for the accomplishment of a valid consolidation of existing corporations as it is to the creation of a corporation in the first instance.³ Any attempt, therefore, on the part of corporations to consolidate in the absence of any statute permitting consolidation will not be recognized by the courts.¹ Where power is granted to corporations to consolidate it is usually done by means of a general statute. Such statutes exist in a comparatively small number of the Commonwealths, the legislatures of the remaining States evidently looking upon consolidation as a form of a trust and therefore to be restricted. Some of the statutes limit the right of consolidation to corporations of the same character or engaged in the same line of business.³ Where the right to consolidate existed at the time the corporation was created it can ordinarily be affected by vote of a majority of the stockholders against the dissent of the minority.⁴ However, in the absence of such authority conferred prior to the incorporation of a company, it has been held that consolidation cannot be affected against the dissent of the minority stockholders.⁵

When it comes to the matter of consolidation, creditors have no right to intervene for the purpose of preventing such a consolidation providing the same is undertaken under legislative authority. The remedy of creditors in such cases is to proceed in equity with a view to subjecting the property of the consolidated corporation to the payment of their claims.⁶ Sometimes, though not always, when a new corporation is formed by the consolidation of a domestic corporation with a foreign corporation, it is required to pay an organization tax, at least upon so much of the capital stock as is represented by the capitalization of that of the consolidated domestic corporation.⁷

CHAPTER VI.

LEGISLATIVE CONTROL OVER FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.

§ 127. Extent of Legislative Power of the various Commonwealths over Foreign Corporations. — A foreign corporation may be defined as one created under the laws of a State, Territory, government, or country other than that wherein it seeks to do business.¹ With some few exceptions nearly all of the Commonwealths have enacted statutes prescribing the terms and conditions upon which foreign corporations may carry on business within their borders. Most of these statutes closely resemble each other in character, and generally look to the attainment of the same end. Thus, for example, in order to give courts of the foreign State jurisdiction over the foreign corporation and to secure proper protection for such of its citizens as may transact business with the latter, the statutes prescribe that foreign corporations shall designate an agent residing within the State upon whom service of process upon the corporation may be served, and also designate a place of business where it may be found. Such provisions are unquestionably valid.³

Again, most of the acts require that a certified or sworn copy of the charter of the foreign corporation shall be filed in certain designated offices, usually with the Secretary of State and in the local recording office of the county where its principal place of business is to be located. The object of such enactment is to furnish easily accessible evidence of the existence of the corporation, and to protect parties dealing with it from fraud and imposition.⁴

Still other States require the filing of reports enumerating the officers, giving information relative to the business to be transacted within the foreign State and as to the financial condition of the corporation.¹ The right to transact business in a foreign State is a matter of State comity, pure and simple. The recognition of a foreign corporation and enforcement of its contracts in States other than that of its creation rests only on comity, and any conditions governing the right to transact business outside of the domiciliary State of the corporation may be imposed upon them or they may be entirely excluded.² But the conditions imposed must not be repugnant to the Constitution of the United States or to the public policy of the foreign State as evidenced by its statutory enactments and judicial decisions, nor can they be repugnant to rules of public law.³

In this connection it may be observed that foreign corporations cannot claim the protection of the prohibition of the United States Constitution against denying to citizens of any State the privileges and immunities of citizens of the several States.⁴ Nor can they claim the benefit of the clause against denying to any person equal protection of the law.⁵

A State may preclude all foreign corporations not engaged in interstate commerce or in the employ of the general government from transacting business within its limits, and the courts cannot inquire into its reasons for so doing.⁶ A State may discriminate between foreign and domestic corporations.⁷ In short, the power of States over foreign corporations with respect to imposing conditions for doing business are as broad as those exercised over domestic corporations.⁸ Wherever a corporation transacts its business it carries its charter with it, and that becomes the law of its existence in the foreign State, for the charter is the same abroad as it is at home. Whatever disabilities are placed upon the corporation at home are ordinarily equally binding upon it abroad, and whatever proper legislative control it is subject to must in general be recognized and submitted to by those who deal with it elsewhere.⁹ The foregoing rule should be qualified by the statement that a foreign corporation can do no act in a foreign State which cannot be done through the intervention of a mere agent and which is not in contemplation of law the direct act of the corporation itself.¹

Comity between States authorizes a corporation to exercise its charter powers within any State, but it does not permit the exercise of a power where the policy of that State distinctly marked by legislative enactments or constitutional provisions forbids it.² It has been well said that "no rule of comity will allow one State to charter corporations to operate in another State unless there is willingness on the part of the foreign State that it should be so. To hold otherwise would be to say that the right of one State by comity is superior to the sovereign will of the other. This involves the surrender of sovereignty to a rule of comity and to a matter of international etiquette, which no sovereign State should for a moment think of."³

A great deal of litigation has arisen through the question whether or not foreign corporations may exercise the same powers in a foreign State that their charter authorizes them to exercise in the domestic State. It has been held that foreign corporations cannot exercise outside of the domicile State powers which their own charters do not permit them to exercise within the State of their origin, nor can they exercise powers in a foreign State not permitted to corporations organized under the laws thereof.⁴ They cannot, however, do any acts which are contrary to the public policy of the foreign State.⁵ Nor can they transact business for which domestic corporations cannot be formed on account of statutory prohibition thereof.⁶

In some jurisdictions what are termed "retaliatory statutes" have been enacted. The purpose of these statutes is to put corporations coming from other States upon the same plane as domestic corporations of that State are placed when they seek in turn to transact business in the States referred to.⁷ Sometimes the laws of the foreign State expressly provide that foreign corporations shall have no rights or privileges other than those possessed by domestic corporations of the same character. A fair interpretation of such statutes would seem to be that such foreign corporations shall have equal powers with domestic corporations of a character similar to their own.¹

In a recent case an interesting question arose as to the legal effect of inserting powers in a charter to be exercised only outside of the State, such powers being forbidden by the laws of the State in which the corporation was organized.² In this case the Federal Court of the State of Washington spoke as follows:

"It has become a habit of business men in this country to organize corporations in one State to operate in another, and presumably there is some advantage to be gained thereby, otherwise the practice would not be continued. But no sound reason has been advanced, and none occurs to my mind, for giving additional encouragement to the practice by judicially expanding the powers of such corporations so as to include additional rights and powers to be exercised abroad but not at home. Corporations organized under legislative statutes are not endowed with the rights of natural persons to do as they please except when restrained by prohibitive laws. On the contrary, the rule is that they have only such powers and rights as the statutes confer, and the enumeration of their powers implies the exclusion of all others except such subordinate and incidental rights and powers as are essential to their existence and the exercise of the rights and powers conferred in express terms, and the corporation can make no contracts and do no acts other than permitted by the State which created it except such as are authorized by its charter."

The general rule is that foreign courts will not interfere in the internal management of foreign corporations; that is, except in the presence of extraordinary circumstances.³ In this connection a distinction obtains where the act complained of affects the party solely in his capacity as stockholder, for there he must seek redress of his grievance in the courts of the domiciliary State of the corporation. But where the act affects his individual rights he may seek redress in any tribunal where jurisdiction may properly be acquired.¹ Foreign courts have not the power to forfeit charters of foreign corporations.²

Quo warranto is the proper proceeding to try the right of a foreign corporation to carry on corporate business in a foreign State.³

The certificate of the Secretary of State authorizing a foreign corporation to transact business within the State is a franchise emanating from the State, and cannot be gone behind or revoked by any authority but the State.⁴

§ 128. Doctrine of State Comity.—What is known as the “doctrine of State comity” is nothing more nor less than a recognition of the principle that the right of foreign corporations to engage in business in a State other than that of their creation depends solely on the will of such other State.⁵

While there are exceptions to this rule they only exist where the corporation created by one State rests its right to enter another and engage in business therein upon the nature of its business. As, for instance, where it is necessarily an instrumentality of interstate commerce, and its business constitutes such commerce, it is therefore wholly within the paramount authority of Congress. In this case the exceptional business is protected against interference by such authority.

If the power to regulate applies to all the instances to which such commerce gives rise, and to all contracts which might be made in the course of its transactions, that power would embrace the entire sphere of mercantile activity in any way connected with the trade between the States, and would exclude State control over many contracts purely domestic in their nature. The power to exclude where it exists, embraces the power as well to regulate and to enforce all legislation in regard to things done within the State which may be directly or incidentally requisite in order to render the enforcement of the State powers efficacious to the fullest extent, subject always of course to the paramount authority of the United States.⁶ Let us now turn our attention to the attitude maintained by the State courts towards foreign corporations.

One of the familiar features of the present day is the organization of corporations under the laws of one State whose statutes are particularly favorable with the intention of carrying on no business in the State of its organization and with the avowed purpose of carrying on business in other States. Long ago these corporations were nominated as "tramp corporations," and there was at the outset some effort made on the part of the courts to limit the powers and question the legal status of such corporations. There was an attempt made to induce the courts to refuse to judicially recognize such corporations, and to hold their stockholders liable upon their contracts as partners and upon their torts as joint tortfeasors.¹

But the liberal policy of the American States in extending hospitality to foreign corporations and the powerful influence of interstate comity has completely overcome the tendency here referred to, so that at the present day the doctrine is established in practically every State in the Union, that each of these States will recognize as valid a corporation formed under the laws of another State for the express purpose of doing business outside of the State of its origin.²

The broader view taken by the courts on this question is well set forth by the decision of the New York Court of Appeals in Merrick v. Van Sanvoort.³ In this case attempt was made to establish the doctrine that where a Connecticut corporation conducts all its business in the State of New York, it must thereby be deemed to have migrated to New York and to have forfeited its charter, thus permitting creditors of the corporation to hold the members, officers, and agents of the corporation personally liable for the debts and torts of the corporation. In refusing to recognize this doctrine the court spoke as follows:

"Hitherto corporate enterprise has not been trammelled by unfriendly legislation. No jealousy or competition or rivalry of adverse interest has been permitted to convert State lines into barriers of obstruction to the free course of general commerce. Its avenues have been open to all.

"In this country our individual interests are so interwoven that the union of the States is due, in its continuance, if not in its origin, as much to commercial as to political necessity. The citizens of each claim a birthright in the advantages and resources of all. They demand from their local authorities such facilities as the law-making power can afford in the employment of labor and capital. They claim such corporate franchises and immunities as may enable them to compete on equal terms with the citizens of other States. For these, with the structure of our institutions, they naturally look to their own government. They acknowledge a double allegiance in their local and federal relations, which, by general consent, carries with it a correlative community of rights. They may live in an inland State, but they are none the less citizens of a maritime nation, and they may lawfully organize companies at home for traffic on ocean highways.

"A corporate charter is in the nature of a commission from the State to its citizens, and their successors in interest, whether at home or abroad. Each government, in the exercise of its own discretion, determines the conditions of its grant. It is free to impose or omit territorial restrictions, but it can confer general powers to be exercised within its bounds or without them, wherever the comity of nations is respected. For the purpose of commerce such a commission is regarded like a government flag, as a symbol of allegiance and authority; and it is entitled to recognition abroad until it forfeits a recognition at home. . . .

"... We think the policy of this State is in harmony with that of the country, and that it would be neither provident nor just to inaugurate a rule which would unsettle the security of corporate property and rights and exclude others from the enjoyment here of privileges which have always been accorded abroad. Our national commerce is but the aggregate of that of the States, and every needless restriction by the operation of local laws is unjust and calamitous to all. We suppose the rules of comity on which we have hitherto acted to be generally accepted and approved. We see no reason why a Southern State may not grant to a corporation of its planters the right to erect mills for the manufacture of their cotton in New England; nor why the legislature of Massachusetts may not authorize a company of Lowell millers to raise cotton in South America or the Sea Islands. The State of Illinois touches neither the Atlantic nor the Pacific; but if it should organize a company of its citizens on the ocean with its office in the City of New York and its business conducted by managers elected annually in Chicago, the rights of the corporation would be recognized wherever the obligations of national law are respected."

Through the operation of interstate comity corporations organized under the laws of one State may exercise their corporate powers outside of the geographical limits of the State from which they have obtained their charter. The doctrine of the courts on this subject is well set forth by the United States Supreme Court in *Cowell v. Colorado Springs Co.*¹ as follows :

"By the general comity which, in the absence of positive direction to the contrary, obtains through the States and Territories of the United States, corporations created in one State or Territory are permitted to carry on any lawful business in another State and Territory, and to acquire, hold, and transfer property there equally as individuals. If the policy of the State or Territory does not permit the business of the foreign corporations in its limits or allow the corporation to acquire or hold real property, it must be expressed in some affirmative way; it cannot be inferred from the fact that its legislature has made no provision for the formation of similar corporations or allows corporations to be formed only by general law."

A most instructive case in this immediate connection is that of Demarest v. Flack,² wherein the New York Court of Appeals observed that :

"The courts of every State and country recognize foreign corporations through what is termed national or State comity. But whether such recognition shall be given must be decided by the courts of the country where the corporation seeks to do business. In our State, as in others, it is a question of domestic policy, and what that policy is must be determined by an examination of our own legislation. If we find any direct enactment upon the subject, it is our duty to obey it, and in its absence we must determine the question with reference to our general legislation and to the circumstances which surround us as a great and growing commercial community, having need of and employing large amounts of combined capital, and for whose prosperity and growth it is of the utmost importance that such capital should have the greatest facilities extended it for useful employment, with reasonable and proper personal exemptions from liability. We can find no reason for a domestic policy that should exclude from recogtion by our courts foreign corporations generally. It may safely be said there can be no such domestic policy at the present day in a civilized State. . . .

"An examination of our laws shows that it is, and for many years has been, the policy of this State to enlarge the facilities for the formation of corporations. General laws are on our statute book for the formation of corporations of almost every conceivable kind, and under some one of them a corporation of the kind mentioned in the case could readily be formed. The freedom from personal liability would be as great and could be as easily attained under our own as under the laws of West Virginia. The security of the creditor would not be substantially greater in the case of the domestic than in that of the foreign corporation. In the latter the creditor has the remedy by attachment, and he can obtain about as easy access to its property as if it were domestic instead of foreign.

"There is really nothing to evade by incorporating under a foreign law. No harmful results flow to a creditor or to the community here by such incorporation. Where the corporation formed under another jurisdiction comes here to do business of a kind which we permit to be done by corporations, and where our laws provide for incorporating individuals for the purpose of doing that business, it is difficult to see how the terms 'evasion' and 'fraud' can be properly applied to acts of our citizens whereby they obtain incorporation in another State. When they come in our State to do business they must conform to our laws relating to foreign corporations and comply with the terms laid down by us as conditions of allowing them to transact business here. In the case of many kinds of corporations such conditions have already been imposed by our laws, and if there be any kind where none is imposed it is conclusive evidence that up to this time the legislature has not thought it conducive to the true interests of the State and its citizens to impose them. I do not intimate that it is necessary for a State to expressly by statute exclude foreign corporations from acting within its jurisdiction. The policy of the State may exclude them, and that policy may be clearly established by a reference to the general legislation of a State. I find none such in the laws of this State.

"It has been urged that the easy way which our laws provide for forming corporations is itself a reason why we should not recognize as a corporation those of our own citizens who have gone to another State for the purpose of incorporating themselves under the laws thereof, to do business in our own State as such corporation.

"We think there is very little force in the argument. The public policy which we see in our own State, as evidenced by her laws upon the subject of the formation of corporations, is one which looks to their ready and easy formation as a means of transacting business with an accumulation of capital and an exemption from personal liability to the largest extent consistent with reasonable supervision by the State. The facilities for incorporation offered by this State are not the result of any desire to promote the formation of corporations here as against their formation in other States. They are offered because of a policy on our part which urges upon the State the propriety of furnishing them as one means of controlling the business done by them and keeping it within our borders. If in any particular case it is thought by those interested in the matter that the business can be done in our own State and by our own citizens with greater facility under the form of a foreign corporation than under that of a domestic one, there is no public policy which forbids its transaction under such form. The supervision of a foreign corporation by this State may easily be exercised by imposing terms as a condition of permitting it to do business here. The absence of any such terms in our legislation forms no reason for refusing to recognize the corporation. The power rests with the legislature to say whether any, and if so what, terms shall be imposed upon such corporations as a condition of granting them permission to do business here. Those terms can only be imposed by the legislature, and in their absence our courts ought not, merely on that account, to refuse to recognize a foreign corporation. In the absence of legislation, our courts must either refuse absolutely, or else they must recognize the right of such corporations to come to this State and do business here. The courts cannot themselves impose terms or conditions. . . .

"The truth is, foreign corporations are not properly to be regarded with suspicion, nor should unnecessary restraints be imposed upon their doing business in our midst. They carry no black flag, and the policy of all civilized nations is to grant them recognition in their courts. It seems to me that every reason which urges upon us the recognition of foreign corporations organized with power to do business in our State and composed of citizens of the foreign State, is equally potent when the foreign corporation is composed of our own citizens. It has always been supposed that a State should at least deal as liberally with its own citizens as with those of foreign States. If, therefore, we permit foreign citizens to come within our limits in the form of a foreign corporation organized with power to do business here and recognized by us, why should we not permit our own citizens to avail themselves of the like privilege? If we impose terms and conditions upon foreign corporations, as such, doing business here, those same terms and conditions still and equally apply to a foreign corporation when composed of our own citizens. Why should they not be placed at least upon an equality with the foreign citizen?"¹

§ 129. What constitutes doing Business on the Part of a Foreign Corporation within the State.—There is perhaps no subject of corporation law wherein will be found greater diversity in the opinions of the courts of the several Commonwealths than that relating to the rights of foreign corporations. The growth of corporate organization as well as the vast extension of the business of corporations outside of the State of their origin has made the question of determining what in legal effect constitutes doing business on the part of a foreign corporation in States other than that of its domicile one of great practical importance. As has already been observed, parties may incorporate in one State at the present time for the purpose of transacting their business in another Commonwealth.²

In some of the States, notably South Carolina, the legislatures have attempted to give a statutory definition as to what constitutes doing business on the part of a foreign corporation within the Commonwealth. In most of the States, however, the question is left for judicial determination. A fair example of such statutes is to be found in the New York statute³ which provides that "no foreign corporation, other than a moneyed corporation, shall do business in the State without having first procured" a proper certificate from the Secretary of State that it has complied with the statutes in such case made and provided. From the foregoing it will appear that the whole question centres upon the meaning of the word "business" as used in the statutes, of which the foregoing is a fair example. It will be impossible within the limits of this work to discuss at any length the conflicting decisions of the courts on the point here referred to. All that it is proposed to do is to present certain rules which a careful reading of the authorities have shown to represent the prevailing and better considered opinions of the various courts on the questions presented. These rules may be enumerated as follows:

(1) In order to constitute the transaction of business by a foreign corporation within the foreign State, it is not indispensable that it should do the greater part of its business therein. If it does any part of its ordinary business therein and the same cannot properly be styled purely interstate commerce, the same constitutes the transaction of business therein within the meaning of the statute.¹

(2) Generally speaking, the making of a single contract within the foreign State does not constitute the transaction of business therein.² There must be more or less continuity in the matter.

(3) The institution and prosecution of actions not arising out of previous transactions had within the foreign State does not constitute the transaction of business within the meaning of the statute.³

(4) Sales of merchandise by foreign trading corporations made by means of non-resident travelling salesmen, or by correspondence had between the foreign corporation at the domiciliary office and customers in the foreign State, or upon unsolicited orders from customers in the foreign State, do not constitute transaction of business within the meaning of the statute regulating the transaction of business by foreign corporations.⁴

Aside from the question of the nature of the act, there are constitutional grounds upon which it would be held that corporations were not, under the circumstances here referred to, subject to the statutes in such foreign State compelling foreign corporations to obtain a permit to do business therein. The constitutional grounds here referred to have reference to those trading or quasi-public corporations engaged wholly in interstate trade and commerce and therefore not subject to regulation by State enactments.¹ The same rule applies where the corporation is in the employ of the general government.²

(5) Foreign corporations may take mortgages by way of investment or as security, or may take real estate as security or otherwise without coming within the prohibition of the statute, provided such acts are not within the express purposes for which such corporations were created, as for example where they are engaged in the mortgage loan or real estate business.³

(6) Foreign corporations may take property by devise in foreign jurisdictions, if their charter authorizes it, either expressly or by implication, without coming within the purview of the statute.⁴

(7) The mere fact that a corporation pays rent for offices for its agent employed to solicit orders in the foreign State does not in itself prove that the corporation is transacting business within the foreign State.⁵ The question in all such cases is whether it is actually transacting business within the foreign State, and not whether some incident preliminary to the transaction of such business is to be performed there.⁶ The maintenance of an office within the State may be considered as a circumstance done in connection with others to show that a foreign corporation is transacting business in the State, but it is by no means conclusive of the question.⁷

constitute doing business within the foreign State within the meaning of the statute.¹

(9) The renting of an office in a foreign jurisdiction in charge of a selling agent who distributes therefrom samples to customers and to travelling agents whose salaries are paid therefrom, together with the keeping of a bank account in such jurisdiction, does not necessarily constitute doing business within the foreign State within the meaning of the statute.²

Finally, in addition to the foregoing rules, it may not be without value in this connection to call particular attention to a few cases which seem to throw considerable light upon the general subject of what constitutes the transaction of business within a foreign State within the meaning of the Statutes already referred to. Attention is first called to the case of People ex rel. Kellogg Paper Co. v. Roberts.³ Here an Illinois corporation furnished printed matter to local publishers in the State of New York. It kept solicitors in the State of New York to secure advertising patronage for a newspaper published by it in Chicago. For this purpose it had an office in the State of New York with a manager and five clerks. It also kept a New York bank deposit from which rent and salaries were paid amounting to an annual expense of $13,000. It had office furniture in the State of New York valued at $700. It was held that the corporation had no capital employed in the State of New York which rendered its capital stock liable to assessment for taxation. The court in its opinion stated:

"Office conveniences are permitted here to a foreign corporation doing business in another State to solicit orders to be executed in the other States without liability to our franchise tax. In People ex rel. Smith Co. v. Roberts,⁴ the court held that office leases, bank accounts, and the keeping of samples within the State by foreign corporations were nominally incidental to the business of soliciting orders and making sales which the relator could carry on in the foreign State without being liable to taxation. It also observed that the machinery with which an interstate business is carried on is to some extent erected within the State and does not make such business taxable there."

In Vaughan Machine Co. v. Lighthouse,¹ the testimony showed that a foreign corporation had sold merchandise in New York both by agents and by correspondence, and in this case it had no office within the State. Upon the question whether this constituted the transaction of business within the State, the court spoke as follows :

“ The statute does not intend to relate to business conducted in the manner just referred to. It contemplates a location, a domicile, having an office and the investment of some part of its capital within the State. Orders can then be transmitted and dealings had with it at this office and the conduct of its business is thus transferred, in a measure at least, to the headquarters established within the territorial limits of this State. It thus settles within the State, and enjoys the benefits incident to a domestic corporation, and the legislature imposes requirements and obligations upon it by reason of the privilege conferred of doing business like a body corporate organized in this State. It was never intended to hamper trade and restrict interstate commerce by bringing within its ban every corporation which happens to cross the State boundary with its wares to supply customers who have ordered them from the home office.

“ . . . It must be kept in mind that it was not designed to fetter or exclude business from the State. Its aim was to require a foreign corporation, which was on a level in its privileges with one organized here, to bear the burdens and be equally accessible to process with State corporations. To give it the construction contended for by the defendant would interfere with that comity between the States in their trade relations which has been potential in the development of our commercial and industrial business.”

“ This statute — relative to foreign corporations obtaining a permit to do business in this State — was simply declaratory of the policy of the State that foreign stock corporations should not carry on any business in this State which similar corporations organized under its laws could not lawfully conduct. Its purpose was not to avoid contracts, but to provide an effective supervision and control of the business proposed to be carried on here by foreign corporations, and it is absurd to contend that it had no reference to the facts established by the evidence in the case at bar.”

Again, the court said:

"The scope of the law here under consideration is that of merely undertaking to regulate the business of foreign corporations so that they shall not do business under more advantageous terms than those allowed to corporations of this State. It has no relation whatever to the incidental contracts of a foreign corporation made with a domestic corporation, such as the insurance of the property of a lumber company organized under the laws of Florida and doing business in that State."

Finally, attention is called to People ex rel. Dives Pelican Company v. Feitner.¹ In this case a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Colorado had its principal place of business in the State of New York and had an office in the City of New York. The New York office was maintained for the sole purpose of enabling the directors of the corporation to meet in it and declare dividends on its stock. No goods of the corporation were sent to or sold in New York. It had no bills receivable in New York, and the only assets which it had in that State were office furniture and money on hand and in bank which had been sent from its principal office to its New York office for the purpose of paying dividends. It was held that the corporation was not doing business in the State of New York within the meaning of the statute.

§ 130. Penalty for transacting Business in a Foreign State without obtaining a Permit. — The statutes of the various States differ materially with respect to the penalty that attaches to the transaction of business by a foreign corporation without having first complied with the statute relative to obtaining a permit to transact the same. The form of penalty prescribed usually takes one of five forms, to wit:

(1) Suspending the right to maintain suits in the courts of the foreign State until the statute has been complied with. (2) Statutes absolutely prohibiting the right to bring suit on contracts entered into in the foreign State before the obtaining of a permit to do business therein. (3) Statutes providing that all contracts made by a foreign corporation before obtaining a permit to do business in a foreign State shall be absolutely void. (4) Statutes providing penalties in certain designated amount for failure to obtain a permit in a foreign State before transacting business therein. (5) Statutes merely giving the right to the State to bring proceedings to oust or exclude foreign corporations from doing business within the foreign State without having first obtained a permit so to do. Each of the foregoing will now be taken up briefly for separate consideration.

(1) Suspending the right to maintain suits in the courts of the foreign State until the statute has been complied with. Such statutes do not affect the validity of contracts previously made in the foreign State by a foreign corporation, but merely prevent it from enforcing the same therein until it has obtained a permit to do business in such State.¹

(2) Statutes absolutely prohibiting the right to bring suit on contracts entered into in the foreign State before the obtaining of a permit to do business therein. - Such statutes exist in New York and read as follows :

“No foreign corporation now doing business in this State shall do business herein after December 31st, 1892, without having procured such certificate from the Secretary of State ; but any contract previously made by the corporation may be permitted and enforced within the State subsequent to such date. No foreign stock corporation doing business in this State shall maintain any action in this State upon any contract made by it in this State unless prior to the making of such contract it shall have procured a certificate.”

In interpreting this provision of the statutes the Supreme Court, in Dunbarton Flax Spinning Co. v. Greenwich and Johnsonville Railway Company,² spoke as follows :

“Unless prohibited by law, a foreign corporation, duly organized, can come into this State and exercise the legitimate powers conferred upon it and carry on any business not prohibited by our laws or against public policy. The State has the power, however, to compel compliance with its laws or to punish the corporation if it does not do so. And the legislature can deny to such corporation failing to comply with its laws by procuring a certificate and paying the license fee, all recourse to its courts to enforce its rights or to redress its wrongs. These statutes are, however, mere revenue regulations, compliance with which is made necessary in order to acquire the right to do business here and to enforce causes of action in our courts.

"In *Lancaster v. A. I. Co.*¹ it is said to be the policy of the State to encourage foreign corporations to enter its boundaries for the transaction of lawful business, and it is manifestly for the interest of the State that foreign capital should be actively employed within its borders."

(3) Statutes providing that all contracts made by a foreign corporation before obtaining a permit to do business in a foreign State shall be absolutely void. To have the effect stated above the statute must in express terms declare that contracts made by corporations which have not complied with the statute relative to obtaining a permit to do business within a foreign State, shall be absolutely void. Where such is the case, it is entirely clear that no action can be maintained by the corporation thereon in such foreign State.² Such statutes, however, have no extra-territorial effect.

In an Illinois case³ the court spoke as follows :

"To permit the company, when they admit that they have disregarded all these requirements, to recover, would be for the courts to disregard the clearly expressed will of the general assembly, and to say what it has said shall be unlawful is and shall be lawful and binding. To enforce the payment of this note would be, virtually, to repeal a plain enactment of the legislature. When the legislature prohibits an act, or declares that it shall be unlawful to perform it, every rule of interpretation must say that the legislature intended to interpose its power to prevent the act, and, as one of the means of its prevention, that the court shall hold it void. This is as manifest as if the statute had declared that it should be void. To hold otherwise would be to give the person, or corporation, or individual the same rights in enforcing prohibited contracts as the good citizen who respects and conforms to the law. To permit such contracts to be enforced, if not offering a premium to violate law, certainly withdraws a large portion of the fear that deters men from defying the law. To do so places the person who violates the law on an equal footing with those who strictly observe its requirements. That this contract is absolutely void, as to appellee, we entertain no doubt."⁴

⁴ See also McCanna & Fraser Co. v. Company, 74 Fed. 597.

(4) Statutes providing penalties in certain designated amounts for failure to obtain a permit in a foreign State before transacting business therein. In this connection two opposing lines of authority are to be met with, one holding that where a penalty is imposed, this is exclusive, but does not render the contract made by the foreign corporation, out of which the imposition of the penalty arose, invalid.¹ The other, and what appears to us the better, view is that although a specific penalty is provided, this in itself operates to render the contract, out of which the imposition of the penalty arose, illegal and unenforceable in the courts of such foreign State.²

(5) Statutes merely giving the right to the State to bring proceedings to oust or exclude foreign corporations from doing business within the foreign State without having first obtained a permit so to do. Unless some other remedy is prescribed by statute, the proper remedy, in case foreign corporations engage unlawfully in business in a foreign State, is for the State to bring quo warranto proceedings to oust or exclude such foreign corporation from doing business within the foreign jurisdiction.³ In such proceedings the courts have the right to review, if they see fit, the action of the Secretary of State in issuing a permit to such foreign corporation to do business within the State.⁴

§ 131. License Tax on Foreign Corporations. — There is a clear distinction to be observed of course between the creation of a corporation under State authority and the licensing of a corporation already existing, to do business within the jurisdiction of such State.⁵ Sometimes the statute provides that after foreign corporations have complied with certain formalities relative to obtaining a permit to do business within a foreign State, they shall thereby ipso facto become domestic corporations. Under such a statute it has been held that they thereby become for all purposes, except for such matters as pertain to federal affairs, domestic corporations and not mere licensed corporations.⁶ It has been repeatedly held by the United States Supreme Court that State legislatures may impose license taxes to any amount upon foreign corporations as a condition to the granting of the right of such foreign corporations to transact business in a foreign State.¹

In addition to the payment of a tax, there are a number of other requirements in force in the various States differing one from the other, such, for example, as requiring the filing of a copy of the articles of incorporation, appointing an agent within the State to accept and receive service of process, etc. Such requirements if reasonable are valid.²

The State may, if it choose, tax without restriction as to amount or entirely prohibit a foreign corporation from doing business within the State, provided, however, it is not engaged in interstate commerce or is in the employ of the general government.³ Some States, such for example as Ohio, New Jersey, and Nevada, adopt what are known as retaliatory statutes. The purpose of such statutes is to place foreign corporations which do business in foreign States under the same regulations as are imposed by the domiciliary State upon foreign corporations seeking to do business within such State.⁴

The power of a State to exclude foreign corporations from transacting business within its borders cannot be questioned, neither can its motives in so doing.⁵

Thirty-three of the States have imposed the payment of license taxes upon foreign corporations desiring to do business within the foreign State.

§ 132. Annual License Tax on Foreign Corporations. — The right of a State to impose an annual license tax on foreign corporations transacting business within its borders is unequivocally established by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Horn Silver Mining Co. v. State of New York.¹ Upon the subject just referred to, that court spoke as follows:

“The right and privilege, or the franchise, as it may be termed, of being a corporation, is of great value to its members, and is considered as property, separate and distinct from the property which the corporation itself may acquire. According to the law of most States this franchise or privilege of being a corporation is deemed personal property and is subject to separate taxation. The right of the States to thus tax it has been recognized by this court and the State courts in instances without number. It was said, in Delaware Railroad Tax,² that ‘the State may impose taxes upon the corporation as an entity existing under its laws, as well as upon the capital stock of the corporation or its separate corporate property. And the manner in which its value shall be assessed, and the rate of taxation, however arbitrary or capricious, are mere matters of legislative discretion,’ except, we may add, as that discretion is controlled by the Organic Law of the State. And, as we there said also, ‘it is not for us to suggest in any case that a more equitable mode of assessment or rate of taxation might be adopted than the one prescribed by the Legislature of the State; our only concern is with the validity of the tax; all else lies beyond the domain of our jurisdiction.’

“The granting of the rights and privileges which constitute the franchises of a corporation being a matter resting entirely within the control of the legislature, to be exercised in its good pleasure, it may be accompanied with any such conditions as the legislature may deem most suitable to the public interests and policy. It may impose as a condition of the grant, as well as, also, of its continued exercise, the payment of a specific sum to the State each year, or a portion of the profits or gross receipts of the corporation, and may prescribe such mode in which the sum shall be ascertained as may be deemed convenient and just. There is no constitutional inhibition against the legislature adopting any mode to arrive at the sum which it will exact as a condition of the creation of the corporation or of its continued existence. There can be, therefore, no possible objection to the validity of the tax prescribed by the statute of New York, as far as it relates to its own corporations. Nor can there be any greater objection to a similar tax upon a foreign corporation doing business by its permission within the State. As to a foreign corporation — and all corporations in States other than the State of its creation are deemed to be foreign corporations — it can claim a right to do business in another State to any extent, only subject to the conditions imposed by the laws.

“This doctrine has been so frequently declared by this court that it must be deemed no longer a matter of discussion, if any question can ever be considered at rest.

“Only two exceptions or qualifications have been attached to it in all the numerous adjudications in which the subject has been considered, since the judgment of this court was announced more than half a century ago in Bank of Augusta v. Earle.¹ One of these qualifications is that the State cannot exclude from its limits a corporation engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, established by the decision in *Pensacola Teleg. Co. v. Western U. Teleg. Co.*² The other limitation upon the power of the State is, where the corporation is in the employ of the general government, an obvious exception, first stated we think by the late Mr. Justice Bradley in *Stockton v. Baltimore & N. Y. R. Co.*³ As that learned justice said, ‘If Congress should employ a corporation of ship-builders to construct a man of war, they should have the right to purchase the necessary timber and iron in any State in the Union.’ And this court, in citing this passage, added, ‘without the permission and against the prohibition of the State.’⁴

“Having the absolute power of excluding the foreign corporation, the State may, of course, impose such conditions upon permitting the corporation to do business within its limits as it may judge expedient; and it may make the grant or privilege dependent upon the payment of a specific license tax, or a sum proportioned to the amount of its capital. No individual member of the corporation or the corporation itself can call in question the validity of any exaction which the State may require for the grant of its privileges. It does not lie in any foreign corporation to complain that it is subjected to the same law with the domestic corporation. The counsel for the appellant objects that the statute of New York is to be treated as a tax law, and not as a license to the corporation for permission to do business in the State. Conceding such to be the case, we do not perceive how it in any respect affects the validity of the tax. However it may be regarded, it is the condition upon which a foreign corporation can do business in the State, and in doing such business it puts itself under the law of the State, however that may be characterized.”

From the foregoing opinion it is clear that it is unquestionably within the power of the various State legislatures to impose an annual license tax upon foreign corporations transacting business within their limit. However, but few of the States have chosen thus far to exercise this power. Alabama, Colorado, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, and West Virginia are the only States which impose an annual license tax upon foreign corporations. In each of these States the tax is a graduated one, the amount thereof depending either upon the authorized capitalization of the corporation, or the amount of the capital stock represented by capital invested in the foreign State where such annual license tax is imposed.

§ 133. To what Extent is the Taxing Power of the State with Reference to Domestic and Foreign Corporations Engaged in Interstate Commerce Limited by the "Commerce Clause" of the Federal Constitution? — The question as to the extent of the legislative power of the various State legislatures with reference to taxing domestic and foreign corporations must always be arrived at by giving due consideration to the limitations imposed upon this power by the provisions of what is known as the "Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution."¹

Again, this question, in order to permit of intelligent consideration, must be viewed from four standpoints, to wit: (1) What effect, if any, has the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution upon the right of the several States to impose organization taxes upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce? (2) What effect, if any, has the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution upon the right of the several States to impose franchise taxes upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce? (3) What effect, if any, has the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution upon the right of the several States to impose license taxes upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce? (4) What effect, if any, has the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution upon the right of the several States to impose property taxes upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce? Each of these will now be taken up for separate consideration.

(1) What effect, if any, has the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution upon the right of the several States to impose organization taxes upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce? The State is said to possess inherent power to tax its corporations. So the State has undoubted power to exact a bonus for the granting of a franchise, payable in advance or in futuro.¹ A round sum or an annual charge, with or without reference to capital stock, may be asked by the legislature for such a franchise.² In discussing the question of the right of a State to impose a fee, a license or a tax upon corporations, the Supreme Court of the United States in Ashley v. Ryan,³ spoke as follows:

“At the time the articles were presented for filing, the statute law of the State charged the parties with notice that the benefits which it was sought to procure could not be obtained without payment of the tax for consolidation which the Secretary of State exacted. As it was within the discretion of the State to withhold or grant the privilege of exercising corporate existence, it was as a necessary resultant also within its power to impose whatever conditions it might deem fit as prerequisite to corporate life. The act of filing, constituting, as it did, a claim of a right to the franchise granted by the State law, carried with it a voluntary assumption of any burden with which the privilege was accompanied, and without which the right of corporate existence could not have been procured. Having thus accepted the act of grace of the State and taken the advantages which sprang from it, the corporation cannot be permitted to hold on to the privilege or right granted and at the same time repudiate the condition by the performance of which it could alone obtain the privilege which it sought. That the right to be a State corporation depends solely upon the grace of the State and is not a right inherent in the parties, is settled.

“ . . . It follows from these principles that a State in granting a corporate privilege to its own citizens, or, what is equivalent thereto, in permitting a foreign corporation to become one of the constituent elements of a consolidated corporation organized under its laws, may impose such conditions as it deems proper, and that the acceptance of the franchise in either case implies a submission to the conditions without which the franchise could not have been obtained.”

The right of the State to impose such taxes upon the organization of a corporation is in no wise affected by the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution; this, too, even when the corporation is formed for the express purpose of engaging in interstate commerce. In the words of the United States Supreme Court, "the right and privilege of being a corporation is of great value to its members, as it is considered as property separate and distinct from the property which the corporation may acquire. According to the law of most States this franchise, or privilege of being a corporation, is deemed personal property and is subject to separate taxation. The right of the State to thus tax it has been recognized by this court and the State courts in instances without number."¹

(2) What effect, if any, has the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution upon the right of the several States to impose franchise taxes upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce? Again, attention is here called to the decisions of the United States Supreme Court relative to the exercise of the power in question. "The granting of the rights and privileges," observes that tribunal, "which constitute the franchises of a corporation, being a matter resting entirely within the control of the legislature, to be exercised in its good pleasure, it may be accompanied with any such conditions as the legislature may deem most suitable to the public interests and policy. It may impose as a condition of the grant as well as also of its continued exercise, the payment of a specific sum to the State each year, or a portion of the profits or gross receipts of the corporation, and may prescribe such mode in which the sum shall be ascertained as may be deemed convenient and just. There is no constitutional inhibition against the legislature adopting any mode to arrive at the sum which it will exact as a condition of the creation of the corporation or of its continued existence. There can be, therefore, no possible objection to the validity of the tax prescribed by the statutes of any State so far as it relates to its own corporations, nor can there be any greater objection to a similar tax upon a foreign corporation doing business by its permission within the State. As to a foreign corporation, it can claim a right to do business in another State to any extent only subject to the conditions imposed by its statutes. Only two exceptions or qualifications have been attached to the foregoing, to wit: One is that the State cannot exclude from its limits a corporation engaged in interstate or foreign commerce. The other limitation is that where the corporation is in the employ of the government. Having the absolute power to exclude the foreign corporation, the State may of course impose such conditions upon permitting the corporation to do business within its limits as it may judge expedient; and it may make the grant or privilege dependent upon the payment of a specific license tax or a sum proportioned to the amount of its capital. No individual member of the corporation or the corporation itself can call in question the validity of any exaction which the State may require for the grant of its privileges. It does not lie in any foreign corporation to complain that it is subjected to the same law with the domestic corporation."¹

In a certain sense the imposition of an organization tax is as much the levying of a franchise tax as the imposition by a State of annual taxes upon corporations in return for the right to exercise their corporate powers within the jurisdiction of the State. The one has been defined to be a "franchise to be," and the other as a "franchise to do."²

(3) What effect, if any, has the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution upon the right of the several States to impose license taxes upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce? Strictly speaking, the imposition of a franchise tax has reference only to domestic corporations, while license taxes, when applied to corporations, have reference not only to domestic corporations, but to foreign corporations as well. Foreign corporations, as such, can be taxed by foreign States only upon corporate property situated within such foreign State, or upon the business done there. They cannot be taxed in a foreign State on account of their corporate franchises, as that was not given by the laws of the foreign State but was dependent upon the laws of the State of its creation and had an existence separate therefrom. A corporation may, through its agents, extend its operations into other States, and thus, metaphorically speaking, go there; but it never really travels, and its franchises exist only at the place of its domicile and residence.³

On the other hand, there is clear distinction between a license tax and a property tax. The former involves a charge for permission or authority to transact certain business, while the latter, when applied to corporations, is a contribution imposed upon and measured by the property of the corporation.¹

The right to impose a license tax upon corporations is subject to the following limitation: If the tax is essentially a regulation of interstate commerce and its imposition does not constitute a proper exercise of the police power of the State, then it comes within the inhibition of the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution.²

Again, in Pembina Consolidated Silver Mining & Milling Co. v. Pennsylvania,³ the United States Supreme Court spoke as follows:

“The exaction of a license fee to enable the corporation to have an office for the transaction of its business within a foreign State is clearly within the competency of the legislature of that State. The recognition of the foreign corporation’s existence in a foreign State, even to the extent of allowing it to have an office within its limits for the use of its officers, agents, and employees, was a matter dependent upon the will of the State. It could make the grant of the privilege conditional upon payment of a license tax and fix the same according to the amount of the authorized capital of the corporation. The absolute power of exclusion includes the right of a conditional and restricted exercise of its corporate powers within the State. The equal protection of the laws which these bodies may claim is only such as is accorded to similar associations within the jurisdiction of the State. The plaintiff in error is not a corporation within the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania. The office it hires is within such jurisdiction, and on condition that it pays the required license tax it can claim the same protection in the use of the office that any other corporation having a similar office may claim. It would then have the equal protection of the law so far as it had anything within the jurisdiction of the State, and the constitutional amendment requires nothing more. The State is not prohibited from discriminating in the privileges it may grant to foreign corporations as a condition of their doing business or hiring offices within its limits, provided always such discrimination does not interfere with any transaction by such corporations of interstate or foreign commerce. It is not every corporation lawful in the State of its creation that other States may be willing to admit within their jurisdiction or consent that it have offices in them; such, for example, as a corporation for lotteries. And even where the business of a foreign corporation is not unlawful in other States the latter may wish to limit the number of such corporations or to subject their business to such control as would be in accordance with the policy governing domestic corporations of a similar character. The States may therefore require for the admission within their limits of the corporations of other States, or of any number of them, such conditions as they may choose, without acting in conflict with the concluding provision of the first section of the Fourteenth Amendment.

“The only limitation upon this power of the State to exclude a foreign corporation from doing business within its limits, or hiring offices for that purpose, or to exact conditions for allowing the corporation to do business or hire offices there, arises where the corporation is in the employ of the Federal Government, or where its business is strictly commerce, interstate or foreign. The control of such commerce, being in the Federal Government, is not to be restricted by State authority.”

In *Waters Pierce Oil Co. v. Texas*¹ it was said that :

“Having no absolute right of recognition in other States, but depending for such recognition and enforcement of its contracts upon their assent, it follows, as a matter of course, that such assent may be granted upon such terms and conditions as those States may think proper to impose. They may exclude the foreign corporation entirely; they may restrict its business to particular localities, or they may exact such security for the performance of its contracts with their citizens as in their judgment will best promote the public interest. The whole matter rests in their discretion.”

In Hooper v. California,² conditions imposed upon a foreign corporation were considered, and a statute was sustained, making it a misdemeanor for a person in California to procure insurance for a resident in that State from an insurance company not incorporated under its laws, and which had not filed a bond required by the law of the State. All preceding cases were cited, and it was assumed as settled “that the right of a foreign corporation to engage in business within a State other than that of its creation, depends solely upon the will of such other State." And the exception to the rule was stated to be "only cases where a corporation created by one State rests its right to enter another and to engage in business therein upon the federal nature of its business."

A State may tax the franchise of a domestic corporation or impose a license tax upon a foreign corporation, but can only subject a corporation engaged in interstate commerce or in the employ of the general government to such property taxation as only incidentally affects its occupation, as all business, whether of individuals or corporations, is affected by common governmental burdens.¹

The power to license is a police power, although it may be exercised for the purpose of raising revenue.² But the State in the exercise of the police power cannot impede interstate commerce by discriminating taxes.³

The question next arises as to what constitutes a proper exercise of the police power on the part of a State. A State may lawfully in the exercise of this power provide for security of lives, limbs, health, and comfort of persons and protection of property, or in regulation of highways, canals, railways, and other commercial facilities, passage of laws to regulate sale of articles deemed injurious to health or morals of community; imposition of taxes on persons residing within the State and upon occupations pursued therein, not directly connected with foreign or interstate commerce or with some other business exercised under authority of the United States and imposition of taxes upon all property within the State mingled with and forming part of the great mass of property therein.⁴

(4) What effect, if any, has the interstate commerce clause of the Federal Constitution upon the right of the several States to impose property taxes upon corporations engaged in interstate commerce?

A State may tax corporations for their privileges within the State in lieu of all other taxes, provided the amount is made dependent on the value of its property within the State and payment is not a condition precedent to the right to carry on its business. The tax then becomes a mere property tax and not an interference with interstate commerce.¹

The existence of federal supervision over interstate commerce is not inconsistent with the power of the State to control its internal commerce and to tax franchises, property, or business of domestic corporations engaged in such commerce, nor with power to tax foreign corporations on property within the State.² In this connection it has been well said that

"commerce between the States consists of intercourse and traffic between their citizens and includes the transportation of persons and property, and the navigation of public waters for that purpose as well as the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities. It makes no difference whether such commerce is carried on by individuals or by corporations. It is true that the property of corporations engaged in foreign or interstate commerce, as well as the property of corporations engaged in other business, is subject to State taxation, provided always it is within the jurisdiction of the State. Where there is jurisdiction on the part of the State neither as to persons nor property, the imposition of a tax is unconstitutional and void. If the legislature of a State enacted that the citizens of another State or country should be taxed in the same manner as the persons within its own limits, and subject to its authority or in any other manner whatsoever, such a law would be as much a nullity as if in conflict with the most explicit constitutional inhibition. Jurisdiction is as necessary to valid legislative as to valid judicial action. It has been repeatedly decided, and is settled law, that a tax upon the capital stock of a corporation is a tax upon its property and assets; that it is undoubtedly competent for the legislature to lay a franchise or license tax upon foreign corporations for the privilege of doing business within the State, but that such a tax is in no sense a license tax. It is a fundamental principle that in order to tax the corporation it must have a domicile within the State; that when it is sought to tax capital stock of a corporation, the law imposing such a tax must be construed to mean so much of the capital stock as is measured by the property actually brought within the State by the corporation in the transaction of its business. To the States must be conceded power to exclude foreign corporations altogether from its borders or to impose a license tax so heavy as to amount to the same thing. They must be denied the power to tax either persons or property not within their jurisdiction.”¹

PART II.

SYNOPSIS-DIGEST OF THE INCORPORATION ACTS OF THE SEVERAL STATES AND TER- RITORIES OF THE UNITED STATES.

(Revised to July 1st, 1912.)

ALABAMA.

(The references are to the Code of Alabama, 1907, where not otherwise stated.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — Business corporations are organized under the Act of October 2, 1903, found in the Acts of Alabama, 1903, page 310. This act will be found contained in Chapter 69 of the Code of Alabama, 1907, which went into effect May 1, 1908. Under this act corporations may be organized "for any lawful business or businesses of any kind or nature whatsoever."

2. Incorporators. — Three or more. There are no residential requirements (sec. 3445). Each of the incorporators must be a subscriber for at least one share of stock (sec. 3446).

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation. — The certificate must contain (sec. 3446):

a. Name. — Similarity of names is forbidden. If the name of a person or partnership be assumed, it must be followed by the addition of some word designating the nature of at least one of the businesses to be carried on, followed by the word "Company" or "Corporation, and Inc."

b. Purposes. — The objects for which the corporation is to be formed. Corporations may be formed under the General Act for any purpose whatever, and for as many purposes as desired. The only limitation is that banking and trust company powers cannot be exercised by corporations formed for any other purpose.

G. L. & H. Ins. Co. v. Kamper, 73 Ala. 325; Beggs v. Company, 96 Ala. 295.

c. Domiciliary Office. — Location of principal office in the State.

d. Capital Stock. — The amount of total authorized capital stock not to be less than $2,000. There is no maximum limit. The number of shares into which it is divided, also amount of capital stock with which it will commence business, not to be less than twenty-five per cent of the authorized capital, in no case less than $1,000. If there be more than one class of stock, the certificate must contain a description of the different classes of stock, with the terms on which each class is created.

Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238.

e. Subscription Agent. — The name and post-office address of the officer or agent designated by the incorporators to receive subscriptions to the capital stock.

f. Incorporators, Directors, and Officers. — Names and addresses of the incorporators, together with the number of shares subscribed for by each, this representing the amount of capital stock with which the corporation will begin business. In addition, the incorporators' names, and names and addresses of the directors and officers for the first year must be given. (See ante, sec. 2, and post, sec. 12.)

g. Corporate Existence. — Duration of corporate existence, which may be perpetual if desired.

h. Corporate Rules and Regulations. — Provisions desired for the regulation of the business and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, creating and defining the powers of the corporation, the directors and stockholders or any class or classes of stockholders.

NOTE. — Additional statements are required for railway transportation, canal, telegraph, telephone, and public utility corporations (see sec. 3446, sub. 1, 8, 9).

4. Statutory Powers. — The statute gives to corporations organizing under the General Act the following powers, which being such as existed at common law without any statutory enumeration thereof may be termed "common law powers." They are as follows: (1) The power of succession; (2) to sue and be sued; (3) to make, use, and alter the corporate seal; (4) to adopt by-laws; (5) to purchase and hold real property for the purposes of the organization; (6) to receive and grant by the corporate name; (7) to appoint officers and agents; (8) to borrow money; (9) to issue negotiable paper; (10) to mortgage the corporate property (Id. sec. 72).

Falconer v. Campbell, 2 McLean, 195.

In addition to the foregoing statutory enumeration of the common law powers of corporations, the following additional powers are conferred: To hold stockholders' and directors' meetings without the State, provided certain preliminary formalities are observed (sec. 3481, sub. 7); to carry on corporate business in other States and foreign countries (sec. 3481, sub. 9); to subscribe for, purchase, and hold stock and bonds of other corporations (sec. 3481, sub. 10); under certain conditions to operate railroads (sec. 3485); to issue bonds and mortgages or create indebtedness without limit with the consent of a majority of the stockholders first obtained (sec. 3481, sub. 3); to accept real and personal property in payment of capital stock (sec. 3481, sub. 3); to create liens upon the stock of members for debts due the corporation (sec. 3481, sub. 5; as to power of corporations to consolidate see sec. 3481, sub. 11, secs. 3502–3508 inclusive).

Railway, mining, manufacturing, and quarrying corporations may construct, acquire, and operate steamboats, barges, ships for transportation of freight and passengers (sec. 3494). They may also subscribe for or aid any other corporation in the construction of a railroad, etc. (sec. 3496).

Mining, manufacturing, and quarrying corporations may construct and operate to and from their plants, railways, tramways, canals, tunnels, and roads, and, as common carriers, transport freight and passengers thereon (sec. 3500).

Only corporations formed for the transaction of a banking or trust company business can engage in banking within the State (sec. 3524).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — ALABAMA.

Corporations also have power to issue preferred stock ; to authorize voting by proxy at stockholders' meeting ; to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments (sec. 3446, sub. 4; secs. 3479, 3478, 3476).

Chemacla Lime Works v. Dismukes, 87 Ala. 344; Westinghouse Machine Co. v. Wilkinson, 79 Ala. 312; Simmons v. Troy Iron Works, 92 Ala. 427; Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238; A. I. & I. Co. v. McKeever, 112 Ala. 134; London v. Sample Lumber Co., 91 Ala. 606; Perry v. Company, 93 Ala. 364.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate must be signed by all the subscribers to the capital stock named therein. The statute does not expressly require that the certificate be acknowledged by the subscribers. The certificate must then be filed and recorded in the office of the probate judge of the county where the corporation will have its principal place of business. After it has been recorded the probate judge endorses thereon a certificate of registration. Within ten days after the filing of the certificate in the office of the probate judge, the corporation must cause to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State a statement signed by said probate judge, giving the name of the corporation, the names of its incorporators, the date of the incorporation, the amount of the capital stock, and the name of the county in which located. For filing such statement a fee of fifty cents must be paid to Secretary of State. The certificate must have attached to it a statement under oath by the person authorized by the incorporators to receive subscriptions to the capital stock, which shall show the amount of capital stock which has been paid in and the amount of stock secured by contracts for stipulated labor or services or transfer of property, which amount shall be at least twenty per cent of the stock subscribed for, and in no case less than $1,000. At the time the certificate is filed with the judge of probate the incorporators must pay the organization tax to the judge of probate. A copy of the subscription list must be also attached to the certificate (secs. 3446-3450 inclusive).

Corporate existence commences as soon as the articles are filed and recorded in the office of the probate judge of the county where the domiciliary office is located and the organization tax and filing fees paid (sec. 3454).

Co.*, 128 Ala. 652; 29 Sou. 611; Bolling & Son v. Le Grand, 87 Ala. 482; 6 Sou. 332; Bebb v. Hall & Farley, 101 Ala. 79; 14 Sou. 98; *C. & C. Co. v. 6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no statutory limit upon the amount of indebtedness that may be contracted by a business corporation. To create a bonded indebtedness or increase the same, or to mortgage the real property of the corporation, the vote of the larger amount of stock present and voting at a meeting duly called for that purpose must be had (sec. 3481, sub. 3).

Under the Constitution (Art. XIV, sec. 6) corporations cannot issue bonds except for money, labor done, or money or property actually received, and all fictitious increase of indebtedness shall be void.

Nelson v. Hubbard, 96 Ala. 238; 11 Sou. 428; Dexter v. McClellan, 116 Ala. 37; 22 Sou. 461.

7. Organization Tax. — At the time the certificate is filed in the office of the judge of probate the incorporators must pay to him for the use of the State a charter fee of one dollar for every $1,000 of authorized capital stock, but in no case less than $5 (sec. 3450).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — To the probate judge for recording certificate of incorporation fifteen cents for each one hundred words; for examining the certificate $2.50 (sec. 3449); for filing the statement required by section 3455 to be filed with the Secretary of State, there shall be paid to the probate judge of the county in which the company was organized a fee of $2.50 for the use of the State (sec. 3455).

9. Commencing Business. — Twenty-five per cent of the authorized capital stock of a corporation must be subscribed in good faith, payable in money before the commencement of corporate existence, but subscribers may have the privilege of discharging the same in services, labor, or property at the reasonable value for such services, labor or property. Twenty per cent of all subscriptions for stock must be actually paid in, and said amount must never be less in the aggregate than $1,000 (sec. 3446, sub. 4; sec. 3447). Business must be commenced within five years from the date that the charter issues (sec. 3515).

10. Organization Meetings. — A preliminary organization is effected by the incorporators meeting within the State (by proxy, if desired) and authorizing some person to receive subscriptions to the capital stock of the proposed corporation. After the charter is secured from the State by the compliance with the necessary formalities prescribed by statute (as stated above), the incorporators, who, under the statute, must likewise be subscribers to the capital stock, should sign a written consent to the holding of an organization meeting, fixing the time and place for holding the same. The incorporators should then organize by adopting by-laws and by the transaction of other routine organization business. There is no statutory time prescribed within which this organization meeting must be held, the law simply providing that non-user of corporate franchise for a period of five consecutive years is a forfeiture of such franchise.

11. Meetings, Stockholders' and Directors'. — In the absence of the written consent of all resident stockholders, stockholders' meetings must be held within the State, but such meetings may be held without the State upon the written consent of such resident stockholders acknowledged before an officer authorized to take acknowledgments and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State. All corporations holding their stockholders' meetings without the State must give the name and residence within the State of the agent in charge of their principal office within the State, to be signed by the president or secretary of the corporation under the corporate seal. The certificate should then be filed in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the probate judge of the county in which it has its principal office. A copy of all proceedings had at stockholders' and directors' meetings held without the State must be deposited with such agent. Written consent of the stockholders residing within the State, for stockholders' meetings to be held without the State when filed in the office of the Secretary of State, shall remain in force until revoked. Directors' meetings may be held within or without the State as the by-laws may provide (sec. 3481, sub. 7. As to notice of meetings, see sec. 3478).

Brockway v. G. M. L. Co., 102 Ala. 620; 15 Sou. 431.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. — a. Qualifications. There must be at least three directors, who shall be stockholders and hold office for one year or until their successors are elected. There are no residential requirements (sec. 3463).

b. Liabilities. — Any president, director, or managing officer of any corporation, by whatsoever name or title he may be known or called should so do or omit to do any act or should so make any declaration or statement in writing or otherwise, with the intent to depreciate the market value of the stock or bonds of such corporation, and with the further intent to enable such president, director, or other managing officer or any other person to buy any such stock or bonds at less than the real value thereof, must on conviction be fined not more than $500 and shall be sentenced to hard labor for the county for not less than five nor more than twelve months (sec. 6623). Any officer, agent, or servant of any private or municipal corporation, who keeps false books or accounts or makes false entries therein, with the intent to deceive, injure, or defraud such corporation or the officers or agents thereof, or if a private corporation, the stockholders therein, must on conviction be fined not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, and may also be sentenced to hard labor for the county for not more than two years, one or both, at the discretion of the jury (sec. 6927).

See Wilson v. Stevenson, 129 Ala. 630; Smith v. P. R. Co., 30 Ala. 650; Fitzpatrick v. D. P. Co., 83 Ala. 604; 2 Sou. 727.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable for the debts of the corporation only on the unpaid stock owned by them (sec. 3468). The corporation may, by the adoption of a proper by-law, place a lien upon the shares of its stockholders for any debt or liability they may incur to the company (sec. 3476, Cons., Art. XLV. sec. 8).

Lea v. Company, 119 Ala. 271; 24 Sou. 28; Nierosi v. Company, 115 Ala. 429; 22 Sou. 147.

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate signed by the president and secretary or treasurer. The par value may be any amount (sec. 3469; sec. 3446, sub. 4).

15. Preferred Stock. — Preferred stock is expressly authorized under the new act (sec. 3479). If provided for in the original certificate of incorporation, the terms on which it is issued must be therein stated (sec. 3446, sub. 4). In such cases it must be accompanied by the assent of the original subscribers to the capital stock expressed in their subscription (sec. 3479). If subsequent to incorporation it is desired to issue preferred stock, this may be done by the vote of the holders of two-thirds in value of the capital stock outstanding at a meeting called for that purpose. The proceedings of this meeting must be certified to the Secretary of State and filed and recorded in his office. After this has been done, preferred stock, not to exceed two-thirds of the capital stock paid in in cash or property, may be issued. Each stockholder shall be first entitled to the privilege of taking such preferred stock in proportion to the amount of common stock held by him, or a less amount should he desire, before the preferred stock is offered for sale to the public (Id. sec. 43; Cons., Art. XLV. sec. 9).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Under the Constitution corporations can only issue stock for money, labor done, or money or property actually received. All fictitious increase of stock is void (Cons., Art. XIV. sec. 6).

All subscriptions to capital stock must be paid in cash, except that, if so provided in the contract of subscription, such subscriptions may be discharged by the rendition of stipulated necessary services, or the performance of stipulated necessary labor, or the transfer of property at the reasonable value thereof. In such cases the subscription list shall state the names of such subscribers, with the nature of the services or labor to be performed and a brief description of the property and when it is to be transferred to the company (sec. 3467).

Company*, 92 Ala. 407; 9 Sou. 129; Nicrosi v. Drove, 102 Ala. 648; 15 Sou. 429.

17. Books. — It is contemplated by the statute that the books, records, and papers of the corporation shall be kept at the principal office within the State unless the by-laws otherwise provide. The statute gives to all stockholders the right of access to, and inspection and examination of such books, records, and papers at reasonable and proper times (sec. 3477). It is specially provided that a stock register shall be kept with an agent in the State, showing list of stockholders, transfers, and hypothecations (sec. 3473).

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation must have an office within the State, and an agent in charge thereof upon whom process may be served (sec. 3481, sub. 7).

19. Reports. — No annual reports are required (sec. 2361, sub. 26).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is an anti-trust statute in force within the State (Cons. 1902, Art. IV. secs. 74, 103, Code of 1907, secs. 7579 to 7582 inclusive, see also Id. secs. 2487, 2488).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Non-user for a period of five consecutive years is ground for forfeiture of the charter upon proper action taken by the State (sec. 3515). Also non-payment of license tax.

22. Amendments. — If through misunderstanding or inadvertence occurring at the time of incorporation, the corporation has failed to comply with any of the requirements of the act, the president or other executive head of the corporation may supply such omission or defect by filing in the office of the judge of the probate court in the county in which the corporation was organized, a statement in writing, under oath, setting forth the omission or error and supplying or correcting the same (sec. 3461).

In regard to material amendments desired after incorporation the following may be said: Under section 3462 of the Code of Alabama of 1907. Every corporation chartered under this chapter or under any general or special law of this State may change the nature of its business, the par value of the shares of its stock, change the location of its principal office in this State, renew or extend its corporate existence, change its corporate name, and make such other amendment, alteration, or change of its charter as may be desired in the following manner: the board of directors shall pass a resolution declaring that such change or alteration or extension is desirable and calling a meeting of the stockholders to take action thereon; if the holders of the larger amount in value of each class of stockholders having voting powers shall vote in favor of such alteration, change, amendment, renewal or extension, a certificate thereof shall be signed by the president and secretary under the corporate seal, acknowledged or proved as in the case of deeds of real estate, and such certificate, together with the written assent, signed in person or by proxy, of the stockholders holding a majority in value of each such class, shall be filed in the office of the judge of probate of the county where the corporation has its principal place of business, and upon the filing of the same the certificate of incorporation shall be deemed to be so renewed or extended; provided that such certificate of change, alteration, amendment, renewal, or extension shall contain only such provisions as would be lawful and proper to insert in an original certificate of incorporation, made at the time of making such amendment.

To increase or decrease the number of directors the consent of the persons holding the larger amount in value of the capital stock expressed by a vote cast at a regular meeting or at a special meeting called for that purpose, is necessary (sec. 3466). The capital stock or bonded indebtedness may be increased by the consent of the persons holding the larger amount in value of the capital stock obtained in favor thereof, at a regular meeting of the stockholders or a special meeting thereof called for that purpose on thirty days' notice, the notice of the meeting in either case to state what increase is proposed to be made. If at such meeting the consent of the holders of the larger amount in value of the capital stock shall be given to a specified increase of the capital stock or bonded indebtedness, a report thereof, certified by the president or secretary of the corporation under the corporate seal, must be filed and recorded in the office of the judge of probate of the county in which the corporation was organized. A like proceeding is necessary in order to decrease the capital stock, special provision being made as to the manner in which such decrease shall be effected. (See sec. 3480.)

23. Renewal of Corporate Existence. — The term of existence may be extended at pleasure by compliance with the statute in such case made and provided. (See sec. 3462; sec. 3481, sub. 14.)

24. Annual Privilege Tax. — When paid up capital is under $10,000, $10; when it exceeds $10,000 and does not exceed $25,000, $15; when it exceeds $25,000 and does not exceed $50,000, $25; when it exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $100,000, $50; when it exceeds $100,000 and does not exceed $200,000, $75; when it exceeds $200,000 and does not exceed $300,000, $125; when it exceeds $300,000 and does not exceed $400,000, $170; when it exceeds $400,000 and does not exceed $500,000, $200; when it exceeds $500,000 and does not exceed $1,000,000, $300; when it exceeds $1,000,000, $500. The tax becomes due January 1st (sec. 2361, sub. 26).

At the time application is made for the issuance of the annual license to corporations required by law, it must be accompanied by the affidavit of the president or other chief officer of the corporation, showing the amount of capital stock of such corporation. But the payment of this tax in one county in Alabama, as evidenced by the certificate issued by the judge of probate of that county, shall be sufficient (sec. 2361, sub. 26).

25. Dissolution. — Dissolution may be effected by an agreement of all stockholders signed and acknowledged, filed and recorded with the probate judge of the county of organization, and published in a newspaper of county of principal place of business four weeks; or (if such agreement cannot be had) holders of two-thirds in value of stock may petition Court of Chancery or other court of competent jurisdiction for dissolution (secs. 3510-3514).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Under Art. XII. sec. 232 of the Constitution of Alabama, 1901, and under the provisions of sec. 3642 of the Code of

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — ALABAMA.

Alabama, 1907, no foreign corporation can do business within the State until it has filed with the Secretary of State a written statement, designating at least one known place of business within the State, and naming an agent within the State, located at its own place of business, upon whom as such agent service of process may be made and all legal notices served for all the purposes contemplated by the laws of the State of Alabama. There must also be filed with the foregoing a certified copy of its articles of incorporation. The statement to be filed must be in writing under the seal of the corporation and signed officially by the president and secretary thereof. The transaction of business by foreign corporations without having first filed the written statement hereinbefore referred to, renders it liable to forfeit and pay to the State the sum of $1,000 (secs. 3642-3646).

The legislature is directed by the Constitution to provide for the payment of a license tax by foreign corporations to be based on the actual amount of capital employed by them within the State.

Foreign corporations are required before engaging in the transaction of business within the State to pay to the treasurer for the use of the State the following fees. Each foreign corporation whose actual amount of capital employed within this State is $100 or less, shall pay a charter fee of twenty-five per cent of the actual amount of capital employed or to be employed in the State by it. Each foreign corporation whose actual amount of capital employed in this State exceeds $100 and does not exceed $1,000, shall pay a charter fee of twenty-five per cent upon the first $100 of the actual amount of capital employed in this State, by it, and five per cent on all such remaining actual amount of capital employed in this State by it over $100 and up to and not exceeding $1,000. Each foreign corporation whose actual amount of capital employed in this State exceeds $1,000 shall pay a charter fee of twenty-five per cent upon the first $100 of actual amount of capital employed in this State by it, and five per cent upon all such capital employed in this State by it over $100 and up to $1,000, and one-tenth of one per cent on such actual amount of capital in excess of $1,000. All corporations or mutual companies which have no capital stock shall pay a fee of $25 (sec. 3647 as amended by Laws of Special Session of 1907, p. 200). This tax is payable annually each year while the corporation is transacting business within the State.

Under sec. 3648 of the Code of 1907, such foreign corporation shall at the time of paying said fee into the treasury file in the office of the State Auditor an instrument in writing under the seal of the corporation and signed officially by the president or other chief officer and the secretary of such corporation, showing the name of the corporation, and the State or country under whose laws it was incorporated, the amount of the total authorized capital of such corporation, its principal place of business, the name of the authorized agent of said corporation in this State, and the post-office address of such authorized agent of such corporation in this State, and the location of the principal place of business of such corporation in this State; and also a statement showing the actual amount of capital employed in this State by such corporation, if such corporation is at the date of the filing of such statement engaged in business in this State, and if such corporation is not at the date of the filing of such statement engaged in business in this State, such statement shall state the actual amount of capital to be employed by such corporation in this State, which statement shall be sworn to by the president or other executive officer and the secretary of said corporation before some officer authorized under the laws of this State to administer oaths or take acknowledgment of conveyances. If the auditor shall have any reason to believe that any statement made in such instrument so filed in his office is untrue, or that any fact or facts stated in such instrument is incorrectly stated, he shall have power to demand of such corporation, its officers or agents, an inspection of the books, records, and papers of the said corporation for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsity of any such statement, and any corporation which shall refuse to permit the auditor, or such person as may be designated by him, to inspect the books, records, and papers of such corporation when such examination is demanded by the auditor, shall not be permitted to transact any business or do any act in its corporate capacity in this State until such inspection is made. If the auditor, upon making such inspection of the books, records, and papers of such corporation shall find that the amount of capital to be employed or which is employed by the said corporation in this State is in excess of the amount stated in such statement filed by such corporation, he shall make demand upon such corporation, its officers or agents, for the payment of the difference in amount between the charter fee for which such corporation would be liable upon the amount of capital set forth in said statement and the amount of the charter fee for which such corporation would be liable upon the amount of capital set forth in said statement, and the amount of the charter fee which such corporation would be liable upon the amount of said capital as ascertained by the auditor from his inspection of the books, records, and papers of such corporation, and any such corporation which shall fail or refuse for the space of sixty days after the date that such demand is made by the auditor to pay said amount found by the auditor to be due it in excess of the amount shown to be due by it in such statement, shall not be permitted to engage in business or do any act in its corporate capacity in this State at any time within five years from the date of such demand (sec. 3648).

No foreign corporation required to pay a tax under this act shall do any business in the State of Alabama not constituting interstate commerce, or maintain or defend any action in any of the courts of this State upon a contract made in this State other than contract based upon interstate commerce unless such corporation shall have paid such tax within sixty days after the same became due. Provided that this act shall not apply to foreign corporations engaged in the business of lending money in Alabama (sec. 2396).

All foreign corporations are required to procure annually from the Secretary of State a license to transact business within the State. This license must be procured prior to January 1st of each year, and for issuing the same the Secretary of State is entitled to charge and receive $10 (sec. 3652). In addition to the foregoing enumerated license taxes each foreign corporation must pay annually to the judge of probate of the county where it has a resident agent a franchise tax, for the use of the State, equal in amount and assessed in the same manner as the charter fee referred to above. They must also file with the judge of probate the same detailed information required to be filed by foreign corporations with the State Auditor as enumerated above. The act further provides that in addition to the amount of franchise taxes required to be paid by each foreign corporation to the State, as here stated, all foreign corporations shall in addition thereto pay to the county, for the use of the county, an amount equal to one-half of the amount paid by it to the State (sec. 2399). The annual license tax must be paid prior to January 1st of

ALASKA.

(The references are to the Act of Congress [Public Act, 135] approved March 2, 1903, unless otherwise stated, Vol. 32, U. S. Revised Statutes, chap. 978, sec. 5, pp. 947-952.)

1. Statute under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Alaska is found in Acts of Congress No. 135, approved March 2, 1903. Under this act corporations may organize for the purpose of transacting the following lines of business in Alaska only, to wit: railway, street railway, wagon road, canal, flume, telegraph, telephone, mining, fishery, smelting, electric power, lighting, dock, wharfage, elevator, warehouse, hotel, trade, transportation, agricultural, lumbering, and manufacturing companies.

2. Incorporators. — Three or more adult persons, all of whom must be bona fide residents of the District of Alaska (sec. 1).

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation. — Articles must contain:

a. Corporate Name. — Similarity of names not forbidden (sec. 2).

b. Purposes. — Nature and character of the business. May be incorporated for one or more of the purposes above enumerated (Id.).

c. Domiciliary Office. — Principal place for transacting business.

d. Duration. — Time of commencement and period of continuance not to exceed fifty years (Id.).

e. Capital Stock. — Amount of capital stock and manner in which the same is to be paid in, and the number and par value of the shares (Id. sec. 10).

f. Indebtedness. — Highest amount of indebtedness or liability that may be incurred (Id.).

g. Names of Incorporators. — Names and residences of the incorporators (Id.).

h. Directors. — Number and names of first board of directors, and also statement as to what officers shall have charge of the management of the corporate affairs and when they shall be elected and their terms of office (Id.). If desired, provision may be inserted for manner of calling first meeting of directors (sec. 9).

4. Statutory Powers. — The statute merely enumerates the common law powers of corporations. The power to remove officers and directors is expressly granted, as well as the right of stockholders to vote by proxy. Stock may be forfeited for non-payment of assessments (secs. 4-6, 10).

5. Procuring the Charter. — Incorporators must subscribe and acknowledge written articles of incorporation in triplicate. One of these must be filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of the District of Alaska and another in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the recording division where the principal place of business of the corporation is to be located; the third to be retained in the possession of the corporation. Corporate existence commences as soon as the foregoing steps have been taken (secs. 2-4).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — The corporate indebtedness cannot exceed the capital stock (sec. 17).

7. Organization Tax. — There is no organization tax in the District of Alaska.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The filing and recording fees in the office of the Secretary of the District of Alaska have not yet been fixed by the Attorney-General of the United States. On this subject the Attorney-General of the United States writes as follows:

"The Attorney-General has not prescribed any schedule of fees covering the filing of papers in the office of the Secretary of the District of Alaska, for the reason that it has been and is considered very doubtful whether he is authorized by Section 30, Chapter 1, Title I. of the Act of June 6, 1900, to do so.

"Under Section 10 of the above-named chapter and title, the Surveyor General, ex officio Secretary of the District, gets a salary of four thousand dollars per annum as full compensation. It seems clear therefore that he (the Secretary) would not be authorized to retain for his own use any fees prescribed by the Attorney-General for services rendered in filing papers in the office of the Secretary. In view of the fact that Congress provided a salaried officer to perform the services rendered by such Secretary, and neither prescribed fees therefor nor provided how the Secretary should account for fees if prescribed by the Attorney-General, it seems that the Attorney-General is not authorized to prescribe fees for such services."

With respect to the fees of the clerks of the courts in the District of Alaska it should be noted that sec. 828 of the Revised Statutes of the United States has been made applicable to the services rendered by clerks of the Federal courts. (See also paragraph 535 of Instructions to United States judges, marshals, attorneys, clerks, and commissioners for the District of Alaska, effective from and after August 1, 1902.) For recording articles in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the recording division where the principal place of business of the corporation is to be located, a fee of 15 cents per folio must be paid for such service. (See Public Act No. 150, Title I. sec. 30, approved January 6, 1900.)

9. Commencing Business. — Business may be commenced as soon as the articles are filed in the proper offices and the organization effected (sec. 4). Within thirty days after any change of officers a certificate thereof is required to be filed in the office of the clerk of the District Court (sec. 20). Directors must also take oath of office (sec. 6).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held in the District of Alaska. Corporations must organize within one month after filing articles of incorporation by the adoption of by-laws (secs. 9-16). Unless otherwise provided in articles of incorporation, the first meeting of directors must be called by one or more of the persons named as directors in the certificate, by notice served personally on the resident directors and published at least twenty days in a newspaper at or nearest the principal place of business of the corporation in Alaska (sec. 9).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the District of Alaska. The requirement that a majority of the directors must be residents of the district would ordinarily necessitate holding all meetings of the board of directors there (sec. 6).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be not less than three directors, who shall be stockholders, and a majority shall be residents of the District of Alaska. They are each required to subscribe to an oath of office (sec. 6).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for illegal payment of dividends and for the unlawful withdrawal of any part of the capital stock of the corporation, unless absent from meeting or their dissent is entered at length upon the minutes (sec. 13).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — ALASKA.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable only for the amount that remains unpaid upon the par value of their stock (sec. 14).

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a stock certificate signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe. The par value of stock may be any amount.

15. Preferred Stock. — There is no provision for preferred stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued in consideration of money, labor, or property, estimated at its true money value (sec. 14).

17. Books. — Books of account, stock books, and record books must be kept at its principal office in Alaska. These are open to the inspection of stockholders (sec. 16).

18. Office and Agent. — The office and the principal managing officer or superintendent must respectively be maintained and reside in the District of Alaska (secs. 2, 16).

19. Reports. — The president, secretary, and treasurer must annually make out and publish weekly for three weeks a statement showing, first, number of shares of stock outstanding; second, amount paid in on each share; third, actual paid up capital of the corporation; fourth, actual cash value of the property and its location; fifth, statement of debts and liability and a description of the same; sixth, salaries paid officers, manager, and superintendent; seventh, increase or decrease, if any, in the stock, the capital and the liability of the corporation during the preceding year. On or before September 1st of each year, or within thirty days after any change in the officers of a corporation, there must be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the recording division where the principal office of the corporation is located, a list containing the names of the principal officers, including the president, cashier, secretary, and managing agents (secs. 20, 23).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute specially applicable to the District of Alaska. (See Anti-Trust Act, U. S. Statutes of 1890, chap. 647.)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — An action may be maintained in the name of the United States, whenever the governor shall so direct, against a corporation, either public or private, for the purpose of avoiding the act of incorporation, or the act renewing or modifying its corporate existence, on the ground that such act or either of them was procured upon some fraudulent suggestion or concealment of a material fact by the persons incorporated, or some of them, or with their knowledge and consent; or for annulling the existence of such corporation, when the same has been formed under any general law operating in this district therefor, on the ground that such incorporation, or any renewal or modification thereof, was procured in like manner (sec. 338).

An action may be maintained in the name of the United States against a corporation, other than a public one on leave granted by the court or judge thereof where the action is triable, for the purpose of avoiding the charter or annulling the existence of such corporation whenever it shall —

First. Offend against any of the provisions of the acts, or either of them creating, renewing, or modifying such corporation or the provisions of any general law under which it became incorporated; or,

Second. Violate the provisions of any law by which such corporation forfeits its charter by abuse of its powers; or,

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — ALASKA.

Third. Whenever it has forfeited its privileges or franchises by failure to exercise for a period of one year its powers; or,

Fourth. Whenever it has done or omitted any act which amounts to a surrender of its corporate rights, privileges, and franchises; or,

Fifth. Whenever it exercises a franchise or privilege not conferred upon it by law.

Sixth. Whenever any such corporation or association of persons shall combine for the purpose of forming a trust or agreement to prevent competition or to control the price production or sale of any goods, products, or merchandise (sec. 339).

22. Amendments. — To increase or decrease the capital stock a meeting of stockholders must be called by notice signed by at least a majority of the directors, and published weekly for at least eight consecutive weeks in some established newspaper published at or near the principal place of business of the corporation in the District of Alaska, which notice shall specify the object of the meeting, the time and place where it is to be held, and the amount to which it is proposed to raise or diminish the capital stock. The proposed increase or decrease in stock must be approved by a vote of two-thirds of all the shares of stock. Thereupon a certificate of proceedings, showing compliance with the foregoing provisions, the amount of the capital stock actually paid in, the whole amount of debts and liabilities of the company, and the amount to which the capital stock is to be decreased and diminished shall be made out, signed, and verified by the affidavit of the presiding officer and secretary of the meeting, and certified to by a majority of the directors, and filed and recorded in the same manner as original articles of incorporation (secs. 17-19; sec. 2, sub. 7; sec. 7). In the same manner and upon such additional notice as may be provided in the articles of incorporation or by-laws, any of the general provisions of the articles of incorporation may be amended, and upon a like vote, unless a different vote be required in the articles of incorporation. Thereupon such amended articles must be filed and recorded in the same manner as provided for original articles (secs. 17-19; sec. 2, sub. 7; sec. 7).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for the extension of corporate existence.

24. Dissolution. — The corporation may be dissolved by the voluntary action of the stockholders taken as provided for in the act (secs. 21-22).

25. Annual License Fee. — There is no annual license fee in the District of Alaska.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Under Act of June 6, 1900, chap. 23 of Title III. U. S. Statutes at Large, 1900, pp. 321-528, a foreign corporation, whether created under the laws of the United States or those of any State or Territory of the United States, is required, before doing business within the District of Alaska, to file with the secretary of the district and the clerk of the District Court for the division within which the business is to be carried on, an authenticated copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, and a statement verified by oath of the president and secretary of the corporation, and attested by a majority of the directors, showing: name and location of principal place of business without, and also (if it have one) within the district; amount of capital stock; amount thereof paid in in money, and amount paid in any other way, and manner thereof; amount of assets and of what they consist, and actual cash value thereof; liabilities, and if any of its indebtedness is secured, how and upon what property. It must also file with the foregoing papers a certificate under seal of the president, vice-president, or other acting head of the corporation, and the secretary, if there be one, certifying that such corporation has consented to be sued in the courts of the district upon all causes of action arising against it in the district, and that process may be served upon a designated agent residing in the district; and must file therewith written consent of such agent. Such corporation must also annually, within thirty days from July 1, report in substantially the same form required in the foregoing statement and containing similar information (Civil Code, secs. 225, 226, 228, 229, 231).

1. Statute under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The General Corporation Act in force in Arizona went into effect September 1, 1901. It is found in the Revised Statutes of 1901, secs. 761-783 and secs. 909-925 and amendments thereto. It is entitled "Title XIII.;" chap. 2 thereof refers to corporations. In 1903 an act was passed amending secs. 766-770 of the act above referred to. Under it parties may incorporate for any lawful purpose.

2. Incorporators (R. S., sec. 764). — Any number of persons may be incorporators; there are no residential requirements.

3. Contents of Articles of Incorporation. — The articles of incorporation must state the names of the corporators, name of corporation, and the principal place of business of the corporation within the Territory. Similarity of names is not expressly forbidden. The business of the company must be indicated by its corporate name (Laws of 1912, chap.).

b. General Nature of the Business proposed to be transacted. — The Territorial Auditor allows as many purposes as may be desired to be inserted in the articles. Special provisions are made for railway, insurance, savings and loan, and eleemosynary corporations.

B. B. Co. v. A. & C., Ariz., 35 Pac. 983.

c. Capital Stock. — The amount of the capital stock authorized, and the time when, and conditions upon which, it is to be paid in. Capital stock under this section is without limit as to amount. The par value of the shares may be any amount.

d. Corporate Existence. — The time of commencement and termination of the corporate existence of the corporation. This period is limited by the statute to twenty-five years (sec. 771). Corporate existence may be renewed for another period of twenty-five years upon a vote of three-fourths of the stockholders given at a meeting duly held for that purpose (sec. 771).

e. Officers and Directors. — The names of the officers or the persons by whom the affairs of the corporation are to be conducted, and the times at which they are to be elected. Reference should be made in the articles to a board of directors of a designated number, to be elected annually by the stockholders. So far as the statute is concerned, one would scarcely know that the corporations organized under the General Act were supposed to have a board of directors (Laws of 1903, chap. 88).

f. Corporate Liability. — The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which a corporation can at any time subject itself. This liability must not in any case exceed two-thirds of the capital stock (sec. 767).

g. Annual Meeting. — This is inserted by inference from sec. 5 of the Amendment of 1903, which requires a statement of time at which the officers in charge of the affairs of the corporation are elected.

h. Stockholders' Liability. — Unless the private property of the stockholders is expressly exempt in the articles of incorporation from liability for corporate debts, stockholders are liable for the debts of the corporation in the proportion which their stock bears to the entire capital stock.

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — ARIZONA.

2. Corporate Rules and Regulations. — While the statute does not authorize the insertion in the articles of any corporate rules and regulations, the Territorial Auditor permits such rules and regulations to be inserted in the articles filed in his office. (See Laws of 1903, Act 88.)

4. Statutory Powers. — The statute (sec. 705) enumerates the common law powers of corporations. A sinking fund may be established for the payment of debts (sec. 777). No mining or manufacturing corporation can have the power to operate or construct any railway, tramway, turnpike, or public highway, except such as lead from their principal work to adjacent streams, railways, or highways (sec. 781). Specific power is given to forfeit stock for non-payment of subscriptions (Laws of 1907, chap. 38). As to powers of railroad corporations see Laws of 1909, chap. 83.

Keyser v. Shuts, 29 Pac. 386.

5. Procuring the Charter (secs. 767-769). — The articles must be signed and acknowledged before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments. Under the new corporation act which went into effect in the State of Arizona in 1912, the original articles must be filed with the Corporation Commission, a body having a membership of three. A certified copy of the original articles must then be filed in the office of the county recorder of the county where the principal place of business of said corporation within the State is located. When this has been done, the Corporation Commission issues a certificate of incorporation. The articles must then be published at least six times in some newspaper published in the county in which the corporation's principal place of business is located or works established, and an affidavit of publication thereof must be filed in the office of the County Recorder, for which no fee is charged. The act provides that there shall be no collateral inquiry into the legality of the corporate existence (secs. 770, 780; Laws of 1903, Act 88).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Must not exceed two-thirds of capital stock (sec. 767; Laws of 1903, chap. 88).

7. Organization Tax. — There is no organization tax imposed.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — For filing articles of incorporation with the Corporation Commission, a fee of $10 is charged. For filing appointment of agent, $5; for issuing certificate of incorporation, $10; fee for issuing certified copy of articles is twenty cents per folio, and $1 for certificate and seal. For filing annual report, $5; for filing and recording articles in local county recorder's office, twenty cents per folio of one hundred words.

9. Commencing Business (sec. 769). — Before commencing business the corporation must appoint a bona fide resident of the Territory, who is a resident of three years' standing, as its agent upon whom process may be served against the corporation. The certificate of such appointment duly certified to by the proper officers of the corporation must be filed in the office of the Territorial Auditor (sec. 783, Laws of 1903, chap. 82). The corporation may commence business as soon as the articles of incorporation are filed for record in the office of the county recorder, and a certified copy thereof with the Territorial Auditor. The publication of the articles must be made and an affidavit thereof filed in the office of the Territorial Auditor within three months from date of filing same with county recorder (sec. 769). No specified amount of capital stock need be subscribed for or paid in before commencing business. Business must commence within five years from the time the charter is issued (sec. 774).

10. Organization Meeting. — There is no statute in force in Arizona expressly permitting the holding of either the organization or stockholders' meetings outside of the Territory of Arizona. The Territorial officials, however, permit articles of incorporation to be filed and recorded in their offices wherein it is expressly provided that both organization and stockholders' meetings may be held without the Territory. In the case of Chase v. Fleming, decided by the Arizona District Court in 1904, it was held as follows: In this particular case the articles of incorporation provided that the principal place of business of the corporation should be at Philadelphia; that the affairs of the corporation should be conducted by a board of thirteen directors; that the incorporators should serve as directors for one year, and should meet and organize as a board of directors immediately after the filing of the articles and should adopt by-laws; that the board of directors should be elected at such time and manner as should be prescribed in the by-laws. The incorporators held a meeting in Philadelphia shortly after the articles were filed in Arizona, at which meeting by-laws were adopted. These by-laws provided that the annual stockholders' meeting should be held on the first Wednesday in December of each year at the principal office of the corporation within Arizona, or at the branch office in Philadelphia, as the board of directors should determine. The meeting, the validity of which was in question in the case, was held in Philadelphia. The court held that the board of directors elected at the meeting in Philadelphia was a de facto but not a de jure board. They held that the respondent Fleming having attended such meeting as a stockholder was estopped to question its validity. The court held that such meeting and the acts of the stockholders taken thereat were not ipso facto void, but voidable only at the instance of the person affected, provided such person has a legal right to question the act complained of, and provided, further, that he has not estopped himself from so questioning them. In the case in question the articles of incorporation expressly provided that the time and manner of the election of the board of directors should be prescribed in the by-laws, and the by-laws afterwards adopted, provided that the stockholders' meeting "should be held at the principal office or branch office as the board of directors should determine."

11. Meetings, Stockholders' and Directors'. — There is no statute authorizing stockholders' meetings to be held without the Territory. In the case of Chase v. Fleming, decided by the local District Court at Phoenix, Arizona, in 1904, the court made the following holding: "A corporation duly organized may not, except by express authority of law, legally act as such corporation through its stockholders outside the state of its creation. A meeting of the stockholders so held is unlawful, and the acts of the stockholders thereat are invalid. Such meeting and the acts of the stockholders thereat are not, however, ipso facto void, but voidable only at the instance of a person affected who has the right to question them. A stockholder present and acquiescing may not, however, question the legality of the meeting or the acts performed thereat." Directors' meetings may be held within or without the Territory, as the by-laws may provide. In the absence of any statute giving that right, authority to vote by proxy at stockholders' meetings should be provided for in the articles of incorporation.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There may be any number of directors. They need not be stockholders, and there are no residential requirements.

b. Liabilities. — Every officer, agent, or clerk of any corporation or of any person proposing to organize a corporation, or to increase the capital stock of any corporation, who knowingly exhibits any false, forged, or altered book, paper, voucher, security, or other instrument of evidence, to any public officer or board authorized by law to examine the organization of such corporation, or to investigate its affairs, or to be allowed an increase of its capital, with intent to deceive such officer or board in respect thereto, is punishable by imprisonment in the territorial prison not less than three nor more than ten years (Penal Code, sec. 502).

Every person who, without being authorized so to do, subscribes the name of another to or inserts the name of another in any prospectus, circular, or other advertisement or announcement of any corporation or joint stock association, existing or intended to be formed, with intent to permit the same to be published, and thereby to lead persons to believe that the person whose name is so subscribed is an officer, agent, member, or promoter of such corporation or association, is guilty of a misdemeanor (Penal Code, sec. 503).

Every director of any stock corporation who concurs in any vote or act of the directors of such corporation, or any of them, by which it is intended either (1) to make any dividend, except from the surplus profits arising from the business of the corporation, and in the cases and manner allowed by law; or (2) to divide, withdraw, or in any manner, except as provided by law, pay to the stockholders, or any of them, any part of the capital stock of the corporation; or (3) to discount or receive any note or other evidence of debt in payment of any instalment actually called in and required to be paid, or with the intent to provide the means of making such payment; or (4) to receive or discount any note or other evidence of debt, with the intent to enable any stockholder to withdraw any part of the money paid in by him, or his stock; or (5) to receive from any other stock corporation in exchange for the shares, notes, bonds, or other evidences of debt of their own corporation, shares of the capital stock of such other corporation, or notes, bonds, or other evidences of the debt issued by such other corporation, is guilty of a misdemeanor (Penal Code, sec. 504).

Every director, officer, or agent of any corporation or joint stock association, who knowingly receives or possesses himself of any property of such corporation or association, otherwise than in payment of a just demand, and who, with intent to defraud, omits to make or to cause or direct to be made, a full and true entry thereof in the books or accounts of such corporation or association, and every director, officer, agent, or member of any corporation or joint stock association who with intent to defraud, destroys, alters, mutilates, or falsifies any of the books, papers, writings, or securities belonging to such corporation or association, or makes or concurs in making any false entries, or omits or concurs in omitting to make any material entry, in any association, is punishable by imprisonment in the territorial prison not less than three nor more than ten years, or by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding six months, and a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment (Penal Code, sec. 707).

Every director, officer, or agent of any corporation or joint-stock association who knowingly concurs in making, publishing, or posting any written report, exhibit, or statement of its affairs or pecuniary condition, or book or notice containing any material statement which is false, or refuses to make any book or post any notice required by law, in the manner required by law, other than such as are mentioned in this chapter, is guilty of a felony (Penal Code, sec. 508).

Every officer or agent of any corporation having or keeping an office within this territory who has in his custody or control any book, paper, or document of such corporation, and who refuses to give to a stockholder or member of such corporation lawfully demanding during office hours, to inspect or take a copy of the same, or any part thereof, a reasonable opportunity so to do, is guilty of a misdemeanor (Penal Code, sec. 509).

Every director of a corporation or joint stock association is deemed to possess such a knowledge of the affairs of his corporation as to enable him to determine whether any act, proceeding, or omission of its directors is a violation of this chapter (Penal Code, sec. 512).

Every director of a corporation or joint stock association who is present at a meeting of the directors at which any act, proceeding, or omission of such directors in violation of this chapter, occurs, is deemed to have concurred therein, unless he at the time causes, or in writing requires, his dissent therefrom to be entered in the minutes of the directors (Penal Code, sec. 513).

Every director of a corporation or joint stock association, although not present at a meeting of the directors at which any act, proceeding, or omission of such directors in violation of this chapter occurs, is deemed to have concurred therein, if the facts constituting such violation appear on the records of the minutes of proceedings of the board of directors, and he remains a director of the same company for six months thereafter, and does not within that time cause, or in writing require, his dissent from such illegality to be entered in the minutes of the directors (Penal Code, sec. 514).

It is no defence to a prosecution for a violation of the provisions of this chapter, that the corporation was one created by the laws of another territory, State, government, or country, if it was one carrying on business or keeping an office therefor within this territory (Penal Code, sec. 515).

The term "director" as used in this chapter embraces any of the persons having by law the direction or management of the affairs of a corporation by whatever name such persons are described in its charter or known by law (Penal Code, sec. 516).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Unless the articles of incorporation specifically exempt them from liability, stockholders are liable for the debt of the corporation in the proportion which their shares of stock bear to the whole capital stock. Stockholders are individually liable to the amount of the unpaid instalments on the stock owned by them or transferred to them for the purpose of defrauding creditors, and an execution against the corporation to that extent may be levied upon the private property of such stockholder (Id. sec. 776; Laws of 1903, chap. 88).

14. Stock Certificates. — The statute does not require specifically the issuance of stock certificates, nor does it prescribe who shall sign the same. This must be regulated by the by-laws. The par value of the stock certificates may be any amount.

15. Preferred Stock. — The statute does not expressly authorize the issuance of preferred stock. The Territorial Auditor permits the filing of articles in his office providing for preferred stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The statute is silent as to how the capital stock shall be paid. In the absence of express provisions in the articles authorizing the payment of stock in property or services, stock must be paid for in money or money's worth. (See Penal Code, sec. 504, sub. 5.)

17. Books. — The statute does not specifically require that any books shall be kept within the Territory. It does, however, require that a transfer book shall be kept showing the names of the persons by whom and to whom stock transfers are made, the number of shares, and the date of the transfer. It must also show the original stockholders, their respective addresses, the amount which has been paid in, and all transfers thereof. Such books and records or correct copies thereof, so far as they relate to the items mentioned above, shall be at all times subject to the inspection of any stockholder (Id. sec. 778). The location of the transfer book would appear to be presumptively, if not actually, at the principal place for transacting business (Penal Code, sec. 509).

18. Office and Agent (Id. sec. 783). — All corporations are required to name in their articles the location of their principal place of business within the Territory. They are also required to appoint a bona fide resident of the Territory, who has a residence of three years' standing, as the agent upon whom process may be served within the Territory (Laws of 1903, Act 82). This appointment must be filed with the Territorial Auditor (Laws of 1903, chap. 82).

19. Reports. — An annual statement must be filed in the office of the State Corporation Commission by all corporations in June of each year. For filing this statement a charge of $5 is made.

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute in force in the Territory except such as have been passed by Congress and are in force everywhere. (See Penal Code, sec. 504, forbidding the acquisition of the stock and bonds of other corporations.)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The statute provides that persons acting as a corporation under the General Act shall be presumed to be legally organized until the contrary is shown, and no such franchise shall be declared to be actually null and forfeited except in a regular proceeding brought for that purpose (Id. sec. 779). The statute further provides that any corporation organized or attempted to be organized under the General Act shall cease to exist by non-user of its franchise for five years at any one time (Id. sec. 774). Charter may be forfeited for failure to appoint and maintain resident agent (Laws of 1903, Act 88. For additional grounds for forfeiture of charter, see Laws of 1903, chap. 82).

22. Amendments (Id. sec. 770). — Capital stock may be increased or decreased and articles may be amended in any particular by the affirmative vote of a majority of the stockholders. Such amendments shall be signed and acknowledged by the president and attested by the secretary of the corporation, and must be recorded and published in the same manner as the original articles (Laws of 1903, Act 88).

23. Annual Franchise Tax. — Every corporation must pay in the month of June of each year a registration fee of $15. There must also be filed at the same time an annual statement, for the filing of which a charge of $5 is made.

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — May extend corporate existence for an additional period of twenty-five years (Id. sec. 771).

25. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved by a majority vote of its members unless a different rule is adopted in the articles of incorporation (Id. secs. 772, 775. For grounds for involuntary dissolution of a corporation, see Laws of 1903, chap. 82).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Before transacting business in the Territory foreign corporations must file a certified and duly authenticated copy of their articles of incorporation or charter, and the appointment of an agent upon whom process may be served with the Auditor of the Territory and with the county recorder of each county in which it does business or has an office. The appointment of the agent must be in writing, signed by the president and attested by the secretary of the corporation, and be based upon a resolution duly adopted by the board of directors. The agent must have been a bona fide resident of the county wherein appointed, for three consecutive years prior to his appointment. The corporation must publish six times in some newspaper published in each of said counties a copy of its articles of incorporation, and upon the expiration of such publication file an affidavit thereof in the office of the Territorial Auditor. The appointment of the agent must be by the board of directors. Fees for filing and recording are the same as for domestic corporations (Id. secs. 909-925). Except in the case of corporations organized for mining or manufacturing purposes, foreign corporations are limited to real estate holdings of 320 acres (sec. 913).

ARKANSAS.

1. Statute under which Business Corporations may incorporate. —

The general Business Corporation Act of Arkansas is to be found in Kirby's Digest of the Statutes of Arkansas, 1904, chap. 31, secs. 824 to 871 inclusive; 953 to 958 inclusive, and acts amendatory thereof. Special acts exist for the incorporation of navigation, traction, lighting, trust and surety, turnpike and plank roads, bureaus of immigration, railway, raft and boom companies, and eleemosynary corporations. Under the act corporations may be chartered for any lawful purpose not covered by the special acts referred to.

2. Incorporators. — Three or more. There are no residential requirements (sec. 837).

3. Contents of the Articles of Association (sec. 845). — The articles of association must contain:

a. Name. — Any name permitted.

b. Incorporators. — Names and residences of the incorporators.

c. Domiciliary Office. — The location of the principal place of business and the office of the company for the transaction of business within the State.

d. Purposes. — Persons desiring to incorporate under the General Act may do so by setting forth the purposes for which the corporation is formed. These purposes include any kind of manufacturing, mechanical, mining, and other lawful business not provided for by special acts. The Secretary of State permits the insertion of as many purposes as are desired, provided they are not covered by special acts (secs. 837, 845).

e. Capital Stock. — The amount of capital stock must be stated. There is no limit as to what this amount may be. The amount of capital stock subscribed for by the several incorporators must be set forth, and this should be followed by a provision that the residue of the capital stock may be issued and disposed of as the board of directors may from time to time order and direct.

f. Number and Par Value of Shares. — The par value of the shares must be $25 (sec. 838).

g. Directors. — The number of the directors must be set forth, together with the provision that they shall all be stockholders of the corporation, and to this should be added a provision that the board of directors shall elect one of its members president and another as vice-president, and shall also elect a secretary and treasurer. The number of directors may be any number not less than three. There are no residential requirements, but they must be stockholders, and must be chosen annually by the stockholders at such time and place as shall be provided by the by-laws of the corporation (sec. 841). The president is a statutory officer and must be a director. The secretary and treasurer are also statutory officers, but need not necessarily be directors. The last two named must reside and have their place of business within the State.

h. First Election for Directors. — This clause should provide that the first election for directors shall be held immediately after the organization of the corporation, and that the directors shall serve for one year and until their successors are elected.

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — ARKANSAS.

i. Powers of the Board of Directors. — This clause may provide that the board of directors are empowered to establish all by-laws and regulations necessary to the management of the business and affairs of the corporation and to alter and repeal the same at pleasure.

j. Organization Meeting. — This clause should fix a time and place for the holding of the organization meeting, and should contain a waiver by the incorporators of the notice of such meeting.

k. Corporate Existence. — Corporate existence under the statute is perpetual. The period of existence is not required to be stated.

4. Statutory Powers. — The statutory powers found in the General Incorporation Act are the usual common law powers of corporations (secs. 847, 850, 851). There is a statutory lien given the corporation upon the stock of members for debts due it (secs. 847, 865-868). Voting by proxy is permitted. The right to issue preferred stock is granted (Laws of 1905, chap. 330).

S. W. Co. v. Bank, 68 Ark. 234; 57 S. W. 257; Conway et al., ex parte, 4 Ark. 302.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles of association must be subscribed by each of the incorporators. The statute provides that any two of the incorporators may call the first meeting of the corporation at such time and place as they may appoint, by giving notice thereof in any one or more newspapers published in the county in which such corporation is to be established, or in any adjoining county, at least fifteen days before the time appointed for such meeting. But such notice may be waived in writing, signed by all the subscribers to the capital stock of such company, specifying the time and place for said first meeting, which writing shall be entered at full length upon the records of the corporation; and the first meeting of such corporation which has been held pursuant to such written waiver of notice shall be valid. At this organization meeting the incorporators proceed to the election of a board of directors and the adoption of by-laws for the corporation. The directors must then meet and elect a president, secretary, treasurer, and such other officers as the by-laws of the corporation shall prescribe (secs. 840, 841, 843). The statute further provides that before any corporation shall commence business, the president and directors thereof shall file their articles of association and also subscribe under oath or affirmation to a certificate setting forth the purposes for which said corporation is formed, the amount of its capital stock, the amount actually paid in, and the names of its stockholders and the number of shares by each respectively owned, with the clerk of the county in which the corporation is to have its principal place of business; and shall file said articles and certificate bearing the endorsement of the county clerk in the office of the Secretary of State. Said certificate shall be recorded by said county clerk and Secretary of State in books kept by them for that purpose. Upon the filing of such endorsed articles and certificate with the Secretary of State, and the payment of the organization tax, the Secretary of State is authorized to issue a certificate of incorporation in the form prescribed by statute, which certificate or certified copy thereof is prima facie evidence of due incorporation (sec. 845).

Town of Searcy v. Yarnell, 47 Ark. 269; Fleener v. State, 58 Ark. 98.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limit prescribed by statute to the creation of corporate indebtedness. To create a bonded indebtedness the consent of the larger amount in value of stock must be obtained at a meeting duly called for that purpose. Bonds cannot be issued except for money or property actually received or labor done, and all fictitious increase of indebtedness is void (Cons., Art. XII. sec. 8).

7. Organization Tax. — All domestic corporations upon incorporation must pay into the treasury of the State for the filing of their articles a fee of $25, where the capital stock is $10,000 or under; and one-tenth of one per cent for all in excess of $10,000. The organization tax thus imposed includes the fee of the Secretary of State for filing articles and issuing the charter (Act of 1911, No. 89).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The organization tax includes the fees of the Secretary of State for filing and recording the articles of association. For the issuance of a certificate of incorporation, $5. The charge for issuing a certified copy of articles of incorporation is 15 cents per hundred words, and $1 for certificate. This usually amounts to $2.50. The charge for filing and recording amendments to articles of incorporation is $10 for filing and 15 cents per hundred words for recording. The fee for recording the articles in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the corporation is to have its principal place of business is 10 cents per hundred words and 50 cents for certificate of filing. This fee usually varies from $2.50 to $5 (sec. 857).

9. Commencing Business (Id. sec. 845). — Corporations may commence business as soon as the president and board of directors have filed a true copy of the articles of association and the certificate referred to in sec. 5 above.

Garnett et al. v. Richardson et al., 35 Ark. 144; Connor v. Abbott, 35 Ark. 365; Blackwell v. State, 36 Ark. 178.

10. Organization Meeting (Id. sec. 840). — The organization meeting must be held within the State. Each incorporator is presumed to be a stockholder to at least the extent of one share. It is usual to fix the time and place for the holding of the organization meeting in the articles of association. In the absence of any such provision, two of the incorporators may call the first meeting at such time and place as they may appoint by giving notice thereof in any one or more newspapers published in the county in which such corporation is to be established or any adjoining county at least fifteen days before the time appointed for such meeting (Id. sec. 840). The duty of the incorporators is to adopt by-laws and elect a board of directors. Immediately after the incorporators' and stockholders' meeting adjourns, a meeting of the board of directors should be held for the purpose of electing a president, secretary, and treasurer, and such other officers as may be required by the by-laws.

11. Meeting of Stockholders and Directors (secs. 840-843, 846). — In the absence of any statute providing otherwise, all stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. Directors' meetings, after the first meeting, may be held within or without the State, as the by-laws may provide.

Bank v. McCarthy, 55 Ark. 473; 18 S. W. 759; Blackwell v. State, 36 Ark. 178.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors who shall be stockholders. There are no residential requirements (Id. sec. 841).

Jones et al. v. Jarman, 34 Ark. 323; Worthen v. Griffith, 59 Ark. 562; 28 S. W. 286.

b. Liabilities. — If the president or secretary of any business corporation shall neglect to make the certificate showing the condition of the affairs of the corporation, as provided by sec. 848, or refuse to perform the duties required of them respectively, the persons so neglecting or refusing shall duly and severally be liable to an action founded on the statute for the debts of such corporation contracted during the period of such neglect or refusal (sec. 859 as amended by L. 1909, Act 222). Directors are jointly and severally liable for the declaration and payment of a dividend when the corporation is insolvent or the payment of which renders it insolvent, knowing such corporation to be insolvent or that the payment of such dividend would render it so; also for debts of the corporation contracted during the period when they shall neglect or refuse to comply with any of the provisions of the incorporation act affecting them. If, by reason of the violation of any of the provisions of the act by the directors, a corporation shall become insolvent, then all directors ordering or assenting to such violation shall be jointly and severally liable for all corporate debts contracted after such violation (secs. 862-864).

Simon v. Association, 54 Ark. 58; 14 S. W. 1101; Bank v. McCarthy, 55 Ark. 473; 18 S. W. 759.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable for the debts of the corporation only to the extent of the unpaid stock subscribed for or held by them. The corporation may, by the adoption of a proper by-law, place a lien upon the shares of its stockholders for any debt or liability they may incur to the company. The statute (Id. secs. 865, 868) provides a method for the enforcement of this lien. If the capital stock should be withdrawn or refunded to the stockholders before the payment of all the debts of the corporation for which such stock would have been liable, the stockholders are liable to any creditor of the corporation for the amount of the sum refunded to them respectively (Id. 861).

Jones et al. v. Jarman, 34 Ark. 323; Worthen v. Griffith, 59 Ark. 562; 28 S. W. 286.

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him. Stock certificates may be signed by such officers as the by-laws may provide. The par value of the shares must be $25, except in the case of railroad corporations, when they may be $100 (secs. 838, 6721).

15. Preferred Stock. — All business corporations have power to issue preferred stock with such preferences, voting powers, and restrictions or qualifications thereunder as shall be stated and expressed in the certificate of incorporation or in any certificate of amendment thereof. Such preferred stock may, if so desired, be made subject to redemption at any time after three years from the issue thereof at a price not less than par, and the holders thereof shall be entitled to receive, and the corporation shall be bound to pay thereon, dividends at such rates and under such conditions as shall be stated in the original or amended certificates of incorporation, not exceeding eight per centum per annum, payable quarterly, half-yearly, or yearly; and such dividends may be made payable before any dividends shall be set apart or paid on the common stock, and may be made cumulative, provided the corporation shall set apart and pay the same dividend to the holders of non-cumulative preferred stock before any dividend shall be paid on the common stock, and in no event shall the holders of preferred stock be personally liable for the debts of the corporation; but in case of insolvency its debts or other liabilities shall be paid in preference to the preferred stock (Acts of Ark., 1905, Act 330).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Under the constitution capital stock can be issued only for money and property actually received or labor done (Cons., 1874, Art. XII. sec. 8).

Carter v. Company, 54 Ark. 576; 16 S. W. 579; Fletcher v. Bank (Ark.); 69 S. W. 580.

17. Books. — The books must be kept within the State at the principal office of the corporation therein or at the office of the treasurer within the State (Id. sec. 852). The statute gives to all stockholders the right to inspect and examine the same (Id. sec. 852).

18. Office. — The corporation must maintain an office within the State, and its secretary and treasurer must reside within the State (Id. secs. 843, 852. See also Laws 1909, Act 98).

19. Reports. — At least once a year, by order of the directors, a true statement of the accounts of the corporation shall be made to the stockholders (sec. 852). An annual report must be filed with the Arkansas Tax Commission on or before July first of each year upon forms prescribed by the Commission. This report must be signed and sworn to by the president, vice president, secretary or general manager of the corporation (Laws of 1911, Act 112).

Under Act I. of the Acts of Arkansas, 1905, the Secretary of State, on or before the 1st day of July of each year, addresses to the president, secretary, or treasurer of each incorporated company doing business in the State a letter of inquiry as to whether the said corporation has all or any part of its interest or business in or with any trust, combination, or association of persons of the kind described in what is known as the "Anti-Trust Act of 1905." Such officers are required to answer under oath such inquiry, the form of affidavit for that purpose being enclosed. (See also Laws of 1907, chap. 451.)

Neb. Nat. Bank v. Walsh, 68 Ark. 433; 59 S. W. 952.

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Under the Act of January 23, 1905, Acts of Arkansas, 1905, chap. 1, a very drastic act is enacted, providing a punishment for pools, trusts, and conspiracies to control prices.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Corporations may forfeit their charters by misuser or non-user in matters that go to the essential elements of their creation (Darnell v. State, 48 Ark. 321). The charter may also be forfeited for violations of the Anti-Trust Statute (Acts of Ark., 1905, chap. 1).

22. Amendments. — The power of amendment in Arkansas is broad, but is also somewhat complicated. To reduce the capital stock either by releasing unpaid subscriptions for stock or by returning to the shareholders a portion of the amount paid in by them, such reduction must be made by a resolution duly adopted by a majority of the stockholders, and a copy of such resolution must be filed as amendment to the charter in the offices of the Secretary of State and the county clerk of the county in which the corporation transacts business, and such amendment must be published once in some newspaper published within the county. To authorize the corporation to engage in additional lines of business, the stockholders must authorize such change by a majority vote at a meeting duly called for that purpose. Then the president and directors shall cause such of the amended articles as specify the purposes for which the corporation is formed, subscribed by the stockholders, to be published in a newspaper printed in the county in which such corporation is located, or any adjoining county, and shall also make a certificate of the purpose for which such corporation is formed as changed by the amended articles, which certificate shall be signed and deposited and recorded in the same manner as the original certificate. To increase the capital stock such increase must be voted for by a majority of the stockholders at a meeting especially called for that purpose. After the increase is approved the president and directors shall within thirty days thereafter make a certificate thereof, which must be signed, deposited, and recorded the same as an original certificate. By the Act of April 11, 1901, a corporation may change its name and number of directors by a resolution of the stockholders duly adopted by a majority thereof at a meeting called for that purpose. A copy of such resolution duly certified by the president and secretary must be filed with the clerk of the county court of the county in which the principal place of business is located, and also with the Secretary of State. To change its principal place of business within the State to a county within the State the president and secretary must procure from the county clerk of the county from which it removes a certified copy of the records of its articles of association, etc., to which certified copy shall be attached the certificate of such president and secretary that such corporation has thus removed, which certified copy of the certificate must be filed and recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county to which such corporation shall remove. A similar certified copy of the certificate must be filed in the office of the secretary in such State. A duplicate copy of such certificate must be published in a newspaper in the county in which such corporation shall be located. If the removal is from one county to another, there must be two publications, one in a newspaper in each county (Id. 854-857, 860).

23. Annual Franchise Tax. — Domestic corporations doing business in the State must annually on or before July 1 of each year file with the Arkansas Tax Commission a report signed and sworn to by the president, vice president, secretary or general manager of the corporation, which report shall contain (a) the name of the corporation; (b) the location of its principal office; (c) the names of the president, secretary, treasurer and members of the board of directors with the post office address of each; (d) the amount of authorized capital stock; (e) the amount of capital stock subscribed, the amount of capital stock issued and outstanding, the amount of capital stock paid up and the par and market value of such stock; (f) the nature and kind of business in which the corporation is engaged and its place of business; (g) the amount of its capital stock employed and the value of its property within this State, and the amount of its capital stock employed and the value of its property without the State, except as hereinafter provided; (h) the change or changes, if any, in the above particulars, made since the last annual report (L. of 1911, Act 112, sec. 2).

Upon the filing of the report provided for in sections 1 and 2 of Act 112, Laws of 1911, the Commission or tax assessor as the case may be, after finding such report to be correct, shall report to the Auditor of State, who shall charge and certify to the Treasurer of State for collection, on or before July 20, as herein provided, from such corporation, a tax of one-twentieth of one per cent upon that part of its subscribed or issued and outstanding capital employed in Arkansas except as hereinafter provided (Laws of 1911, Act 112, sect. 3).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for extension of corporate existence.

25. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved by application to the courts having equitable jurisdiction. Any corporation may surrender its charter by resolution of a majority in value of the stockholders, at a meeting duly called for that purpose, and filing a certified copy of such resolution in the office of the Secretary of State, and in the office of the county clerk of the county where the principal place of business of such corporation is located (Id. secs. 953-958).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every company or corporation incorporated under the laws of any other State, Territory, or country, including foreign railroad and foreign fire and life insurance companies now or hereafter doing business in this State, shall file in the office of the Secretary of State of this State a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation or association or a copy of its certificate of incorporation duly authenticated and certified by the proper authority, together with a statement of its assets and liabilities and the amount of its capital employed in this State, and shall also designate its general office or place of business in this State, and shall name an agent upon whom service of process may be made. Provided, before authority is granted any foreign corporation to do business in this State, it must file with the Secretary of State a resolution adopted by its board of directors consenting that service of process upon any agent of such company in this State or upon the Secretary of State of this State in any action brought or pending in this State shall be valid service upon such company; and if process is served upon the Secretary of State, it shall be his duty to at once send it by mail addressed to the company at its principal office; and if any company shall, without the consent of the other party to any suit or proceeding brought by or against it in any court of this State, remove such suit or proceeding to any Federal court, or shall institute any suit or proceeding against any citizen of this State in any Federal court, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to forthwith revoke the authority of said company and its agents to do business in this State, and to publish such revocation in some newspaper of general circulation published in this State; and if such corporation shall thereafter continue to do business in this State, it shall be subject to the penalty of this act for so continuing to do business in this State after such revocation. Any foreign corporation which shall fail to comply with the provisions of this act and shall do any business in this State shall be subject to a fine of not less than $1,000, to be recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction, and all fines so recovered shall be paid into the general revenue fund of the county in which the cause of action shall accrue; and it is hereby made a duty of the prosecuting attorneys to institute such suit in the name of the State for the use and benefit of the county in which the suit is brought, and said prosecuting attorney shall receive as his compensation one-fourth of the amount recovered, and as an additional penalty any foreign corporation which shall fail or refuse to file its articles of incorporation or certificate aforesaid cannot make any contract in this State which can be enforced by it either in law or in equity, and the complying with the provisions of this act after suit is brought shall in no way validate said contract.

All corporations hereinafter incorporated in this State, and all foreign corporations seeking to do business in this State, shall pay into the treasury of this State for the filing of such articles a fee of $25 where the capital stock is $10,000 or under; one-tenth of one per cent on all amounts in excess of $10,000. This tax in the case of foreign corporations is based on the proportion of capital stock represented by property and business in the State of Arkansas (Acts of 1911, no. 197).

Before any foreign corporation shall be authorized to do intrastate business in Arkansas, or permitted to continue to do intrastate business, it shall file with the Secretary of State, under the oath of its president, secretary, treasurer, superintendent or managing agent in this State, a statement showing the following facts : (1) The number of shares of authorized capital stock of the company and the par value of each share; (2) the value of the property owned and used by the company in Arkansas, and the value of the property owned and used outside of the State of Arkansas; (3) the proportion of the capital stock of the Company which is represented or to be represented, and employed or to be employed in its business transacted or to be transacted in Arkansas; (4) the proportion of its capital stock employed in its business outside of Arkansas, stating the proportionate part used in each city and county. From the facts thus reported and any other facts coming to his knowledge, bearing upon the question, the Secretary of State shall determine the proportion of the capital stock of the company represented by its property and business in Arkansas and upon which the fees prescribed herein are payable (Laws of 1911, Act 87, sec. 3).

Each foreign corporation for profit and doing business in this State and owning or using a part or all of its capital or plant in this State and subject to compliance with all other provisions of law, and in addition to all other statements required by the law shall make a report in writing to the Arkansas Tax Commission on or before July 1, and if such Tax Commission shall have been abolished by law, then the Assessor of the County in which the principal place of business of such corporation in this State shall be (Laws of 1911, Act 112, secs. 4, 5, 6).

Said report shall contain (1) name of the corporation and under the laws of what State or country organized; (2) the location of its principal office; (3) the names of the president, secretary, treasurer and members of the Board of Directors with the post-office addresses of each; (4) the date of the annual election of officers; (5) the amount of authorized capital stock and the par value of each share; (6) the amount of capital stock subscribed; the amount of capital stock issued and outstanding; the amount of capital stock paid up and the market value of the same; (7) nature and kind of business in which the company is engaged, and its place or places of business both within and without the State; (8) the name and location of its office or offices in this State, and the names and addresses of the officers or agents of the corporation in charge of its business in this State; (9) the value of the property owned and used by the Company in this State; where situated and the value of the property owned and used outside of this State; (10) the change or changes, if any, in the above particulars made since the last annual report (Laws of 1911, Act 112, sec. 5).

Upon the filing of the report provided for in sections 4 and 5 of this Act, the Commission or Assessor, as the case may be, from the facts thus reported, and any other facts coming to its or his knowledge, bearing upon the question, shall determine the proportion of the authorized capital stock of the Company represented by its property and business in this State, on or before July 20, and shall report the same to the auditor of the State, who shall charge and certify to the treasurer of the State on or before August 1 for collection as herein provided annually from such Company, in addition to the initial fee authorized by law, for the privilege of exercising its franchises in this State one twentieth of one per cent each year thereafter upon the proportion of the authorized capital stock of the corporation represented by the property owned and used in business transacted in this State (Laws of 1911, Act 112, sec. 6).

Any foreign mutual corporation having no capital stock shall be required to pay to the Secretary of State for filing its articles of incorporation the sum of $500; provided, however, nothing in this section shall apply to fraternal orders that write insurance (Acts of Ark., 1907, Act 313, approved May 13, 1907). A fee of $1 is required to be paid for filing appointment of agent by foreign corporations. Foreign corporations are required to pay the same annual franchise tax as domestic. (The references cited below are to the Civil Code, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statute under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Civil Code of California, Part IV. secs. 283–403, as amended in certain respects by subsequent Session Laws, constitutes the General Incorporation Act of the State of California for business corporations. There are special acts applicable only to insurance, railway, street railway, wagon road, bridge, ferry, wharf, chute, pier, telegraph, telephone, water, canal, homestead, savings and loan, mining, gas, and eleemosynary corporations, but any kind of business corporation may be incorporated under the General Act.

2. Incorporators. — There may be any number of incorporators not less than three, a majority of whom must reside in the State (C. C., secs. 285, 292; Laws of 1905, chap. 392).

People v. Company, 97 Cal. 276; 32 Pac. 236.

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation (C. C., sec. 290, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 278). — The articles must contain:

a. Name. — The use of a name identical with that or similar to that of an existing domestic corporation is forbidden (C. C., sec. 296; Laws of 1905, chap. 103; Laws of 1906, chap. 19, sec. 6; Laws of 1907, chap. 403). The use of the word "trust" is forbidden to all corporations except those organized to transact a trust company business (Laws of 1905, chaps. 259, 279).

Curtiss v. Murray et al., 26 Cal. 633.

b. Purpose. — Companies may be incorporated for any purpose not covered by special act (Cons., Art. XIII. sec. 9; Laws of 1905, chap. 392).

c. Domiciliary Office. — The place where the principal business is to be transacted.

d. Corporate Existence. — The term for which it is to exist not to exceed fifty years (secs. 290, 362).

e. Directors. — Number of directors not less than three, together with the names and residences of those appointed for the first year. The directors must be stockholders, and a majority residents of the State (C. C., secs. 290, 305; Laws of 1905, chap. 392).

f. Capital Stock. — The amount of capital stock, which may be any amount. The number of shares must also be stated, the par value of which may be any amount. The articles of incorporation may provide for classification of capital stock into preferred and common. To this must be added a statement of the number of shares of stock to which preference is granted and the number of shares to which no preference is granted. The articles must also set forth the nature and extent of the preference granted and except as to the matters and things so stated no distinction shall exist between such classes of stock; provided, however, that no preference shall be granted, nor shall any distinction be made between the classes of stock either as to voting powers or as to statutory constitutional liability of the holders thereof to the creditors of the corporation (Laws of 1907, chap. 278).

g. Original Stock Subscriptions. — The amount actually subscribed and by whom. There need be no particular amount subscribed beyond the one share required for each of the incorporators (Laws of 1905, chap. 392).

4. Statutory Powers (C. C., secs. 283, 354, 355). — In addition to the statutory enumeration of the common law powers of corporations (C. C., sec. 354) there are some express limitations upon the ordinary corporate powers. One is the provision that no corporation shall acquire or hold any more real property than may be reasonably necessary for the transaction of its business or the construction of its works. The bonded indebtedness of a corporation may be created or increased by a vote of the stockholders representing at least two-thirds of the subscribed capital stock at a meeting called by the board of directors, and after publishing notice of such meeting once a week for at least sixty days, which notice shall state the amount of bonded indebtedness which it is proposed to create, or the amount to which it is proposed to increase the said indebtedness. The necessity of publication may be obviated by written consents from the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding capital stock (C. C., sec. 359). Domestic mining corporations possessing mining claims adjoining each other may consolidate in such manner and upon such terms as may be agreed upon, provided the written consent of all the stockholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock of each corporation is first obtained, and provided the statutory requirements relative to calling meetings, publishing notice thereof, etc., are complied with (C. C., sec. 361). Only so much real property as is necessary for the transaction of corporate business can be held (C. C., sec. 360; also Session Laws, 1905, chap. 576).

The following additional powers are conferred: To authorize voting by proxy, to permit cumulative voting in the election of directors, and to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments (Cons., Art. XII. sec. 12; C. C., secs. 307, 312, 331-349; Laws of 1903, chap. 215). Also to sell and dispose of all the corporate assets with the consent of two-thirds of the stockholders (C. C., secs. 364, 584; Laws of 1903, chap. 271; Laws of 1905, chap. 416, sec. 4). Also to remove directors (sec. 310; Laws of 1905, chap. 416). To accept devises (Laws of 1903, chap. 223). By the unanimous vote of all the directors at any regular meeting corporations may acquire and hold the land and buildings in which their business is carried on, and may improve the same to any extent required for the convenient transaction of its business (Laws of 1905, chap. 576). The power of repealing and amending by-laws and of adopting new by-laws may, by a two-thirds vote of the stockholders cast at a meeting thereof called for that purpose, or by the written assent of the holders of two-thirds of the stock, be delegated to the board of directors (Laws of 1905, chap. 416).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles must be signed and acknowledged by each of the three or more incorporators, a majority of whom must be residents of the State (C. C., sec. 292; Laws of 1905, chap. 392). The signature of each person named in such articles of incorporation as directors of such corporation shall be affixed to said articles of incorporation and acknowledged by each (Laws of 1911, chap. 589). Next, the articles must be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the principal business of the company is to be transacted, and a copy thereof, certified by the county clerk, must be filed with the Secretary of State (C. C., sec. 296). Before the articles can be filed with the latter the organization tax (see below) and the proper proportional part of the annual license tax must be paid. (See post, sec. 23; Laws of 1909, chap. 299). When such tax is paid and the articles duly filed with the Secretary of State, the latter issues to the corporation, over the Great Seal of the State, a certificate that a copy of the articles containing the required statement of facts has been filed in his office, and the statute then provides that the persons signing the articles and their associates and successors shall thereupon be a body politic and corporate by the name stated in the certificate (C. C., sec. 296; Laws of 1901, chap. 201). The due incorporation of any company claiming in good faith to be a corporation, doing business as such, and its right to exercise corporate powers shall not be inquired into collaterally in any private suit to which such de facto corporation may be a party, but such inquiry may be had at the suit of the State, except in those cases where the corporation has been doing business for ten consecutive years as a corporation (C. C., sec. 358; Laws of 1901, chap. 206). No corporation may purchase, locate, or hold property in any county in the State other than the county in which its original articles are filed, without filing a copy of the copy of the articles of incorporation filed in the office of the Secretary of State duly certified by him in the office of the clerk of the county in which said property is situated and within sixty days after such purchase or location is made (Laws of 1905, chap. 416).

6. Organization Tax. — If the capital stock amounts to $25,000 or less, $15; over $25,000 and not over $75,000, $25; over $75,000 and not over $200,000, $50; over $200,000 and not over $500,000, $75; over $500,000 and not over $1,000,000, $100; over $1,000,000, $50 additional for every $500,000 or fractional part thereof of capital stock over and above $1,000,000. The foregoing fees are payable to the Secretary of State upon filing articles in his office (Laws of 1905, chap. 467).

7. Filing and Recording Fees. — The Secretary of State is entitled to no additional fee for filing articles of incorporation other than the payment to him of the organization tax, but for recording such articles he is entitled to charge 20 cents per folio. For issuing certificate of incorporation, $3. For copy of articles of incorporation on file in his office, 20 cents per folio, and for affixing certificate seal of State thereto, $2. For comparing copy of articles with the original on file in his office, 5 cents per folio. The county clerk is entitled to a fee of $1 for filing articles of incorporation, and for copy of same 10 cents per folio, and for certificate for same, 50 cents (Pol. Code, 416; Gen. Laws, Title 84, Stat. 1895, p. 268; Laws of 1905, chap. 467; Laws of 1907, chap. 281. As to provision for issuance of duplicate of articles of incorporation, where the original has been lost, see Laws of 1906, chaps. 53 and 61).

8. Corporate Indebtedness. — Cannot exceed amount of subscribed capital stock (C. C., sec. 359, as amended by Laws of 1903, chap. 235; Laws of 1905, chap. 416, sec. 4). (As to increase or decrease in indebtedness, see Laws of 1907, chap. 280; see also Laws of 1907, chap. 93.)

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the certificate of incorporation is issued by the Secretary of State and a license to do business has been issued by that official to the corporation. In order to procure such a license the law provides that at the time of filing a certified copy of articles of incorporation of any corporation the proportionate part of the current annual license tax must be paid (Laws of 1909, chap. 299). The law provides that no corporation, either domestic or foreign, shall do or attempt to do business by virtue of its certificate of incorporation in the State without a State license therefor. They must commence business within one year upon penalty of having their charter forfeited by proper action commenced by the State (C. C., sec. 358; see also Laws of 1901, chap. 147). If the corporation has property in other counties than that where its original articles are filed, it must within sixty days after such property is purchased, located, or held, file with the clerk of such counties copies of its articles of incorporation certified by the Secretary of State (C. C., sec. 299; Laws of 1905, chap. 416).

People v. Company, 45 Cal. 306.

10. Organization Meeting. — A preliminary organization is effected by the stockholders holding a meeting within the State within one month after incorporation (by proxy if desired) and proceeding to adopt by-laws. These must be adopted by a two-thirds vote of all the stock issued and outstanding. By-laws may, however, be adopted by the written assent of two-thirds of the stockholdings without a meeting (C. C., sec. 301; Laws of 1905, chap. 416). The right to repeal and amend by-laws is governed by the same provisions. The power to repeal and amend by-laws and adopt new by-laws may by a similar vote at any such meeting, or similar written assent, be delegated to the board of directors. All by-laws must be certified by a majority of the board of directors and the secretary of the corporation, and copied in a book kept in the office of the secretary of the corporation, to be known as the book of by-laws, subject to the inspection of the public during business hours each day (C. C., sec. 301; C. C., sec. 364; Laws of 1901, chap. 157, secs. 67, 68; Laws of 1905, chap. 416).

Hall v. Crandall, 29 Cal. 568.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Meetings of both stockholders and board of directors must be held at the corporation's office or principal place of business (C. C., sec. 319; Laws of 1905, chaps. 282, 584; as to use of proxy at stockholders' meetings, see Laws of 1905, chaps. 28, 416, secs. 7-9). At all elections or votes had for any purpose there must be a majority of the subscribed capital stock represented either in person or by proxy. Every person acting at said meeting must be a stockholder having stock in his own name on the stock books of the corporation at least ten days prior to the election (Laws of 1907, chap. 319).

The directors of all business corporations must be elected annually by stockholders, and if no provision is made in the by-laws for the time of election, the election must be held on the first Tuesday in June. Notice of such election must be given as prescribed in section 301 of the Code, unless all the stockholders waive such notice in writing (Laws of 1909, chap. 57).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors who shall be stockholders and a majority of whom shall be residents of the State. Unless a quorum is present no business performed or acted on is valid as against the corporation. Whenever a vacancy occurs in the office of director, unless the by-laws of the corporation otherwise provide, such vacancy must be filled by an appointee of the board (C. C., secs. 290, 301, 305; Laws of 1901, chap. 145; Laws of 1905, chaps. 392, 416). Cumulative voting for directors is permitted (sec. 307).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers during their term of office (Cons., Art. XII. sec. 3). Non-dissenting directors are liable to the corporation and to the creditors to the full amount of the capital stock withdrawn as dividends when there are no surplus profits (C. C., sec. 309; Laws of 1905, chap. 416). They are also jointly and severally liable where they create debts beyond the subscribed capital stock (C. C., sec. 309). They are also liable for the withdrawal of capital stock or the increase or decrease thereof, except when made in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided (C. C., sec. 309). Finally, directors are made liable for making false reports relative to corporate matters (Laws of 1905, chap. 522). Directors in mining corporations are liable for failure to have the reports and accounts current made and posted as required by law (C. C., sec. 590; see also Penal Code, secs. 560, 563, 564, 568-572).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. a. Individual Liability. — Every stockholder is individually liable for such proportion of the corporation's debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder, as the amount of stock owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock of the corporation. The liability of each stockholder is determined by the amount of stock owned by him at the time the debt or liability was incurred, and such liability is not released by subsequent transfer of stock (Cons., Art. XII. sec. 3; C. C., sec. 322; Laws of 1905, chap. 339). Stockholders are also liable for the amount of their unpaid-stock subscriptions.

b. Stock Assessments. — Assessments are levied in the first instance by the board of directors after one-fourth of the capital stock has been subscribed. The amount of the assessment is limited except in the case hereafter referred to, so that no one assessment shall exceed ten per cent of the amount of the authorized capital stock. The exception is where the whole capital stock has not been paid up and the corporation is unable to meet its liabilities or to satisfy the claims of creditors. The assessment must be levied according to statute, and must be made payable not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of making the order leaving the assessment. The day to be fixed for the sale of delinquent stock shall be not less than fifteen nor more than sixty days from the day the stock is declared delinquent. In addition to the penalty provided for forfeiture of stock for failure to pay assessments, a corporation may recover the amount of such instalment directly against the stockholder by proper action brought for that purpose (C. C., secs. 331-349). The Supreme Court of California has held that the directors of any domestic corporation may levy and collect assessments for corporate purposes on shares of stock upon which all subscriptions have been fully paid.

Leiter, 145 Cal. 696; 79 Pac. 441.

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by the president and secretary (C. C., sec. 323). The corporation may provide in its by-laws for issuing certificates prior to full payment, but any certificate issued prior to full payment must show on its face what amount has been paid thereon. The par value of stock certificates may be any amount (C. C., secs. 290, 587; Laws of 1901, chap. 147; Laws of 1905, chaps. 339 and 391; Laws of 1907, chap. 279). Certificates of stock issued by corporations issuing stocks of different classes shall express upon their face the character of stock represented by such certificates. The latter must also state the number of shares of stock of each class issued and shall also contain a statement of the nature and extent of the preferences granted to the preferred stock (Laws of 1907, chap. 279; see also Laws of 1907, chap. 470).

Williams v. Company, (Cal.) 78 Pac. 28.

15. Preferred Stock. — Preferred stock is expressly authorized by Laws of 1907, chap. 278. (See ante, sec. 3, sub. f.)

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Under the constitution no corporation can issue stock except for money paid, or labor done, or property actually received (Cons., Art. XII. sec. 11; C. C., sec. 359, as amended by Laws of 1903, chap. 253; Laws of 1907, chap. 280).

17. Books. — The book of by-laws and stock books must be kept at the principal office of the company within the State, and are subject to inspection thereof by any stockholder. The stock and transfer books are open to inspection of creditors as well as stockholders (C. C., secs. 304, 377-378, 588; and Cons., Art. XII. sec. 14).

18. Office. — The corporation must maintain an office within the State (Cons., Art. XII. sec. 14).

19. Reports. — No reports are required to be published. Directors in mining corporations are required to make monthly reports to the stockholders, verified by the president and secretary (C. C., sec. 588).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Corporations cannot combine or agree to any act to prevent any person from buying live-stock in the State, or having it for sale or selling it on commission (Session Laws of 1893, chap. 30). Discrimination in rates and combination among transportation companies are prohibited by the Constitution (Art. XII, secs. 20, 21).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — If a corporation does not organize and commence the transaction of its business or the construction of its works within one year from the date of its incorporation, or if after organization and commencement of business it loses or disposes of all of its property and for a period of two years fails to elect officers and transact in a regular way its business, its corporate powers shall cease, and the corporation may be dissolved by proper action brought by the State for that purpose (C. C., sec. 358; C. C., Pro., secs. 802-810; Laws of 1901, chap. 206). Charters may be forfeited for failure to pay the annual license tax as provided by Laws of 1906, chap. 19; Laws of 1907, chaps. 347 and 403; Laws of 1911, chap. 573.

22. Amendments. — The power of amendment in California is broad and is also somewhat complicated. The name of the corporation can be changed only by application to the Superior Court. The corporation must file a certified copy of the decree of the court changing the corporate name in the office of the Secretary of State, and in the office of the county clerk of each county in which the original articles or certified copies thereof are required to be filed within thirty days from the date of such decree (Code of Civ. Proc., secs. 1276, 1277, 1279; Laws of 1905, chaps. 45 and 103; Laws of 1907, chap. 275; Laws of 1909, chap. 639). Articles may be amended for any purpose except as stated below, by the majority vote of the directors and by the vote or written assent of stockholders representing two-thirds of the subscribed capital stock of the corporation, or the written assent of the majority of the members if there is no capital stock; a copy of the articles as amended, duly certified to be correct by the president and secretary of the board of directors, shall be filed in the office where the original articles are filed and a certified copy thereof duly certified by such county clerk, in the office of the Secretary of State. Amended articles, duly certified as aforesaid, must be filed in the office of the county clerk of every county in which said corporation has or holds property except only in the county in which the original amended articles of incorporation have been filed. Failure to so file subjects the corporation to the penalties and liabilities provided in sec. 299 of the Civil Code. If the assent of two-thirds of the stockholders to such amendment has not been obtained, a notice of the intention to make such amendment must be advertised for thirty days in some newspaper published in the locality in which the principal place of business of the corporation is located before the filing of the proposed amendment (Laws of 1907, chap. 278).

The capital stock of a corporation may be increased or diminished at a meeting of the stockholders by a two-thirds vote of the subscribed or issued capital stock. When such action is taken at a meeting of the stockholders, the same must be called by the board of directors and notice must be given by publication in a newspaper published in the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is located; provided, however, where the articles of incorporation provide for two or more kinds of capital stock, no increase or reduction shall be made without the consent of two-thirds of all the subscribed stock, and in making such increase or reduction the assent shall identify the particular class or classes of stock to be increased or reduced and the amounts apportioned to each. The notice must specify the object of the meeting and the amount to which it is proposed to increase or diminish the capital stock and the time and place of holding the meeting, which latter must be at the principal place of business of the corporation, and at the building where the board of directors usually meet. The notice of the meeting must be published once a week for at least sixty days. In addition to the notice by publication, the secretary of the corporation must address a notice to each of the stockholders whose names appear on the company's books, at his place of residence, if known, and if not, then at the place at which the principal place of business of the corporation is situated, which notice shall be so mailed to said stockholders at least thirty days before the date appointed for such meeting. In lieu of such call for a meeting of stockholders and of such notice and publication of the same, and of a stockholders' meeting held in pursuance thereof, and of said vote thereat, representing two-thirds of the subscribed capital stock, any corporation may diminish its capital stock and also originally create its bonded indebtedness by a resolution adopted by the unanimous vote of its board of directors or trustees at a regular or at a special meeting called for that purpose, and approved by the written assent or assents of the stockholders holding two-thirds of the subscribed or issued capital stock, which assent or assents must be filed with the secretary of the corporation; or the secretary of the corporation must address by mail, postage fully prepaid, a copy of such resolution to each of the stockholders whose names appear upon the company's books as sufficiently addressed or identified, at his place of residence if known, and if not known, then at the place in which the principal place of business of the corporation is situated, which notice shall be so mailed to such stockholders at least thirty days before the certificate hereinafter provided for is made and signed or filed, as hereinafter provided, and within that time any stockholder may file with such secretary his dissent in writing; and it is further provided that if at any time within said thirty days such written assent or assents of the stockholders holding all of the subscribed or issued capital stock be so filed with the secretary, then and at once and without further delay a certificate hereinafter provided for may be so made, signed and filed as hereinafter provided and with the same effect, but such capital stock cannot be diminished to an amount less than the indebtedness of the corporation, and no increase of capital stock or bonded indebtedness of the corporation can be made except at a meeting of the stockholders as in this section provided.

Upon such increase or diminution of the capital stock or creation or increase of the bonded indebtedness being made in accordance with the provisions of this section, there shall be made a certificate under the corporate seal and signed by the president and secretary of the corporation, or of each corporation acting in the premises, and a majority of the directors or trustees of such corporation, or each corporation so acting, showing compliance by such corporation, or each corporation so acting with the requirements of said laws named in said subdivisions, and the amount to which the capital stock has been increased or diminished, or the amount of the bonded indebtedness created, or to which the bonded indebtedness may have been increased, and the amount of stock represented at the meeting, and the total vote in the affirmative by which the same was accomplished, and the total vote in the negative; or, if such proceedings be had and taken under subdivision five of this section as to diminution of capital stock or the original creation of bonded indebtedness a like certificate shall be made and sealed and signed as aforesaid, showing the compliance by such corporation or by each corporation acting in the premises with the requirements of said subdivision fifth and the amount to which the capital stock has been diminished, or the amount of bonded indebtedness so originally created and the total amount of the stock represented by the said written assent or assents so filed with the secretary and the total amount of stock represented by the said written dissent or dissents so filed.

In case of a consolidated bonded indebtedness, each corporation which is a party thereto, shall cause to be made, signed, sealed and verified and filed as in this section provided, a separate certificate.

In all cases the certificates shall state the total number of subscribed or issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation or of each corporation respectively acting in the premises, and shall be verified by the oath of the said president, secretary or of the said respective presidents and secretaries. Said consolidated bonded indebtedness may be created or increased to an amount equal to the par or face value of the aggregate amount of the subscribed or issued capital stock of said two or more corporations and shall not exceed such aggregate amount. In each and every case the certificate must be filed in the office of the clerk of the county or the city or county where the original articles of incorporation of the corporation or corporations acting hereunder are filed and a certified copy thereof certified by such clerk shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State; and thereupon the capital stock shall be so increased or diminished, or the bonded indebtedness or consolidated bonded indebtedness shall be decreased or increased accordingly, and said certificate or certificates so filed shall be, when such certified copy or copies are so filed, conclusive proof of such increase or diminution of capital stock or such creation or increase of original or consolidated bonded indebtedness and the validity of each thereof. When the by-laws of a corporation prescribe the paper in which the notices of meetings of directors or trustees or stockholders are to be published, notice of publication herein provided for shall be published in such paper unless publication thereof shall have ceased (Laws of 1907, chap. 280).

The place of business may be changed, if desired, by amendment (C. C., sec. 321 a). If articles are filed in the wrong county in the first instance, the Code provides a means of remedying this. (See sec. 363.) The number of directors may be changed by a majority vote of the stockholders, whereupon a certificate must be filed relative to such change, in the same manner as in the case of original articles (Laws of 1905, chap. 392).

Application of La Société, etc., 123 Cal. 525; 56 Pac. 458.

23. Annual License Tax. — No corporation heretofore or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this State, or of any other State shall do or attempt to do business by virtue of its charter or certificate of incorporation in this State without a State license therefor (Laws of 1906, chap. 19).

It shall be the duty of every corporation incorporated under the laws of this State, and of every foreign corporation now doing business, or which shall hereafter engage in business in this State, to procure annually from the Secretary of State, a license authorizing the transaction of such business in this State, and shall pay therefor a license tax as follows:

When the authorized capital stock of the corporation does not exceed $10,000, the tax shall be $10; when the authorized capital stock exceeds $10,000, but does not exceed $20,000, the tax shall be $15; when the authorized capital stock exceeds $20,000, but does not exceed $50,000, the tax shall be $20; when the authorized capital stock exceeds $50,000, but does not exceed $100,000, the tax shall be $25; when the authorized capital stock exceeds $100,000, but does not exceed $250,000, the tax shall be $50; when the authorized capital stock exceeds $250,000, but does not exceed $500,000, the tax shall be $75; when the authorized capital stock exceeds $500,000, but does not exceed $2,000,000, the tax shall be $100; when the authorized capital stock exceeds $2,000,000, but does not exceed $5,000,000, the tax shall be $200; when the authorized capital stock exceeds $5,000,000, the tax shall be $250. Said license tax or fee shall be due and payable on the 1st day of July of each and every year to the Secretary of State, who shall pay the same into the State Treasury. If not paid on or before the hour of four o'clock P. M., of the 1st day of September next thereafter, the same shall become delinquent and there shall be added thereto, as a penalty for such delinquency the sum of $10. The license tax or fee hereby provided authorizes the corporation to transact its business during the year or for any fractional part of such year in which such license tax or fee is paid. "Year" within the meaning of this act means from and including the 1st day of July to and including the 30th day of June next thereafter (Laws of 1907, chap. 347, as amended by Laws of 1909, chap. 299).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — CALIFORNIA.

The Secretary of State shall, on or before the 15th day of September of each year, report to the governor of the State a list of all corporations which have become delinquent as provided in sec. 2 of this act, and the governor shall forthwith issue his proclamation declaring under this act, that the charters of such delinquent corporations will be forfeited unless payment of said license tax together with the penalty for such delinquency, as hereinbefore provided, be made to the Secretary of State on or before the hour of four o'clock p. m., of the 30th day of November next following (Laws of 1906, chap. 19). Said proclamation shall be filed immediately in the office of the Secretary of State, and said Secretary of State shall immediately cause a copy of said proclamation to be published in one issue of two daily newspapers to be selected by the governor (Laws of 1906, chap. 19).

At the hour of four o'clock p. m., of the 30th day of November each year, the charters of all delinquent domestic corporations which have failed to pay said license tax together with said penalty for such delinquency shall be forfeited to the State of California and the right of all delinquent foreign corporations to do business in this State, which have failed to pay said license tax, together with the penalty for such delinquency shall be likewise forfeited (Laws of 1906, chap. 19; see also Laws of 1907, chap. 403; Laws of 1911, chap. 573).

At the time of filing a certified copy of articles of incorporation of any corporation when filed on or between the 1st day of July and the 30th day of September in any year, there shall be paid to the Secretary of State the full amount of the license tax provided to be paid as stated above; when filed on or between the 1st day of October and the 31st day of December in any year, a sum equal to three-fourths of the license tax provided to be paid as stated above; when filed on or between the 1st day of January and the 31st day of March in any year, a sum equal to one-half of such license tax as stated above shall be paid; when filed on or between the 1st day of April and the 30th day of June in any year, a sum equal to one-fourth of the license as stated above shall be paid. Upon receipt of such full or fractional license tax the Secretary of State shall issue a license receipt for the full or for the fractional part of the then current fiscal year (Laws of 1909, chap. 299).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Every corporation may at any time prior to the expiration of the term of its corporate existence, extend such term to a period not exceeding fifty years from the date of such extension. An extension must be voted for at a meeting of the stockholders, called by the directors expressly for that purpose, and two-thirds of the stockholders must vote in favor thereof. Or, in lieu of a meeting, it may be made upon the written assent of stockholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock. The certificate of such vote or assent shall be signed and sworn to by the secretary or treasurer and by a majority of the directors of the corporation and filed in the office of the county clerk where the original articles of incorporation were filed, and a copy, certified by said clerk shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State (C. C., sec. 4010, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 274).

25. Dissolution. — The dissolution of a corporation is effected by a decree of the Superior Court of the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is situated, upon action previously had at a meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose, whereat the dissolution of the corporation was resolved by a vote of two-thirds of the holders of the subscribed capital stock. The application must also show that all claims and demands against the corporation have been satisfied and discharged. Upon filing of the application the clerk must give notice of the same for such time as the court may order, and not less than thirty, nor more than fifty days, by publication in some newspaper published in the county where the corporation has its principal place of business. The application for dissolution must be signed by a majority of the board of directors or other officers having the management of the affairs of the corporation (Code of Civ. Proc., secs. 1227-1234; Laws of 1905, chaps. 348, 416; Laws of 1907, chap. 254).

After the time of publication has expired the court may, upon five days' notice to the persons who have filed objections, or without further notice if no objections have been filed, proceed to hear and determine the application, and if all the statements therein made are shown to be true, must declare the corporation dissolved. A certified copy of the decree and order of the court dissolving the corporation must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State (Laws of 1907, chap. 401). (As to involuntary dissolution, see Code of Civ. Proc., sec. 812, etc.)

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations must at the time they file application for a permit to do business within the State file in the office of the Secretary of State a designation of some person residing within the State upon whom service of process may be made. Unless such designation is made the right to maintain or defend actions in the courts is denied to the corporation. The corporation must also file in the office of the Secretary of State a certified copy of its articles of incorporation or of the statute or governmental act creating it, and a certified copy thereof duly certified by the Secretary of State of California must likewise be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where its principal place of business is located and also where such corporation owns property. For filing such certified copy in the office of the Secretary of State the same fees must be paid as are paid by domestic corporations of like capitalization upon organization. Failure to comply with the law subjects the corporation to heavy penalties (Laws of 1905, chap. 471; Laws of 1907, chap. 283). Foreign corporations are also subject to the payment of the same annual license tax as domestic corporations (Laws of 1906, chap. 19; Laws of 1907, chap. 347; Laws of 1909, chap. 299). Stockholders in foreign corporations doing business in the State are liable to the same extent as stockholders in domestic corporations (Laws of 1905, chap. 386). The fee for filing notice of appointment of agent is $5 (Laws of 1905, chap. 467). The filing and recording fees are otherwise the same as are imposed upon domestic corporations. The right to cumulate votes in the election of directors is made applicable to foreign corporations (Laws of 1903, chap. 215). See as to penalty for failure on the part of foreign corporations to file certified copies of articles (Laws of 1911, chap. 541).

COLORADO.

1. Character of the Law under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Colorado is found in Mills' Annotated Statutes of Colorado, secs. 472 et seq. Special acts are provided for the incorporation of railways, banks, trust companies, deposit, surety, title, guaranty, insurance, toll road, ditch, bridge and ferry, telegraph, telephone, gas, and electric companies.

2. Incorporators. — Three or more. There are no residential requirements (Mills, sec. 473).

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation. — The certificate must set forth:

a. Name. — The name must commence with the word "the" and end with the word "corporation," "company," "association," or "society," and must indicate the business to be carried on. Similarity of names is forbidden (Mills, secs. 472, 475, 625). Upon the filing in the office of the Secretary of State of a certificate by three or more persons or corporation, stating that it is the desire and intention of such persons or corporation to adopt and use a certain name as and for the name of a domestic corporation to be thereafter incorporated or organized, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to reserve such name for the use and benefit of the persons or corporation filing such certificate for the period of sixty days from the date of filing the same; and the Secretary of State shall not file or permit to be filed in his office within said period any articles of incorporation or any other papers, by any other person, persons, or corporations by which such name is sought to be used or adopted as the name of a domestic corporation; provided, however, that such name is not already used, adopted or prepared by some other person, persons, or domestic corporation (Laws of 1911, chap. 104, sec. 1).

b. Purposes. — The statute clearly contemplates that corporations may be organized for any number of purposes not covered by the special acts. It should be remembered in this connection that this clause cannot be changed by amendment after incorporation (sec. 477).

c. Capital Stock. — The amount of the capital stock. This may be any amount. In the case of a mining company the article should state whether the stock is non-assessable or assessable (Mills, sec. 581).

d. Duration. — Must not exceed twenty years.

e. Number and Par Value of Shares. — The par value of shares must not be less than $1 nor more than $100.

f. Directors. — The number of directors must not be less than three nor more than thirteen. In the case of mining companies and banks the number must not exceed nine (secs. 512, 585).

g. Names of First Board of Directors. — This board, under the statute, has control of the affairs of the company for the first year of its existence.

h. Domiciliary Office. — The name of the town and county in which the principal office of the company shall be kept.

i. Place for the Transaction of Business. — Name of the county or counties in which the principal business shall be carried on. When the corporation is to carry on part of its business without the State, the certificate must state that fact, and also state the name of the town and county in Colorado in which the principal office shall be kept, and also state the names of the counties in which the principal business of the corporation is to be carried on within the State.

j. By-Laws. — To directors may be delegated the right to make by-laws if so desired, otherwise the stockholders must adopt the by-laws.

k. Directors' Meetings. — If it is desired to hold directors' meetings without the State, this right should be reserved in the certificate (Mills, sec. 473).

4. Statutory Powers. — The main statutory powers are what are known as the common law powers belonging to all business corporations (Mills, sec. 476). Corporations have, however, the following extraordinary powers in Colorado: To consolidate with another corporation when, by a vote of at least three-fourths of the stock of each company severally had, the proposition shall be approved. The method of consolidation is pointed out in detail in the statute (Mills, secs. 625, 628). The statute contains one express limitation upon the powers of corporations, which may be enumerated as follows: They are forbidden to use any of the corporate funds for the purchase of their own stock except such as may be forfeited for the non-payment of assessments thereon (Mills, sec. 485). Manufacturing and mining companies cannot encumber their plant or mines or machinery without the vote of a majority of the stockholders (3 Mills, sec. 481). Cumulative voting for directors is permitted (Laws of 1905, p. 150); also voting by proxy (Laws of 1895, pp. 150-152, sec. 1; Laws of 1891, p. 93, sec. 4; see also Laws of 1903, p. 158).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate must be signed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators. In practice it is well to execute a sufficient number of original certificates so as to permit the filing of one original in every county where the business of the corporation is to be carried on, as well as in the office of the Secretary of State. As soon as the certificate has been filed in the office of the recorder of deeds in each of the counties in which the principal place of business shall be carried on, as well as in the office of the Secretary of State, the corporate existence commences (secs. 473-475). The Secretary of State issues a certificate of authority to transact business as a corporation within the State. The president and a majority of the directors, after the last installment of stock is paid in, must make a certificate stating the amount of the capital so fixed and paid in, which certificate shall be signed and sworn to by the president and a majority of the directors and must be recorded in the same offices where the certificate of incorporation is recorded (Mills, secs. 487, 491). There is no penalty by law for failure to file the certificate of full paid stock.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no statutory limitation upon the amount of indebtedness which a corporation may incur.

7. Organization Fee. — There must be paid to the Secretary of State $20 for filing the certificate of incorporation of companies with a capitalization of not more than $50,000, and for every thousand dollars in excess of $50,000 an organization tax of 20 cents per thousand is exacted (Laws of 1901, chap. 52, sec. 1).

Jones v. Company, 21 Col. 263; 40 Pac. 457.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — There are no fees due the Secretary of State for filing articles of incorporation other than payment of the organization tax. For certified copy of articles of incorporation, 15 cents per folio of one hundred words, and $1 for seal. For issuing certificate of authority showing that all fees prescribed by law have been paid, $5; for filing and recording impression of the corporate seal, $2.50; for filing certificate of payment of stock, $2.50 and upwards, according to capitalization; if capitalization exceeds $50,000, the fee is 5 cents per $1,000 of stock in excess thereof. Fee for filing annual report, $1 where capitalization is $10,000 or less; where it exceeds that amount it is $5. With regard to fees of county recorder, wherein articles of incorporation are required to be filed, the counties are graded for fee purposes. The filing fee there ranges from 10 cents to 25 cents. If the articles are recorded, the fee ranges from 50 cents to $2 (Laws of 1901, pp. 116-121, secs. 1-10; Session Laws of 1907, chap. 182).

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may begin business as soon as their certificates have been filed, State fees paid, and certificate of payment thereof issued (Laws of 1901, chap. 52, sec. 1).

10. Organization Meeting. — The incorporators should sign a written agreement fixing the time and place within the State for the organization of the corporation. The incorporators may be represented by proxy if desired. If the certificate of incorporation does not bestow upon directors the right to make by-laws, the stockholders should adopt by-laws themselves. Immediately after the adjournment of the stockholders' organization meeting (if any is held), the board of directors named in the certificate of incorporation should meet and elect the officers of the corporation, receive and act upon an offer to transfer property for stock, etc., and adopt by-laws. The statutory officers are a president, who must be chosen from among the directors, and such subordinate officers as the company may by its by-laws designate.

Humphreys v. Mooney, 5 Col. 283.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Meetings of the stockholders must be held at the office of the company within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State only by making provision therefor in the certificate of incorporation (Mills, secs. 481, 493).

Humphreys v. Mooney, 5 Col. 283; Jones v. Pearl M. Co., 20-Col. 417; 38 Pac. 700; Cook v. Hager, 3 Col. 386; Utlay v. Company, 4 Col. 371.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must not be less than three nor more than thirteen directors, all of whom must be stockholders. In case of mining companies and banks not more than nine are permitted. There are no residential requirements (Mills, sec. 481; see also Mills, sec. 585; Laws of 1895, pp. 150-152, sec. 1). Cumulative voting for directors is provided for by statute (Laws of 1905, p. 150, sec. 1).

b. Liabilities. — Assenting directors are jointly and severally liable for the declaration and payment of dividends which render it insolvent or which decrease the amount of its capital stock. The extent of the liability is for all debts of the corporation then existing and for all that shall thereafter be contracted while the capital remains so diminished (Mills, sec. 492). They are also liable for failure to file annual reports (Laws of 1901 ; 3 Mills, sec. 491 j). However, as the failure to file the annual report fixes directors and officers with the liability for debts as stated, and as this annual report must be filed whether the stock has been fully paid and certificate to that effect made or not, it would appear that the failure to make a certificate as to full payment of stock is in itself immaterial. It is made a misdemeanor for directors to fail to properly keep, and, on demand of parties entitled to the same to permit inspection of, corporate books (sec. 488 to 508).

Nix v. Miller, 26 Col. 203; 57 Pac. 1034; Austin v. Berlin, 13 Col. 198; 22 Pac. 433; Matthews v. Patterson, 16 Col. 215; 26 Pac. 812; Larsen v. James, 1 Col. App. 313; 29 Pac. 183; Gregory v. Bank, 3 Col. 322; Col. Fuel Co. v. Lenhart, 6 Col. App. 511; 41 Pac. 634; Cook v. Merritt, 15 Col. 212; 25 Pac. 176.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable for corporate debts to the extent of their unpaid subscriptions to the corporate stock (Mills, sec. 486).

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by such officers as the by-laws shall prescribe. The par value of stock certificates must not be less than $1 nor more than $100 (Mills, sec. 480).

15. Preferred Stock. — The issuance of preferred stock is not expressly authorized by statute.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The corporation may purchase mines, manufactories, and other property necessary for the corporate business, and issue stock to the amount of the value thereof in payment therefor. Stock so issued shall be declared full paid stock and not liable to any further assessments. Neither shall the stockholders be liable to any further payments therefor. The constitutional provision (Cons., Art. XV. sec. 9) is that no corporation shall issue stock or bonds except for labor done, service performed, or money or property actually received (Mills, sec. 618).

17. Books. — The directors are required to keep at the principal office or place of business within the State correct books of account. These books shall be open to the inspection of stockholders at any time. In addition to the foregoing a stock register must be kept containing the names and residences of the stockholders, the number of shares held by them, the time when they became or ceased to be stockholders, and the amount of stock actually paid in and what proportion has been paid in cash. This book is open to the inspection of stockholders and creditors during business hours (Mills, sec. 488; 3 Mills, sec. 508; Laws of 1903, chap. 77).

18. Office. — The corporation must maintain an office within the State (Mills, sec. 473).

19. Reports. — Annually within sixty days from January 1st, reports must be filed with the Secretary of State, covering the names and residences of officers and directors, the amount of capital stock fixed, and the proportion paid in; a statement of the manner of the payment of capital stock, a statement that the company is or is not engaged actively in business within the State, and other information necessary to show the financial condition of the company. Also the amount of indebtedness of the company at the date of the filing of the report. (Mining, ditch, and power companies must include other statements.) In case of failure to file such report the officers and directors become liable for corporate indebtedness contracted during the preceding year, or while such default continues (Laws of 1911, chap. 102). A report of particulars of financial condition must also be made to the State Board of Assessors, and filed before June 1st, under penalty of $100 per day for default (Laws of 1902, pp. 71-73, sec. 63).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Quo warranto lies for failure to pay fees on issuance of stock (sec. 491 b, Cons., Article XV, sec. 3). If any corporation fails for a period of three years to pay the annual State, corporation or license tax and other fees required by law, or to make any report the statutes require, the charter of such corporation is subject to forfeiture by the Secretary of State upon compliance by him with statutory requirements looking to that end. (See Laws of 1911, chap. 101.)

22. Amendments. — Corporations may amend their articles of incorporation in any manner provided that thereby they do not so change such articles as to work a change in the object or purposes for which such corporation was originally organized. All proposed amendments must be voted upon by the stockholders either at their regular annual meeting or at a special meeting; provided the published notice of such annual meeting required by law and by the by-laws of the corporation shall have contained a notice of such proposed amendment giving the purport of the same, and that it would be presented and acted upon at such meeting, and provided further that if such amendment is to be voted upon at a special meeting the same shall be called by order of the board of directors, and that notice thereof shall have been given as required by the by-laws of the corporation and by delivering personally or depositing in the post-office, at least thirty days before the time fixed for such meeting, a notice properly addressed to each stockholder, signed by the president or other head officer or the secretary, stating the time and object of such meeting, and that the same will be held at the place appointed by said board and designated in such notice, and as provided in sec. 347 of the General Statutes of Colorado. The act also provides that a meeting of the stockholders to vote upon the proposed amendment shall be called by the president or other head officer upon the written request of the holders of one-third in amount of the subscribed capital stock. Upon such request the president must call together the board of directors and present such request to them, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the board of directors to call a special meeting of the stockholders for the purpose of considering such proposed amendment for a time not less than thirty nor more than sixty days thereafter, which meeting shall be called by delivering personally or depositing in the post-office, at least thirty days before the time fixed for such meeting, a notice properly addressed to each stockholder, signed by the president or other head officer or secretary, stating the time and object of such meeting, which shall be held at the place appointed by the said board and designated in such notice. If at such stockholders' meeting the amendment shall receive the vote of two-thirds of all the subscribed capital stock, it shall be deemed adopted, and a certificate setting forth the fact or facts, signed by the president or other head officer of such corporation, and verified by his affidavit and attested by the secretary thereof with the seal of the corporation thereunto affixed, shall be filed for record with the Secretary of State, and a like certificate shall be filed in the office of the recorder of each county wherein the original articles of incorporation were filed. Thereafter such amendment or amendments shall be in full force and effect to the same extent as if the same had been included in the original articles of incorporation (3 Mills, secs. 477 to 479 inclusive, as amended by Session Laws of Colorado, 1907, chap. 138).

23. Annual Franchise Tax. — All domestic corporations must on or before the 1st day of May of each year pay an annual State corporation license tax to the Secretary of State in the amount of 2 cents upon each $1,000 of its capital stock (Session Laws of 1907, chap. 211).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Stockholders owning at least ten per cent of the entire capital stock of the corporation have the right to call a special meeting of the stockholders to vote upon the question as to whether the corporate existence shall be extended beyond the limit prescribed in the original articles. Notice of such meeting must be given by publication for four successive weeks by mailing notice thereof to each stockholder at least thirty days prior to the time fixed for the meeting. A majority of the entire capital stock issued and outstanding must be represented thereat. If such majority votes in favor of renewal, the president and secretary shall under the seal of the company certify to that fact, and shall file one certificate in the office of the recorder of deeds in each county wherein the company may do business, and one in the office of the Secretary of State. Thereupon the corporate life of such corporation shall be renewed for another term of twenty years. The Secretary of State is entitled to charge the same fees as are provided by law for filing in his office new certificates of incorporation (Laws of 1905, chap. 87).

Pratt v. Company, 1 Col. Dec. Supp. 171.

25. Dissolution. — If all debts are paid, a company may be dissolved by the vote of two-thirds of the outstanding stock at a meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose. A certificate of such dissolution must be filed and likewise published (3 Mills, sec. 619 a; see special act relative to conspiracies to bring about receiverships, Session Laws of 1907, chap. 152).

26. Foreign Corporations. — A foreign corporation desiring to do any business, institute or defend actions, or hold property within the State is required to file with the Secretary of State a copy of its charter, or of its certificate of incorporation, duly certified and authenticated by the proper authority from the State from which the charter issues. It must also file a certificate, signed and acknowledged by the president and secretary, with the Secretary of State and in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county or counties in which it proposes to carry on its business within the State, designating the principal place wherein the business of said corporation is to be carried on in the State, and appointing an agent at this principal place of business upon whom process may be served. The preliminary fee for foreign corporations seeking to obtain a permit to do business within the State is one-half more than for filing original certificates of domestic corporations. All foreign corporations must pay on or before the 1st day of May of each year an annual State corporation license of two cents upon each one thousand dollars par value upon that proportion of its capital stock represented by its corporate capital property and assets located and employed in Colorado; and every such foreign corporation by its president and secretary shall within sixty days next after the first day of June in each year make and forward to the Secretary of State a statement sworn to and showing that portion of the capital stock of such corporation which is represented by its corporate capital, property and assets located and employed in Colorado. A penalty of ten per cent of such tax for every six months during which said tax is delinquent is exacted (Laws of 1911, chap. 103). Foreign corporations must also file annual reports, setting forth the same matters as are required of domestic corporations, and in addition thereto the following matters: A statement as to the portion of its capital stock represented by its corporate capital, property and assets located and employed in the State of Colorado. And if it appear by any annual report so filed that the corporate capital, property and assets located and employed in the State of Colorado will exceed the amount mentioned in its sworn statement at the time of the original filing in the office of the Secretary of State, then the said corporation shall pay to the Secretary of State thirty cents on each and every one thousand dollars of such excess (Laws of 1911, chap. 102).

Every corporation, joint stock company or association, incorporated by or under any general or special law of any foreign State or kingdom, or any State or Territory of the United States beyond the limits of this State, having a capital stock divided into shares, shall pay to the Secretary of State for the use of the State a fee of thirty dollars in case the capital stock which such corporation, joint stock company or association is authorized to have does not exceed fifty thousand dollars; but in case the capital stock thereof is in excess of fifty thousand dollars the Secretary of State shall collect the further sum of thirty cents on each and every one thousand dollars of that portion of such excess of capital stock as is represented by its corporate capital property and assets employed and located in Colorado and a like fee of thirty cents on each one thousand dollars of that proportion of the amount of subsequent increase of stock as represented by the corporate capital, property and assets employed and located in Colorado, and every such corporation by its president and secretary shall file with the certified articles of incorporation and the affidavits required a sworn statement under its corporate seal, setting forth the entire amount of its capital, and that proportion thereof which is represented by the corporate property, capital and assets employed and located in the State of Colorado. The said fee shall be due and payable upon the filing of the certificate of incorporation, articles of association or charter of such corporation, joint stock company or association in the office of the Secretary of State, and no such corporation, joint stock company or association shall have or exercise any corporate powers or hold or acquire any real or personal property, franchises, rights or privileges or be permitted to do any business or prosecute or defend any suit in this State until the said fee shall have been paid (Laws of 1911, chap. 102, sec. 4). For filing copies of laws of foreign States the fee is $5; for filing certificate designating agent, $5.

CONNECTICUT.

(The references cited below are to the Session Laws of 1903, chap. 194, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Character of the Law under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The corporation laws of Connecticut, including the Corporation Act of 1901 (General Statutes, 1901, chap. 157), have been entirely revised. The provisions of the Act of 1901 have been repealed, and the revised law — Laws of 1903, chap. 194 — has been substituted therefor. Special acts are provided for the incorporation of banking, trust, building and loan, insurance, surety, railway, street railway, telephone, telegraph, gas, electric light, and water companies. Corporations may, however, be incorporated for the purpose of transacting any of the said lines of business just enumerated in any other State or foreign country if not prohibited by the laws of such State or foreign country (sec. 62).

2. Incorporators. — Three or more. There are no residential requirements (sec. 62).

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation. — The certificate must set forth:

a. Name. — The name of every corporation shall be such as to distinguish it from any other corporation organized under the laws of this State, and from any other corporation engaged in the same business or promoting or carrying on the same purposes in this State, and such name shall be in the English language, and shall begin with "the" and end with "company" or "corporation," or have the word "incorporated" immediately after or in the same. Every corporation shall be located in some town in the State (Public Acts of 1907, chap. 155).

b. Domiciliary Office. — The name of the town in the State in which the corporation is to be located (sec. 63; Public Acts of 1907, chap. 155).

d. Capital Stock. — The amount of the total authorized capital stock, which shall not be less than $2,000; also the number of shares into which the same is divided, which shall not be less than $25. f. Duration. — The period, if any, limited for the duration of the corporation. The charter may be perpetual if desired (sec. 63).

g. Regulation of Internal Affairs. — There may also be inserted any lawful provisions which the incorporators may choose to insert for the regulation of the business of the corporation, or for defining or limiting the powers of the corporation, its officers, directors, or any class of stockholders (sec. 64).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to the statutory enumeration of the powers of corporations (Laws of 1903, chap. 194, sec. 3) corporations have the following extraordinary powers: To carry on their business in any State or Territory of the United States or in any foreign country. To share profits with employees. To acquire its own stock. To voluntarily dissolve itself. To mortgage real and personal estate, including its franchises, and issue promissory notes, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness. To issue one or more classes of stock. To consolidate with another corporation engaged in the same or similar line of business. To enforce a lien upon corporate stock for all debts, including assessments. To appoint an executive committee from the board of directors. To vote by proxy and to purchase and to hold the stock of other corporations. To cumulate votes in the election of directors by making provision therefor in the certificates of incorporation (Laws of 1903, chap. 194, secs. 3, 4, 9, 11, 21, 25, 27, 59, 75; Laws of 1905, chaps. 166, 171. As to mortgage of after-acquired property, see Laws of 1911, chap. 260.)

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate must be signed and sworn to by each of the incorporators and must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, who shall examine the same, and if he finds that it conforms to the law, and that the organization tax has been paid, shall endorse thereon the word "approved," with his name and official title, and shall thereupon record such certificate in a book kept by him for that purpose (sec. 60). The law provides that the corporate existence shall begin upon the approval of such certificate by the Secretary of State (sec. 65). After such approval and until the directors shall be elected, the incorporators shall be given charge of the affairs of the corporation and may take such steps as are necessary or proper to obtain subscriptions to its stock (secs. 66 and 67).

S. G. & P. Co. v. Scholfield, 70 Conn. 500; 40 Atl. 182.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limitation upon amount of corporate indebtedness.

7. Organization Tax. — Fifty cents on every thousand dollars of its capital stock up to $5,000,000. Beyond that amount 10 cents upon every thousand dollars of excess. The minimum fee, however, is $25 (sec. 61).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — To the Secretary of State, $1 for filing certificate of incorporation, and for recording the same $1 for two pages or less, and for each additional page at the rate of 50 cents per page. For filing certificate of organization, $1, and for recording the same $1 for two pages or less, and for each additional page at the rate of 50 cents per page. For preparing certified copy of certificate of incorporation, 50 cents for each page, but in no case less than $1.50. For filing annual reports, $1. For preparing forms for certificates and reports of corporations, for recording the same and for copies of certificate, 50 cents for each page, but in no case less than $1. For filing copy of charter or certificate of organization of foreign corporation, $10; for filing statement required from such corporation, $5; for secretary's certificate with the State's seal impressed thereon, 50 cents. For filing appointment of Secretary of State as attorney for such corporation, $1; for filing annual report and certified copy thereof, $2.50; for recording certificate of incorporation in local county office, $1.

9. Commencing Business. — A corporation cannot commence business until the amount of capital specified in the certificate of incorporation as the amount with which it will begin business has been paid in, nor until its directors and officers have been duly elected and its by-laws adopted, nor until a majority of its directors have caused to be filed with the Secretary of State a certificate of organization setting forth (1) The amount of each class of stock subscribed for. (2) The amount paid thereon in cash. (3) The amount paid thereon in property other than cash. (4) The amount paid on each share of stock which has not been paid in full. (5) The names and residences of each of the original subscribers with the number and class of shares subscribed for by each. (6) That the officers and directors of the corporation have been duly elected and its by-laws adopted. (7) The names, residences, and post-office addresses of each of the officers and directors. (8) The location of its principal office in this State with the street number, if any, thereof, and the name of the agent or person in charge thereof upon whom process against the corporation may be served (Laws of 1905, chap. 267; Laws of 1909, chap. 160). Unless a certificate of organization is filed within two years after the filing of the certificate of incorporation, such certificate of incorporation shall be void. The Secretary of State must approve the certificate of organization before filing (sec. 69, Laws of 1905, chap. 267; Laws of 1909, chap. 160). No corporation can commence business until a copy of the certificate of incorporation, duly certified by the Secretary of State, shall have been duly filed and recorded in the office of the town clerk of the town where the corporation is to be located (sec. 60). (As to preliminaries necessary to be observed to secure permit to sell stock of oil and mining companies, see Laws of 1903, chap. 196.)

10. Organization Meeting. — A majority of the incorporators may call the organization meeting at such time and place as may be designated by a notice published twice at least seven days before the time designated in a newspaper in the State having circulation in the town in which the corporation is located, and such notice may be waived by a writing signed by all the subscribers to the stock, and a majority of the incorporators, specifying the time and place for such meeting. When the meeting is held, the subscribers for the stock, who may be present in person or be represented by proxy, must choose a temporary clerk, and proceed to the election by ballot of three or more directors who are subscribers to the capital stock, and shall adopt by-laws for the regulation of the affairs of the corporation. Immediately upon the adjournment of the organization meeting of the incorporators the directors should meet and organize by choosing from among their number a president, and shall appoint a treasurer and secretary, and such other officers as the by-laws shall prescribe. The same person may fill the offices of president and treasurer or of secretary and treasurer (secs. 67-71 inclusive).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Meetings of stockholders must be held at the office of the company within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State by making provision therefor in the by-laws or by the consent of all the directors. Cumulative voting is permitted if provision is made therefor in the certificate of incorporation (secs. 3, 22; Laws of 1905, chap. 171). For three days prior to the holding of any stockholders' meeting a complete list of the stockholders entitled to vote, arranged in alphabetical order, shall be open to inspection by any stockholder at the time and place of the meeting (Laws of 1911, chap. 215).

McCall v. Company, 6 Conn. 428.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors, who must be stockholders. There are no residential requirements. They may be divided into classes if desired (secs. 10, 68). The board of directors may appoint an executive committee if they see fit (sec. 10). May adopt by-laws subject to those adopted by the stockholders.

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — CONNECTICUT.

b. Liabilities. — Every director voting for a dividend or other distribution of assets, except from the net profits or actual surplus of the corporation, is liable to a fine of not more than $500. If such payment or distribution leaves the company insolvent, the directors so voting shall be jointly and severally liable to the amount so paid or distributed to any creditors existing at the date of such voting which shall have obtained judgment against such corporation and on which execution shall have been returned unsatisfied. Where the directors concur in a fraudulent overvaluation of property taken in exchange for stock of the corporation, they are jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of the difference between the actual value of any property so accepted in payment at the time of such indebtedness and the amount for which it is received in payment (secs. 5, 12. See also Laws of 1907, chap. 144).

Davenport v. Lines, 72 Conn. 118; 44 Atl. 17.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders, whether original subscribers or not, are liable for any balance due on the stock held by them. After the par value of their stock has been paid they are not liable for any further assessments. They are liable for causing insolvency by illegally reducing stock (secs. 6, 16).

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him under the seal of the corporation signed by the president or vice-president and by the secretary or assistant secretary or treasurer or assistant treasurer. The par value of stock certificates must not be less than $25 (secs. 1, 17, 63).

15. Preferred Stock. — Special authority to issue preferred stock is given by statute if provision is made therefor in the certificate of incorporation. The terms upon which such preferred stock is issued must be stated in the certificate of incorporation (sec. 63; see also sec. 25).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be paid for either in cash or in property. If not paid for in cash, a majority of the directors shall make and sign upon the corporate records a statement showing the property received in payment for stock and that it has an actual value equal to the amount for which it was so received. The judgment of the directors as to the value of the property upon this subject is made final. But the directors concurring in the judgment of such valuation, in the case of fraud in the overvaluation of such property, are jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the difference between the actual value of such property so accepted in payment and the amount for which it is received in payment (sec. 12).

17. Books. — The stock book or duplicate thereof, containing the names and addresses of the stockholders and the number of shares held by them, shall at all times during the usual hours of business be open to the examination of every stockholder at its principal office and place of business in the State. If a creditor makes an affidavit that he is a creditor of the corporation, the person in charge of the stock books is obliged to furnish him information as to the number of shares held by such stockholder in any corporation (sec. 18, as amended by Laws of 1911, chap. 215; see also sec. 39).

Heminway v. Heminway, 58 Conn. 443; 19 Atl. 766.

18. Office. — The corporation must maintain an office within the State (sec. 63).

19. Reports. — The president, or, in case of his absence or disability, the secretary and treasurer, must annually, on or before the 15th day of February or August, make, sign, swear to, and file in the office of the Secretary of State a certificate setting forth as of the 1st day of January or July immediately preceding: the name, residence, and post-office address of all the officers and directors; amount of outstanding capital stock which has not been paid for in full, with the amount due thereon; location of the principal office within the State, with the street number if there be any, and the name of the person in charge thereof upon whom process against the corporation may be served (sec. 37, as amended by Public Acts of 1907, chap. 27). Whenever a corporation shall be in the hands of a receiver or trustee in bankruptcy or a trustee in insolvency, or whenever any foreign corporation shall have appointed the Secretary of State its attorney, has ceased to do business in this State, and such fact is certified to and recorded by the Secretary of State, or whenever any domestic corporation has filed its certificate of dissolution, no annual report shall be required of such corporation during the period aforesaid (Public Acts of 1909, chap. 160). A certified copy of said certificate must be recorded in the office of the town clerk of the town in which such corporation is located (sec. 37). Every corporation may at any meeting duly held for that purpose, empower its directors to issue shares of its unissued authorized capital stock. At the time of the filing of its next annual report, after the issue of any such shares, a majority of the directors shall make and file a certificate setting forth the facts relating to such issue similar to the facts relative to the original issue of stock required as set forth under the certificate of organization (sec. 71. As to penalty for failure to file annual report see sec. 21 below. See Laws of 1911, chap. 147, as to power of Attorney General to remit forfeitures or fines).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust affidavit in force in Connecticut.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The grounds for proceedings in the nature of quo warranto against corporations are to be found in the Statutes of Connecticut 1887, secs. 1296–1302 inclusive. Unless the certificate of organization is filed within two years after the filing of the certificate of incorporation, it is void (Laws of 1905, chap. 267).

Any corporation failing to file its annual report for two consecutive years and shall not pay to the State the forfeiture imposed for such neglect shall prima facie be deemed to have forfeited its rights and powers, and its corporate existence may be terminated by law (Public Acts of 1909, chap. 200).

Pearce v. Olney, 20 Conn. 544; Hart v. Company, 40 Conn. 524.

22. Amendments. — Articles may be amended before commencing business in any respect desired, provided that the subject matter of such changes could have been inserted in the original certificate of incorporation. No change, alteration, or amendment shall be valid unless approved in writing by all of the subscribers to the capital stock of such corporation, nor unless a certificate setting forth such amendments, changes, or alterations and stating the same has been duly approved by the subscribers, shall be made, acknowledged, and filed by all of the incorporators both in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the town clerk of the town where the corporation is to be located (sec. 73).

Every corporation may change its name, nature of its business, and its location; may increase or reduce the amount of its authorized capital stock; may create one or more classes of stock; may make such other amendments in its certificate of incorporation as may be desired, provided that the subject matter thereof could have been lawfully inserted in the original certificate of incorporation. No such amendments shall be valid unless approved by the vote of two-thirds of the outstanding capital stock of each class at a meeting of the stockholders duly called to consider such amendment, nor unless a certificate setting forth such amendments and stating the same have been duly adopted by the stockholders, shall be made and filed with the Secretary of State by a majority of the directors (sec. 74).

N. H. & D. Ry. Co. v. Chapman, 38 Conn. 56.

23. Annual Franchise Tax. — There is no annual franchise tax (sec. 61).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for extension of corporate existence.

25. Dissolution. — The franchises may be surrendered at any time before any part of subscriptions are paid and business begun. Whenever directors of a corporation shall vote to terminate its corporate existence, they shall forthwith call a special meeting of the stockholders, to be held not less than thirty nor more than forty days after the date of such calling. Such call shall contain a copy of such vote, and shall be published once a week for four weeks next preceding such meeting in a newspaper of the State having a circulation in the town where such corporation is located, and a copy thereof shall be sent by mail to the last known address of each stockholder. If at said meeting of the stockholders three-fourths in interest of each class of stock issued shall vote to confirm such vote of the directors, the directors shall proceed forthwith to wind up the affairs of the corporation. If every stockholder shall sign and acknowledge an agreement among stockholders that the corporate existence of such corporation shall be terminated, the vote of the directors and the confirming vote of the stockholders may be dispensed with (sec. 29). Whenever the stockholders shall by vote or written assent agree to the dissolution of a corporation, a majority of the directors shall make, sign, and swear to and file in the office of the Secretary of State a certificate that such stockholders' vote has been duly passed or such assent duly given, and stating the address to which all claims against such corporation may be sent, and such secretary shall thereupon record such certificate in a book kept by him for that purpose. When the directors have completed their duties as trustees, for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the corporation, a majority of them shall make, sign, and swear to and file in the office of the Secretary of State a further certificate stating that the directors have completed their duties in winding up the affairs of such corporation and have sold or collected all its assets and distributed the same, stating the manner of such distribution. The Secretary of State shall examine the same, and if he finds it conforms to law, shall endorse his approval thereon, and shall thereupon record such certificate. When such certificate has been approved by the Secretary of State, the existence of such corporation shall terminate (sec. 34). The minority stockholders owning one-tenth of the capital stock may petition the court for dissolution (Laws of 1905, chap. 121).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Before a foreign corporation can transact business in the State it must file in the office of the Secretary of State a certified copy of its charter or certificate of incorporation, together with a statement signed and sworn to by its president and a majority of directors, showing the amount of its authorized capital stock and the amount thereof which has been paid in, and if any part of such payment has been made otherwise than in cash such statement shall state forthwith the particulars thereof (Public Acts of 1907, chap. 60). They must also appoint, in writing, the Secretary of State to be their attorney, upon whom process may be served (secs. 83 to 85 inclusive). Foreign corporations are required to file annual reports similar to those required of domestic corporations. The fee for filing certified copy of the charter is $10, and a further fee of $5 is charged for filing the statement required by law (secs. 80 to 88 inclusive). For filing appointment of Secretary of State as attorney, $1. Charge for filing annual report and making certified copy thereof for purpose of filing the same with the town clerk, $2.50.

Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Smith, 74 Conn. 625; 51 Atl. 609.

(The references cited below are to the 21 Delaware Laws (1899), chap. 273, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Delaware is to be found in an act passed March 10, 1899, entitled "An Act providing a General Corporation Law" (21 Del. Laws, chap. 273). This act has been successively amended by the Delaware legislature in 1901, 1903, 1905, and 1907. Under it parties may incorporate for any lawful business excepting banking. Special provisions are to be found therein for incorporating railway companies for the purpose of operating railways within the State.

2. Incorporators. — There must be at least three incorporators. There are no residential requirements (sec. 1).

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (sec. 5). — The certificate of incorporation must set forth:

a. Name. — The name of the corporation must contain one of the words "association," "company," "corporation," "club," "incorporated," "society," "union," or "syndicate." No name can be employed which does not serve to distinguish it from that of any other corporation engaged in the same business or promoting or carrying on the same objects or purposes within the State.

b. Domiciliary Office. — The name of the city or town, county or place within the county in which the principal office or place of business is to be located in Delaware, and the name of the resident agent (Laws of 1907, chap. 173).

c. Purposes. — The nature of the business, objects, or purposes proposed to be transacted, promoted, or carried on. The statute clearly contemplates that corporations may be organized for more than one purpose not covered by the special acts. Banking is the only purpose forbidden to corporations organized under the General Act.

d. Capital Stock. — The amount of capital, which shall not be less than $2,000, the number of shares into which the same is divided, and the par value of each share, which may be any amount, the amount of capital stock with which it will commence business, which cannot be less than $1,000. If the corporation is to have more than one class of stock, a description of each class must be given, with the terms on which the respective classes of stock are created.

e. Incorporators. — The name and place of residence of each of the original subscribers to the capital stock, who are in practice the incorporators of the company.

f. Duration. — The corporation may have perpetual existence. If not, the time when the existence is to commence and the time when it is to cease must be stated.

g. Exemption of Stockholders from Liability for Corporate Debts. — The certificate must state whether the private property of the corporation shall be subject to the payment of corporate debts, and if so to what extent.

h. Regulation of the Internal Affairs of the Corporation. — The certificate may contain any provision desired for the regulation of the business and the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, the directors and stockholders, or any classes of stockholders permitted by law (secs. 5, 12, 29, 34). If the business is to be conducted outside of the State, such power must be specifically set forth in the certificate of incorporation (sec. 3).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to the common law powers which are enumerated in the statute, Delaware corporations have the following additional powers: To guaranty, purchase, hold, assign, transfer, mortgage, pledge, or otherwise dispose of stock and bonds of other corporations, and to exercise in the case of stock the right to vote thereon. Corporations also have power to acquire and hold their own shares, but not to vote thereon. To conduct business in any State, Territory, or colony of the United States or in any foreign country. To issue stock for property or services, and to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments. To have one or more offices out of the State, and to hold, purchase, mortgage, convey real and personal property out of the State, provided such powers are included within the objects set forth in the certificate of incorporation. To classify directors. The corporation also has express power to create preferred stock, if desired, provided this power is set forth in the articles of incorporation. The consolidation of corporations carrying on any kind of business is expressly permitted. Also to authorize voting by proxy, to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments, and to cumulate votes in the election of directors (secs. 2, 9, 13, 14, 17, 19, 22, 28, 29, 36, 59-66, 135; see also Laws of 1905, chap. 155; Laws of 1909, chap. 154). Bondholders may be given, if desired, the same voting powers as stockholders (sec. 29).

State ex rel. White v. Hancock, 2 Pen. 252; 45 Atl. 851.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate of incorporation must be signed, sealed, and acknowledged by each of the original subscribers to the capital stock. The original certificate of incorporation is then filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and a certified copy thereof recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in the county in which the principal office as stated in the certificate of incorporation is located. When these acts have been completed and the organization tax paid to the Secretary of State, the corporate existence begins (secs. 5, 6, 7, 11). Collateral inquiry into legality of corporate existence is forbidden (sec. 68).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limit upon the amount of indebtedness which a corporation may incur. Bondholders may be given the right to vote (sec. 29).

7. Organization Tax. — The organization tax is 10 cents for each one thousand dollars of the total amount of capital stock authorized, but in no case shall it be less than $10. In cases where the amount of the capital stock of any corporation as authorized in its original certificate of incorporation, or in any amendment thereof, shall exceed $2,000,000, the organization tax shall be at the rate of 5 cents on each one thousand dollars of authorized capital in excess of $2,000,000, but in no case less than $10 (Laws of 1907, chap. 174). Whenever any certificate of increase of capital stock shall be filed, an additional tax of 10 cents on each one thousand dollars of such increased capitalization shall be paid, but in no case shall such fee be less than $5. When two or more corporations shall consolidate or merge, the Secretary of State shall demand and receive for the use of the State 10 cents on each one thousand dollars of capital stock authorized or merged, but in no case less than $20.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — To the Secretary of State for receiving, filing, and indexing the certificate of incorporation, $2; for recording certificate of incorporation, 10 cents per line; for certified copy of the certificate of incorporation, 2 cents per line for copy, and $1 for attaching thereto the official seal. The fee for this service usually averages about $4.50. For filing certificate of dissolution, change of name, amended certificate of organization, decrease of capital stock, increase or decrease of number of shares, $10; for filing other certificates, $5. Fee to the Recorder of Deeds for recording certified copy of the certificate of incorporation in the local county office where it does not exceed four pages, $3.50. For each additional page, 50 cents (Laws of 1909, chap. 240).

9. Commencing Business. — At least $1,000 of the capital stock must be subscribed for before the corporation can begin business. If the corporate business is not begun in good faith within two years from the date of the incorporation, the franchise is subject to forfeiture (secs. 5, 67).

P. W. & B. R. R. Co. v. Kent Co. R. R. Co., 5 Houst. 127.

10. Organization Meeting. — This may be held either within or without the State (sec. 30). The incorporators ordinarily sign a written agreement, fixing the time and place within the State for the organization of the corporation. In the absence of such consent, the meeting must be called by notice signed by a majority of the incorporators, and published three times in a local newspaper at least two weeks before the time of meeting, or by two days' notice served personally (sec. 11). The incorporators may be represented by proxy if desired. Until the directors are elected the signers of the certificate of incorporation have by statute control of the affairs and of the organization of the corporation, and may take such steps as are proper to obtain the necessary subscriptions to stock. As soon as the meeting is organized by the election of a chairman and secretary, by-laws should be adopted. If the certificate of incorporation so provides, the directors to be elected at the organization meeting of the corporation may adopt by-laws. The incorporators should then proceed to the election of not less than three directors. The directors must own at least three shares of stock, and one must be a resident of the State. The by-laws may provide for the election of officers either by the stockholders or the directors. If by the stockholders, the election of the statutory officers should be had before the adjournment of the organization meeting. Immediately after the adjournment of the incorporators' meeting the directors named in the articles of incorporation should meet and elect the officers of the corporation. The statutory officers are a president, secretary, and treasurer. The president must be chosen from among the directors. The secretary and treasurer may or may not be the same person, and if the corporation have a vice-president, he may, if deemed advisable by the directors, hold the office of vice-president and secretary, or vice-president and treasurer, but not the office of vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. The directors may, if authorized by the by-laws, or by a resolution passed by a majority of the whole board, designate two or more of their number to constitute an executive committee, who shall have and exercise all the powers of the board of directors in the management of the business affairs of the company. The secretary must be sworn (secs. 7-11).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — The stockholders and directors may hold their meetings outside of the State if the by-laws so provide. It may be found more convenient to hold the organization meeting within the State (secs. 30, 32). As to right of cumulative voting, see Laws of 1903, chap. 394, sec. 17; see also Cons., Art. IX. sec. 6; see post, sec. 12. Voting may be by proxy (sec. 17). No shares can be voted which have been transferred on the books of the company within twenty days next preceding the election (secs. 17, 29).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be a board of directors of not less than three in number, one of whom must be a resident of the State. The directors must hold at least three shares of stock. They may be divided into classes if desired. Power may be given the directors to adopt by-laws for the corporation, by inserting such a provision in the certificate of incorporation (secs. 9, 12, 30). It is a mooted question whether cumulative voting is permissible under the Laws of Delaware. Under the Constitution, Art. IX. sec. 6, each stockholder is declared to be entitled to one vote for each share of stock he may hold, but under the Laws of 1903, chap. 394, sec. 17, it is provided that at every meeting of stockholders, each stockholder, whether resident or non-resident, shall, unless otherwise provided in the charter or by-laws, be entitled to one vote in person or by proxy for each share of capital stock held by him (Laws of 1903, chap. 394, sec. 17). Directors have power to designate two or more of their number to act as an executive committee (sec. 9).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are disqualified from re-election to office in case they fail to make and file the annual report required by law (Laws of 1906, chap. 1). Directors who knowingly cause to be published or give out any written statement or report of the corporate business or condition that is false in any material respect, are jointly and severally liable for any loss or damage resulting therefrom. Non-dissenting directors are also liable for declaring dividends not earned or for the illegal distribution of capital stock (secs. 35, 37). They are also liable for refusing to make certificate of full paid capital stock upon written request of any creditor or stockholder (sec. 23). Directors are liable for failure to publish certificate of reduction of capital stock to the extent that they are personally liable for the corporate debts contracted during such default (sec. 28). Directors are liable for loans made to officers of the corporation or to stockholders upon the security of its stock (sec. 36). Directors neglecting or failing to have alphabetical list of stockholders produced at election are ineligible to re-election to any office thereat (sec. 29).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are only liable for their unpaid stock subscriptions (secs. 20, 28).

14. Stock Certificate. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by the president and treasurer. The par value of stock certificates may be any amount (secs. 15, 29).

15. Preferred Stock. — Corporations have the power to create two or more kinds of stock with such preferences and voting powers and with such restrictions or qualifications thereof as shall be stated or expressed in the certificate of incorporation. The preferred stock, however, must not exceed two-thirds of the actual capital paid in in cash or property. The preferred stock may, if desired, be made subject to redemption at not less than par at a fixed time and place to be fixed in the certificate of incorporation. Preferred stockholders shall be entitled to receive a fixed yearly dividend to be expressed in the certificate, not exceeding eight per cent payable quarterly, half yearly, or yearly. Such dividends may be made cumulative. Preferred stock cannot be created unless provided for in the original certificate or amended certificate of incorporation. Corporations are authorized to issue bonds and to confer upon the holders thereof the power to vote in respect to the corporate affairs and management of the company, to the same extent and in the same manner as stockholders, if so provided in the certificate of incorporation (secs. 3, 13, 29).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The Delaware Constitution provides (Cons., Art. IX. sec. 3) that no corporation shall issue stock except for money paid, labor done, or personal property or real property or leases thereof, actually acquired by such corporation, and no labor or property shall be received in payment of stock at a greater price than the actual value at the time the said labor was done or property delivered or title acquired. By statute, however, it is provided that subscriptions to and purchase of the capital stock of any corporation organized under any law of this State may be paid for wholly or partly by cash, by labor done, by personal property, or by real property or leases thereof; and the stock so issued shall be declared and taken to be fully paid stock and not liable to any further call, nor shall the holder thereof be liable for any further payments thereon under the provisions of this act. In the absence of actual fraud in the transaction the judgment of the directors as to the value of such labor, property, real estate, and leases thereof shall be conclusive (Laws of 1905, chap. 155).

Every corporation may at any meeting increase its capital stock and the number of shares thereof until it shall reach the amount named in the original certificate (sec. 27). The president, with the secretary or treasurer, shall, upon the written request of any creditor or stockholder, make a certificate stating the amount of the instalments or calls paid in cash or by the purchase of property, and stating also the total amount of capital stock issued, which certificate shall be signed and sworn to by the president and secretary or treasurer, and shall within thirty days after the making thereof be filed in the office of the Secretary of State.

17. Books. — The original or duplicate stock ledger containing the names and addresses of the stockholders and the number of shares held by them respectively must be kept at the principal office within the State. These are open to the inspection of stockholders. The general books of account need not be kept within the State (sec. 29).

18. Office. — The corporation must maintain a principal office or place of business in the State, and have an agent, a resident of the State, in charge thereof. A sign containing the name of the corporation must be displayed at a conspicuous place in said office (secs. 32, 33, 137).

19. Annual Reports. — On or before the first Tuesday in January of each year it shall be the duty of the president, treasurer or other officer of any two directors of any domestic corporation to file with the Secretary of State an annual report stating the location within the state of the principal office and the name of the agent upon whom service of process against such corporation may be served, the location or locations (town or towns, city or cities, stating the street and number, if numbers there be) of the place or places of business of such company without the State of Delaware; the names and addresses of all the directors and officers of the company and when the term of each expires, the date appointed for the next annual meeting of stockholders for the election of directors, the amount of its authorized capital, the amount actually paid in, the amount invested in real estate, taxes annually thereon, the amount invested in manufacturing or mining in Delaware or both; if such report is not so made and so filed the corporation shall forfeit to the State the sum of $200, to be recovered with costs in an action of debt to be prosecuted by the Attorney General, and provided further that if such report shall not be made and filed, all the directors of any such corporation who shall wilfully refuse to comply with the provisions thereof and who shall be in office during the default shall at the time appointed for the next election and for a period of one year thereafter be thereby rendered ineligible for election or appointment to any office in the company as directors or officers (Laws of 1906, chap. 1). On written request of any director or stockholder, the officers of the corporation must file with the Secretary of State certificate showing amount of stock issued and paid for in cash or property and the total amount of capital stock issued (sec. 23).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is none in force within the State.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The statutory grounds for forfeiture of charter are failure, for two years after the corporation is created, to commence in good faith the business to be promoted or the objects or purposes for which it was organized. Also failure for two successive years to pay the State tax assessed against it, which it is required to pay under the law, renders the charter void (sec. 67; Tax Law, secs. 10, 11).

22. Amendments. — The incorporators, before the payment of any part of the authorized capital stock of the corporation, may file with the Secretary of State an amended certificate duly signed by all of the incorporators amending the original certificate of incorporation in whole or in part. A copy of such certificate, duly certified by the Secretary of State, must then be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county in which the original certificate of incorporation was recorded. Such amended certificate shall thereupon take the place of the original certificate of incorporation (sec. 25). Certificates of incorporation may be amended when and as desired either by addition to its corporate powers and purposes or diminution thereof, or by the substitution of other powers and purposes in whole or in part for those prescribed by its charter, or by increasing or decreasing its authorized capital stock, or by changing the number and par value of the shares of its capital stock, or by changing the corporate name, or by making any other change that may be desired, in manner following, to wit:

The board of directors shall first adopt a resolution setting forth the amendment proposed, declaring its advisability, and calling a meeting of the stockholders for consideration thereof. The meeting shall be called and held upon notice as provided for by the corporation's charter or by-laws. At such meeting a vote of the stockholders in person or by proxy shall be taken for and against the proposed amendment, which vote shall be conducted by two judges appointed for that purpose either by the directors or by the said meeting. The judges are given plenary powers, and they are required to make out certificates in duplicate stating the number of shares of stock, voting for and against the amendment, and subscribing and delivering the same to the secretary of the corporation. If it shall appear by such certificates of the judges that the persons holding a majority of the stock of the corporation or of each class of stock, if there be more than one, have voted in favor of the amendment, thereupon the said corporation shall make under its corporate seal and the hands of its president and secretary a certificate accordingly, and the president shall duly execute and acknowledge the same with one of the judge's duplicate certificates attached, which shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and a copy thereof certified by said Secretary of State shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county in which the original certificate of incorporation is recorded.

No corporation, however, can decrease its capital stock without paying or adequately securing such of its debts as are not then fully secured (G. C. L., sec. 26, as amended by Laws of 1909, chap. 155). (See also secs. 27 and 28, as to increase and reduction of capital paid in.)

The board of directors of any corporation may change the location of the principal office of any corporation within the State to any other place within the State by resolution adopted at a regular or special meeting of said board. Upon the adoption of such resolution a copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State by the president or secretary of such corporation and sealed with its corporate seal; a certified copy of such resolution shall also be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county to which such principal office is removed. For filing such certificate the Secretary of State shall charge a fee of $5 (sec. 137).

If it is desired to decrease the issued capital stock without changing the amount of authorized capital stock, this may be effected by the vote or written consent of two-thirds in interest of the stockholders (see sec. 28). Such reduction may be carried into effect by retiring or reducing any class of the stock or by drawing the necessary number of shares by law for retirement, or by decreasing the number of shares of each shareholder, or by the purchase at not less than par of certain shares for retirement or by retiring the shares owned by the corporation or by reducing the par value of shares. No such reduction shall be made until the corporate debts are fully secured or have been paid and discharged (sec. 28).

23. Annual Franchise Tax. — The annual franchise tax on the amount of the authorized capital stock up to and including $25,000, is $5; on all authorized capital stock exceeding $25,000, and not more than $100,000, $10; on authorized capital stock exceeding $100,000, and not more than $300,000, $20; on authorized capital stock exceeding $300,000, and not more than $500,000, $25; on authorized capital stock exceeding $500,000, and not more than $1,000,000, $50; and a further sum of $25 a year on each $1,000,000 or part thereof in excess of $1,000,000; provided that such corporation shall only be required to pay one-half of the amount of taxes here enumerated in cases where they show in their annual report that they are not engaged in any business, but in no case shall the amount of taxes be less than $5 a year. This tax is payable on May 1st of each year (Laws of 1907, chap. 47). Manufacturing or mining companies as well as mercantile companies whose capital actually paid in is invested in a mercantile business carried on within the State and which is now subject to a license tax for the carrying on of such business under chapter 117, Vol. 13, Laws of Delaware, and all corporations at least fifty per cent of whose capital stock issued and outstanding is invested in business carried on within the State, are exempt from the payment of such license tax (Laws of 1903, chap. 17). If any other corporation shall have less than fifty per cent of its capital stock issued and outstanding invested in business carried on within the State it shall pay the annual license tax or franchise tax provided for companies not carrying on business in this State, but shall be entitled in the computation of such tax to a deduction from the amount of its capital stock issued and outstanding of the assessed value of its real or personal estate within this State (22 Del. Laws, chap. 259; Laws of 1903, chap. 17).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporate existence may be extended by complying with the terms of the statute in such case made and provided (secs. 131-134). (See also Laws of 1905, chap. 156.)

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — DELAWARE.

25. Dissolution. — Before payment of any part of the capital stock or beginning business the incorporators may surrender their franchises by filing in the office of the Secretary of State a certificate verified by a majority of the incorporators to the effect that no part of the capital has been paid and that such business has not been begun. After the paying in of the capital stock a majority vote of the directors cast in favor of the dissolution of the corporation, coupled with the written consent of two-thirds in interest of the stockholders, affords the necessary basis for a dissolution of the corporation by consent. In addition to this, notice of the stockholders' meeting, called for the purpose of voting upon the question of dissolution, must be published for four successive weeks. The consent of the directors and officers must be certified by the president, secretary, and treasurer and filed with the Secretary of State, who issues his certificate that such consent has been filed, which certificate must be published for four consecutive weeks. If all the stockholders consent in writing, no meeting or notice is required (secs. 38-58).

Com. Bank v. Lockwood's Adm'r, 2 Harr. 8.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Before doing business within the State, foreign corporations are required to file with the Secretary of State a certified copy of their certificate of incorporation, the name of the authorized agent within the State, a sworn statement of assets and liabilities, and must pay to the Secretary of State a license fee of $50. Thereupon the Secretary of State issues a certificate of authority to transact business within the State. The law imposes a duty upon the Secretary of State after issuing the certificate aforesaid to issue a certificate to the prothonotary of the Superior Court in each county of the State of Delaware, containing the name of the agent of such foreign corporation and the State wherein incorporated. This certificate is then filed by such prothonotary in his office. For this service the law provides that he shall receive a fee of $1, to be collected from each corporation by the Secretary of State and paid over by that official to the prothonotary (Laws of 1903, chap. 395; Cons., Art. IX. sec. 5; as to penalties for non-compliance with the law, see Laws of 1903, chap. 395, sec. 6). Section 9 of the tax law provides that foreign corporations doing business in Delaware shall be subject to what is known as the retaliatory tax law. This act provides that when by the laws of any other State any other or greater taxes, licenses, etc., are imposed upon corporations of this State doing business in such other State, than the laws of this State impose upon foreign corporations doing business in this State, so long as such laws continue in force in such foreign State the same taxes, licenses, etc., shall be imposed upon all corporations of such other States doing business within this State. Foreign corporations must pay a filing and recording fee of $10 in all cases (Tax Law, sec. 9). No annual reports are required of foreign corporations and they are not subject to the payment of any annual franchise tax.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. —

The Business Corporation Act in force in the District of Columbia is to be found in the United States Statutes at Large, Vol. 31, pp. 1284 et seq., as amended by the Acts of January 31, 1902 (U. S. Stat. at L., Vol. 32, p. 2), and Act of June 30, 1902 (U. S. Stat. at L., Vol. 32, pp. 533 et seq.). Under this act companies may be formed for the purpose of carrying on any business or enterprise which may be lawfully conducted by an individual, excepting banks, corporations formed to buy, sell, or deal in real property, railways, and such other enterprises or business as are provided for by special acts.

2. Incorporators. — There must be at least three incorporators. There are no residential requirements (sec. 605).

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (sec. 606). The certificate must set forth:

a. Name. — The act forbids the employment of a name already in use (sec. 604).

b. Purposes. — Object for which it is formed. The recorder of deeds only permits the insertion of one line of business in the certificate of incorporation. (See secs. 605, 612.)

c. Duration. — May be perpetual if desired.

d. Capital Stock. — Amount thereof and the number of shares. Both may be any amount desired.

e. Trustees. — The number of trustees who shall manage the concerns of the company for the first year and their names. The recorder of deeds requires that the citizenship of each of the trustees shall be set forth in the certificate.

j. Domiciliary Office. — The name of the place in the District in which the operations of the company are to be carried on. The recorder of deeds requires that the post-office address of the place of business of the corporation shall also be given.

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of common law powers the act authorized voting by proxy; also forfeiture of stock for non-payment of assessments. The statute expressly forbids the purchase to stock in other corporations. Power to adopt by-laws is conferred upon the trustees (secs. 397, 607, 609, 612, 613).

Scanlon v. Snow, 2 D. C. App. Cases, 137.

5. Procuring the Charter. — No proper understanding of the Business Corporation Act in force in the District of Columbia can be obtained without a careful reading of the case of Dancy v. Clark et al., 24 D. C. App. Cas. 487, wherein the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia made the following holding: (1) That while the recorder of deeds in the District is a ministerial officer, without jurisdiction to pass upon the validity of certificates of incorporation presented to him for record, that nevertheless he is not wholly without jurisdiction in determining whether a given certificate shall be admitted to record or not. The court held that he had the right to exercise discretion in the premises, but not judicial discretion. (2) The court held that only one kind of business may be included in the designation of purposes for which any specific corporation is formed. (3) The court held that inasmuch as the statute requires that all the trustees must be stockholders, that therefore each of the trustees named in the certificate of incorporation must join in the execution of the certificate, thus in effect requiring that all the trustees must be incorporators. The reasoning by which the court arrived at this conclusion was as follows:

That the incorporators must be regarded as the only stockholders of the corporation, and that therefore the trustees, being necessarily by reason of their positions stockholders, must on incorporation be selected from the original incorporators. The court further held that the only extension of business permissible by amendment of the certificate of incorporation is to extend the business of the corporation to some business cognate to the business for which the company was originally incorporated.

Finally, the court held that the powers inserted in the certificate not authorized by law must be regarded as surplusage.

The certificate of incorporation must be subscribed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators. It must then be filed in the office of the recorder of deeds for the District (sec. 605). Under the Act of February 4, 1905, the certificate of incorporation must be accompanied by proof satisfactory to the recorder of deeds, that all the stock of the said company has been subscribed for in good faith, and that not less than ten per cent of the par value of the stock has been actually paid in cash, and the money derived therefrom is then in the possession of the person named as the first board of trustees. The proof required by the recorder of deeds is that the requirements above set forth have been complied with. That is, first, a statement of the trustees named in the certificate that all of the capital stock of the proposed company has been subscribed for in good faith and that not less than ten per cent of the par value thereof has been actually paid for in cash, and that the money derived therefrom is in the possession of the persons named as the first board of trustees of the corporation; and, secondly, a certificate made by one of the executive officers of some reputable bank or trust company, that said sum in cash is on deposit in said bank or trust company to the credit of the said trustees. The recorder furnishes blank forms for this purpose.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — By implication the debts should not at any time exceed the amount of capital stock (sec. 634).

7. Organization Tax. — All corporations must pay to the recorder of deeds at the time of the filing of the certificate of incorporation 40 cents on each $1,000 of the capital stock of the corporation as set forth in the certificate of incorporation; provided, however, that no fee shall be paid less than $25 (sec. 552; see Act of Congress approved February 4, 1905).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — To the recorder of deeds, 50 cents for the first two hundred words in articles of incorporation; 15 cents for each hundred words in addition thereto; extra charge of 25 cents for each separate acknowledgment over one. For each certificate and seal, 25 cents. For certified copies of certificate of incorporation, 50 cents for the first two hundred words and 15 cents for each additional one hundred words; for affixing certificate and seal thereto, 25 cents (U. S. Stat., Vol. 31, p. 1276).

9. Commencing Business. — Business may be commenced as soon as the articles are executed and filed as required by law. Before business can be transacted ten per cent of the capital stock must be paid in, either in money or property at its actual value (sec. 613). Within thirty days after the payment of the last instalment of the capital stock the president and a majority of the trustees must make, verify, and record in the office of the recorder of deeds a certificate stating the amount of capital fixed by the certificate and paid in (sec. 616).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the District (this in the absence of any statute expressly authorizing such meeting to be held without the District).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Trustees. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the District. Owing to the provision that a majority of the trustees must be residents of the District, it is in practice almost a necessity to hold trustees' meetings in the District, where a majority of the body is required to be present. In practice, however, through the expedient of the appointment of an executive committee, composed of a majority of the board of trustees to whom is delegated all the powers of the full board in the transaction of the business outside of the District of Columbia, meetings of the trustees who are members of an executive committee can be held outside of the District. Notice of the holding of annual meetings for the election of trustees must be published in the District not less than thirty days previous thereto (secs. 608, 609).

12. Trustees' Qualifications and Liabilities. — a. Qualifications. There must be not less than three, nor more than fifteen trustees, who shall be stockholders, and a majority citizens of the District (secs. 608, 609, 612).

b. Liabilities. — Trustees are jointly and severally liable for making false certificates or reports, knowing the same to be false, which liability extends to all debts of the company contracted while acting as such trustees (secs. 618, 619, 631). Non-dissenting trustees are liable for loans of money upon the security of the company's own stock. They are also liable for illegal declaration of dividends (secs. 621–623).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — All stockholders are severally liable to the creditors of the corporation for the unpaid amount due on the shares of stock held by them respectively, for all debts and contracts made by the corporation until the whole amount of the capital stock of said company shall have been paid in, and a certificate thereof shall have been made and recorded. This certificate, signed and sworn to by a majority of the trustees and the president, must within thirty days after the payment of the last instalment of the capital stock be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the District (secs. 615, 616).

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate showing the number of shares owned by him, signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe.

15. Preferred Stock. — There is no express provision authorizing the issuance of preferred stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be paid for in money or property at its actual cash value (sec. 613).

17. Books. — The stock register must be kept within the District of Columbia. This is open to the inspection of stockholders and creditors (secs. 627, 628; see also secs. 631, 632).

18. Office. — Every corporation must maintain an office at all times within the District (sec. 606).

19. Reports. — Every corporation shall annually within twenty days from the 1st of January make a report, which must be published in a newspaper published in the District, stating the amount of capital and the proportion actually paid and the amount of existing debts, which report shall be signed by the president and a majority of the trustees and verified by the oath of the president or secretary of the company and filed in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District. The only penalty for failure to make this report is that any creditor of the corporation may, by petition for mandamus against the corporation, compel such publication to be made, and in such case the court shall require the corporation to pay all expenses of the proceeding including counsel fees. If any false report is made, all officers who have signed the same knowing it to be false are individually liable for all debts of the company contracted while they are stockholders or officers thereof (secs. 617, 618).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute specially applicable to the District of Columbia.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The act specifically provides for forfeiture of charters when the corporation has been guilty of misuse, abuse, or non-user of its corporate powers and franchises of such violation of law as would authorize and make proper the forfeiture thereof (sec. 786).

See Gilbert v. Endowment Ass'n, 10 D. C. App. 316.

22. Amendments. — Articles may be amended only for the purpose of increasing or decreasing the capital stock, or for the purpose of extending or changing its business. This may be accomplished in the following manner: Before the corporation shall be entitled to diminish the amount of its capital stock it must first diminish the amount of its debts and liabilities so that they shall not exceed such diminished amount of capital. To increase or diminish the capital stock or to extend or change the business, a majority of the trustees shall publish notice in a newspaper in the District at least three successive weeks and depositing a notice of such meeting in the post-office addressed to each stockholder at his usual place of residence at least three weeks to the date fixed upon for holding such meeting, specifying the object of the meeting and the time and place where such meeting shall be held. At this meeting stockholders must appear either in person or by proxy, representing not less than two-thirds of all of the shares of stock of the corporation. If after organization at said meeting and canvassing the votes it appears that the votes of two-thirds of the capital stock have been cast in favor of increasing or diminishing the amount of capital or extending or changing the business of the company, a certificate of the proceedings, showing compliance with the laws relative to amendments, the amount of capital paid in, the business to which it is extended or changed, the whole amount of its debts and liabilities, and the amount to which the capital shall be increased or reduced, shall be made out and signed and verified by the affidavit of the chairman of the meeting, and be countersigned by the secretary thereof. Such certificate when acknowledged by the chairman and filed in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District shall be sufficient to secure the amendment desired (secs. 633-639 inclusive). Under the decision of the District Court of Appeals in Dancy v. Clark (24 D. of C. App. Cas. 487), the business of the corporation can be extended only to some additional line of business cognate to that for which the company was originally incorporated. In connection with the provisions of the Code relative to publication of notice of stockholders' meetings for the purpose of increasing or decreasing capital stock or for extending or changing the business, the Attorney-

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

General of the United States has rendered an opinion to the effect that such publication may be waived by unanimous consent of all the stockholders.

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for the extension of corporate existence except by reincorporating under the general statute (see secs. 766, 767).

24. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved on application to the court having jurisdiction, for cause shown (secs. 769-789).

Morrow v. Edwards, 9 Mackey, 475.

25. Annual Franchise Tax. — There is no annual franchise tax. Under sec. 8 of the Tax Law approved July 1, 1902, capital stock of all newspaper, real estate, and mercantile corporations are taxed the same as individuals conducting business along similar lines.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations are not required to obtain a permit to do business in the District of Columbia. (See, however, 32 Statutes at Large, 622.) Under the act of February 1, 1907, when a foreign corporation transacts business in the District without having any place of business or resident agent therein, the service upon any agent or officer or employe in the District shall be effectual as to suits growing out of contracts entered into or to be performed in whole or in part in the District of Columbia, or growing out of any tort heretofore or hereafter committed in said District (U. S. Comp. Stat. 1901, Sup. of 1905, Title XLVIII. sec. 4066).

Eastern Trust & Banking Co. v. Willis, 6 D. C. App. 375.

FLORIDA.

(The references cited below are to the General Statutes of 1906 unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statute under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Florida is to be found in the General Statutes of 1906, secs. 2643 to 2692 inclusive. Special provision is made by statute for banking, building and loan, insurance, surety, railroad, canal, telegraph companies and eleemosynary institutions.

2. Incorporators. — Three or more persons. There are no residential requirements (sec. 2647).

Brown v. Company, 19 Fla. 472.

3. Contents of the Charter. — The charter must set forth (sec. 2648):

a. Name. — Similarity of names is forbidden (sec. 2676).

b. Domiciliary Office. — The place or places of business must be set forth.

c. Purposes. — The general nature of the business or businesses to be transacted. The statute clearly contemplates that corporations may be created for more than one purpose, provided none of the purposes set forth are covered by special acts.

d. Capital Stock. — The amount of the capital stock authorized, the number and par value of the shares into which it is divided, and the terms and conditions upon which it is to be paid in must be set forth. The par value of the shares must not be less than $10 (sec. 2653). The capitalization may be any amount. If it is desired to pay in the capital stock in anything but money, this fact must be stated in the charter. This statement should include a provision either that the whole capital stock or some portion thereof shall be payable in property, labor or services, at a just valuation, to be fixed by the incorporators, or by the directors at a meeting called for that purpose (sec. 2653).

e. Corporate Existence. — The charter may be perpetual if desired.

f. Corporate Officers. — The charter must designate the officers by whom the business is to be conducted, the times at which they shall be elected, and the names of the officers who are to conduct the business until those elected at the first election shall have qualified. The directors must all be stockholders. The statutory officers are a president and treasurer or cashier and such other officers as the by-laws may designate.

g. Corporate Indebtedness. — The highest amount of indebtedness to which the corporation can at any time subject itself must be set forth.

h. Incorporators. — The names and residences of the incorporators must be stated. The subscribing incorporators must also state the amount of stock subscribed for by each. Such amount shall be not less than ten per cent of the authorized capital stock (sec. 2648).

4. Statutory Powers. — Florida statutes enumerate fully the common law powers of corporations as follows: Every corporation by virtue of its existence as such shall have power (1) To have succession by its corporate name for the period limited in its charter, and, when no period is limited, perpetually; (2) To sue and be sued in any court of law or equity; (3) To make contracts and to adopt and use a common seal, and alter the same at pleasure; (4) Where special provision is not made by law or otherwise, to hold, buy, convey, or mortgage such personal or real estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require, also to take, hold, and convey such other real and personal property as shall be necessary for the corporation to acquire in order to obtain or secure the payment of any indebtedness or liability to it; (5) To appoint such subordinate officers and agents as the affairs of the corporation shall require, and to allow them suitable compensation; (6) To make by-laws; (7) To increase or diminish by a vote of its members, cast as the by-laws direct, the number of directors, managers, or trustees, so, however, that the number shall not be less than three nor more than thirteen. The only additional powers conferred by statute are the right to vote by proxy and to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments. Also to mortgage properties. The power to adopt by-laws may be delegated in the charter to the directors if desired (secs. 2645, 2662, 2671).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The charter must be subscribed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators (sec. 2648). Then the proposed charter, together with notice of the intention to apply to the governor for letters patent thereon, must be published for four weeks once each week, in some newspaper published in the county where the principal place of business is to be located (sec. 2640). This notice must be signed with the name of at least three of the incorporators, and the proposed charter must be filed in the Secretary of State's office during the four weeks of publication (sec. 2650). Then the proposed charter, accompanied by proof of publication of notice, must be submitted to the governor, who, if he finds it to be in proper form, and for objects authorized by law, and that the formalities just referred to have been observed, will issue letters patent to the corporation. The Secretary of State will then annex to the letters patent a certified copy of the charter, retaining the original on file and recording it. The organization tax must be paid to the Secretary of State, who issues a certified copy of the charter. Corporate existence commences from the time the certified copy of the charter is issued by the Secretary of State. The statute specifically provides that letters patent, or a certified copy thereof, shall be conclusive evidence as to the existence of the corporation in all actions and proceedings where the question of its existence is only collaterally involved, and prima facie evidence in all other actions and proceedings (secs. 2650, 2651).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no statutory limitation upon the amount of corporate indebtedness (sec. 2646).

7. Organization Tax. — Two dollars upon each thousand dollars of the capital stock, provided no fee shall be less than $5 or more than $250 (sec. 2650).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — To the Secretary of State, in addition to the payment of the organization tax, there must be paid a filing fee of $1. The charge for making a certified copy of the charter is 10 cents per hundred words for copying. The combined fee for filing and making certified copy and recording is about $3.50. For publication, the charge is usually about $10. For recording certificate of incorporation in the office of the clerk of the circuit court in the county where the corporation is to do business, together with the affidavit of the treasurer as to the amount of capital stock paid in, the fee is 10 cents per hundred words.

9. Commencing Business. — Before commencing business letters patent together with a certified copy of the charter must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of the county where the principal place of business is located. There must also be filed with the Secretary of State and with said clerk of the circuit court duplicate affidavits by the treasurer of the corporation that ten per cent of the capital stock has been subscribed and paid. The organization tax must likewise be paid (sec. 2652).

10. Organization Meeting. — Must be held within the State (sec. 2666).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders must hold their meetings within the State. The directors may hold their meetings without the State if the by-laws so provide (secs. 2662, 2666).

Duke v. Taylor, 37 Fla. 64; 19 Sou. 172.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — The number of directors is not limited by law. They must all be stockholders. There are no residential requirements (secs. 2645, 2663).

b. Liabilities. — Directors participating in the declaration of illegal dividends are jointly and severally liable for the debts of the corporation then existing to the extent of the dividend declared, unless they at the time object to the declaration of the dividend in writing (sec. 2691).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions (sec. 2677). If any corporation shall transact any business before complying with the statutory requirements, its stockholders shall be personally liable for all the corporation debts as if they were members of a general partnership and not stockholders of a corporation (sec. 2652).

Gibbs v. Davis, 27 Fla. 531; 8 Sou. 633; Brown v. Company, 19 Fla. 472; Martin v. Company, 8 Fla. 370.

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by such officers as the by-laws may designate for that purpose. The par value of stock certificates may be any amount not less than $10 (sec. 2653).

15. Preferred Stock. — There is no statutory provision expressly authorizing the issuance of preferred stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Unless otherwise provided in the charter, stock subscriptions must be paid in cash. Incorporators may, however, provide in the charter that the capital stock, either in whole or in part, shall be payable in property, labor, or services at a valuation to be fixed in the charter. The charter must also set forth the general description of the property to be taken in exchange for stock (sec. 2653).

17. Books. — The secretary or other officer who by the by-laws is made the custodian of its books, is required to keep the same in his possession at all times during business hours, and have the same ready to be inspected by any officer, director, or committee appointed by the stockholders representing one-tenth of all the subscribed stock. The treasurer or cashier is required to keep a stock book containing a list of the stockholders with the number of shares owned by each, which is subject to inspection by the stockholders upon written application (secs. 2658, 2672).

18. Office. — Every corporation must have a place of business within the State, and the custodian of its books and papers must reside within the State (secs. 2658, 2672).

19. Reports. — The corporation shall annually make a report to the State comptroller containing the name and residence of each stockholder, with the number of shares and the par and cash market value of such shares, the whole amount of capital stock, the amount actually paid in, the real estate subject to assessment of taxes, and the personal estate. A statement of the amount of capital stock subscribed and the amount actually paid in and of the indebtedness of the corporation shall be filed once every six months in the office of the State comptroller (secs. 2659, 2661).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Trusts to control meats, cattle, or edible animals are prohibited (secs. 1714, 2452, 3160, 3164).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Diversion by a corporation of its funds or property to objects other than those named in the charter or to payment of dividends, leaving insufficient funds to meet outstanding liabilities, work a forfeiture of the charter (sec. 2690).

22. Amendments. — To change the name of a corporation a resolution to that effect must be passed by a majority vote of the stockholders at a meeting called for that purpose, and a certificate setting forth such resolution under the corporate seal (attested by the secretary) must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. Thereupon letters patent shall issue, reciting the change in name, which must be recorded in the Secretary of State's office and in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court where the original charter is recorded (secs. 2675, 2676).

With respect to increasing or reducing the capital stock, the statute reads that any corporation desiring to alter or amend its charter shall do so in a certain prescribed manner as set forth in the statute. To increase the capital stock, notice of the meeting of stockholders called for that purpose must be published once a week for four consecutive weeks prior thereto in one newspaper published in the county. In addition to this the usual notice for stockholders' meetings provided for in the by-laws must be served upon or mailed to the stockholders. If at such meeting two-thirds of all the stockholders vote to increase the capital stock, the president within thirty days thereafter must make a return to the Secretary of State under oath of the amount of such increase and the terms on which said capital stock is issued, and from the time the said return is filed the increase of stock shall be authorized, and when issued shall become a part of the capital. At the same time the capitalization tax must be paid upon the amount of increased capital stock. To reduce the capital stock or alter or change the par value of the shares thereof requires the two-thirds vote of all the stockholders cast at a meeting called in the same manner as is above referred to in the case of the increase of the capital stock. In order to legalize the reduction of the capital stock, the president must make within thirty days thereafter under oath his return to the Secretary of State of the amount of such decrease, and upon his affidavit must be endorsed a certificate of the State comptroller that in his judgment the ability of the corporation to meet its outstanding liabilities and debts will not be impaired thereby (secs. 2673, 2674; Laws of 1909, No. 22, p. 38).

To amend the charter in other respects a meeting must be called in the manner set forth above with reference to increasing or reducing the capitalization. At this meeting the proposed amendment must receive a vote of three-fourths of the outstanding capital stock. If the proposed amendment is adopted, the corporation must then give four weeks' notice, once each week, of intention to apply to the governor therefor, in some newspaper published in the county wherein the principal place of business is located, setting forth the desired alteration or amendment. The corporation must then prepare a certificate which shall be filed in the Secretary of State's office during the time of publication, and afterwards, together with the proof of publication of notice. These are all submitted to the governor, who, if the same are found in proper form and legally adopted, if the proposed amendment will be beneficial and lawful and of interest to the community and in accord with the purposes of the charter, will approve the same, and thereupon letters patent shall issue reciting the amendment, and the same shall then be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court where the original charter was recorded (sec. 2150).

23. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax.

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — The statute makes no specific provision for extension of corporate existence. (See, however, sec. 2675.)

25. Dissolution. — A majority in interest of the stockholders may petition the Circuit Court for the dissolution of the corporation, and the court after publication for a reasonable period may hear the matter and may decree a dissolution (sec. 2682).

Gibbs v. Davis, 27 Fla. 531; 8 Sou. 633.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Up to 1907 there were no statutory provisions in force in Florida prescribing the conditions upon which foreign corporations might do business in that State. The matter is now regulated by recent statute as follows (Laws of 1907, No. 122; chap. 5717, approved June 1, 1907).

No foreign corporation shall transact business or acquire, hold, or dispose of property in this State until it shall have filed in the office of the Secretary of state a duly authenticated copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, and shall have received from him a permit to do business in this State. Upon the filing of such copy, the Secretary of State shall, if the objects of the corporation are such as are not prohibited by the laws of this State, issue a permit allowing such corporation to transact business in this State, but he shall not deliver such permit to the corporation until he shall have received from it for the use of the State a sum equal to that which the said corporation would have been required to pay as a charter fee if it had been incorporated under the laws of this State. The fee of the Secretary of State for issuing the permit shall be $5.

If the charter or articles of incorporation of any foreign corporation shall be amended after a permit has been issued to it under the provisions of this act, such corporation shall within thirty days thereafter file a duly authenticated copy of the amendment in the office of the Secretary of State, who shall issue to the corporation a certificate of the filing; but if the amendment is one increasing the capital stock, he shall not deliver the certificate until he shall have received from the corporation for the use of the State a sum equal to that which such corporation would have been required to pay if it had been a corporation increasing its capital stock under the laws of this State. If any such corporation shall fail to file any amendment and to make the payment aforesaid within the said thirty days, its permit shall be deemed to be revoked until the provisions of this section shall be complied with. The fee of the Secretary of State for granting the certificate shall be $2.

Every contract made by or on behalf of any foreign corporation affecting its liability or relating to property within the State before it shall have complied with the provisions of this act shall be void on its behalf and on behalf of its assigns, but shall be enforceable against it or them.

This act shall be deemed to apply to foreign building and loan associations, foreign insurance companies, foreign surety companies, and all other foreign corporations which now are or hereafter may be required to obtain other certiates of authority to transact business in this State and to impose an additional requirement upon them, as well as to all other foreign corporations except those which are excepted by the terms from the operation of this act. This act shall not apply to any foreign corporation whatever transacting business in this State at the time this act shall take effect; provided that any such foreign corporation hereafter increasing its capital stock shall comply with the provisions of sec. 3 in relation thereto.

A foreign corporation is defined to be a corporation incorporated by or under the laws of any other State or Territory or of any other country.

Any foreign corporation which shall violate the provisions of sec. 1 or 3 shall upon conviction be fined not more than $1,000 for the first offence, and not more than $5,000 for each subsequent offence, and any officer or agent of any foreign corporation who shall violate the provisions of sec. 1 or 3 shall upon conviction be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Duke v. Taylor, 37 Fla. 64; 19 Sou. 172.

GEORGIA.

(The references cited below are to the Civil Code of Georgia, 1895, and to the Supplement of 1901, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statute under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Georgia is to be found in the Civil Code of Georgia (Revision of 1895), title 11, secs. 1831 to 1902. Some general provisions applicable alike to all corporations are also found in Civil Code, secs. 2349, 2350, 2698, 3064, and 3954, and in the Political Code, secs. 805 to 881. Under the general law corporations may be formed for any lawful purpose not covered by the special acts relating to banks, railroads, telegraph, insurance, navigation, express, and canal companies, charters for which are granted and issued the Secretary of State. (See secs. 1903-2348.)

2. Incorporators. — There must be at least two incorporators. There are no residential requirements (sec. 2350; see also sec. 1854).

Mather v. Morgan, 72 Ga. 517; Waycross, etc. Ry. Co. v. Offerman, 109 Ga. 827; 35 S. E. 275.

3. Contents of Petition for Charter. — The petition addressed to the Superior Court must state:

a. Purposes. — The objects of the corporation and the particular business proposed to be carried on. It is doubtful whether under this section a corporation may be incorporated to carry on more than one line of business.

b. Name. — Similarity of names is not permitted.

c. Capital Stock. — The amount of capital stock to be employed and actually paid in. Capital stock may be any amount.

d. Domiciliary Office. — The principal place of business must be set forth.

e. Duration. — Corporate existence is limited to twenty years (sec. 2350).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of common law powers, the following additional powers are conferred: To receive donations by gift or will; to create a lien upon the stock for debts due from stockholders (secs. 1852, 2825). Corporations are forbidden by constitutional provision to own or hold stock in other corporations (Cons., Art. IV. sec. 11, par. 4). They are also forbidden to consolidate or merge with other corporations when the effect would be to defeat or risk competition or to encourage monopoly (Cons., Art. IV. sec. 11, par. 4; secs. 6467-6472). The rights of majority and minority stockholders are enumerated in the statute, secs. 1859, 1860). Corporators have an interest in the franchises of the corporation, of which they cannot be deprived except by due process of the law. Mandamus will lie against the corporation to enforce such right if there is no legal remedy (Cons., Art. IV. sec. 2, par. 4. See also as to special powers of mining corporations, Laws of 1904, p. 51).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The declaration of incorporation prepared by the incorporators as prescribed by sec. 2350 of the Code (see ante, sec. 3) must be presented in the form of a petition to the Superior Court of the county in which the corporation desires to transact business. The manner of execution of the declaration of incorporation is not prescribed by statute. The petition must be published once a week for four consecutive weeks in the nearest newspaper to the point where the corporate business is to be carried on. When the court grants the petition by order to that effect, the petition and the order must be recorded by the clerk of the Superior Court in the record of "Superior Court charters." The proceedings must also be recorded in the minutes of the court as part of the proceedings thereof. The order itself is to the effect that the petitioners and their successors are incorporated for a term of not exceeding twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that time in the manner provided by statute. Before business can be commenced ten per cent of the authorized capital stock must be paid in. Corporate business must be commenced within two years after the issuance of the charter (sec. 2350).

Existence of a corporation cannot be collaterally attacked. All who have dealt with the corporation as such are estopped from denying its corporate existence (sec. 1862).

Harriman v. Baptist Church, 63 Ga. 186; In re Deveaux, 54 Ga. 673; Etowah Mill Co. v. Crenshaw, 116 Ga. 406; 42 S. E. 709; McCandless v. Company, 115 Ga. 968; 42 S. E. 449.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no statutory limitation upon the amount of corporate indebtedness. If the corporation desires to issue bonds, it must furnish to the Secretary of State a certified statement in relation thereto (Laws of 1900, chap. 139; secs. 1866-1868, 6157).

7. Organization Tax. — There is no organization tax imposed as such in Georgia. Under the statute the clerk of the court has power to collect the usual fees allowed for similar services in other cases. These fees vary from $10 to $20.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The average cost for filing petition for charter in the office of the county clerk and for docketing and spreading the order granting petition on the minutes, $12.50. The cost of certified copy of the charter is $2.50; cost of publishing articles of incorporation depends upon whether the publication is made in a country or city newspaper, and ranges from $5 to $20.

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations before commencing business must pay in ten per cent of the authorized capital stock (sec. 2350). Business must be commenced within two years (sec. 2350). In order to avoid liability, the incorporators must see that the minimum capital stock has been subscribed for and ten per cent thereof paid in before commencing business (sec. 1856).

McCandless v. Company, 115 Ga. 968; 42 S. E. 449; Atherton v. Company, 71 Ga. 106.

10. Organization Meeting. — In the absence of any statute expressly authorizing the holding of meetings elsewhere, organization meetings must be held within the State.

Mining Co. v. King, 45 Ga. 34.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — The statute makes no special provision with relation to directors other than to provide that they shall represent the corporation and its stockholders. Their number, qualifications, term of office, and powers are left largely for determination to the by-laws adopted by the incorporators (secs. 1858, 1861).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for the declaration of any dividend or the distribution of money among the stockholders as profits when such dividend or money is not the legitimate proceeds of such investments. (See Penal Code, sec. 691; Laws of 1902, chap. 13, p. 58.) The law provides that for failure to allow an inspection of list of stockholders, or for the declaration of illegal dividends, or for refusing to give certificate of stockholders and their holdings on application in a suit against the corporation, the officers responsible therefor shall be held liable. (See secs. 594, 691 of the Penal Code; also Civ. Code, secs. 1861, 1891, 1895.) Directors are liable for authorizing use of corporate funds for political purposes (Laws of 1908, chap. 435).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable for the debts of the company only to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions. Stockholders who are incorporators and who organize the company and transact business under that name before the minimum amount of capital stock has been subscribed for, are liable to creditors to make good the minimum stock with interest (secs. 1889, 1890, 2350). Whenever a stockholder purchases stock upon which there is a liability for unpaid subscriptions, he shall be exempt from further liability unless the corporation fails within six months from the date of the transfer (sec. 1888).

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by such officers as the by-laws may designate for that purpose. The par value of stock certificates may be any amount.

15. Preferred Stock. — There is no statutory provision expressly authorizing the issuance of preferred stock.

See, however, Totten v. Tison, 54 Ga. 139.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The statute does not authorize in express terms the issuance of capital stock for anything except cash.

See Hayden v. Atlanta Cotton Factory, 61 Ga. 233; Fouche v. Bank of Rome, 110 Ga. 827; 36 S. E. 256; McCandless v. Company, 115 Ga. 978; 42 S. E. 449; Macon, etc. Ry. Co. v. Vernon, 57 Ga. 314.

17. Books. — The corporation is required to keep a stock register which is open to the inspection of creditors (Penal Code, sec. 594; Civ. Code, secs. 1890, 1891, 1895).

18. Office. — Every corporation must maintain an office within the State (sec. 2350).

R. R. Co. v. Wilson, 116 Ga. 189; E. M. Co. v. Crenshaw, 116 Ga. 406.

19. Reports. — Annual reports must be filed with the Secretary of State as the ex-officio corporation commissioner of the State on or before November 1st of each year. This report must show name of company, facts relating to incorporation, amount of capital stock, business, and location of the principal office (Laws of 1906, p. 103).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — By statute all combinations made with a view to lessen free competition in the importation or sale of articles, or in the manufacture or sale of articles of domestic growth, are illegal and void (Laws of 1896, p. 68).

In the case of Brown & Allen et al. v. Jacobs, etc. Co. (115 Ga. 428), this statute was declared unconstitutional as exempting from its provisions agricultural products and live-stock. The court, however, in this case held that under the common law of the State it was contrary to public policy for unjust combinations to lessen free competition, and that therefore the statute was unnecessary. The State legislature is forbidden by constitutional enactment to authorize any corporation to buy stock or make any contract with any other corporation which may have the effect of defeating or risking competition or encouraging monopoly (Cons., Art. IV. sec. 2, par. 4. See also secs. 6468, 6470, 6471).

Willis v. Company, 120 Ga. 597.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — A corporation may forfeit its charter by wilful violation of any of the essential conditions on which it was granted. Also by misuse or non-user of its franchises. Dissolution for either cause can be effected only by a court of competent jurisdiction declaring forfeiture (Civil Code, secs. 1882-1886).

22. Amendments. — The incorporation acts relative to the incorporation of companies through the medium of the Superior Court is very vague when it comes to the matter of amending charters. Sec. 2350 of the Code, sub. 6, provides that the power conferred upon the Superior Court to grant charters shall extend to the amendment or renewal of the same. The power thus conferred is held by the courts to be sufficient to permit of the amendment of charters to practically an unlimited extent. (See also Code, secs. 1840-1845 inclusive, as to the amendment of charters of banking, insurance, railroad, canal, navigation, express, or telegraph companies. See also Laws of 1902, p. 49.)

Macon, etc. Ry. Co. v. Gibson, 85 Ga. 1; 11 S. E. 442.

23. Annual License Tax. — An annual license tax must be paid to the tax collector of the county in which the corporate business is carried on in the following amounts: Where the capital of the corporation does not exceed $10,000, $5; over $10,000 and not over $25,000, $10; over $25,000 and not over $100,000, $15; over $100,000 and not over $300,000, $25; over $300,000 and not over $500,000, $50; over $500,000 and not over $1,000,000, $75; on any amount over $1,000,000, $100 (Laws of 1909, p. 48, sec. 2, sub. 31).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporate existence may be extended by complying with the statutes in that regard (sec. 2350, sub. 6; Laws of 1897, p. 28).

25. Dissolution. — Corporations are dissolved, (1) by expiration of the charter; (2) by forfeiture of the charter; (3) by surrender of franchises; (4) by the death of all its members without provision for its succession (Code, sec. 1882).

Atlanta v. Gate City Gas Light Co., 71 Ga. 106; Georgia Central Ry. Co. v. Tifton, Thomasville, & Gulf Ry. Co., 109 Ga. 766.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations are permitted to do business in Georgia as a matter of comity to the same extent as Georgia corporations are recognized in the domiciliary State of such foreign corporation (sec. 1846). They are forbidden to own land in Georgia to the amount of five thousand acres or over without incorporating under Georgia laws (sec. 1849).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — GEORGIA.

The General Tax Act of Georgia for the years 1908 and 1909, sec. 42, Laws of 1907, p. 34, provides that a tax shall be imposed upon agents of foreign corporations having a place of business in the State annually as follows: Upon corporations with a capital not exceeding $10,000, $5; over $10,000 and not over $25,000, $10; with a capital over $25,000 and not over $100,000, $15; over $100,000 and not over $300,000, $25; over $300,000 and not over $500,000, $50; over $500,000 and not over $1,000,000, $75; over $1,000,000, $100. The act further provides that if such foreign corporation shall on or before the 1st day of April of each year pay to the Comptroller-General the amount of license tax prescribed for domestic corporations (see ante, sec. 23), then such agent shall be relieved from the payment of such annual license tax, and to that end such foreign corporations shall register their names, capital stock, and names of agent with the Comptroller-General before the 1st day of April of each year (Laws of 1909, p. 48, sec. 2, sub. 32). In case of the failure of a foreign corporation to make the returns required by law, or to pay taxes, their right to do business in the State is suspended (Pol. Code, sec. 875). All corporations, except banks, doing business in this State are required to make a return annually to the Secretary of State, through the president or general manager, on or by the 1st of November, embracing the following information: (1) The name of the company; (2) when incorporated; (3) by what authority; (4) where incorporated; (5) the amount of the capital stock of said corporation; (6) the business of the corporation; (7) its principal office. At the time of making said return the officer making same shall remit a fee of $1 for the first year, and annually thereafter 50 cents. The penalty for the failure to make this promptly is $50 (Act of August 17, 1906). The fee for filing with the Secretary of State the first annual report is $1, thereafter filing fee is 50 cents annually.

HAWAII.

(The references cited below are to chap. 157 of the Revised Laws of Hawaii, 1905, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. —

The Business Corporation Act of Hawaii is to be found in the Revised Laws of Hawaii, 1905, chap. 157, secs. 2535-2569 inclusive. Provisions relative to foreign corporations are to be found in the Revised Laws of 1905, chap. 160, secs. 2623-2629 inclusive. Under this act corporations may be formed for any purpose excepting banking and professional business.

2. Incorporators. — Any number not less than five, a majority of whom must be residents of Hawaii.

3. Contents of Articles of Association. — The articles must set forth (sec. 2536) :

a. Name. — The name must be followed by the word "Limited."

b. Domicile. — Location of its principal office.

c. Purpose. — The purpose of the company.

d. Capital Stock. — The amount of the capital stock, and if the privilege of subsequent extension thereof is asked for, the limit of such extension.

e. Officers. — Number and designation of officers proposed. The duration of the corporation should also be stated, and this cannot exceed fifty years (sec. 2539). In the provisions of law with reference to the creation of corporations by charter (having special reference to quasi-public and eleemosynary corporations) is to be found the following: "In the case of joint-stock companies, there shall, in addition to a written petition accompanied by proofs that three-fourths of the shares have been subscribed for, be also filed at the same time in the office of the Territorial Treasurer a certificate setting forth the location of the proposed company, the object of the corporation, the amount of stock proposed, and, if the privilege of subsequent extension thereof is asked for, the limit of the extension, the proposed duration of the company, the time within which it is to organize, whether the liability of stockholders is to be limited to the amount of their stock or otherwise; and also whether the whole or any part of the capital stock is to be paid in before commencing operations, and if in part, what part (sec. 2545). The foregoing, however, does not apply to joint stock companies incorporated under sections 2535 and 2540, except as to increase of capital stock (sec. 2541).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of the common law powers, corporations have the following additional powers: To issue preferred stock. To forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments. To vote at stockholders' meetings by proxy (secs. 2551, 2552, 2554, 2558, 2559, 2560). To issue preferred stock (Act 30, 1909).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The incorporators must sign and acknowledge the articles of association before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments. The articles of association must then be recorded in the office of the Treasurer of the Territory. They must be accompanied by an affidavit, sworn to by the president, secretary, and treasurer of the corporation, setting forth the number of shares, amount of capital stock, names of subscribers to the capital stock, and the amount paid thereon. When the object of the corporation is to take over and conduct any existing agricultural, manufacturing, shipping, or trading business or enterprise, affidavit must then contain a full description of the property intended to represent the capital stock of the proposed corporation, a detailed valuation of each item of the property, and copy of the conveyances to be made by the owners of such business to the proposed corporation (secs. 2536-2538 inclusive).

Hackfeld v. King, 11 H. 5.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — The amount of indebtedness must at no time exceed the amount of the capital stock (sec. 2564).

7. Organization Tax. — On filing the articles of association in the office of the Treasurer of the Territory, in addition to a stamp duty of $25 thereon, and the payment of the ordinary recording fees, the following organization tax must be paid to the Treasurer of the Territory for the use of the Territory, to wit: For certificate of incorporation, 20 cents for each $1,000 of total amount of capital stock authorized, but in no case less than $25; for increase of capital stock, 20 cents for each $1,000 of total increase authorized, but in no case less than $20; for extension or renewal of corporate existence of any corporation the fee is the same as required for filing the original certificate of organization. Dissolution of corporation, change of name, change of nature of business, amended certificates of organization (except in the increase of capital stock), decrease of capital stock, increase or decrease of par value or of number of shares, $25; for filing annual exhibit of foreign and domestic corporations, $10 (sec. 2566 A, as added by Laws of 1907, p. 95, secs. 1298, 1320).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — For recording in the office of the Territorial Treasurer, approximately $5; for every copy of any document, 50 cents per hundred words (sec. 1181).

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as three-fourths of the authorized capital stock has been subscribed for and ten per cent thereof shall have been paid in, or the corporation shall have acquired property of a value equal to ten per cent of its capital (sec. 2540).

10. Organization Meeting. — Organization meeting must be held within the Territory (see, however, sec. 2555).

O. S. Co. v. Austin, 5 H. 555.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — In the absence of unanimous consent of stockholders, the meetings must be held within the Territory. The law, however, provides that when all the stockholders are present, either in person or by proxy, and shall sign a written consent thereto on the record of such meeting, the doings of such meeting shall be valid (secs. 2555-2557). It would appear, in the absence of any statute providing otherwise, that directors' meetings may be held without the Territory if the by-laws so provide.

Brown v. Carter, 15 H. 333.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There is no limit to the number of directors, nor are any residential qualifications prescribed. The matter is left to be regulated by the by-laws.

b. Liabilities. — Directors are individually liable for making dividends except from the profits of the business, for the withdrawal of capital stock, and are also criminally liable for making false statements in affidavits, reports, etc.

(secs. 2561, 2565). They are also liable for holding themselves out as a corporation without having duly complied with the law (sec. 2565).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable only to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions (secs. 2562–2564 inclusive).

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to a certificate signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe. Par value may be any amount (see sec. 2550). Every certificate must show plainly how much of its par value has been paid in (sec. 2550).

15. Preferred Stock. — Provision may be made in the articles of association for the issuance of two or more classes of stock, with such preferences, voting powers, restrictions and qualifications thereof as shall be therein set forth. After incorporation preferred stock may be issued by amending the articles of association to that effect by the vote of three-fourths of all its stock issued and outstanding (sec. 2552, as amended by Act 30, 1909).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued in exchange for money or money's worth (secs. 2538, 2540).

17. Books. — The stock books must be kept at the principal office of the corporation, and be open to the inspection of stockholders and creditors during business hours (secs. 2548, 2566).

Marks v. Parmelee, 13 H. 438.

18. Office and Agent. — The corporation must have a principal office at the place designated in the articles of association (secs. 2536–2548).

19. Reports. — Every business corporation shall annually present a full and correct exhibit of the state of its affairs to the Territorial Treasurer as of December 31st of each year. Such exhibit shall be filed within sixty days after said date, or within such further time, not exceeding thirty days, which may be allowed by the Territorial Treasurer, and shall contain such information and be in such form as the Territorial Treasurer shall, with the approval of the governor, require (sec. 2566, as amended by Act 146, 1909).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — The statute in enumerating unlawful conspiracies declares that the establishment, management, or conducting of a trust or monopoly in the purchase or sale of any commodity is a conspiracy of the second degree, punishable by imprisonment at hard labor not more than two years, or fine not exceeding $10,000, in the discretion of the court (secs. 3091, 3100 ; see also sec. 2541).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Quo warranto will lie against corporations not legally incorporated (sec. 2044 to 2052).

22. Amendments. — The Territorial Treasurer, with the approval of the governor, has power to permit and allow amendment of articles of association, provided they confer no other corporate powers or privileges than could have been lawfully conferred or obtained in the original articles of association (secs. 2545, 2546).

No increase or extension of the capital stock shall be legal and effective unless a certificate shall first have been filed with the Treasurer of the Territory, signed by the president and secretary of such corporation, showing, first, the present authorized capital stock of such corporation; second, the amount to which the capital stock thereof may be increased or extended under its articles of association; third, the amount of increase or extension of such capital stock duly authorized by its stockholders. The certificate of amendment must be accompanied by payment of the fee required to be paid to the Territorial Treasurer upon the amount of increased capital stock so authorized (sec. 2566 B, as added by Laws of 1907, p. 51).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — The Territorial Treasurer has power on the expiration of any charter to renew the same on application to him for that purpose by two-thirds of the stockholders of said company and the said explanation to him of the state of its affairs (sec. 2543).

24. Dissolution. — Corporate dissolution may be obtained by petition to the Territorial Treasurer, together with certificate setting forth the date of the meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose, at which it was decided by a vote of three-fourths of the stockholders to dissolve the corporation, which certificate shall be signed by the presiding officer or secretary of said meeting. The Treasurer shall thereupon enter such petition and certificate of record in his office, and after sixty days' publication of notice in such manner as he shall prescribe, he shall proceed to consider the same, and when satisfied that the vote certified has been truly taken, and that all claims against the corporation are discharged, he shall declare such corporation dissolved (secs. 2568, 2569, Act 135, Laws of 1909).

25. Annual License Fees. — A tax of two per cent is levied annually on the net income above actual operating and business expenses of all companies doing business in the Territory, no matter where created or organized (sec. 1279). Regular tax returns are required to be made in June of each year (sec. 1277). The returns of the annual income tax of two per cent on net profits referred to above must be made between July 1st and 31st of each year (secs. 1279, 1282).

Robertson v. Pratt, 13 H. 590; Peacock v. Pratt, 121 Fed. Rep. 772.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation carrying on business in the Territory or acquiring real estate therein, must file in the office of the Territorial Treasurer (1) a certified copy of its charter, (2) the names of its officers, (3) the name of some person within the Territory of Hawaii upon whom process may be served, (4) a certified copy of the by-laws of the corporation (sec. 2623). Upon compliance with the foregoing, and upon payment to the Treasurer of a fee of $50, the corporation will be permitted to transact business within the Territory. It is also necessary to procure an annual license from the Territorial Treasurer. Any foreign corporation, except foreign insurance companies, which does not invest and use all its capital in Hawaii cannot have an office therein unless it shall first obtain from the Territorial Treasurer an annual license to do so. The amount of this license is $100 (sec. 2625, as amended by Act 61, Laws of 1909). Annual reports are required the same as of domestic corporations (secs. 2627-2629). As to service of process upon foreign and domestic corporations see Act 43, Laws of 1909.

IDAHO.

(The references cited below are to the Revised Code of Idaho, 1901, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may be incorporated.

—The Business Corporation Act of Idaho is found in the Civil Code of that State (1901), secs. 2085-2162, as amended by recent Session Laws. Special acts are provided for bridge, ferry, flume, boom, gas, fidelity, domestic insurance, railroad, telegraph, telephone, water, canal, and wagon road companies. (See Laws of 1905, pp. 150, 162.)

2. Incorporators. — May be any number of persons not less than three, one of whom must be a bona fide resident of the State (Session Laws of 1905, Act No. 140, p. 163; Laws of 1907, p. 540).

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation. — The articles must set forth:

a. Name. — Similarity of names is not specifically forbidden.

b. Purpose. — The Secretary of State allows articles to be filed providing for any number of purposes not covered by special acts.

c. Domiciliary Office. — The place where the principal business is to be transacted must be set forth.

d. Corporate Existence. — May be any number of years not exceeding fifty.

e. Board of Directors. — The number must not be less than three nor more than fifteen. The directors must all be stockholders, in an amount to be fixed by the by-laws, and at least one must be a citizen and bona fide resident of the State (sec. 2102, Laws of 1905, pp. 161, 165; Laws of 1909, p. 158).

f. Capital Stock. — The amount of the capital stock and the number of shares into which it is divided. The capital stock as well as the par value of the shares may be any amount.

g. Stock Subscriptions. — If there is capital stock, the amount actually subscribed and by whom should be set forth (sec. 2089).

Any corporation may at its option provide in its articles or by amendment thereof for the election of one-third of its directors for the term of one year, one-third for two years, and one-third for three years (sec. 2089, as amended by Session Laws of 1905, p. 166; Laws of 1909, p. 158).

If it is desired to hold meetings of the board of directors without the State, provision may be made therefor in the articles of incorporation.

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of common law powers the following additional powers are granted: To classify and remove directors; to authorize voting by proxy; to purchase their own capital stock (Laws of 1909, pp. 160, 163, 164); to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments (Laws of 1909, pp. 162, 163); to extend corporate existence (secs. 2107, 2109, 2125-2137, 2144, 2149; Laws of 1905, p. 164); also to cumulate votes in the election of directors (Laws of 1907, pp. 540, 541).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles must be subscribed and acknowledged by at least three of the incorporators. The articles must then be filed in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the principal place of business of the company is to be transacted, and a copy thereof, duly certified by such recorder, must be filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State (sec. 2094 as amended by Laws of 1907, p. 555). Thereupon the Secretary of State issues to the corporation a certificate that a copy of the articles containing the required statement of facts has been filed in his office. Thereupon the corporate existence commences. If it is proposed to purchase or locate property in any other county of the State, there must be filed with the county recorder of that county, within sixty days after such purchase or location is made, a certified copy of the articles of incorporation. The due incorporation of any company or its rights to exercise corporate powers cannot be inquired into collaterally in any private suit to which such de facto corporation may be a party (secs. 2091, 2094, 2097, 2147; Session Laws of 1905, p. 161).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Must not exceed amount of authorized capital stock (sec. 2148).

7. Organization Tax. — When the authorized capital stock does not exceed $25,000 the organization tax is $10; when it exceeds $25,000 and does not exceed $50,000, $20; when it exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $100,000, $40; when it exceeds $100,000 and does not exceed $500,000, $60; when it exceeds $500,000 and does not exceed $1,000,000, $100; when it exceeds $1,000,000, $150 (Laws of 1907, pp. 215-217).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — To the Secretary of State for recording articles of incorporation, 20 cents per folio; for issuing certified copy of articles of incorporation, 20 cents per folio for copy and $1 for certificate; for issuing certificates of incorporation, $3; for filing certificates of increase of capital stock there shall be charged the fee for the total capitalization of the corporation less the amount already paid for filing the original articles of incorporation; for filing certificates of all other changes in articles of incorporation, $5; for issuing certificate of increase or decrease in capital stock, $3; for filing, recording, and indexing designation of agent for foreign corporations, $2 (Laws of 1907, pp. 215-217); for filing articles in recorder's office in local county office, 50 cents, and for recording articles therein, 20 cents per folio; for certified copy of articles of incorporation by recorder of county in which the corporation's principal place of business is located, 20 cents per folio.

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the articles of incorporation are filed. Within one month after filing the articles of incorporation a code of by-laws must be adopted (sec. 2101, as amended by Laws of 1907, pp. 571, 572). If the corporation does not organize and commence business or the construction of its works within one year from the date of its incorporation, its corporate powers cease (secs. 2077, 2094, 2098, 2147).

10. Organization Meeting. — The incorporators within one month from the date the charter is issued should sign a written agreement fixing the time and place within the State for the organization of the corporation. In the absence of such written agreement the meeting is called by advertisement of it in advance of the date of the meeting in some newspaper published in the county in which the principal place of business of the corporation is located. The written assent of the holders of two-thirds of the stock subscribed or two-thirds of the members shall be sufficient to adopt a code of by-laws without a meeting for that purpose. The statute sets forth certain matters which may be covered by the by-laws, including penalties for violation of by-laws, not exceeding in any case $100 for any one offence. The by-laws must be certified by a majority of the directors and the secretary of the corporation, and copied in the book of by-laws to be kept at the principal office of the corporation within the State (Laws of 1907, p. 572). Immediately after the adjournment of the incorporators' meeting the directors named in the articles of incorporation should meet, and after the election of a chairman and secretary should proceed to the election of the officers named in the by-laws. These officers under the statute must consist of a president, who is himself a director, and a secretary and treasurer. The law provides that at the first meeting at which the by-laws are adopted, or at such subsequent meeting as may be then designated, directors must be elected to hold their office for one year and until their successors are elected and qualify. Organization meeting must be held within the State in the absence of any statute authorizing such meetings to be held without the State (see. 2103; Session Laws of 1905, pp. 165, 166).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — All meetings of stockholders must be held at the principal place of business of the corporation within the State (Laws of 1905, p. 165). Meetings of the board of directors or executive committee must be held at the principal place of business of the corporation within the State, unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or amended articles or by-laws, or by resolution of the board (Laws of 1905, pp. 164-166).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be a board of not less than three nor more than fifteen directors, to be elected from among the stockholders. At least one of the directors must in all cases be a citizen and actual bona fide resident of the State. The directors must all be stockholders in an amount to be fixed by the by-laws. A majority of the board must be present in order to constitute a quorum thereof. The directors may be divided into three classes, if desired (Laws of 1909, p. 158). All corporations are authorized to appoint an executive committee equal in number to at least one-third of the board, such committee to have all the rights and powers and privileges of the full board (Laws of 1905, pp. 161-165; Laws of 1909, p. 159). The cumulative system of voting for directors is in force in the State (Laws of 1907, pp. 540, 541). Directors may be removed by a two-thirds vote of the stock at a regular meeting called on notice specifying the purpose according to the by-laws. The meeting may be called by the president or a majority of the directors or by one-half of the voting stock (see. 2107, Laws of 1909, p. 160). The power to adopt by-laws may be delegated to the board of directors, if the stockholders so elect (Laws of 1907, p. 571).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are jointly and severally liable for authorizing the payment of dividends other than from the surplus profits arising from the business (Laws of 1909, pp. 159, 160). They are also liable for dividing or withdrawing or paying to the stockholders any part of the capital stock unless they enter their dissent on the minutes of the directors at the time, or, when not present, as soon as they are informed of the action referred to (Laws of 1909, pp. 159, 160). They are also subject to further liability for certain acts specified in the Penal Code (secs. 2106, 2113; P. C., 5010-5026; see also Laws of 1907, pp. 25, 26, relative to making false reports, prospecti, etc.).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable for the amount unpaid upon the par or face value of the shares owned by them. To avail themselves of this provision of the statute they must cause to be written or printed under the corporate name on its stock certificates, letters, bill heads, and all official documents the word "limited" (secs. 2119, 2120, Laws of 1909, pp. 160, 161; see also Cons., Art. XI. sec. 17).

14. Preferred Stock. — Every corporation may create two or more kinds of stock, of such classes, with such voting powers or restrictions or qualifications thereof as shall be stated or expressed in the articles of incorporation or in any certificate of amendment thereto, or as shall be fixed in the by-laws; and the power to increase or decrease the stock as is in this code elsewhere provided shall apply to all or any of the classes of stock; but no preferred stock shall be issued except for cash or its equivalent, nor for less than par value of its shares, and at no time shall the total amount of the preferred stock issued and outstanding exceed two-thirds of the capital stock paid in cash or property; and such preferred stock may, if desired, be made subject to redemption at any time after three years from the issue thereof at a price not less than par, and the holders thereof shall be entitled to receive and the corporation shall be bound to pay thereon a fixed yearly dividend of eight per cent, payable quarterly, semi-annually or annually, before any dividend may be set apart or paid on the common stock, and such dividend may be made cumulative. In no event shall the holder of preferred stock be personally liable for the debts of the corporation, but in case of insolvency, its debts or other liabilities shall be paid in preference to the preferred stock. On the dissolution of a corporation, voluntarily or otherwise, the holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to have their shares redeemed at par before any distribution of any part of the assets of the corporation shall be made to the holders of the common stock (Laws of 1909, pp. 163, 164).

15. Payment of Capital Stock. — Under the Idaho Constitution no corporation can issue stock except for labor done, services performed, or money or property actually received. When any corporation issues stock or bonds for labor done, services performed, or property actually received, the judgment of the directors of such corporation as to the value of such labor, services, or property shall, in the absence of fraud in the transaction, be conclusive. This statute, however, provides that money actually paid upon the indebtedness of the corporation as provided by such statute may be credited upon stock subscriptions to the full amount so paid (Cons., Art. XI. sec. 9; Laws of 1899, p. 115, amending sec. 2119; Laws of 1909, p. 164).

16. Books. — The stock and transfer books must be kept within the State at the principal office of the corporation. Also a book of by-laws must be kept at the company's office within the State (sec. 2101, as amended by Laws of 1907, pp. 571, 572; Laws of 1909, pp. 158, 159). All books are open to inspection of stockholders and creditors (secs. 2101; 2150, 2151; Laws of 1909, pp. 158, 159).

17. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate showing the number of shares owned by him, signed by the president and secretary, or such other officers as may be authorized by the by-laws. All corporations may provide in their by-laws for issuing certificates prior to the full payment thereof (sec. 2121; Laws of 1909, p. 162).

18. Office. — Every corporation must maintain an office within the State (secs. 2101, 2151).

19. Reports. — All corporations, both domestic and foreign, except insurance and surety companies and mining corporations owning mines which are not productive, worked, or operated, shall during the month of June of each year and on or before the 1st day of July of each year furnish to the Secretary of State, upon blanks to be furnished by him, a correct statement, sworn to by one of the officers of the corporation or managing agent or authorized attorney in fact in this State of any foreign corporation, before some officer duly authorized to administer oaths, setting forth the name of the corporation, the location of its principal office, the names of the president, secretary, and treasurer, with the post-office address of each, date of annual election of directors and officers of such corporation, the amount of authorized capital stock, the number of shares, the par value of each share, the amount of capital stock subscribed, the amount of capital stock issued, and the amount of capital stock paid up. Every foreign corporation shall include in such statement the names and post-office addresses of its managing agent and attorneys in fact in the State (Laws of 1907, pp. 235, 236; Laws of 1909, pp. 8, 9).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Combinations for fixing prices on any article of commerce, of produce, of sale, or of consumption by the people are illegal. (See Cons., Art. XI. sec. 18.)

21. Statutory Ground for Forfeiture of Charter. — Failure to organize and transact the corporate business or the construction of corporate works within one year from the date of incorporation is a ground for forfeiture (sec. 2147).

22. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Every corporation formed for a period less than fifty years may, at any time prior to the expiration of the term of its corporate existence, extend such term to a period not exceeding fifty years from its formation. Such extension may be made by a two-thirds vote of the stockholders cast at a meeting called by the directors for that purpose. The certificate of the proceedings must be signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting and be filed in the office of the county recorder where the original articles of incorporation are filed, and a certified copy thereof must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State (secs. 2160, 2161).

23. Annual License Tax. — Every corporation, domestic as well as foreign, shall pay an annual license fee in proportion to the amount of its authorized capital stock, as follows, to wit: Where such capital stock shall not exceed $5,000, an annual license fee of $10 must be paid. Where the capital stock exceeds $5,000 and does not exceed $10,000, $12.50; where the capital stock exceeds $10,000 and does not exceed $25,000, $15; where the capital stock shall exceed $25,000 and shall not exceed $50,000, $22.50; where the capital stock exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $100,000, $37.50; where the capital stock exceeds $100,000 and shall not exceed $250,000, $52.50; where the capital stock shall exceed $250,000 and shall not exceed $500,000, $75. If the capital stock shall exceed $500,000 and shall not exceed $1,000,000, $90. Where the capital stock shall exceed $1,000,000 and shall not exceed $2,000,000, $130. If such capital stock shall exceed $2,000,000 then the annual license fee shall be $150. The fees above provided for become due and payable within thirty days from the 15th day of July of each year. The annual license fee required by this act shall be paid in advance for the fiscal year beginning July 1st of each year, and in case new corporations are formed or enter the State during the fiscal year, the first year's fee shall be proportionate to such fraction of a year (Laws of 1907, pp. 235-237).

24. Amendments. — Articles may be amended for the purpose of increasing the number of directors by vote of a majority of the stockholders. The amendment when adopted must be filed in the manner provided for the filing of original articles (Laws of 1905, p. 161). Corporations may increase or decrease their capital stock in the following manner: (1) By a majority vote of the directors there may be called a meeting of the stockholders, to be convened for the purpose of increasing or diminishing the capital stock. (2) Personal notice of the time and place of such meeting and of the object thereof must be served on each stockholder at least thirty days prior to the date of such proposed meeting; or in lieu thereof a notice must be published at least once a week in a newspaper published in the county where the principal place of business is located for at least thirty days. (3) The notice must also contain the amount to which it is proposed to increase or diminish the capital stock. (4) The capital stock must in no case be diminished to an amount less than the indebtedness of the corporation or the estimated cost of the works which it may be the object or purpose of the corporation to construct. (5) At least two-thirds of the entire capital stock must vote in favor of such increase or diminution before the same is effected. (6) A certificate signed and verified by the chairman and secretary of the meeting must be made, showing a strict compliance with the requirements of this section, the amount to which the capital stock has been increased or diminished, the amount of stock represented at the meeting, the vote by which the object was accomplished. (7) The certificate must be subscribed by a majority of the directors and duplicates made, one to be filed in the office of the county recorder and one to be filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State as provided for original articles of incorporation (Laws of 1907, pp. 540, 541). (8) The written assent of the holders of three-fourths of the subscribed capital stock is as effectual to authorize the increase or diminution of the capital stock as if the meeting were called and held; and upon written assent, the directors may proceed to make the certificate herein provided for (sec. 2148).

Corporations may also change their principal place of business from one place to another within the State. Before such change is made the consent in writing of the holders of two-thirds of the capital stock must be obtained and filed. Notice of such intention to change must be published at least once a week for three successive weeks, giving the name of the county where it is situated and that to which it is intended to remove (sec. 2118).

Any corporation may amend its articles of incorporation so as to provide for the issuance of preferred stock or an increase thereof in the same manner as is now provided by law for amendments increasing the capital stock of corporations and the par value of shares therein (Laws of 1909, pp. 164, 165).

Any corporation may amend its articles of incorporation in the following respects, to wit: change the name of the corporation; the purposes for which the corporation is formed; the place where its principal place of business is to be located; the number of its directors; increase or diminish the capital stock, or in any other respect not in violation of law desired by the stockholders; provided that the capital stock must in no case be diminished to an amount less than the indebtedness of the corporation or the estimated cost of the work which are made the objects or purposes of the corporation to construct. Any amendment shall be made and certified in the manner prescribed in section 2773 for increasing or diminishing the capital stock and filed in the office of the county recorder and Secretary of State (Laws of 1909, pp. 164, 165).

25. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved upon application to the courts (sec. 2159; C. C. P., secs. 3834-3840).

S. S. & T. Co. v. Piper, 4 Idaho, 463; 40 Pac. 144.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation before doing business within the State must file and record with the county recorder of the county in which its principal business is to be transacted a copy of its articles of incorporation certified by the Secretary of State of the State in which said corporation was organized, and file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of its articles certified by the recorder, and pay to the Secretary of State the same fees as provided for incorporating domestic corporations. They must within three months from the time of commencing business within the State also file in the office of the clerk of the District Court of the county where such principal place of business is to be located, and also in the office of the Secretary of State, a designation of some person residing in said county on whom process may be served (Cons., Art. X.; R. S., secs. 2119, 2162, as amended by Laws of 1903, pp. 49, 50; Laws of 1907, p. 319). Foreign corporations must also pay the same annual license tax as is required of domestic corporations and make the same reports (see ante, sec. 23; Laws of 1907, p. 235).

ILLINOIS.

(The references cited below are to the Revised Statutes, 1899, chap. 32, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statute under which Business Corporations may be incorporated.

— The Business Corporation Act of Illinois is found in the Revised Statutes of that State, secs. 985–1063 inclusive. Special acts are provided for banking, trust, insurance, real estate, brokerage, and railway corporations. (See also Laws of 1904, chap. 66.)

People ex rel. Bonney v. Rose, 188 Ill. 268.

2. Incorporators. — Any number of persons not less than three nor more than seven may form a corporation. There are no residential requirements (sec. 2).

3. Statement of Incorporators (sec. 2). — The incorporators must make a statement setting forth:

a. The Name of the Proposed Corporation. — No license can be issued to two companies having the same or a similar name as any domestic corporation, nor can any domestic corporation assume the same or a similar name to that of any foreign corporation previously admitted to do business in the State (secs. 2, 28½).

b. Purpose. — The statute uses the singular noun "object." The Secretary of State permits the insertion of any number of purposes not covered by special acts.

c. Capital Stock. — Capital stock may be any amount.

d. Number of Shares. — The par value of the shares must be not less than $10 nor more than $100 (sec. 7).

e. Domiciliary Office. — The location of the principal office within the State.

4. Statutory Powers. — The statute enumerates the common law powers of corporations. There is a limitation even on these to the extent that all real estate acquired by the corporation in satisfaction of any liability shall be offered at public auction at least once in every year, unless the same is necessary and suitable for the business of the corporation. The power to adopt by-laws is granted to the board of directors (sec. 6). The statute expressly authorizes mining and manufacturing corporations to hold stock of one or more railroads connecting different plants of the corporation with each other and with other railroads or wharves. Whenever consolidation takes place the consolidated company is liable for all debts of the two consolidated corporations. Power is also given to authorize voting of stockholders by proxy, to classify directors, and to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments. Cumulative voting in election of directors is mandatory (secs. 3, 6, 7; Cons., Art. XI. sec. 3; see also Laws of 1904, chap. 66).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The statement must be signed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators and must then be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. If the object for which such corporation is proposed to be organized is clearly and distinctly stated and is a lawful object, the Secretary of State shall thereupon issue to said persons a license as commissioners to open books for subscription to the capital stock of the proposed corporation at such time and place as they may determine. Power is given to the Secretary of State to propound to the incorporators such interrogatories as he shall deem necessary to ascertain the object for which the corporation is formed. The commissioners are required to make a full report of their proceedings, including a copy of the notice of the opening of books of subscription and of the subscription list, a statement of the amount of capital, not less than one-half actually paid in, the amount of such capital not paid in, what disposition has been made of stock subscribed and not paid; and if any proportion of the capital stock has been paid in property, the same shall be appraised by such commissioners and they shall report the fair cash value thereof. The report must contain the names of the directors elected with their residence and terms of office, and must be sworn to by at least a majority of the commissioners, and the same, together with a statement setting forth the post-office address, including street and number of the office of the corporation, must be filed with the Secretary of State. The latter thereupon issues a certificate of the complete organization of the corporation, making a part thereof a copy of all the papers filed in his office in and about the organization of the corporation duly authenticated under his hand and seal of State. This certificate must then be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds where the principal office of said company is located, whereupon the corporation shall be deemed fully organized and may proceed to do business (Laws of 1905, pp. 130-133). The corporation must be organized and proceed to do business within two years after the issuance of the license by the Secretary of State relative to the opening of books for subscription to the capital stock.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — There is no filing fee payable to the Secretary of State other than the organization tax. There is a charge for recording the statement of incorporators and the return of the commissioner of 15 cents per hundred words. For certified copy of the foregoing the charge is 15 cents per hundred words and $1 for affixing the secretary's certificate thereto. The charge for filing amendments to articles of incorporation is $1. The corporation must organize and proceed to business within two years after the Secretary of State issues his certificate of complete organization (sec. 4). All the capital stock must be subscribed in good faith, and one-half thereof must be actually paid in (sec. 8; Laws of 1905, p. 131). 10. Organization Meeting. — In the absence of any statute providing otherwise, this meeting must be held within the State. The commissioners appointed by the Secretary of State to receive stock subscriptions have power under the statute to convene a meeting of the subscribers to the capital stock of the corporation for the purpose of electing directors, etc. Notice of this meeting may be waived in writing (the statute requires ten days' notice), the time and place fixed for said meeting to be designated therein. At this meeting the subscribers to the capital stock may vote in person or by proxy. Cumulative voting is permitted, if desired. Stockholders may divide the board of directors into three classes, to hold office for one, two, and three years respectively. After the Secretary of State has issued a certificate of complete organization, the board of directors should meet, and after effecting a temporary organization should first adopt a code of by-laws. They then should proceed to the election of a president, secretary, and treasurer, and such other officers as shall be designated by the by-laws so adopted (sec. 3).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. Directors' meetings to be valid must be held within the State, unless any action taken by the board without the limits of the State is either authorized or the action thereat taken ratified by a vote of two-thirds of the directors cast at a regular meeting of said board held within the State (secs. 20, 22).

b. Liabilities. — If the indebtedness of any corporation shall exceed the amount of its capital stock, the directors assenting thereto are individually liable for such excess to the creditors of the corporation. They are also jointly and severally liable for all debts of the corporation then existing or thereafter contracted when they declare and pay any dividends when the corporation is insolvent, or any dividend the payment of which would render the corporation insolvent or which diminishes the amount of its capital stock; also for assuming to exercise corporate powers before all the capital stock is subscribed in good faith (secs. 16, 18, 19, 21). If any certified report or statement made or published notice given by the officers of any corporation shall be false in any material representation, the officers who have signed the same knowing it to be false shall be jointly and severally liable for all damages arising therefrom.

Greene v. Masten et al., 66 Ill. App. 345; Kent v. Clark, 181 Ill. 237; 54 N. E. 967.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are personally liable for the amount unpaid upon their stock (sec. 8). The law also provides that all persons assuming to exercise corporate powers or to use a corporate name without complying with the law in regard to procuring charters, before all stock named in the articles of incorporation is subscribed in good faith, shall be liable for all debts and liabilities contracted by them in the name of such corporation (sec. 18).

14. Preferred Stock. — There is no statutory provision expressly authorizing the issuance of preferred stock.

First Nat. Bank v. Company, 191 Ill. 128; 60 N. E. 859.

15. Payment of Capital Stock. — The statute is silent as to how the capital stock shall be paid. Under the common law rule, in the absence of any statutory prohibition, stock may be paid for in cash or in property taken in good faith at a fair valuation (sec. 4; as amended by Laws of 1905, p. 131).

19. Reports. — Before receiving a certificate of complete organization, each corporation shall file with the Secretary of State the post-office address of its business office, giving street and number, and it shall annually between February 1st and March 1st file with the Secretary of State a statement showing the location of the principal office within the State, with town, street, and number, names of its officers and their residences, — town, street, and number, — date of expiration of their terms of office; whether or not the corporation is pursuing an active business under its charter, and the kind of business; report must be under the corporate seal, signed and sworn to by some officer of the corporation, and a fee of $1 must be paid to the Secretary of State (Laws of 1903, pp. 121, 122). Within twenty days from December 1st of each year the president, secretary, or treasurer must file in the office of the Secretary of State, and record in the recorder's office of the county wherein the principal place of business of the corporation is located, a duly verified statement and description of any real estate acquired during the year in securing any debt or liability due the corporation, with date of acquiring title (sec. 17).

All corporations except coal mining, manufacturing, printing, newspaper, or stock-breeding corporations must file with the assessor of the district in which the office or place of business is located, in addition to the schedule of other property to be listed, a sworn statement of their capital stock, stating: (1) name and Report must be made between May 1st and July 1st. *

It shall be the duty of the Secretary of State on or before the 1st day of September of each year to address to the president, secretary, or treasurer of any incorporated company doing business in the State a letter of inquiry as to whether such corporation has all or any part of its business in or with any trust, combination, or association of persons or stockholders of the character described in what is known as the Anti-Trust Act, and to require answer under oath of such officers, the form of affidavit being enclosed in such letter of inquiry, in the form prescribed by statute (Laws of 1907, pp. 216-218).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Illinois has an elaborate statute forbidding pools, trusts, and combinations of every class and description (Crim. Code, secs. 269 a, 269 b, 615; Act of June 11, 1891, as amended by Act of June 20, 1893, as amended by Laws of 1907, pp. 216-218).

It is also subject to forfeiture for entering into illegal trusts, pools, and combinations (secs. 4, 269 m). The charter is also subject to forfeiture for refusal to answer inquiries relative to whether or not it is doing business within the State in violation of the Anti-Trust Act (Laws of 1907, pp. 216-218); also for failure to file annual report, this being made by statute prima facie evidence of the corporation being out of business (secs. 193, 194, etc.).

4. Statutory Powers. — The statute fully enumerates the implied common law powers of corporations (secs. 4046, 4069–4170, 4319, 5069, 5138–5143). 5. Procuring the Charter. — In the case of companies incorporated under the Voluntary Association Act (sec. 4286) the articles of association must be signed and acknowledged by each incorporator. They must first be presented to the Secretary of State for filing, and at the time of presenting such articles they must also present therewith a full written or printed statement of the proposed plan of doing business; but if, upon examination, the Secretary of State shall find the articles to be according to law, and the proposed plan of doing business not inconsistent with law, he shall, upon the payment of the fees prescribed by law, issue a certificate of incorporation. Thereafter the corporation must file and record a duplicate of these articles in the recorder's office of the county in which the principal place of business of such corporation is located. The law provides that such record or a certified copy thereof shall be conclusive evidence of the matters and things therein stated (sec. 4318). In the case of companies incorporated under the Manufacturing and Mining Company Act (secs. 5062, 5064; see also sec. 4044) the articles must be signed and acknowledged in duplicate, the first of which shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and the other, having been approved by the latter official, must be filed with the county recorder of the county in which the company's principal place of business is to be located.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no statutory limitation upon the amount of corporate indebtedness. (As to borrowing on mortgage, see secs. 4069–4070.)

7. Organization Tax. — Where the capital stock is $10,000 or under, $10; where the authorized capital stock is over $10,000, the tax is one-tenth of one per cent thereon (Laws of 1911, chap. 271).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — For filing and recording articles of association not exceeding two hundred words, $1, and 10 cents per hundred words for all in excess thereof (sec. 7206). For issuing certificate of incorporation, 50 cents; for certified copy of articles of association, 50 cents for certificate and 10 cents for one hundred words per copy; for filing certificate of reduction of capital stock, $5; for filing copy of decree of court changing corporate name, $5; for filing certificate of extension of purposes or change of domicile, $5; for filing other amendments, 20 cents per hundred words, to be in no case less than $5. The foregoing fees are payable to the Secretary of State. Any corporation filing with the Secretary of State any certified copy of minutes shall pay to him $25, $15 of which shall be for the use of the State. The Secretary of State shall forthwith make a certified copy of such minutes and all endorsements thereon and a statement of the time of filing and taking effect thereof, and send the same to the county recorder of the county wherein the corporation has its principal place of business. With this must be sent $10 of the original $25 paid by the corporation, which sum shall be the fee of the county recorder for filing and recording such copies (sec. 9215). The county recorder is authorized to collect 10 cents per hundred words for recording articles of association (secs. 7206, 9215).

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the Secretary of State issues a certificate of incorporation and a duplicate of the articles of association are recorded in the recorder's office of the county wherein the principal place of business of the corporation is located (secs. 4319, 5064). Companies incorporated under the Manufacturing Act must pay up their capital stock within eighteen months after incorporation (sec. 5089). Within thirty days after the last payment is made, the president and a majority of the directors must make a sworn statement setting forth this fact; thereupon the certificate must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court of the county wherein the corporation's principal place of business is located (sec. 5091).

10. Organization Meetings. — In the absence of any statute providing otherwise, organization meetings must be held within the State. The incorporators should sign a written agreement fixing the time and place for holding the organization meeting. In case no agreement can be had the organization meeting may be called by a notice signed by three or more members setting forth the time, place, and purpose of the meeting, and must ten days before the meeting be delivered to each member, or published in some newspaper of the county where the corporation may be established (sec. 4048). After a temporary secretary and chairman have been chosen, the corporation should proceed to the adoption of by-laws. Stockholders may vote by proxy. Immediately after the adjournment of the incorporators' meeting the board of directors named in the articles of incorporation should meet and organize by the election of the officers prescribed in the by-laws. The statutory officers are a president, secretary, and treasurer. The secretary and treasurer are required to give bonds with such securities as shall be required by the by-laws, and must be sworn to the faithful discharge of the duties which may be assigned to either of them. The same person may be elected to the office of secretary and treasurer. The law provides that when the steps necessary to organization have been completed, a statement thereof must be filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court of the proper county; that said court at its next term thereafter shall, on proof of such organization, cause to be entered an order declaring the existence of such corporation. The law provides that such order shall be conclusive as to the fact of such existence from the date which said court may fix in the order (secs. 4044, 5071).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. It seems to be contemplated by the statute that directors' meetings should be held at the principal office within the State (secs. 4074, 4075, 5070, 5071).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be not less than three nor more than thirteen directors (sec. 3448); cannot exceed eleven in case of manufacturing, mining, mechanical, and chemical companies (sec. 5054). In the last-named class of companies, directors must be stockholders and residents of the United States. In other corporations there are no such requirements (secs. 4073-4075, 5071).

Renn v. Company (Ind.), 73 N. E. 269.

b. Liabilities. — If any corporation reducing its capital stock shall fail to file a certified copy of the vote of the stockholders thereon within thirty days thereafter in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court in which the corporation's original certificate was filed, and also a duplicate of the same in the office of the Secretary of State, the directors shall be jointly and severally liable for debts contracted after the said thirty days or before the record of such vote. Directors are also jointly and severally liable for all damages resulting in case any certificate, report, or public notice given as required by law shall be false in any material respect, or if they shall fail to give such notice or make such report, and any person shall be misled or deceived thereby. The directors are also jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted after the declaration and payment of a dividend knowing the company to be insolvent, or knowing that such dividend would render it so, or if they violate any of the provisions of the act which shall thereby render the corporation insolvent (secs. 5092, 5101, 5103, 5104).

Brown v. Clow, 158 Ind. 403; 62 N. E. 1006; A. C. I. Co., 156 Ind. 212; 59 N. E. 679; Renn v. U. S. Cem. Co. (Ind.), 73 N. E. 269.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — The Constitution of Indiana (sec. 213) provides that every corporation other than banking shall be secured by such individual liability of the stockholders or other means as may be prescribed by law. In the case of corporations organized under the Voluntary Association Act, there is no stockholders' liability other than that arising from the non-payment of subscriptions to the capital stock (secs. 4051, 4078). However, if any part of the capital stock shall be withdrawn or refunded to the stockholders before payment of the debts of the corporation, stockholders are then individually and severally liable for the payment of such debts (sec. 4051). In the case of corporations organized under the Manufacturing Act, stockholders therein are individually liable for all debts due to laborers, servants, apprentices, and employees for services rendered such corporations (sec. 5105).

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him, under the seal of the corporation, signed by the treasurer. Stock in manufacturing companies cannot be transferred until it is paid up.

15. Preferred Stock. — Corporations organized under the Manufacturing Act are expressly authorized to issue preferred stock by providing therefor in the articles of association (secs. 5094, 5095). Preferred stock may be issued after incorporation to an aggregate amount, which must not at any time exceed double the amount of the common stock of the company in shares of not more than $100 each. If such company desires to create and issue shares of preferred stock after incorporation, it may do so at any regular annual or special meeting of its stockholders, by the vote of the holders of three-fourths of its common stock, and such company may at any such meeting or any subsequent meeting of its stockholders, by a vote of the holders of a majority of its common stock, authorize and empower its board of directors to dispose of and issue such preferred stock upon such terms and conditions as said board of directors may deem best, or as such company may prescribe; and when so authorized the validity of the issuance and the disposition made of such preferred stock by said directors shall in all things be binding and conclusive upon such company. Within thirty days after the time such company has authorized the issuance of preferred stock as provided in this section, it shall cause to be filed with the Secretary of State its certificate in writing, signed by its president and attested by its secretary, duly acknowledged, certifying that the issuance of preferred stock has been authorized by such company, the amount of such preferred stock, the number of shares into which it shall be divided, and the amount of each share (sec. 5095).

Such preferred stock may be in any amount, and it shall be subject to redemption at par at such times and upon such terms and conditions as shall be expressed in the certificates thereof, and the holders of such preferred stock shall be entitled to receive, and the said company shall be bound to pay thereon, such quarterly, semi-annual, or annual dividend as may be expressed in the certificates, not exceeding in all eight per cent, before any dividend shall be set aside or paid on the common stock of such company; and in no event shall the holders of such preferred stock be individually or personally liable for the debts or other liabilities of such company, but in case of insolvency or upon the dissolution of such company such debts or other liabilities shall be paid in preference to such preferred stock. Such preferred stock, however, shall at all times have a priority in payment out of the assets of such corporation over the common stock thereof for the full face value, together with all arrearages of interest or dividends due thereon (sec. 5096).

Such preferred stock shall not be voted at any meeting of such company, nor shall the owners or holders thereof, as such, have any voice in the management of the affairs of such company, unless the right to vote such preferred stock be conferred upon the owners thereof, either in the articles of incorporation, or by the unanimous action of all of the owners of the common stock of such company. When the right to vote has been conferred in either of these ways, each and every owner of such preferred stock shall have the right to vote such stock at any meeting of such company in like manner and with the same effect as the common stock of such company is voted, but such company shall not have authority to convey its real estate or mortgage any of its property without the written consent of the holders of a majority of the shares of such preferred stock, nor shall such company without such consent declare any dividend upon its common stock that will impair its capital (as amended by Laws of 1911, chap. 205, p. 493).

When any such company has redeemed the preferred stock issued by it under the provisions of this act, its directors shall within thirty days thereafter cause to be filed with the Secretary of State their certificate in writing as directors of such corporation, duly acknowledged, certifying that such preferred stock has been redeemed; and in default thereof the directors of such company shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted after said thirty days and before said certificate is filed (sec. 5098; see also secs. 5093, 5099).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — INDIANA.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The statute does not provide as to how the capital stock shall be paid in. In the absence of statutory prohibition, it may be paid in in money or money's worth (secs. 4321, 5060, 5062, 5089, 5091).

17. Books. — Corporations are required to keep at their office or place of business within the State a stock book open to inspection during business hours to all stockholders and creditors, who may take extracts therefrom if they desire (secs. 4054, 4055).

18. Office. — Every corporation must have an office within the State (secs. 4054, 4073).

19. Reports. — Every domestic business corporation must also file in the office of the Secretary of State within sixty days from the first day of June of each year, a report, signed and sworn to by the president or secretary or by two of the directors of the corporation, which report shall state: (1) The name of the corporation, and if at any time the name shall have been changed in any respect, and the report of such change has not already been filed in the office of the Secretary of State, the old name or names, and the manner and date of such change or changes. (2) The location, town, city, the street number, if number there be, of its principal office in this State, and if the location shall have been at any time changed from one city or town to another city or town and the report of such change has not already been filed in the office of the Secretary of State, the point or points from which such change or changes have been made and the date thereof. (3) The amount of authorized capital stock of the corporation and the amount thereof actually issued and outstanding. (4) The amount of its increases of capital stock, both common and preferred, with the dates of such increases, as well as a statement showing redemptions of preferred stock if any. (5) The amount of reductions of capital stock, if any, and when and how made. (6) The original term of existence, and if extended at any time, for what period. (7) Whether the original articles have been amended in any manner, the date of such amendment or amendments, and in what respect they have been amended. (8) The names and post-office addresses of all present officers and directors and the date of expirations of their respective terms. (9) The date of the next annual meeting of the stockholders (sec. 4080).

Within thirty days of the date of filing such report an original or certified copy of any resolution at any time theretofore adopted by such corporation for increasing capital stock, for issuance of preferred stock, for reduction of capital stock, for redemption of preferred stock, for change of election, for extension of term of existence, for amending the articles of incorporation, or decree or resolution for change of name not already filed in the office of the Secretary of State, must be filed with the said official. Refusal to comply with the above renders the corporation subject to fine, and the directors who wilfully neglect to comply with the provisions of the act ineligible for re-election to their office at the next election and for a period of one year thereafter. The fee for filing such report is fixed by statute at 50 cents (secs. 4080-4084). (As to fee for filing certified copy of resolution, see ante, sec. 8).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is a statutory prohibition directed against trusts and combinations tending to lessen free competition in the importation, sale, or manufacture of various articles (secs. 3862-3892).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charters. — Charters may be forfeited either for violation of the anti-trust act, or for allowing a judgment to stand against the corporation for a period of one year without satisfying the same (secs. 3879, 3990, 4050, 4066, 4067, 3429, 3439, 3440).

22. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporations may extend their corporate existence by complying with the provisions set forth in sec. 24 herein relative to amendments to certificates of incorporation (sec. 5084). The act permitting such extension of corporate existence expressly provides that no second extension of corporate existence may be granted (Acts of 1907, chap. 192).

23. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax.

24. Amendments. — To change the corporate name requires the filing of a petition in the Circuit Court of the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business. The petition being filed, the corporation shall give notice thereof by three weekly publications in some newspaper of general circulation printed in the county wherein its principal place of business is located thirty days prior to the first day of the term on which such petition shall be heard. Proof of such publication must be made and filed and a copy of such publication notice verified by the affidavit of a disinterested person, and a copy of the decree of the court, changing the name of the corporation, certified under the seal of the said court by the clerk thereof, shall within ten days thereafter be filed with the Secretary of State (secs. 1035-1039, 4079).

Any domestic business corporation may reduce or increase its common capital stock or define or limit or enlarge its corporate objects to the extent and subject to the conditions and limitations hereinafter expressed by complying with the following provisions. Any such corporation may increase the amount of its authorized common capital stock in the following manner: At any regular annual meeting of its stockholders, or at any meeting of them called for that purpose, the call for which, mailed to each known stockholder not less than thirty days before the date of the meeting, states that the increase of the authorized capital will be considered and acted upon if four-fifths of all of the shares then outstanding and entitled to vote at said stockholders' meeting shall approve the resolution for such increase, and thereafter at a regular or duly called meeting of the directors of the corporation, a majority of the members of the full board of directors shall by resolution ratify the action of the stockholders in that behalf, and a copy of the minutes of the said two meetings, verified by the president and secretary or by such other officers as the corporation may in said resolution designate to make the certificates, and authenticated by the corporate seal of the corporation (if the corporation have a seal), shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Indiana, and the same fees be paid to the Secretary of State, for the use of the State, as would be paid were the corporation then being originally organized with a capital stock equal to the amount of such increase from the time of such filing, and on payment of such fees the authorized common capital stock of such corporation shall be increased to the amount so authorized by its stockholders and directors, and the same may be subscribed for and certificates issued therefor under and subject to all the limitations applicable to the issue of the company's original stock (sec. 4056).

Any such company may at any regular annual meeting of its stockholders, or at a meeting called in manner aforesaid, by a like vote of its stockholders ratified by a like vote of its directors, reduce the authorized common capital stock of the corporation so far as then unsubscribed for or then not outstanding in the hands of stockholders, and when a copy of the minutes of said two meetings, certified as aforesaid, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Indiana, and the same fees shall be paid to him for the use of the State as would be paid were the company then organizing as a corporation not for pecuniary profit, from the time of such filing and payment the authorized capital stock shall be reduced to the amount in said resolutions of the stockholders and directors stated; and it shall thereupon be unlawful for any such company, so long as such reduction of capital stock shall stand, to issue any part of the original authorized capital as was not so subscribed for and outstanding before such resolutions were adopted (sec. 4056).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — INDIANA.

Any such corporation may define, shorten, or extend the period of its corporate existence in the following manner: Its stockholders at any regular annual meeting, or a called meeting, for which notice as aforesaid has been given, may by a like vote of its stockholders, ratified by a like vote of its directors, reduce, define, or extend the period of its corporate existence by naming in the resolution a date when the existence shall end, which date shall not be later than fifty years from the date of said stockholders' meeting, and when a copy of the minutes of said two meetings, certified as aforesaid, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Indiana and the same fees shall be paid to him for the use of the State as would be payable were the corporation just organizing, then and thereby the term of existence of such corporation shall become and be the period named in such resolutions; but if such time shall not clearly be an extension or enlargement of the term of corporate existence, the Secretary of State shall not permit the papers to be filed unless and until the officers who certified them, or other proper officers of the company, shall make and file therewith an affidavit, stating that the corporation has no debt or liability the date of whose maturity will be later than the date named in said resolutions for the expiration of corporate existence (sec. 4056).

Any such corporation at any regular meeting of its stockholders, or at a meeting of them called in manner aforesaid, may, by a like vote ratified by a like vote of its directors, define, limit, or enlarge the express objects of its creation, but if they be enlarged, the objects as changed shall include no object that could not be lawfully included if the corporation were then organizing originally; and when a copy of the minutes of said two meetings, certified as aforesaid, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Indiana and the same fees shall be paid to him for the use of the State as would be paid were the company then organizing as a corporation, from the time of such filing and payment the authorized objects or scope of the corporation shall be defined, limited, or enlarged by such resolutions: Provided, however, that whenever four-fifths or more of all of the outstanding capital stock entitled to vote at stockholders' meetings of any such corporation shall in pursuance of the provisions of the act have determined that any change authorized to be made by this act shall be made then, and in that event any stockholder whose stock at said meeting voted against such change, may within ten days after such meeting by notice in writing deliver to the corporation named his valuation of his stock and name an appraiser to appraise the same in case the company and he cannot agree as to such value. In case the company and he cannot agree as to such valuation, then and thereupon such corporation shall name an appraiser, and the two appraisers so selected shall select a third appraiser, all of whom shall be disinterested persons, and the determination of any two of the three appraisers fixing a fair cash value of the stock of such stockholder shall be conclusive and binding upon the parties except as hereinafter provided, and such appraisers shall, as soon as they have made such appraisal, reduce the same to writing in duplicate, and those appraisers agreeing to the valuation shall sign such duplicates, one of which duplicates shall be delivered by them to the company and the other to the said stockholder or his proxy so voting his stock at said meeting. The said corporation, or a majority of stockholders favoring such charge, shall within thirty days after such valuation shall have been arrived at by the foregoing appraisalment, pay to said stockholder or his proxy, or if both be absent or refuse to accept the money, deposit to the credit of such stockholder in a solvent national bank or trust company in Indiana the value of said stock as was agreed upon or fixed by appraisalment. Such company shall pay all of the reasonable charges and expenses of the three appraisers in making and certifying such appraisalment. Such stock from the time of such payment or deposit shall belong to the person or persons whose money was so paid therefor, and if the same was the money of such corporation such stock shall become treasury stock of such corporation to be reissued or retired as the board of directors of the corporation may determine (sec. 5106).

Whenever any such corporation shall in pursuance of the provisions of this act present to the Secretary of State for filing any certified copy of any meetings of its stockholders if it does not appear that the same were adopted by a favoring vote of their outstanding stock entitled to vote at stockholders' meetings, the Secretary of State shall refuse to file the same, and the same shall not be filed or take effect unless such certificate shall be accompanied by the affidavit of one or more of the officers or directors of said company showing therein that any stockholder who voted at said meeting against the action of a majority of the stock did, in pursuance of this section, name a value or call for an appraisalment of his stock, or showing what stockholders so voting against a majority did so value their stock and demand an appraisalment, and that an appraisalment was made or value agreed upon as in this section required, and showing that the value of said stock so determined by agreement or appraisalment was paid, or deposited as by this section required to be done. In case any stockholder shall not be satisfied with the valuation so fixed by appraisalment he may bring his action against said corporation at any time within one year in any Circuit or Superior Court having jurisdiction of the defendant to have the fair value of his stock as of the date of such appraisalment determined, and the final judgment in said action shall be binding on said defendant, and it shall be liable in personam therefor without relief from valuation or appraisalment laws for the excess valuation over the sum so deposited (sec. 4056).

Any domestic corporation may, at any annual or other meeting called for that purpose, of the stockholders, increase or decrease the number of shares into which its capital stock shall be divided, provided that such capital stock shall be divided into shares of not more than $100 each, and that written or printed notice of such proposed increase or decrease shall be given by the secretary of such corporation to its stockholders by depositing such notice in the mail at least thirty days before such annual or other meeting called for the purpose, addressed to their last known place of residence, and that at such meeting not less than two-thirds of the whole capital stock of such corporation shall vote in favor of such increase or decrease. A copy of the record and proceedings of the meeting shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, certified to by the president and secretary of such corporation within thirty days after such meeting (Laws of 1909, ch. 45, sec. 1).

25. Dissolution. — May voluntarily dissolve without recourse to the courts by compliance with the statutes (secs. 4050, 5065, 5068).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations desiring to transact business in Indiana must make an application to the Secretary of State, signed and sworn to by the president and secretary, stating what business such corporation proposes to pursue in Indiana, the amount of its capital stock, whether it is transacting or is intending to transact business in any other State or country, the proportion of its business, based upon its total business for the year immediately preceding, to be carried on in the State of Indiana, or if a newly organized corporation, then the proportion as nearly as can be determined by estimate, to be transacted in Indiana, the amount paid in upon its capital stock, what property, assets, and estimate of the value thereof, to be employed in the business of such corporation in Indiana. If any of its capital stock has not been paid in, what disposition is to be made thereof. The name of the president, directors, and secretary of such corporation and their residence; where its principal office in Indiana will be located, and the name and address of some agent or attorney in fact upon whom service of process can be had. Such corporation shall also file with the Secretary of State a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, or in case such corporation is incorporated merely by a certificate, then a copy of its certificate of incorporation duly certified and authenticated by the officer who issued the original or by the register or recorder in which such original charter, articles, or certificate may have been recorded. The Secretary of State shall have the power to prescribe the form of such application, and may propound additional interrogatories to the applicant respecting the character of the business, etc., which the incorporators shall answer under oath, and shall be filed with such application and with a certified copy of its articles or certificate. Such application shall contain an agreement by such corporation that it will not transfer from any court of this State any pending case to any court of the United States save by regular course of appeal in the said courts. The Secretary of State is authorized to issue a certificate of such foreign corporation to do business within the State, and is required to state in such certificate of authority the powers and objects of the corporation which may be exercised in Indiana. All foreign corporations permitted to do business in the State must keep on file in the office of the Secretary of State an affidavit of the president or secretary showing the location of the principal business office in the State of Indiana, and the name of some person upon whom process may be served. No foreign corporation admitted to do business in the State under the provisions of the act, shall hold any real estate except such as may be for the proper carrying on of its legitimate business (Laws of 1909, chap. 59).

Within thirty days after the 1st day of January of each year foreign corporations must make a report to the Secretary of State under oath, stating the then name of the corporation, its total capital stock, the proportion of its business in the State, the value of its property and assets in the State, and the proportion thereof as compared with its total property assessed. The character of the business being transacted in the State, the location of its office, the name of its agent or attorney, in fact and the names of its president, secretary, and directors, and their residences. Whenever such annual report shall show an increase of $5,000 or more in the proportion of property in the State, the corporation shall pay an additional fee on such increase. Before any foreign corporation shall be authorized to do business in the State, it must pay to the Secretary of State upon the proportion of its stock represented by its property and business in Indiana, a fee of $25 on the first $10,000 or under, thereof; and one-tenth of one per cent on all amounts in excess of $10,000; for increase in proportion in this State a fee of $10 for an amount of $10,000 or less, and one-tenth of one per cent additional on all amounts in excess of $10,000; for filing annual report a fee of $1 must be paid. In addition there shall be collected such certificate and other fees as is elsewhere provided by statute. Any foreign corporation having the same or strikingly similar name as any existing Indiana corporation, or having the same or strikingly similar name as any foreign corporation previously admitted to do business in the State, shall not be licensed to do business in Indiana under such name (secs. 4085-4105).

IOWA.

(The references are to the Code of 1897, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may be incorporated.

— The Business Corporation Act of Iowa is found in the statutes of that State, Title IX. secs. 1607–1641 inclusive, as amended by the Session Laws of 1899, 1901, and 1903. There are special requirements, not hereinafter set out, as to banks, building associations, fidelity companies, insurance, railroad, telegraph, telephone, and water-power companies.

2. Incorporators. — Any number of persons may be incorporators. The law expressly provides that a single person may incorporate under the General Corporation Act. There are no residential requirements (secs. 1607, 1608).

3. Articles of Incorporation. — The act requires that before commencing business the incorporators must adopt articles of incorporation, but it does not point out specifically all of the contents of the same. The act does, however, prescribe the contents of the notice of incorporation, which is required to be published. The notice here referred to must contain:

(a) The name of the corporation and its principal place of business. Similarity of names is not forbidden.

(b) The general nature of the business to be transacted. There is no express authority for the issuance of a charter authorizing the transaction of more than one general line of business.

(c) The amount of the capital stock authorized, and the times and conditions on which it is to be paid in. The capital stock may be any amount. The par value of each share may be any amount.

(d) The time of the commencement and the termination of the corporation. This is limited to not more than twenty years in ordinary business corporations (sec. 1618).

(e) By what officers or persons its affairs shall be conducted and the times when and the manner in which they will be elected. A board of directors of any number of persons may be named.

(f) The highest amount of indebtedness to which it is at any time to subject itself. This must not exceed two-thirds of its capital stock. This limitation does not apply to risks of insurance companies, certain liabilities of banks, certain bonds or other railway or street railway securities, or to debentures or bonds secured by the actual transfer of certain real estate securities.

Hener v. Carmichael, 82 Iowa, 288; 47 N. W. R. 1034

(g) Whether private property is to be exempt from corporate debts (secs. 1610–1613). While the law does not prescribe all that the articles shall contain, it is the universal custom to cover at least all of the matters required in the foregoing notice. (See sec. 1613; Laws of 1902, chap. 67.)

Every domestic corporation must designate in its articles of incorporation its principal place of business, which must be in this State, and if outside the limits of a city or town, then its post-office address must be given. The place of business so designated shall not be changed except through amendment of its articles of incorporation. This place of business shall be in charge of an agent of the corporation and shall be the place where it shall hold its meetings, and keep a record of its proceedings, and its stock and transfer books (Laws of 1909, chap. 104, sec. 2).

4. Statutory Powers. — The Iowa statutes merely enumerate the implied common law powers of corporations (sec. 1609). For the purpose of repairs, rebuilding, enlarging or to meet contingencies, or for the purpose of creating a sinking fund, the corporation may set apart a sum which it may loan and take proper security therefor (sec. 1630). Stock certificates cannot be issued without having endorsed on the face thereof the amount or portion paid thereon and whether such payment has been in money or property (sec. 1627; Laws of 1904, chap. 55).

Calumet Paper Co. v. Company, 96 Iowa, 147; 64 N. W. 782; Traer v. Company (Iowa), 99 N. W. 290; McKee v. Company (Iowa), 98 N. W. 609; S. C. T. R. & W. Co. v. Trust Co., 82 Fed. 124.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The incorporators must sign and acknowledge the articles of incorporation. The recorder must within five days thereafter endorse thereon the time when the same were filed and the book and page where the record will be found (Laws of 1909, chap. 104). They must be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the principal place of business is located. The articles bearing the endorsement of the recorder as to the time when the same were recorded and the book and page of such record must be forwarded to the Secretary of State, and by him recorded. When articles of incorporation are presented to the Secretary of State for the purpose of filing, if he is satisfied that they are in proper form to meet the requirements of law, that their object is a lawful one and not against public policy, that their plan for doing business is honest and lawful, he shall file them, but if he is of the opinion that they are not in proper form to meet the requirements of law, or that their object is an unlawful one or against public policy, or that their plan for doing business is dishonest or unlawful, he shall refuse to file them. Should a question of fact arise as to the legality of the articles, he shall submit them to the Attorney-General, whose duty it shall be to forthwith examine and return them with an opinion in writing touching the point or points concerning which inquiry has been made to him. If such opinion is in favor of the legality of the articles and no further objections are propounded, they shall then, and upon payment of the proper fee, be filed and otherwise dealt with as by law provided. If, however, such opinion be against their legality, they shall not be filed. Upon the rejection of any articles of incorporation by the Secretary of State except for the reason that they have been held by the Attorney-General to be illegal, they shall, if the person or persons presenting them so request, be submitted to the Executive Council, who shall as soon as practicable consider the said articles, and if the Council determines that the articles are in proper form, of honest purpose, not against public policy, nor otherwise objectionable, he shall so advise the Secretary of State in writing, whereupon he shall, upon payment of the proper fees, file the same and proceed otherwise as the law directs; but if the Council sustains the previous action of the Secretary of State in rejecting said articles, said decision by the Council shall be reported to the Secretary of State in writing, who shall then return said articles to the person or persons presenting them, with such explanation as shall be proper in the case (Laws of 1907, chap. 70, as amended by Laws of 1909, chap. 104).

The organization tax must be paid at the time of the recording. Within three months from the date of the certificate of incorporation a notice must be published once each week for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper as convenient as practicable to the principal place of business, which must contain the matters set out in reference to this notice in par. 3, supra. Proof of such publication by affidavit of the publishers of the newspaper in which it is made must be filed with the Secretary of State. Both the corporation and persons sued by the corporation are forbidden to set up want of legal organization on the part of the corporation as a defence (secs. 1610, 1613, 1636).

First Nat. Bank v. Davies, 43 Iowa, 424; Heald v. Owen, 79 Iowa, 23; 44 N. W. 210; Berkson v. Anderson (Iowa), 87 N. W. 402.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Corporate indebtedness cannot exceed two-thirds of the capital stock (sec. 1611), except in the cases indicated in sec. 3, subdivision "f," supra.

7. Organization Tax. — Up to $10,000, $25, and an additional fee of $1 per thousand for all stock authorized beyond that amount (sec. 1610; Laws of 1902, chap. 66).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The payment of the organization tax entitles the corporation to a certificate of incorporation free of charge. The payment of the organization tax also includes the charge for filing articles of incorporation. The Secretary of State is entitled to charge 10 cents per hundred words for recording such articles. The charge for filing and recording amendments to articles of incorporation is a certificate fee of $1 and the recording fee of 10 cents per hundred words. For issuing certified copy of articles of incorporation the charge is $1 for certificate and 10 cents per hundred words for making copy. For certified copy of certificate of incorporation, $1. The legal rate for publishing articles of incorporation, averaging one thousand words in length, is about $30. It varies, being based upon so many lines of brevier type of a specified length. The newspapers will usually publish for twenty or even fifty per cent of the legal rate. The recording fees in local county office are 50 cents for the first four hundred words, and 10 cents per hundred words for the balance.

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the articles of incorporation are filed and recorded in the office of the County Recorder where the principal place of business is located and in the office of the Secretary of State, provided, further, that the publication of the notice required by law is thereafter made and proof thereof duly filed in the office of the Secretary of State. Any domestic corporation that does not maintain an office in the county of its organization and transact business in the State must file with the Secretary of State a written instrument duly signed and sealed, authorizing the Secretary of State to accept service of process for and in behalf of such corporation (Laws of 1906, chap. 64). Business must be commenced within two years from the time the articles are filed, in order to avoid forfeiture of its franchises (secs. 1614, 1628).

Thornton v. Balcom, 85 Iowa, 198; 52 N. W. 190; Johnson v. Kessler, 76 Iowa, 411; 41 N. W. 57.

10. Organization Meetings. — Ordinarily organization meetings are held within the State (sec. 1612). The statute reads as follows: "If the corporation transacts business in this State, the articles shall fix its principal place of business, which must be in this State, and in charge of an agent of the corporation, at which place it shall keep its stock and transfer books and hold its meetings" (Id.).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must ordinarily be held within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide. (See sec. 1612, cited at length above; also Laws of 1904, chap. 55.)

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — Any number of persons may act as directors. There are no residential or other requirements.

b. Liabilities. — Directors are penally liable for unlawful diversion of corporate funds, for declaring illegal dividends, and for keeping false books of account. The payment by the directors of any dividend when the corporation is known by them to be insolvent, or any dividend the payment of which would render it insolvent or which diminishes the amount of its capital stock, renders the directors knowingly consenting thereto jointly and severally liable for all debts of the corporation then existing. If the indebtedness of any corporation shall exceed the amount of indebtedness permitted by law, the directors knowingly consenting thereto shall be personally liable to the creditors thereof for such excess (secs. 1621–1623). They are also liable for knowingly making false statements relative to the corporation's affairs having a tendency to produce or give the shares of such corporation a greater or less value than they really possess. The penalty is either imprisonment or fine (Laws of 1907, chap. 72).

Frost Mfg. Co. v. Foster, 76 Iowa, 535; 41 N. W. 212; Miller v. Bradish, 69 Iowa, 278; 28 N. W. 594.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Failure to comply substantially with the requirements relative to organization and publicity renders the individual property of stockholders liable for corporate debts (sec. 1616). They are also liable to creditors of the corporation for all unpaid instalments on stock owned by them or transferred by them for the purpose of defrauding creditors (sec. 1631). The receipt of illegal dividends by stockholders makes them liable to the amount of such dividend so received for all liabilities of the corporation then existing (sec. 1621). Intentional fraud and failure to comply substantially with the articles of incorporation, or in deceiving the public or individuals in relation to their means or their liabilities, shall be a misdemeanor, and shall subject those guilty thereof to fine or imprisonment or both at the discretion of the court. Any person who has sustained injury from such fraud may also recover damages therefor against those guilty of participating in such fraud (sec. 1620).

Warfield v. Company, 72 Iowa, 666; 34 N. W. 467; Chisholm v. Forny, 65 Iowa, 333; 21 N. W. 664.

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by such officers as may be designated in the by-laws. No certificate can be issued without having endorsed on the face thereof what amount of the par value has been paid to the corporation issuing the same and whether such payment has been in money or property (sec. 1627; Laws of 1900, chap. 57).

15. Preferred Stock. — The statute does not expressly authorize the issuance of preferred stock by domestic corporations. They undoubtedly have the power to issue such stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — No business corporation shall issue any capital stock or any certificate or certificates thereof until the corporation has received the par value thereof. If it is proposed to pay for the said capital stock in property or in any other thing than money, the corporation proposing the same must, before issuing capital stock in any way, apply to the Executive Council of the State for leave so to do. Such application shall state the amount of capital stock proposed to be issued for a consideration other than money, and set forth specifically the property or other thing to be received in payment for such stock. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the Executive Council to make investigation to ascertain the real value of the property or other thing which the corporation is to receive for the stock; and shall in its finding fix the value at which the corporation may receive the same in payment of capital stock for the said property but not at a greater amount than the value so fixed and determined by the Executive Council.

The capital stock of any corporation issued in violation of the terms and provisions of this act shall be void, and in a suit brought by the Attorney-General on behalf of the State of Iowa in any court having jurisdiction, a decree of cancellation shall be entered, and if the corporation has received any money or thing of value for the said stock, such money or thing of value shall be returned to the individual, firm, company, or corporation from whom it was received, and if represented by labor or other service of an intangible nature, the value thereof shall constitute a claim against the corporation issuing stock in exchange therefor (Laws of 1909, chap. 104, sec. 4). Every corporation must file a certificate under oath with the Secretary of State within 10 days after the issuance of any capital stock, stating the date of issue, the amount issued, the sum received therefor, if payment be made in money or the property, or thing taken, if such be the method of payment (Laws of 1907, chap. 71).

17. Books. — Transfer books showing the name of the person by whom and to whom stock is transferred, the number of shares, and the date of the transfer must be kept within the State at the principal office of the corporation (secs. 1612, 1626). They are open to public inspection.

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation must maintain a principal office within the State with an agent in charge thereof, in which must be posted a copy of the by-laws, a statement of the amount of capital stock subscribed, the amount of capital stock actually paid in, and the amount of indebtedness, all for public inspection (secs. 1612, 1624, 1626). Any domestic corporation that does not maintain an office in the county of its organization and transact business in the State must file with the Secretary of State a written instrument duly signed and sealed, authorizing the Secretary of State to accept service of process for and in behalf of such corporation (Laws of 1906, chap. 64).

19. Reports. — All corporations, domestic and foreign, doing business within the State must, between the 1st day of July and the 1st day of August of each year, make and file an annual report in the office of the Secretary of State. (As to details of such report, see Laws of 1909, chap. 105.)

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Iowa has an elaborate anti-trust statute prohibiting certain pools, trusts, and conspiracies (Code, secs. 5060–5067).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Intentional fraud in failing to comply substantially with the articles of incorporation, or deceiving the public in relation to the corporation's means and liabilities, or a diversion of funds which results in the insolvency of the corporation, works a forfeiture of the corporate privileges to be enforced as directed by law. Failure to use the charter for two successive years is a ground for forfeiture of the charter. Charter may also be forfeited for violation of the anti-trust act (secs. 1622, 1628; see also secs. 4313–4335, 5065). Any corporation violating the provisions of law relative to the issuance of capital stock may be dissolved upon application of the Attorney-General in behalf of the State (Laws of 1907, chap. 71).

22. Extension of Corporate Existence.—Corporate existence may be extended for an additional period of twenty years if desired (sec. 1618; Laws of 1900, chap. 56; Laws of 1902, chap. 66; Laws of 1904, chap. 2; Laws of 1909, chap. 104, sec. 3; see also 34 G. A., chap. 74).

23. Annual License Tax.—An annual fee of one dollar is required to be paid by every domestic or foreign corporation doing business within the State. This fee must be paid between the 1st day of July and the 1st day of August of each year at the same time that the corporation files its annual report. If this fee is not paid by the 1st day of September of each year the corporation incurs the following penalties:

For the month of September the sum of $2; for the month of October the sum of $4; for the month of November the sum of $6; for the month of December the sum of $8; and for each month thereafter the sum of $10. If on the 1st day of May following such corporation shall not have filed the annual report and paid the annual fee together with all monthly penalties due at the time of filing such report and paid the State fee, the Secretary of State shall furnish to the Attorney-General a list of such delinquent corporations, and he may direct the county attorney of the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business to bring suit for the collection of the fee and penalties then due, or may bring such action himself. Any domestic corporation may, prior to the 1st day of May, 1910, and the 1st day of May of any subsequent year, escape the payment of fee and penalties by dissolving the corporation, and filing with the Secretary of State the proof of publication and notice of dissolution. Any foreign corporation which shall fail to make the annual report and pay the annual fee and penalties that may be due, shall thereby forfeit its right to do business within this State (Laws of 1909, chap. 105).

24. Amendments.—Changes in any of the provisions of the articles may be made at any annual meeting of stockholders or a special meeting called for that purpose. Amendments are valid only when recorded, approved, and published as original articles are required to be. The amendments however need only be signed and acknowledged by such officers of the corporation as may be designated to perform such act by the stockholders.

If any increase is made in the amount of capital stock, a certificate fee of $1 and a recording fee of 10 cents per one hundred words must be paid. No recording fee less than 50 cents. Where the capital stock is increased a certificate fee shall be omitted, but a filing fee of $1 per thousand of such increase, together with a recording fee of 10 cents per one hundred words, shall be paid.

The period of corporate existence may be renewed from time to time if a majority of the votes cast at any regular election or special meeting called for that purpose in favor of such renewal, and if those wishing such renewal will purchase the stock of those opposed thereto, at its true value. Such renewals shall date from the expiration of the corporate period which it succeeds and shall be limited in duration to a period not exceeding the time allowed by law to the same class of corporations. Within five days after the said action of the stockholders for the renewal of any corporation, a certificate showing the proceedings resulting in such renewal, sworn to by the president and secretary of the corporation, or by such other officers as may be designated by the stockholders together with the articles of incorporation, which may be the original articles of incorporation or amended and substituted articles, shall be filed for record in the office of the recorder of the county in which the principal place of business of such corporation is situated and the same shall be recorded. Upon filing with the Secretary of State of such certificate and articles of incorporation, within ten days thereafter, and upon the payment to the Secretary of State of a fee of $25, together with a recording fee of 10 cents per one hundred words and an additional fee of $1 for each thousand dollars of authorized stock in excess of $10,000, the Secretary of State shall record the said certificate and the articles of incorporation in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, and shall issue a proper certificate for the renewal of the corporation. Within three months after the filing of the certificate and articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State the corporation so renewed shall publish notice of renewal. Such notice shall be published once each week for four weeks in succession in a newspaper as convenient as practicable to the principal place of business of the corporation and proof of publication filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and shall contain the matters and things required to be published by section 1613 of the act relating to original incorporations.

25. Dissolution. — May be dissolved prior to the period fixed in the articles of incorporation by unanimous consent of the stockholders, or in accordance with the provisions of its articles, and notice thereof must be given in the same manner and for the same time as is required for its organization. Courts of equity have power to dissolve or close up the business (secs. 1617, 1640).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Any corporation for pecuniary profit, other than for carrying on mercantile or manufacturing business as clearly defined and restricted by its articles of incorporation, organized under the laws of another State, or of any territory of the United States, or of any foreign country, which has transacted business in the State of Iowa since the 1st day of September, 1886, or desires hereafter to transact business in this State, and which has not a permit to do such business, shall file with the Secretary of State a certified copy of its articles of incorporation, duly attested by the Secretary of State, or other State officer, in whose office the original articles were filed, accompanied by a resolution of its board of directors or stockholders authorizing the filing thereof and also authorizing service of process to be made upon any of its officers or agents in this State engaged in transacting its business, and requesting the issuance to such corporation of a permit to transact business in this State; said application to contain a stipulation that such permit shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter. Before such permit is issued, the said corporation shall pay to the Secretary of State the same fee required for the organization of corporations in this State, and if the capital of such corporation is increased, it shall pay the same fee as is in such event required of corporations organized under the laws of this State. Any corporation transacting business in this State prior to the 1st day of September, 1886, shall be exempt from the payment of the fees required under the provisions of this section. The Secretary of State shall thereupon issue to such corporation a permit in such form as he may prescribe, for the transaction of the business of such corporation, and upon the receipt of such permit said corporation shall be permitted and authorized to conduct and carry on its business in this State. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any foreign corporation from buying, selling, and otherwise dealing in notes, bonds, mortgages, and other securities (sec. 1637). Foreign corporations doing business within the State must file the same annual reports and pay the same annual license tax as is required of domestic corporations (Laws of 1909, chap. 105).

KANSAS.

(The references stated below are to the General Statutes of Kansas, 1901, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statute under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Kansas is found in the General Statutes of that State for 1901, chap. 23, Arts. 1-21, secs. 1317-1550, as amended by Laws of 1903, chaps. 151-153; Laws of 1905, chaps. 155-159; Laws of 1907, chap. 140. Special provisions are in force for railway, banking, roads, telegraph, trust, building and loan, warehouse, bridge, investment, sewer, express, co-operative corporations and eleemosynary corporations. Foreign corporations are provided for by Laws of 1907, chap. 140, secs. 12-16. Under the General Act as amended corporations may be formed for forty-nine enumerated purposes, which cover substantially all lines of business. (See Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 2.)

2. Incorporators. — There must be at least five incorporators, three of whom must be citizens of the State (Laws of 1907, chap. 140).

3. Contents of Application for Charter. — The incorporators, five or more in number, must make a written application to the Secretary of State upon blank forms supplied by him for permission to organize a corporation. This application must be subscribed by all of the proposed incorporators and must set forth:

a. Name. — There can be only one corporation of the same name. This must indicate the nature of the business intended to be carried on. It must begin with the word "the" and end with the word "corporation," "company," "association," or "society," and must indicate by its corporate name the business to be carried on by said corporation.

b. Domiciliary Office. — The place where its principal office or place of business is to be located within the State.

c. Duration. — Not to exceed fifty years.

d. Purposes. — The full nature and character of the business in which it proposes to engage. The statute enumerates fifty-four classes of corporations which may be organized under the General Act (Laws of 1907, chap. 140; Laws of 1911, chaps. 125, 126).

"The statute of this State," observes the Secretary of State, "provides that the name of the corporation shall indicate the character of the business in which it proposes to engage, and it is the practice of the charter board to limit the operation of the corporation to a single line of business, except as its engagement in other business may be incidental or necessary to the successful operation of such business."

Parkinson Sugar Co. v. Bank, 60 Kan. 474; 57 Pac. 126.

f. Capital Stock. — This may be any amount. The par value of shares may be any amount. (See also Laws of 1904, chap. 157; Laws of 1907, chap. 140.)

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of common law powers the act confers the following additional powers: To authorize voting by proxy, to permit cumulative voting, to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments, to issue preferred stock, to issue bonds (secs. 1248, 1266, 1269; Laws of 1907, chap. 140, secs. 1, 24, 25).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The petition for a charter must be presented to the charter board, composed of the Attorney-General, the Secretary of State, and the State Bank Commissioner. The application must be accompanied by the payment of $25, known as the "application fee." The Charter Board shall make a careful investigation of each application, and shall inquire especially with reference to the character of the business in which the proposed incorporation is to engage, and if the Board shall determine that the business or undertaking is one for which the corporation may lawfully be formed, and that the applicants are acting in good faith, the application shall be granted and a certificate setting forth that the application has been approved shall be endorsed upon the application and signed by the members of the charter board approving the same (Laws of 1911, chap. 125). Thereupon the charter must be prepared, containing: (1) Name of the corporation. (2) Purposes thereof. (3) Location of principal place of business within the State. (4) Duration of corporate existence. (5) Number of directors, names and residences of those appointed for the first year. (6) Amount of capital stock, and the number of shares into which it is divided. (7) Names and residence of the stockholders and the number of shares held by each. Provision may be made also to the effect that no stockholder shall ever own, or vote as the owner or by proxy or both, to exceed a certain minority part of the capital stock of such corporation, and such provision shall be binding upon and enforced against all stockholders of such corporation (Laws of 1905, chap. 15). A road company must also state the kind of road intended to be constructed, the places from and to which the road is intended to run, the counties through which it is intended to run, and the estimated length of the road. The charter of a bridge or ferry company must also state the stream intended to be crossed and the place where it is intended to be crossed by the bridge or ferry (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, secs. 6, 7). The charter must be subscribed and acknowledged by at least five incorporators, three of whom must be residents of the State (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 5). The charter of every corporation after the payment of fees provided by law to be paid have been endorsed thereon by the Secretary of State, must be filed in the office of the latter, who shall record the same at length in a book to be kept for that purpose, who shall retain the original on file in his office, giving a certified copy of it to the incorporators. A copy of the charter and of the record thereof, duly certified by the Secretary of State, shall be evidence of the creation of the corporation (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 11).

Ryland v. Hollinger, 117 Fed. 216; 54 C. C. A. 248.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Must not exceed amount of authorized capital stock (sec. 1274).

7. Organization Tax. — The application must be accompanied by what is known as the application fee of $25, and before the charter is filed the applicants must pay to the Secretary of State a capitalization fee as follows: For a corporation having an authorized capital of $100,000 or less, the fee shall be one-tenth of one per centum of the amount, but never less than $19. For a corporation having an authorized capital greater than $100,000 the fee shall be $100, and in addition thereto one-twentieth of one per centum of the amount of such capital in excess of $100,000 (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, secs. 21-23; Laws of 1911, chap. 127).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The application fee to the charter board is $25, and to the Secretary of State for filing and recording charter, $2.50 (Laws of 1907, chap. 120, secs. 21, 22).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — KANSAS.

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as their application has been favorably acted upon by the charter board, the application fee paid, the charter properly filed and recorded with the Secretary of State, and the organization tax and filing fees paid. Corporations must commence business within one year after filing and recording their charter (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, secs. 10, 12, 32).

10. Organization Meeting. — Must be held within the State in the absence of any statute providing otherwise. (See sec. 1277.)

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — All meetings of stockholders must be held within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide (secs. 1276, 1288, 1293).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three and not more than twenty-four directors. Three of these must be residents of the State. All directors must be stockholders. Cumulative voting for directors is permitted. The power to adopt by-laws is delegated to the directors, but subject to amendment by stockholders if they choose. An oath of office is required (secs. 1269, 1271, 1276-1279, 1282, 1288, 1293).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are jointly and severally liable for knowingly declaring or paying any dividends when the corporation is insolvent, or any dividend the payment of which would render it insolvent. They may avoid this liability by filing their objections in writing with the secretary of the corporation (sec. 1292).

13. Stockholders' Liability. — Stockholders are liable for their unpaid stock subscriptions. The double liability of stockholders that formerly existed in Kansas was removed by Constitutional Amendment adopted in 1906, amending Art. XII. sec. 2 of the Constitution so as to read as follows: "Dues from every corporation shall be secured by the individual liability of the stockholders to the amount of stock owned by each stockholder, and such other means as shall be provided by law." (See also Laws of 1903, chap. 152.) If stock is reduced without the prescribed publication, stockholders are liable for the amount thereof received by each (Laws of 1903, chap. 151).

Musgrave v. Association, 5 Kan. App. 393; 49 Pac. 338; Munson v. Warren, 63 Kan. 182; 65 Pac. 222.

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by such officers as may be designated in the by-laws.

15. Preferred Stock. — Preferred stock may be issued by insertion of a provision therefor in the charter, or by the unanimous consent of all the common stockholders of the corporation after incorporation (sec. 1287).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The capital stock is payable in such amounts and in such manner as may be required by the by-laws under direction of the board of directors (secs. 1285, 1289).

Walburn v. Chenault, 43 Kan. 352.

17. Books. — A record must be kept of all stock subscribed and transferred and all business transactions. Such records must be open at all times to the inspection of stockholders (sec. 1293). All books of account, records, etc., must be kept at the general office in the State (sec. 1293).

18. Office. — Every corporation must maintain an office within the State

(sec. 1293). The treasurer's office and all corporate funds must be kept within the State (sec. 1306).

19. Reports. — Every corporation, except banking, insurance, and railroad corporations, shall file annually with the Secretary of State, on or before the first day of February, a statement of condition of such corporation on the 31st day of December preceding. The Secretary of State shall prepare and furnish blank forms for such annual statements. The statement to be made by a domestic corporation shall set forth the following: (1) The authorized capital stock; (2) the paid in capital; (3) the par value of the shares of the capital stock; (4) a complete and detailed statement of the assets and liabilities of the corporation; (5) a complete list of the stockholders, with the post-office addresses of each and the number of shares held by each; (6) the names and addresses of the officers, trustees, or directors and manager elected for the ensuing year. The Secretary of State may at any time require a further or supplemental report under this section, which shall contain the same information and data as specified in the annual report herein required. The failure of any corporation to file the annual statement herein provided for within ninety days from the time provided for filing the same shall work a forfeiture of the charter of any corporation organized under the laws of this State, and the charter board may at any time thereafter declare the charter of such corporation forfeited, and upon the declaration of any such forfeiture it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General to apply to the District Court of the proper county for the appointment of a receiver to close out the business of such corporation; and the failure of any foreign corporation to file such annual statement as heretofore provided for shall work a forfeiture of its authority to do business in this State, and the charter board may at any time declare such forfeiture, and shall publish such declaration in the official State paper. No action shall be maintained or recovery had in any of the courts of this State by any corporation doing business in this State without first obtaining the certificate of the Secretary of State that the annual statements herein provided for have been filed as required by this act. Fee for filing report is $1 (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 29; see also Laws of 1908, chap. 80; see also Laws of 1911, chap. 128). Both domestic and foreign corporations are required to make annual reports on or before the 20th day of April of each year for local assessment and taxation purposes (Laws of 1911, chap. 318).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Kansas has an elaborate anti-trust statute providing for the prohibition of certain kinds of pools, trusts, or conspiracies (secs. 2427, 2431, 7864-7874; Laws of 1905, chaps. 2, 157; Laws of 1907, chap. 259; Laws of 1909, chap. 261).

State v. Jack, 69 Kan. 387; Keene v. The Company, 69 Kan. 284.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter board is authorized by law to declare a charter void for failure to furnish such information, in the way of annual reports or otherwise, as may be required by the Secretary of State. The charter may be forfeited for illegal use or abuse of corporate powers, or for entering illegal trusts and combinations, or for failure to commence business within one year from filing of charter, or for failure to maintain its domiciliary office and resident directors (secs. 1283, 1293, 1294, 1310, 1311, 7866; Laws of 1907, chap. 140, secs. 31, 32; Laws of 1905, chaps. 2, 315; Laws of 1909, chap. 96). All domestic corporations which fail for three consecutive years to file their annual statements with the Secretary of State are subject to forfeiture of their charters by the State Charter Board (Laws of 1911, chap. 129).

22. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporate existence may be extended for successive periods of fifty years by filing with the Secretary of State at any time certificate of its intention to so extend its time of existence, signed and duly acknowledged by the president and secretary after the same has been authorized by its board of directors and approved by a two-thirds vote of its stockholders present at any meeting duly called for that purpose (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, secs. 17, 18, 23; see Laws of 1911, chaps. 127, 130).

23. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax.

24. Amendments. — Any domestic business corporation may amend its charter in any of its parts by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the shares of stock of any such corporation, at a meeting of the stockholders called for the purpose in conformity with the by-laws thereof. After such amendment has been duly adopted by the stockholders a copy thereof, duly certified by the president and secretary of the corporation, shall be submitted to the charter board, and when approved by such board shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State along with the original charter of the corporation (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, secs. 17, 18).

When the name of a corporation shall have been changed, or where the capital of a corporation shall have been decreased, or when the location of the principal office or place of business shall have been changed, notice of the same shall immediately thereafter be published once each week for four consecutive weeks in a newspaper printed and published in the county where the principal office of the corporation is located (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 19).

Any corporation may increase its capital stock to any amount not exceeding three times the amount of its authorized capital by vote of two-thirds of the stockholders cast at any meeting duly convened for that purpose, or such corporation may increase its capital to any amount by vote as aforesaid, provided there be an actual bona fide additional paid up subscription thereto, equal to the amount of such increase, and such increase shall become a part of the capital of the corporation from and after the date of filing the certificate of such amendment in the office of the Secretary of State (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 20).

In order to decrease the capital stock the president of the corporation, upon request of the holders of one-fourth of stock, or the board of directors without such request, may call a meeting of the stockholders for the purpose of passing upon the question. Notice of such meeting shall be given in the manner and time provided by the by-laws, and in the absence of such a provision ten days' notice thereof shall be given to the stockholders personally or by mail. If at such meeting not less than two-thirds of the capital stock be voted in favor of such decrease, a certificate of such decrease under the corporate seal, signed by the president and secretary and acknowledged by the president, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and thereupon the charter of such corporation shall be amended accordingly (Laws of 1903, chap. 151).

An alternative method of decreasing the capital stock is provided for by permitting the retiring or reducing of any class of stock, or by the surrender by every stockholder of his shares and the issuance to him in lieu thereof of a decreased number of shares, or by reducing the number of shares. If this method is adopted, a certificate of decrease must be published once each week for three successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the principal office of the corporation is located, the first publication to be made within fifteen days after the filing of such certificate with the Secretary of State. In default of such publication the directors of the corporation are jointly and severally liable for all debts of the corporation contracted after the filing of such certificate with the Secretary of State before the publication of the same (Laws of 1903, chap. 151).

25. Dissolution. — The corporation may be dissolved either on application to the court (secs. 1310, 1312–1315; Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 31); or it may be voluntarily dissolved by vote of the stockholders as provided in sec. 30 of chap. 140 of the Laws of 1907. In order that there may be a voluntary liquidation the corporation must have liquidated its obligations, and the resolution of the dissolution shall state that the corporation has no outstanding indebtedness. Upon the filing of a copy of such resolution, certified by the president and secretary, in the office of the Secretary of State, the corporation shall cease to exist (Laws of 1907, chap. 40, sec. 30; Laws of 1909, chap. 96).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation that has a place or places of business within the State of Kansas or distributing point therein where it delivers its wares or products to resident agents for sale, delivery, or distribution, shall be held to be doing business in the State within the meaning of the act governing foreign corporations (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 28). Foreign corporations must apply to the charter board for permission to engage in business in the State. At the time of such application they shall pay an application fee of $25, and shall make application upon blank forms supplied by the Secretary of State, and shall therein set forth the following matters: (1) A certified copy of its charter or articles of incorporation; (2) the place where the principal office of the corporation is located; (3) the place where the principal place or places of business in Kansas are to be located; (4) the full nature and character of the business the corporation proposes to conduct in the State; (5) the name and address of each of the officers, trustees, or directors of the corporation; (6) a detailed statement of the assets and liabilities of the corporation, which must be subscribed and sworn to by the president and secretary of the corporation; (7) the written consent of the corporation irrevocable, that actions may be commenced in the proper court of any county in the State in which a cause of action may arise or in which the plaintiff may reside, by service of process upon the Secretary of State. This consent must be executed by the president and secretary of the company, authenticated by the seal thereof, and be accompanied by a duly certified copy of the resolution of the board of directors authorizing the said secretary and president to execute the same (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 13). All foreign corporations must pay the same fees as are required of domestic corporations of like capitalization upon their incorporation (Laws of 1907, chap. 140, sec. 23).

Every foreign corporation for profit doing business in this State, except banking, insurance, and railroad corporations, shall file in the office of the Secretary of State during the month of February of each year a statement of the condition of the corporation at the close of business on the 31st day of December next preceding the day of filing. The annual statement to be filed by a foreign corporation shall set forth the full corporate name of such corporation; the location of its principal office or place of business without this State; the location of its principal office or place of business within this State, if any it has; the names and addresses of its officers and directors; the amount of its authorized capital stock and the amount of each share; the amount of its capital stock subscribed and the amount and general nature of its resources and liabilities in a form to be subscribed by the charter board. Such statement shall be subscribed and sworn to by the president or general manager and by the secretary of such corporation, and shall be made upon a blank furnished by the Secretary of State. 20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is an anti-trust statute in force directed against illegal combinations, pools, and trusts (Cons., sec. 198; R. S., secs. 3915–3921 inclusive).

21. Annual License Tax. — An annual franchise tax based upon the amount of the authorized capital stock of the corporation is imposed as follows: Domestic and foreign corporations shall pay an annual franchise tax of 30 cents on each $1,000 of that part of their authorized capital stock represented by property owned and business transacted in this State which shall be ascertained by finding the proportion that the property owned and business transacted bears to the aggregate amount of property owned and business transacted in and out of the State: Provided, that such corporations may pay at such rate upon their entire authorized capital stock, and in that event they shall not be required to report as to their property and business as provided in the other sections of the act. Domestic corporations are not required to pay the annual license tax for the year in which they may organize.

On or before the 15th day of December of each year the Auditor of Public Accounts is required to furnish to all corporations a blank upon which to make the report which is to serve as the basis for the imposition of the annual license tax. This report, verified by the affidavit of the president or secretary of the corporation, must be filed with the Auditor of Public Accounts on or before the 1st day of February of each year. Upon this report the Board of Assessment and Valuation ascertains and fixes that part of the authorized capital stock of the corporation upon which the license tax shall be based. As soon as the amount is arrived at, the Auditor of Public Accounts is required to notify each corporation of the amount so assessed against it by the Board. The corporation is required to pay the tax to the Auditor of Public Accounts not later than thirty days after notification to the corporation of its tax. 23. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Every charter is liable to be forfeited by suit brought for that purpose by the State for failing to comply with any requirement or provision of its charter, or for any abuse or misuse of its corporate powers, and shall have thereby become detrimental to the internal welfare of the State. The charter is liable to forfeiture for failure to commence business within two years after its organization, for entering into illegal trusts, combinations, and pools, or for giving money to fix the result of any election (secs. 565, 569, 1574 a, 1987, 3919; Cons., sec. 205).

S. E. Co. v. Commonwealth, 21 Ky. Law Rep. 1556; 55 S. W. 684.

24. Amendments. — By consent in writing of owners of two-thirds of capital stock, the articles of incorporation may be amended for any purpose, said alteration or amendment to be signed and acknowledged by the directors, or a majority of them, and filed and recorded as articles of incorporation are required to be filed in the first instance (secs. 559, 574). Under Acts of 1904, chap. 105, special provision is made for increasing the capital stock. The procedure therein outlined is as follows: Any business corporation may, by a resolution adopted by a vote of holders of not less than two-thirds in amount of its outstanding capital stock, passed in person or by proxy, at a special meeting of stockholders called for that purpose, and of which notice shall have been given as provided in the by-laws of the company, at least twenty days before the date of the meeting or at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the company, or by written consent of the holders of not less than two-thirds in amount of its capital stock, increase its capital stock in such manner as may be deemed desirable (Laws of 1910, chap. 79).

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Louisiana is found in the Revised Statutes of that State, 1904, secs. 683-741; see also Civ. Code of Louisiana, 1870, secs. 427-447. (See Laws of 1902, Acts 53, 154; Laws of 1904, Act 78.) Special acts are provided for banking, building and loan, canal, insurance, railway, safe deposit and trust, street railway, surety, telegraph, and telephone companies. Incorporation for stock-jobbing business is expressly forbidden (sec. 683; Laws of 1888, Act 36). At the present time practically all business corporations formed within the State are incorporated under Act No. 78 of the Louisiana Sessions Laws of 1904. This act permits incorporation for any purpose except that of insurance and banking, or the carrying on of any business entitling the corporation to exercise the right of eminent domain.

2. Incorporators. — Under Act 78, Laws of 1904, but three incorporators are required. There are no residential requirements. (See, however, sec. 683; Laws of 1882, Act 111; Laws of 1902, Act 154.)

If desired, corporate bonds may be converted into stock within ten years from their date (R. L. of 1904, p. 236).

6. Procuring the Charter. — The articles must be signed and acknowledged before a notary. Charters for commercial and manufacturing corporations must be recorded in the office of the recorder of mortgages of the parish of their domicile, together with a list of subscriptions to their stock. Such charters must also be published in some daily newspaper within the parish of the domicile five times within thirty days. It is not necessary to publish the list of subscribers. A duly certified copy of the charter, taken either from the record of the notary before whom the act was passed, or from the record thereof in the office of the recorder in whose office said charter shall have been recorded, must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. To this copy must be affixed the certificate of the recorder, attesting recordation of the act in his office, etc.; also a copy of one issue of the newspaper wherein the said charter shall have been published, together with the affidavit of publication (secs. 677, 686; Laws of 1898, Act 59).

The law provides that any such meeting held elsewhere and any business transacted thereat shall be unlawful and of no effect (sec. 741, as amended by Laws of 1910, Act 63).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — The statute does not provide any specific number of directors, neither are there any residential requirements (sec. 684).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for any resulting damage or indebtedness arising from the omission of the word "limited" from the corporate name

The act further provides that the omission of the word "limited" in the use of the name of the corporation shall render it, and every person participating in such omission or knowingly acquiescing therein, liable for any indebtedness, damage, or liability arising therefrom (sec. 690; Laws of 1888, Act 36).

18. Office. — Every corporation is required to keep a public office or place of business within the State for the transaction of business (Cons., Arts. 264, 273; R. S. sec. 740). The corporate name must be displayed on its office or place of business and stationery (Cons., Art. 273; R. S. 1904, p. 243).

19. Reports. — The president, cashier, secretary, or agent of every stock corporation must, on or before the 1st day of March in each year, make and deliver to the State collectors or assessors of the parish in which such company is liable to be taxed a written statement under oath specifying: First, the real estate, if any, owned by such company when the same is located in this State; second, the capital stock actually paid in and not invested in real estate; third, the place of its principal business or where its principal operations are carried on in which it is liable to be taxed (sec. 736; see also Laws of 1898, Act 170). For the purpose of taxation, the parish assessors within the county where the corporation has either real or personal property must be furnished by every domestic corporation with a sworn statement of its condition. This statement of condition must be made next preceding the day of listing, and must be made within the first twenty days of January of each year. The statement must include the cost of the corporation's property, real and personal, and the value at which the same is carried in the books. It must include also a statement of the earning capacity of the corporation, which earning capacity shall form the basis of estimate and value of its charter or franchises (Acts of 1906, Act 66).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is a constitutional prohibition forbidding corporations to combine or conspire together for the purpose of forcing up or down the price of any agricultural product or article of necessity for speculative purposes (Cons., Art. 190). State v. Company, 109 La. 64.

21. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax, properly speaking, in existence in Louisiana. A license tax is imposed, however, on gross receipts of certain designated lines of business, whether carried on by individuals or corporations (pp. 1674–1723 inclusive).

22. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no statutory provision therefor.

23. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited for fictitious issues of stock, for violation of the Anti-Trust Act and for insolvency (Laws of 1902, Act 224; see also Cons., Art. 266, and R. La. Savings Bank, 35 La. Ann. 196; State v. Company, 111 La. 1049.

24. Amendments. — The law provides that stockholders of any corporation, at a general meeting convened for that purpose, may make any alterations, additions, or changes in their charter with the assent of three-fourths of the stockholders represented at said meeting. Such amendments as are adopted to be recorded as in the case of original charters. Special provision is made in the case of increase or decrease in the capital stock. To effect such a change, directors of the corporation must publish a notice, for thirty days preceding the time fixed for such meeting, that a meeting of the stockholders will be held at the office of the corporation for the purpose of deciding upon such increase or decrease, and shall also deposit a written or printed copy of such notice in the post-office, prepaid, addressed to each stockholder at his usual place of residence at least forty days before the date fixed for such meeting. At the meeting, when held, stockholders being present either in person or by proxy holding an amount not less than two-thirds in value of the stock, a vote may be taken thereat upon the proposed increase or decrease of the capital stock. If stockholders holding not less than two-thirds of the stock of the corporation have voted in favor of the proposed increase or decrease of stock, a certificate of the proceedings shall be made, showing compliance with the provisions of law, the amount of the capital stock at the time such vote was taken, and the number of holders thereof, the amount and number of shares to which it was proposed and carried to increase or decrease, the amount and number of shares whose holders have voted against such change, and the whole amount of the debts and liabilities of such corporation. The said certificate shall be signed by the chairman and secretary of the stockholders' meeting and shall be verified by their affidavits, and then filed in the office of the Secretary of State (sec. 687; Laws of 1882, Act 26; Laws of 1898, Act of July 14 of that year).

In making amendments to charters, it is necessary that the same be published and recorded in the same manner as the original charter.

25. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved by vote of three-fourths of the stockholders represented at any meeting called for that purpose (Civ. Code, Art. 447; R. S., sec. 688; Laws of 1902, Act 224).

where it is doing business, the place of its principal business establishment, and the name of an agent within the State upon whom process may be served (Laws of 1904, Act 54; Laws of 1908, Act 284). For filing, recording, and furnishing certified copy of power of attorney appointing an agent for a foreign corporation, the Secretary of State charges $3.50. They are also required to file the same annual reports as are exacted of domestic corporations (sec. 736; Laws of 1898, Act 170). Under the Laws of 1898, Act 127, an annual license tax is authorized to be levied upon certain classes of corporations doing business within the State whose domiciles are in other States or foreign countries. This act is not general, but only applies to such corporations as are especially named in the act. The constitutionality of this statutory enactment is questioned on the ground of lack of uniformity. (See Cons., Art. 242; see generally Laws of 1908, Acts 128, 241.)

After the business described above is concluded, a certificate of organization should be prepared and signed by the president and a majority of the board of directors (for contents of certificate of organization see sec. 4, post). This certificate must be sworn to by the persons signing the same. The certificate of organization must next be submitted to the Attorney-General for examination and approval. After this is obtained, the certificate of organization, together with the certificate of the Attorney-General approving the same, must be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is located. Within sixty days after the date of the organization meeting, a copy of the certificate of organization duly certified by such register of deeds must be filed in the office of the Secretary. As soon as the certificate above referred to is filed in the office of the Secretary of State the corporate existence commences (secs. 6, 8, 10).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for the extension of corporate existence.

25. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved upon application to the courts (secs. 77, 83).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every corporation established under laws other than those of this State for any lawful purpose other than as a bank, savings bank, trust company, surety company, safe deposit company, insurance company, or public service company, which has a usual place of business in this State permanently or temporarily, without a usual place of business therein, shall, before doing business in this State, in writing appoint the Secretary of State and his successor in office to be its true and lawful attorney upon whom all lawful processes in any action or proceeding against it may be served, and in such writing shall agree that any lawful process against it which is served on said attorney shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on it, and that the authority shall continue in force so long as any liability remains outstanding against it in this State. The power of attorney and a copy of the vote authorizing its execution, duly certified and authenticated, shall, upon payment of a fee of ten dollars, be filed in the office of the Secretary, and copies certified by him shall be sufficient evidence thereof. Service of such process shall be made by leaving a copy of the process and a fee of two dollars in the hands or in the office of the Secretary, and such service shall be sufficient service upon the corporation (Laws of 1909, chap. 113, sec. 1).

When legal process against any such corporation has been served upon the Secretary, he shall immediately give notice to the corporation of such service by mail, postage prepaid, directed, in the case of a corporation established in a foreign country, to the resident manager, if any, in the United States, and shall, within two days after such service in the same manner forward a copy of the process served upon him to such corporation or manager, or to any other person designated by the corporation by written notice filed in the office of the Secretary. The fee of two dollars paid by the plaintiff to the Secretary at the time of the service shall be taxed in his costs, if he prevails in the suit. The Secretary shall keep a record of the day and hour of the service of all such process (Laws of 1909, chap. 113, sec. 2).

after, during which such omission continues (Laws of 1909, chap. 113, sec. 7).

The officers of such foreign corporations shall be jointly and severally liable for all the debts and contracts of the corporation contracted or entered into while they are officers thereof, if any statement or report which is required by the provisions of this act is made by them which is false in any material representation and which they know to be false; but only the officers who sign such statement or report shall be so liable (Laws of 1909, chap. 113, sec. 9).

(The references cited below are to the Revised Corporation Act of 1908, approved March 31, 1908, to become operative on June 1, 1908. They are found in the Session Laws of Maryland, 1908, chapter 240.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. —

The Business Corporation Act of Maryland is embodied in the Revised Corporation Act of 1908, found in the Session Laws of 1908, chap. 240. Under this act corporations may be formed for any business purpose or purposes. Special provisions, affecting certain classes of corporations, found in Article 23 of Public General Laws of the State of Maryland, are still in force and effect in so far as they may be consistent with the provisions of the Act of 1908. The special provisions here referred to, together with a reference to the same in the Code of Public General Laws, is here given: bridge companies (Code, Art. 23, secs. 113-121); building and homestead associations (Id. secs. 122-131); cemetery companies (Id. secs. 132-136); gas and electric light companies (Id. secs. 142-143 a); insurance companies (Id. secs. 144-198 c); fraternal societies (Id. secs. 210-225); mining companies (Id. secs. 207-239); railway companies (Id. secs. 242-300 d); railroad corporations (Id. secs. 301-316); safe deposit companies (Id. sec. 317); savings institutions (Id. secs. 318-321); telephone and telegraph companies (Id. secs. 322-338 c); trust, surety, and fidelity companies (Id. secs. 339-342); turnpike, plank road, and passenger railway companies (Id. secs. 343-356); water companies (Id. secs. 358-359); banks (Code, Art. 11).

2. Incorporators. — Any three or more adult persons of whom at least one shall be a citizen of the State. The statute does not expressly provide that the incorporators shall be subscribers for the capital stock of the company.

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation. — The certificate must state, (a) Incorporators' names in full and residence of incorporators. The names of incorporators who should be subscribers to the certificates, with a statement that they associate themselves together with the intention of forming a corporation (sec. 3). (b) Name. Name of the proposed corporation, which shall always be such as to indicate that it is a corporation as distinguished from a natural person or partnership. It shall be deemed sufficient compliance with this provision if the name of the corporation begins with the word "the" and ends with the word "company" or "corporation," or if the title shall contain the word "incorporated." Similarity of names is not expressly forbidden (sec. 3). (c) Purpose. The purpose or purposes for which the corporation is formed and the business or objects to be carried on or promoted by it. Under the foregoing any number of business purposes may be included in one certificate (sec. 3). (d) Domiciliary office. The place in Maryland where the principal office of the corporation will be located (sec. 3). (e) Capital stock. The total amount of capital stock of the proposed corporation, if any (sec. 3). Also the number and par value of the shares and the restrictions, if any, imposed upon the transfer of shares. The total amount of capital stock may be any amount except in the case of mining companies operating in Maryland, whose capital is limited to $3,000,000. The par value of shares may also be any amount. If preferred stock is to be issued, the certificate shall state how much of the total capital stock is to be preferred, and the provisions, voting powers, restrictions, and qualifications of the preferred stock (sec. 3). (f) Directors. The number of directors, trustees, or managers, which shall not be less than three, together with the names of those who shall act as such for the first year or until their successors are duly chosen and qualify. At least one of the directors must be a citizen of the State of Maryland and actually residing within the State (sec. 3). (g) Proviso for the regulation of internal affairs. Any provisions may be here inserted which may be deemed desirable for the purpose of defining, limiting, and regulating the powers of the directors and stockholders or any class of stockholders. Such provisions however must not be contrary to the law of the State or inconsistent with any of the terms and limits of the Revised Corporation Act of 1908.

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to the statutory enumeration of common law powers (sec. 7), corporations have the following additional powers: to issue preferred stock (sec. 34); to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments (sec. 39); to accumulate votes in election of directors (sec. 20); to hold stock in other corporations (secs. 7, 18); to vote by proxy at stockholders' meetings (sec. 19); to establish voting trusts for a period not exceeding five years (sec. 77); to classify directors into classes not exceeding five in number (sec. 11); to appoint executive committee from the full board of directors (sec. 10); to consolidate with other corporations (secs. 30, 31); to hold property within or without the State (sec. 7).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate of incorporation must be executed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators before some officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds for land situate in the State (sec. 3). If the certificate is acknowledged before a justice of the peace, his official character must be first certified to by the clerk of the Superior Court under his official seal. The certificate must be then submitted to one of the judges of the judicial circuit within which the principal office of the corporation is to be located (in Baltimore to one of the judges of the Supreme Bench at Baltimore City), and if the latter approves it he certifies that fact upon the certificate. (Note case of Boyce v. Trustees, 46 Md. 359.) The certificate when so certified must be delivered to the tax commissioner, who, upon payment of the organization tax and recording fees, shall receive and endorse thereon the date and time of receipt and promptly record the same in a book to be kept by him for that purpose. Upon recording the certificate in his office the State tax commissioner transmits the original certificate and a copy thereof duly certified by him to the clerk of the Circuit or Superior Court (to whom certificate was submitted in the first instance) by whom the same shall be again recorded. At the time of receipt of such certificate the State tax commissioner shall collect double the fees allowed by law to clerks of courts for recording a document of similar length. One-half of the sum so collected by him shall be paid by him to the clerk of the Circuit or Superior Court to whom such certificate shall be transmitted for record as hereinbefore set forth, and for the other half he is required to account to the comptroller and pay the same forthwith to the State treasurer for the use of the State (sec. 4).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There are no limitations upon the amount of indebtedness which a corporation may incur (sec. 7).

7. Organization Tax. — The organization tax is one-eighth of one per cent upon the capital stock authorized (Code, Art. LXXXI, sec. 98). The same organization tax is payable upon any subsequent increase. This organization tax becomes due and payable upon the recording of the certificate of incorporation, and no company shall have or exercise any corporate powers until such tax is paid to the State treasurer.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The State tax commissioner is entitled to the following fees: for filing any paper in his office and entering same, 10 cents; for affixing seal to any paper, 20 cents; for certificate under seal for the qualification of any judge to any instrument in writing, 50 cents; for recording certificate of incorporation and for copies of any paper, for each ten words or figures, 2 cents (Code, Art. XXXVI. sec. 12). The fees of the clerks of courts for the above services are just one-half of this charge by the State tax commissioner (sec. 4).

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the organization tax is paid and the certificate of incorporation filed and recorded as provided by law. There is no statutory requirement as to the amount of capital with which the ordinary business corporation may commence business. One-fourth of the authorized capital stock, however, must be paid in within one year from the date of incorporation; one-fourth in two years, one-fourth in three years, and the remainder in four years (Laws of 1908, chap. 305). Within thirty days after the payment of the last instalment of the capital stock, the president and a majority of the directors must file a statement sworn to by the president, showing the amount of capital stock paid in, of property received in payment of subscriptions and extent to which payments have been made in property. This certificate must be filed with the clerk of the court where the original certificate was recorded (sec. 36).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State in the absence of any statute providing otherwise (sec. 17).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Directors' meetings can be held within or without the State (sec. 12).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. — (a) Qualifications. There must not be less than three directors, at least one of whom must be a citizen and actual resident of Maryland. For the first year and until their successors are chosen and qualified the board consists of the persons named as such in the certificate of incorporation. Cumulative voting may be provided for in the by-laws if desired. Directors may provide for an executive committee of two or more members, to be elected from and by the board of directors, and to such committee may delegate the management of the current and ordinary business of the corporation and such other duties as the by-laws may prescribe (secs. 19 and 20).

(b) Liabilities. If the trustees, managers, or directors of any corporation shall declare and pay any dividend when the corporation is insolvent, or any dividend the payment of which would render it insolvent, or would diminish the amount of the capital stock, they shall be jointly and severally liable to the extent of the dividends so declared and paid for all the debts of the corporation then existing, and also for all that shall thereafter be contracted, while they shall respectively continue in office, even although the whole amount of the capital of said corporation has been paid in. But if any of the trustees, directors, or managers of said corporation shall object to declaring such dividend, or to the payment of the same, and shall, at any time before the time fixed for the payment of the same, record a certificate of their objection in writing with the clerk of the court in which the certificate of incorporation is recorded, they shall be exempt from the liability imposed hereby.

No loan of money shall be made by any corporation to any stockholder or director therein, and if any such loan shall be made, the officer or officers or directors who shall make it or assent thereto shall be jointly and severally liable for all the debts of said corporation to the extent of the loss that may result from such loan, but this paragraph shall not apply to any building or homestead association, or any corporation whose principal business under its charter is to loan money on real or personal property, or to any corporation receiving and authorized to receive money on deposit, or to any life insurance company lending money to any of its policy holders on their policies.

In the event of the insolvency of the corporation, the liability of the directors and officers under this section (50) shall be collectible by the receiver or other person winding up its affairs, as an asset of said corporation (sec. 50).

Any officer or agent whatsoever of any corporation who shall fraudulently sign, or in any other manner assent to any statement or publication, either for the public or shareholders thereof, containing untruthful representations of its affairs, assets, or liabilities with a view either to enhance or depress the market value of the shares therein, or the value of its corporate obligations, or in any other manner to accomplish any fraud thereby, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, by indictment in any court of law, shall be fined not less than $1,000 nor more than $10,000, and be imprisoned in jail or penitentiary, or either fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court for not less than six months nor more than three years (Code, Art. XXVII. sec. 134).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Except as hereinafter stated, stockholders in all ordinary business corporations are not liable for corporate debts save to the extent of their unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock of the corporation. Every stockholder of a domestic business corporation, in case of a reduction of its capital stock, is liable to the corporation or its receiver for the payment of its liabilities existing at the time of said litigation to the extent of the amount withdrawn and paid to such stockholder, and every stockholder of any such corporation shall remain liable for the benefit of its creditors for the amount of the face value of his stock or of his subscription in case the stock has not been issued, less the amount he shall already have paid thereon until he shall have paid such amount in good faith; and in the event of the insolvency of the corporation, such liability shall be considered as an asset of the corporation and may be enforced by the receiver or other person winding up the affairs of such corporation notwithstanding any release, agreement, or arrangement short of actual payment which may have been made between said corporation and said stockholder.

In addition to the foregoing it is provided by chapter 305, of the Laws of 1908, as follows:

All the stockholders of any such corporation shall be severally and individually liable to the creditors of the corporation of which they are stockholders, to an amount equal to the amount of stock held by them respectively, for all debts and contracts made by the corporation, until the whole amount of the capital stock fixed and limited by the corporation shall have been paid in, and a certificate thereof made and filed as prescribed in the following section, which certificate may, however, be filed at any time after thirty days mentioned in said section, but no stockholder shall be individually liable to the creditors of such corporation except to the amount of his, her, or their unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock; and the liability of such stockholder shall be an asset of the corporation for the benefit ratably of all the creditors of such corporation, if necessary, to pay the debts of such corporation, and shall be enforceable only by appropriate proceedings by such corporation or by a receiver, assignee, or trustee of such corporation, acting under the orders of a court of competent jurisdiction, provided, however, that this section shall not affect the right of any creditor under the existing laws of this State against the stockholders who were liable to such creditors at the date of the passage of this act; and provided, further, that nothing in this section shall be considered as a construction by the legislature of the law hereby amended, and the capital stock so fixed and limited shall be paid in, one-fourth thereof in one year, one-fourth in two years; one-fourth in three years, and one-fourth or the balance in four years from and after the incorporation of said company, or such corporation may be dissolved, provided, however, that it shall be lawful for the trustees, directors, or managers of any such corporation to collect and enforce the payment of all subscriptions to the capital stock as other debts are collected, after notice being given, as required by section 70 of this article, and if suit shall be brought by the trustees, directors, managers of any such corporation against all delinquent stockholders for the full amount of unpaid subscriptions within four years from the incorporation of said company, such corporation shall not be dissolved; and provided, furthermore, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any homestead or building association (sec. 41 a).

The exclusive remedy for the enforcement by creditors against stockholders of all rights existing under the preceding section 64 as the same stood prior to the time of the passage of this act, and which were declared by said section as amended by this act not to be affected by the terms thereof as herein amended, shall be as against stockholders residing in the State of Maryland, by bill in equity in the nature of a creditors' bill filed against such stockholders by one or more creditors on behalf of themselves, and all other creditors of the corporation who may come in and make themselves parties thereto in a court having jurisdiction within the limits of the county or city of Baltimore, in which, as the case may be, the principal office of the corporation is situated at the time of the filing of the bill, or in case any such corporation has, by reason of having been placed in the hands of a receiver, or from any other cause, ceased to have any principal office at the time of the filing of the bill, then the bill shall be filed in a court having jurisdiction within the limits of the county or the city of Baltimore in which, as the case may be, the said corporation had its last principal place of business; and to any such bill stockholders residing beyond the limits of the State of Maryland may become parties defendant, and upon so becoming parties shall not be proceeded against in any other State or Territory or in the District of Columbia, in respect of any liability imposed by said section 64 as said section stood before the repeal thereof, and which existed at the time of the passage of this act hereinbefore referred to. This section shall become operative as of July 1st, 1907, and shall cause the abatement of all actions at law which shall have been brought against said stockholders since that date to enforce any liability created by section 64 as said section stood before the repeal thereof and which existed at the time of the passage of this act, hereinbefore referred to, provided, however, that as to any plaintiff or plaintiffs in any of said abated suits, who shall, within sixty days from the passage of this act, become a party or parties to a bill in equity of the character mentioned in this section, then, as regards the operation of the Statute of Limitations upon the claims so sued on, the time elapsed between the institution of said abated suits and the time of such plaintiff or plaintiffs becoming a party or parties to said bill in equity, shall be included in ascertaining the period within which suits are required to be brought by the said Statute of Limitations, the costs taxable to any plaintiff or plaintiffs in any action at law which shall be abated under the provisions of this section, the plaintiff or plaintiffs in which action shall become a party or parties to a bill in equity, under the provisions of this section shall become a part of the costs taxable in the proceedings in said equity case (sec. 41 b).

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him, signed by the president or vice-president and by the secretary or assistant secretary, treasurer or assistant treasurer of the corporation, and sealed with its seal. Any certificate for stock which is restricted or limited as to its transferability or voting powers or which is preferred or limited as to its dividends, or as to its share of the principal upon dissolution, shall have a statement of such restriction, limitation, or preference plainly stated thereon (sec. 33). Title to a certificate and to the shares represented thereby can be transferred only

(a) By delivery of the certificate endorsed either in blank or to a specified person by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner of the shares represented thereby; or

(b) By delivery of the certificate and a separate demand containing a written assignment of the certificate or a power of attorney to sell, assign or transfer the same or the shares represented thereby, signed by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner of the shares represented thereby. Said assignment or power of attorney may be either in blank or to a specified person.

37 n. A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a certificate shall be entitled to such aid from courts of competent jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise in attaching said certificate, or in specifying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity; in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process.

37 o. There shall be no lien in favor of a corporation upon the shares represented by the certificate issued by such corporation, and there shall be no restriction upon the transfer of shares so represented by virtue of any by-law of such corporation or otherwise unless the right of the corporation to such lien or the restriction is stated upon the certificate (Laws of 1910, chap. 73, sec. 37 a, n, and o).

15. Preferred Stock. — Every corporation may create two or more classes of stock with such preferences, voting powers, restrictions and qualifications thereof, as shall be expressed in the certificate of incorporation or by any amendment to its charter or certificate which may be adopted. Such preferred stock may, if desired, be made subject to redemption at not less than par at a time and place to be fixed in the certificate of incorporation, or articles of amendment, and it may be provided that the holders thereof shall receive and the corporation shall be bound to pay the fixed annual dividends to be expressed in the said certificate or articles of amendment, payable quarterly, half yearly, or yearly before any dividends shall be set apart for or paid to the holders of the common stock; such dividends may be made cumulative, and such stock may be preferred over the common stock as to its distributive share of the assets of the corporation upon dissolution; but in case of insolvency the debts and other liabilities of the corporation shall be paid before the holders of said preferred stock shall receive anything; nothing in the laws of this State shall be so construed as to limit the dividends on said preferred stock to six per cent per annum, if greater or less dividend is provided to be paid on said stock (sec. 34).

16. Payment of the Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued, whether common or preferred, either for cash or for services or property of any description, provided, however, that such services are rendered to or adopted by said corporation, or for property, and that the same is suitable for any of the purposes for which the corporation was formed, provided further that the value of such services and property, and the propriety of issuing stock therefor shall be agreed upon and the issue authorized by the affirmative vote of a majority of all the stock (both common and preferred) outstanding entitled to vote, given at any meeting duly called as provided for in sections 15 and 16 of the Corporation Act. Provided further that, in counting the majority of the outstanding stock necessary to authorize the issuance of stock for services or property, no stock shall be counted whose owner or holder is interested in such services or property, or no stock that has merely been subscribed for and payment for which is to be made in services.

Whenever the stock of any corporation is issued for services or property, in accordance with the preceding section, the books of the corporation shall be so kept as to show at all times fully what property was received, and what services were rendered for the said stock; at what value, and the number of shares issued for the same. Whenever any stock is issued in payment for services or property as aforesaid, a certificate signed by the president or vice-president and secretary, and sworn to by the treasurer, setting forth the amount of stock so issued, and the property or services in payment for which said stock is issued and particularly specifying the nature and character of such property or services, shall, within thirty days after the issue of said stock, be filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court for the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located (or of the clerk of the Superior Court of Baltimore City, if such principal office is located in Baltimore City), and any officer or director of such corporation wilfully and knowingly authorizing or consenting to the failure to so file such a certificate within thirty days from the issue of said stock, or wilfully and knowingly making or consenting to any false statement contained in the entries required by this section to be made on the books of the corporation, or of said certificate, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be subject to the pains and penalties described by section 134 of Article 27 of the said Code of 1904; provided, however, that the valuation placed by the stockholders upon such services or property at the meeting duly warned, as aforesaid, and the propriety of their action in accepting the same and issuing the agreed number of shares therefor, shall, in the absence of actual fraud, be conclusive against and binding upon any and all creditors of the corporation (sec. 36).

17. Books. — The books of every corporation of this State, including such books as show the names of the stockholders thereof, and their places of residence and the number of shares held by them, shall, during the usual business hours of every business day, be open for the inspection of any person or persons holding in the aggregate five per cent of the outstanding capital stock, or five per cent of any class thereof, if two or more classes have been issued, at its principal office in this State; every officer or agent of any such corporation who shall refuse to exhibit the same shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and the corporation shall forfeit and pay to the stockholder demanding such inspection the sum of $50 for every such refusal (sec. 48). The directors are required to keep a full and fair account of every transaction (sec. 49).

18. Office. — Every corporation must maintain its principal office within the State (sec. 3, subdivision d).

19. Reports. — No annual reports (aside from those required by the tax law) are exacted of domestic corporations. The directors of every business corporation are required annually to prepare a full and true statement of the affairs of the corporation, which shall be submitted at the annual meeting of stockholders.

If any person or persons owing in the aggregate five per cent of the outstanding capital stock of any corporation of this State (or five per cent of any class of such stock, if two or more classes have been issued) shall present to the president or treasurer a written request for a statement of its affairs, it shall be his duty to make such a statement under oath, embracing a particular account of its assets and liabilities in detail, and to have the same ready and on file at the principal office of the corporation within twenty days after the presentation of such request. And such statement shall at all times during business hours be open to the inspection of any stockholder, and he shall be entitled to copy the same. And if such president or treasurer to whom such request shall be delivered, shall neglect to file such statement, he shall forfeit and pay to the person presenting the request the sum of $50 for each and every day's delay; and if he shall refuse to permit any stockholder to inspect such statement and copy the same, he shall forfeit and pay to such stockholder the sum of $50 for each and every refusal (sec. 47).

As to taxation of corporations and reports in connection therewith see Code, Art. 81.

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute in Maryland. Under the Constitutional declaration of rights, section 41, it is declared that monopolies are odious, contrary to the spirit of a free government and the principles of commerce, and should not be suffered.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Whenever any domestic corporation, other than a railroad, shall be determined by legal proceedings to be insolvent, or shall be proven to be insolvent by proof offered under any bill filed under the provisions of this section, it may be dissolved after hearing according to the practice of courts of equity in the county or city in which its principal office is located. Such bill may be filed by any stockholder or creditor of the corporation (sec. 53).

The charter may also be forfeited for such misuse, abuse, or non-use of its powers and franchises as would by law make proper the forfeiture of its charter (secs. 57-61).

If any corporation shall fail or neglect to pay the bonus or organization tax provided for by law to the treasurer of the State, for the space of two months after the same has been due and payable, it then becomes the duty of the comptroller to make out said account and to cause suit to be brought for the recovery of such bonus. If after suit brought and judgment rendered, any corporation from which said bonus or organization tax shall be due shall continue in arrears, and shall fail to neglect to pay said bonus or organization tax to the State treasurer for the space of two years after the same shall be so in arrears, such failure and neglect shall be deemed to amount to and shall constitute a forfeiture of the charter of such corporation, and said charter shall be decreed to be so forfeited and annulled, ipso fact (Code, Art. 81, sec. 101).

22. Amendments. — Every corporation of this State now existing or hereafter formed may, from time to time, at any meeting duly warned as provided for by sections 15 and 16 of this article, by the affirmative vote of a majority of all its members or a majority of all its stock (or if two or more classes of stock have been issued, of a majority of each class), outstanding and entitled to vote, amend its charter or certificate of incorporation, and thereby accomplish any one or more of the following objects: The addition to or diminution of the corporate powers and purposes, or the substitution of other powers and purposes in whole or in part for those prescribed by any charter or certificate; provided that such additional or substituted powers are such as are authorized by this article; the changing of the corporate name; the changing of the corporate business; the increasing or decreasing of the capital stock and the classification of any increase; the reduction of the number of outstanding shares; the classification of any unissued part of the authorized capital stock; and the changing of the location of the principal office (sec. 24).

Articles of amendment, signed, and acknowledged in the same manner as in the original certificate, by the president and a majority of the directors, managers, or trustees shall within thirty days after such meeting be prepared, setting forth such amendment and the particulars thereof, and stating that it has been duly adopted by the stockholders or members; but no amendment shall take effect until the articles have been duly executed and delivered to the State tax commissioner with the recording fees (to be charged at the same rates and by said commissioner divided, accounted for, and paid over, as in the case of an original certificate). Articles of amendment shall be promptly recorded by the State tax commissioner, and when recorded the original or a certified copy thereof shall be sent by him for recording to the clerk of the Circuit Court or Superior Court as is hereinabove provided for, in the case of an original certificate; and a duly certified copy of such articles of amendment from the records of the State tax commissioner or of the Circuit or Superior Court shall be prima facie evidence of the rights and powers of the corporation as amended (sec. 25).

If any increase of the capital stock of any corporation shall have been duly authorized as in section 24 provided, the articles of amendment shall also set forth, (a) the total amounts of capital stock already authorized and issued; (b) the amount of cash paid in for stock already issued, and the amount of stock already issued for property or services; (c) the amount of additional stock authorized; (d) and the classes, if any, into which the additional stock is to be divided, with the preferences, voting powers, restrictions, and qualifications of the increased shares (sec. 26).

If a reduction of the capital stock shall have been duly authorized, as in section 24 provided, the articles of amendment shall also set forth: (a) the total amounts of capital stock authorized and issued; (b) the amount of the reduction and the manner in which it shall be effected; (c) the copy of the resolution authorizing the reduction, but, except as provided in the next succeeding section, no corporation shall be entitled to reduce its capital stock until the amount of its unsecured debts and liabilities shall be so far paid and satisfied as not to exceed the amount to which the capital stock shall be reduced (sec. 27).

When the capital stock of any corporation has become impaired by losses, the outstanding shares may be reduced to an amount representing their true value without reducing the amount of capital stock, which, by its charter or certificate, the corporation is authorized to have; the outstanding certificates may be called in and new certificates issued for the proportionate number of shares as reduced to the persons entitled thereto; and the stock representing the difference between the authorized issue and the number of shares as reduced may be reissued without thereby increasing the capital stock, and may be classified as preferred or common. If such reduction in the number of shares shall be authorized as provided in section 24, the articles of amendment shall, in addition to the requirements of section 25, set forth, (a) the number of shares originally authorized; (b) the number of shares actually issued and outstanding; (c) the number of shares as reduced; (d) the classification, if any, of the stock representing the difference between the original authorized issue and the number of shares as reduced (sec. 28).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Every corporation formed under this article shall have, until forfeiture, the right of perpetual succession; and all provisions in the charter or certificate of any existing corporation, or imposed upon it by any act in force at the time of its creation or formation, limiting its duration, are hereby annulled and repealed (sec. 75).

24. Dissolution. — Every corporation of this State other than a public service corporation may, by the affirmative vote of a majority of all of its members or of a majority of all of its stock (or if two or more classes of stock have been issued, of a majority of each class) outstanding and entitled to vote, close its affairs and authorize a bill for its dissolution to be filed in the manner hereinafter set forth. The meeting for such purpose shall be duly warned according to the provisions of sections 15 and 16 of this article; and if at such meeting the said majority shall so decide, a petition for dissolution shall be forthwith filed in the name of the corporation, and on its behalf in a court of equity of the county or city in which its principal office is located (sec. 51).

Every such petition shall contain a statement of the reasons why the dissolution of the corporation is sought, and there shall be filed as an exhibit with it, a full and true inventory of its assets and liabilities; a list of all the stockholders, if any, their respective addresses, the number of shares belonging to each, and the amount, if any, remaining due thereon; a full statement of all the incumbrances on the property of the corporation, and a full list of its creditors, with their respective addresses and the amounts due each. Such exhibit shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of some officer or stockholder of the corporation, and upon the filing of such petition accompanied by the exhibit, the corporation shall pass an order requiring all persons interested in the corporation to show cause by a day to be named, if any they have, why it should not be dissolved on another day to be named in said order, which said order shall be published for such time as the court shall direct, in some newspaper published in the county or city in which such court is held, if an answer shall be filed to such petition, evidence shall be taken in the manner usual in courts of equity; if no answer is filed, or if upon consideration of the petition, answer and proof, the court shall be of opinion that no sufficient cause against a dissolution has been shown, a decree shall be entered dissolving the said corporation and appointing one or more receivers of its estate and effect, if any, and any of the directors or other officers or any of the stockholders or members of the corporation may be appointed its receivers or such other person or persons as the court may select (sec. 52).

Whenever any corporation of this State, other than a railroad, shall have been determined by legal proceedings to be insolvent or shall be proven to be insolvent by proof offered under any bill filed under the provisions of this section, it may be dissolved, after a hearing according to the practice of the courts of equity in this State, upon a bill for that purpose filed in a court of equity of the county or city in which its principal office is located. Such bill may be filed by any stockholder or creditor of the corporation (sec. 53).

Whenever any corporation shall be dissolved by the decree of any court of this State, its property shall vest in its receivers appointed and named therein, and all preferences, payments, and transfers, howsoever made by it or any of its officers on its behalf, which would be void or fraudulent under the provisions of the Insolvency Laws of this State, if made by a natural person, shall to the like extent and with like remedies be fraudulent and void; and for the purpose of setting aside such preferences, payments, and transfers the receiver of such corporation shall have all the powers vested in the permanent trustee of an insolvent debtor, and the date of the filing of the petition or bill by or against such corporation shall, for the purpose of determining the validity of preferences and for all other purposes, be treated as the date of the filing of the petition in insolvency by or against a natural person; provided, however, that if any real or personal property of such corporation shall have been decreed to be sold by any court of equity for the enforcement of a mortgage, deed of trust, or deed of trust in the nature of a mortgage; or if there be a power of sale or a consent to a decree for a sale contained in any mortgage, deed of trust, or deed of trust in the nature of a mortgage of real or personal property made by such corporation, then (unless with the written consent of the other parties in interest) the receiver of such corporation shall be authorized to sell only the equity of redemption in the property mentioned in such decree, mortgage, deed of trust, or deed of trust in the nature of a mortgage; and, unless such consent be given, such decree and the powers of sale contained in such mortgage, deed of trust, or deed of trust in the nature of a mortgage, may be executed as if proceedings against the corporation had not been instituted (sec. 54).

Upon the dissolution of any corporation of this State in any manner otherwise than by judicial proceedings, and until other persons shall be appointed as receivers by some court of competent jurisdiction, the directors at the time of dissolution shall become and be trustees for the creditors, stockholders, and members of the corporation so dissolved. They shall take title to its assets, real and personal, and shall have full power to wind up and settle its affairs, to sue for and collect its assets, and to pay its debts; and they shall divide among the stockholders or members the money and other property that shall remain after the payment of the debts and necessary expenses; and the said trustees shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors, stockholders, and members of such corporation to the extent of its property and effects that shall come into their hands (sec. 55).

The dissolution of a corporation shall not relieve its stockholders or directors or other officers from any obligations and liabilities imposed on them by law; nor shall it abate any pending suit or proceeding by or against the corporation, and all such suits may be continued with such change of parties, if any, as the court in which the same are pending shall direct. No receiver shall institute suit except by order of the court appointing him; and such suit may be brought in his own name as receiver or (notwithstanding its dissolution) in the name of the corporation to his use (sec. 56).

25. Annual Franchise Tax. — There is no annual franchise tax imposed in the case of business corporations.

26. Foreign Corporations. — The term "foreign corporation," as used in this article, shall mean every corporation, association, or organization, other than a national bank, which has been established, organized, or chartered under laws other than those of this State (sec. 65).

No foreign corporation shall engage or continue in any kind of business in this State, the transaction of which by domestic corporations is not permitted by the laws thereof. And every foreign corporation doing business in this State shall be deemed thereby to have assented to all the provisions of the laws thereof (sec. 66).

Every officer of any such foreign corporation which fails to comply with the proceedings of the preceding section, and every agent of such non-complying corporation who transacts business for it in this State, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine of two hundred dollars. Such failure shall not affect the validity of any contract made with such non-complying corporation, but no suit shall be maintained in any of the courts of this State by any such corporation until it has complied with the requirements of this article (sec. 69).

Every foreign corporation which has a usual office or place of business in this State, except insurance companies hereinafter provided for, but including any corporation which is engaged in this State permanently or temporarily and with or without a usual place of business therein, in the construction, alteration, erection, or repair of any building, bridge, railroad, railway, or structure of any kind, shall, before doing business herein, file with the Secretary of State, who shall record the same, (1) a certified copy of its charter or certificate of incorporation; (2) a certificate to be renewed annually before the first day of April in every year, subscribed and sworn to by its president or treasurer, or a majority of its board of directors and accompanied by the annual fee of one dollar for recording such renewal showing, (a) the corporate name; (b) the names and addresses of its president, treasurer, secretary, and the members of its board of directors; (c) its principal office in this State and in the State of incorporation; (d) the amount of its capital stock authorized and issued, the number and par value of the shares and the amount paid in thereon and the names and addresses of its shareholders in this State, and the number of shares held by each, and the amount of its capital employed in this State; (e) the name and address of its agent resident in this State, and authorized to accept service of process upon it; and (f) its willingness that so long as any liability remains outstanding against it in this State, the authority of such agent shall continue until a substitute is appointed and certified to the Secretary of State. At the time of filing the original papers required by this section every such foreign corporation shall pay to the Secretary of State for the use of the State a fee of $25, upon receipt of which he shall issue to it the certificate setting forth that it is entitled to do business in this State, and for all such fees said Secretary of State shall account quarterly to the comptroller and pay the same forthwith to the State treasurer for the use of the State, less the costs and expenses of recording the same (sec. 68).

Any person or corporation whether a resident or a non-resident of this State, may sue any foreign corporation regularly doing business or regularly exercising any of its franchises herein for any cause of action. Such a suit may be brought in any county or in the city of Baltimore, as the case may be, where its principal office in this State, named in the certificate provided for by the next succeeding section of this article, is located, or where it regularly transacts business or exercises its franchises, or in a local action, where the subject matter thereof lies; and a corporation acting as surety may be sued wherever a similar corporation of this State could be sued under the provisions of section 62 of this article. Process may be directed to the sheriff, constable, or other proper officer of any county or of the city of Baltimore, returnable to the clerk of the court out of which, or to the justice of the peace by which, the same was issued, and may be served as follows: if such corporation has a resident agent authorized and prepared to accept service as provided by section 68 of this article, such process shall be served upon him. If the corporation has no resident agent so authorized and prepared, process may be served (subject to the special provision for insurance companies and fraternal beneficiary societies, orders or associations hereinafter mentioned) upon any president, manager, director, ticket agent, or officer of the corporation, or upon any agent or other person in its service. In all cases, however, a copy of the process shall be left with the person upon whom it is served; and where process is served upon any person other than the resident agent, president, director, or other officer of the corporation, a copy of the process shall also be left at its principal office in this State, if there be one named as aforesaid. If any foreign corporation shall, after incurring liability in this State or after making any contract with a resident thereof, cease to do business or have such resident agent or a president, director, manager, or other officer herein, then and in such case suit may be brought in the county or city in which the plaintiff resides, and process may be served upon any person in this State who was last a resident agent, president, director, manager, or other officer of such corporation in this State; provided, however, that a copy of such process shall also be served on the president or some director of such foreign corporation wherever he may be found, and an affidavit of such service may be made by the person serving the same (whether he be a resident or a non-resident of this State) before any officer authorized by the laws of this State to take the acknowledgment of deeds to be recorded therein. And the affidavit showing such service and the time thereof shall be returned to the court in which the suit against such foreign corporation is pending. Nothing herein shall prevent or affect the issue of attachments against foreign corporations as now or hereafter allowed by law (sec. 67). (See Crooks v. Girard Iron Co., 87 Md. 139.)

Any corporation not chartered by the laws of this State, which shall transact business therein, shall be deemed to hold and exercise franchises within this State, and shall be liable to suit in any of the courts of this State on any dealings or transactions therein, and also shall be liable to suit in any of the courts of this State, or any controversy which may arise between such corporation and any resident of this State (Laws of 1908, chap. 309).

Every foreign corporation, except railroad companies, telegraph or cable companies, express or transportation companies, oil or pipe line companies, title insurance companies, electric light or gas companies, guano, phosphate, or fertilizer companies, electric construction companies, telephone companies, parlor car or sleeping car companies, safe deposit companies, trust companies, national banks, life, fire, marine, casualty, and other insurance companies, and guarantee and fidelity companies, or any corporation paying a gross receipt tax, which maintains an office and regularly exercises its franchises in this State, shall, at the time of filing its annual certificate, to wit: before the 1st day of April in each year, pay to the State treasurer for the use of the State a franchise tax for such year at the following rate, that is to say, the sum of $25 for every full $50,000 of capital employed by it in this State up to $500,000 — but in no case less than $25; if the amount of such capital is more than $500,000, and not more than $5,000,000, then an additional amount equal to one-fortieth of one per cent on the excess; and if more than $5,000,000, then an additional amount at the rate of $30 for every $1,000,000 of such last-named excess (sec. 70).

If the annual certificate and tax shall not be filed and paid as required by the preceding sections, then on the 1st day of November following the comptroller shall place the tax bill in the hands of the attorney-general for collection by suit; and the officers and agents shall be liable to the penalty imposed by section 69 of this article.

For license tax to be paid by telegraph or express or transportation companies, see Code, Art. 16, secs. 119, 120, and 121. For license tax to be paid by domestic corporations doing business as surety or guarantor on bonds of any kind, or the business of issuing policies of any kind of insurance, except life, fire, and marine policies, and except industrial insurance, see secs. 170, 171, 176, and 177; and for license to be paid by foreign corporation doing special lines of business, see sec. 174.

MASSACHUSETTS.

(The references cited below are to the Laws of 1903, chap. 437, commonly known as the "Business Corporation Law.")

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. —

Under the act that went into effect August 1, 1903, parties may incorporate for any lawful purpose not covered by special act. Special acts are provided for banking, trust, surety, safe deposit, insurance, railway, street railway, telegraph, telephone, gas, electric light, heat, power, canal, aqueduct, cemetery, and crematory companies (sec. 70, as amended by Acts of 1906, chap. 286; Acts of 1910, chap. 395). The corporate existence of real estate corporations is limited to fifty years (Acts of 1912, chap. 595).

2. Incorporators. — There must be at least three incorporators. There are no residential requirements (sec. 7).

Walworth v. Brackett, 98 Mass. 98.

3. Articles of Association. — The incorporators should first prepare and sign an agreement of association, stating (a) that the subscribers thereto associate themselves together with the intention of forming a corporation. The agreement should also set forth (b) the corporate name to be assumed, (c) the location of the principal office of the corporation in the Commonwealth and elsewhere, if the corporation is organized to do business wholly outside of the Commonwealth. In addition to the foregoing the agreement should also set forth (d) the purposes for which the corporation is formed, the nature of the business to be transacted,¹ (e) total amount of authorized capital stock of the corporation not to be less than $1,000, par value of the shares not to be less than $5, and the number of shares into which the capital stock is to be divided, and the restrictions if any imposed upon its transfer. If there are more than two classes of stock, a description of the classes and a statement of the terms upon which they are to be created and the method of voting thereon. (f) If desired, provisions may be inserted for the conduct and the regulation of the business of the corporation, for its voluntary dissolution, or for limiting or defining or regulating the powers of the corporation or of its directors or stockholders. (g) The subscribers by whom the first meeting of the corporation is to be called must be stated, or, in lieu thereof, the notice of said meeting is waived in writing by each of the incorporators. (h) There must also appear the names and residences of the incorporators, and the amount of stock subscribed for by each. The meeting should then be held, whereat a chairman and temporary clerk should be chosen. The clerk should be forthwith sworn. After by-laws have been adopted the incorporators must proceed to the election of directors, a treasurer, clerk, and such other officers as the by-laws may prescribe. A majority of the directors must forthwith make, sign, and make oath to the articles of organization (for contents of articles of organization see sec. 4, post). The articles of organization and the records of the first meeting of incorporators must be submitted to the commissioner of corporations for examination, and he may require such amendments thereof and such additional information as he may think necessary. If he finds the articles conform to the provisions of the statute, he shall so certify and endorse his approval thereon. Thereupon the articles shall, upon payment of the organization tax, be filed for record in the office of the Secretary of State of the Commonwealth, who will issue a certificate of incorporation. The corporate existence commences upon the filing of the articles of organization in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. The certificate of incorporation or a certified copy thereof is conclusive evidence of the existence of the corporation (secs. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12).

Bird v. Daggett, 97 Mass. 494.

4. Contents of the Articles of Organization. — The articles of organization must set forth: (a) A true copy of the agreement of association, and the names of the subscribers thereto. (b) The date of the first meeting and all adjournments thereof, if any. (c) Amount of capital stock to be issued, the amount thereof to be paid for in cash, by instalments, and the instalment to be paid before the corporation commences business, and the amount thereof to be paid for in property. If such property consists in part of real estate, its location and the amount of stock to be issued therefor shall be stated. If any part of such property is personal, it shall be described in such detail as the commissioner of corporations may require, and the amount of stock to be issued therefor shall be stated. If any part of the capital stock is issued for services or expenses, the nature thereof and the amount of stock which is issued therefor shall be stated. (d) The name, residence, and post-office address of each of the officers of the corporation (sec. 11).

5. Corporate Name. — The name used shall indicate that it is a corporation as distinguished from a natural person or partnership. It is forbidden to use the name of another domestic corporation or of a foreign corporation, or of any partnership or association carrying on business in the Commonwealth at the time of such organization or within three years prior thereto, or a name so similar thereto as to be liable to be mistaken for it, except with the consent in writing of said corporation, association, or partnership. Courts are given express jurisdiction in equity to enjoin the illegal use of the corporate name (sec. 5).

B. R. Co. v. Company, 149 Mass. 436; 21 N. E. 875.

6. Statutory Powers. — In addition to the enumeration of common law powers of corporations, the statute grants to corporations a number of extraordinary powers which may be enumerated as follows: To have perpetual succession; to insert in the agreement of association rules for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation; to appoint an executive committee from its board of directors, to whom may be delegated the management of the current and ordinary affairs of the corporation. The act expressly forbids a corporation to vote upon any share of its own stock. It authorizes corporations to vote by proxy, to forfeit shares for non-payment of assessments, to issue preferred stock, and to classify directors (secs. 4, 16, 19, 23, 24; Acts of 1903, chap. 423; Acts of 1912, chap. 175).

Commonwealth v. Railway, 142 Mass. 146; 7 N. E. 716; McNeil v. Boston Chamber of Commerce, 154 Mass. 277; 28 N. E. 245; S. W. Co. v. Lamb, 143 Mass. 420; 9 N. E. 823; French v. Company, 145 Mass. 261; 14 N. E. 113; Kelly v. Biddle, 180 Mass. 147; 61 N. E. 821; U. W. Co. v. Stone, 127 Fed. 587.

7. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limit to the amount of corporate indebtedness in Massachusetts.

8. Organization Tax. — The organization tax is one-twentieth of one per cent (50 cents) on each one thousand dollars of authorized capital stock, except that in no case shall it be less than $25 (Acts of 1907, chap. 396).

9. Filing and Recording Fees. — There are no filing or recording fees due the Secretary of State other than the payment of the organization tax. The charge for issuing certified copy of certificate of incorporation is $1. The charge for filing and recording amendments to articles of incorporation is $5, except in the case of increase of capital stock. The charge for filing annual certificate of condition is $5.

10. Commencing Business. — Aside from the right to perfect the organization of the corporation, no business can be transacted until the articles of organization have been approved by the commissioner of corporations, the organization tax paid, and the certificate recorded in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth (sec. 12). Whenever any change is made in the officers of a domestic corporation, the corporation shall forthwith file in the office of the Commissioner of Corporations, within thirty days after such change has been made, a certificate of such change, signed and sworn to by the president, clerk, and a majority of the directors (Act of April 6, 1907).

11. Organization Meeting. — The various steps necessary to procure the organization of the corporation have already been set forth in sec. 3, ante. The organization meeting must take place within the Commonwealth. The statutory officers in Massachusetts are a president, clerk, and treasurer (secs. 9, 10, 20).

Packard v. Company, 168 Mass. 92; 46 N. E. 433; Walworth v. Brackett, 98 Mass. 98.

12. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — All meetings of stockholders must be held within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide (secs. 20, 25; Laws of 1904, chap. 207). There must be an annual meeting of the stockholders held within ninety days after the end of the fiscal year of the corporation. The time, place, and manner of holding and conducting said meeting shall be fixed by the by-laws (Acts of 1904, chap. 207; see also Acts of 1912, chap. 175).

Sargent v. Webster, 54 Mass. 497.

13. Directors' Qualifications, Powers, and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors, each of whom must be a stockholder unless the by-laws otherwise provide. There are no residential requirements. The president of the corporation must be elected annually by and from the board of directors. The other officers are elected by the stockholders. Directors may be divided into classes not exceeding five, if desired (sec. 18). Under the statute the board may elect from its members an executive committee, to whom may be delegated the management of the current and ordinary business of the corporation (secs. 17, 18, 19).

b. Liabilities. — Directors who make oath falsely to articles of organization are jointly and severally liable to any stockholder for actual damages caused by false statements therein and which they knew to be false. Also, for debts and contracts of the corporation where they declare or assent to a dividend when the corporation is or thereby is rendered bankrupt or insolvent, to the extent of such dividend. Also, for debts contracted between the time of making or assenting to a loan to the directors and the time of its repayment, to the extent of such loan unless they voted against such dividend or the paying of such loan (secs. 34, 35). No director can be held liable for its debts or contracts unless the corporation has been duly adjudicated bankrupt or unless a judgment has been recovered against it and it has neglected for thirty days after demand made upon it to pay the amount due (secs. 14, 36. As to liability for making political contributions, see Acts of 1908, chap. 483; Acts of 1911, chap. 428). An officer of a mining corporation who makes false statement knowing the same to be false, in any application to any stock exchange to sell the shares of such corporation shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than two years.

No officer, agent, clerk or servant of a mining corporation, nor any person dealing in the shares of such corporation, shall cause to be published any advertisements of the shares of such corporation in which any statement is made as to the value of the property of the corporation, or of its present or prospective earnings or of a prospective increase in the price of the shares unless the President and a majority of the directors of such corporation within sixty days prior to the date of the publication of such advertisement shall have filed with the Commissioner of Corporations in such form as he shall prescribe a statement, under oath, of the financial condition of the corporation, a full description of its property and a statement of the earnings, if any, from the operation of the same for the fiscal year next preceding the date of the filing of such statement (Acts of 1911, chap. 492, sec. 1. See also Acts of 1912, chap. 175).

14. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable for the debts of the corporation in any event to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions. The statute also provides that stockholders who vote to reduce the capital stock of the corporation contrary to law shall be liable for the payment of the debts and contracts of the corporation existing at the time of such reduction to the extent of the amount withdrawn. Stockholders are also liable for all moneys due to operatives for services rendered within six months before demand made upon the corporation and its neglect or refusal to make such payment (secs. 33, 36, 39; Acts of 1911, chap. 488).

15. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him, signed by the president and treasurer (sec. 26. See as to transfer of stock Acts of 1910, chap. 171).

Wyman v. Powder Co., 62 Mass. 168; Sibley v. Bank, 133 Mass. 515.

16. Preferred Stock. — One or more kinds of stock may be created under such terms and conditions as may be provided for in the agreement of association or in an amendment thereto adopted as provided by statute (secs. 27, 40).

Am. Tube Works v. Machine Co., 139 Mass. 5; 29 N. E. 63.

17. Payment of Capital Stock. — Capital stock may be issued for cash, property, services, or expenses. If it is paid for in instalments, this fact must be set forth upon the certificate. If any stock be issued subsequent to the issue of stock authorized by the articles of association, then a certificate is prepared within thirty days after the date when said stock has been authorized, and is signed and sworn to by the president, treasurer, and a majority of the directors, setting forth: (1) Total amount of capital stock authorized. (2) The amount of stock already issued for cash, payable in instalments, and the amount paid thereon; also the amount of full-paid stock already issued for either property, services, or expenses. (3) A description of said property and the nature of said services or expenses. This certificate must be submitted to the Commissioner of Corporations. If he finds it conforms to the law, he shall so certify and endorse his approval thereon. The certificate must then be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, who upon payment of the proper fee shall cause it and the endorsement thereon to be recorded. The law provides that no stock shall be at any time issued unless the cash or property, services or expenses for which it was authorized to be issued has been actually received or incurred by or conveyed or rendered to the corporation, and the president, treasurer, and directors shall be jointly and severally liable to any stockholder of the corporation for actual damages caused to him by such issue (sec. 14).

18. Books. — The clerk is required to keep a record of all proceedings of the stockholders and board of directors. The corporation is required to keep a stock transfer book within the State. These books are open to the inspection of stockholders at all times (sec. 30).

19. Office and Clerk. — All corporations must have an office within the State, and must appoint a clerk who is a resident of the Commonwealth (secs. 8, 18).

20. Reports. — Every corporation shall annually within thirty days after the date fixed by the by-laws for the annual meeting, or within thirty days after the final adjournment of such meeting, prepare a report of the condition of the company, signed and sworn to by its president, treasurer, and at least a majority of its directors, stating the name of the corporation; location of its principal office in the Commonwealth or elsewhere in case the corporation is organized to do business wholly outside of the Commonwealth; date of its last preceding annual meeting; total amount of its authorized capital stock; amount due and outstanding and amount then paid thereon; the class, or classes, if any, into which it is divided; the par value and number of its shares; names and addresses of all the directors and officers, and the date on which the term of office of each expires; statement of the assets and liabilities of the corporation as of the date of the end of its last fiscal year. This report must be submitted to the commissioner of corporations for his approval and who shall endorse his approval thereon if in conformity with the law. If the corporation has a capital stock of $100,000 or more, it shall be accompanied by a written statement of the affairs of such corporation. The statement of the auditor of the corporation's books must be filed with the annual report in the office of the Secretary of State (secs. 45-50, Acts of 1906, chap. 346; Acts of 1908, chap. 300; Acts of 1909, chap. 326).

In addition to the foregoing, every corporation shall annually, between the first and tenth of April, make a return to the tax commissioner under oath of its treasurer, stating the name of the corporation and setting forth the following as of the first day of April of the year in which the return is made: the total amount of the capital stock of the corporation, amount issued and outstanding, and the amount then paid thereon; classes into which it is divided; par value of shares; number of its shares, and their market value, as to each class of shares, if there are two or more classes; statement of the real estate, machinery, merchandise, and other assets belonging to the corporation within and without the Commonwealth; a list of the stockholders of the corporation, their residences, the amount and class of stock (if more than one) belonging to each (Acts of 1911, chap. 379). If stock is pledged, the name and residence of the pledgor and pledgee must be given (secs. 45-50 inclusive). By chap. 222 of Acts of 1905, if by-laws are amended making a change in the date of the annual meeting, the commissioner of corporations must be notified thereof. Whenever any change is made in the officers of a domestic corporation the corporation shall forthwith file in the office of the Commissioner of Corporations, within thirty days after such change has been made, a certificate of such change, signed and sworn to by the president, clerk, and a majority of the directors (Act of April 6, 1907).

21. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute.

22. Annual Franchise Tax. — The annual franchise tax is based upon the value of the corporate franchises. This tax upon the value of the corporate franchises, after making certain deductions enumerated in the act, shall necessitate a tax levied at a rate equal to the average rate in all cities and towns in the Commonwealth during the same year, as returned by the assessors of the several cities and towns of the State, upon an amount, less said deductions, not exceeding twenty per cent in excess of the value as found by the tax commissioner, of the real estate, machinery, merchandise, and securities, which, if owned by a natural person, resident of the Commonwealth, would be liable to taxation; and the total amount of taxes to be paid by such corporation in any year upon its property to be taxed in the Commonwealth, and upon the value of its corporate franchises, shall amount to not less than one-tenth of one per cent of the market value of its capital stock at the time such assessment is made by the tax commissioner (secs. 74, 76–87 inclusive). The tax becomes due and payable on November 1st. (See also Acts of 1904, chaps. 225, 442; Acts of 1910, chap. 270. See as to abatement of unpaid taxes, Acts of 1908, chap. 220; Acts of 1912, chap. 497.)

23. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charters may be forfeited for usurpation of franchises or privileges not conferred by law (P. S., chap. 186, sec. 1724). Also for failure to pay annual taxes and make annual statements for two successive years (secs. 49, 78; Acts of 1906, chap. 346).

Russell v. M'Lellan, 14 Pick. 63.

24. Amendments. — Every corporation may, at a meeting duly called for that purpose, by the vote of a majority of all its stock, or, if two or more classes of stock have been issued, of a majority of each class outstanding and entitled to vote, authorize an increase or reduction of its capital stock and determine the terms and manner of the disposition of such increased stock, may authorize a change of the location of its principal office or place of business in this Commonwealth, or change of the par value of the shares of its capital stock.

It may, at a meeting duly called for the purpose, by the vote of two-thirds of all its stock, or, if two or more classes of stock have been issued, of two-thirds of each class of stock outstanding and entitled to vote, or by a larger vote if the agreement of association so requires, change its corporate name, the nature of its business, the classes of its stock subsequently to be issued and their voting power, or make any other lawful amendment or alteration in its agreement of association or articles of organization, or sell, lease, or exchange all its property and assets, including its good-will and its corporate franchises, upon such terms and conditions as it deems expedient.

Articles of amendment, signed and sworn to by the president, treasurer, and a majority of the directors, shall within thirty days after said meeting be prepared, setting forth such amendment or alteration, and stating that it has been duly adopted by the stockholders. Such articles shall be submitted to the commissioner of corporations, who shall examine them in the same manner as the original articles of organization. If he finds that they conform to the requirements of law, he shall so certify and endorse his approval thereon, and they shall thereupon be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, who, upon payment of the fees hereinafter provided, shall cause them, and the endorsement thereon, to be recorded. No amendment or alteration of the agreement of association or articles of organization shall take effect until said articles of amendment shall have been filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth as aforesaid.

If an increase in the total amount of the capital stock of any corporation shall have been authorized by a vote of its stockholders in accordance with the provisions of sec. 40, the articles of amendment shall also set forth (1) the total amount of capital stock already authorized; (2) the amount of stock already issued for cash payable by instalments and the amount paid thereon, and the amount of full-paid stock already issued for cash, property, services, or expenses; (3) the amount of additional stock authorized; (4) the amount of such stock to be issued for cash, property, services, or expenses respectively; (5) a description of said property and a statement of the nature of said services or expenses, in the manner required by the provisions of sec. 11 of the act. All corporations, both domestic and foreign, must, whenever any change is made altering the date fixed in the by-laws for the annual meeting, file in the office of the Commissioner of Corporations a certificate of such change, signed and sworn to by the clerk of said corporation (Acts of 1905, chap. 222).

Where any change is made in the office of a domestic corporation organized under the general act, there must be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Corporations a certificate of such change, signed and sworn to by the president, clerk, and a majority of its directors (Acts of 1907, chap. 282; Acts of 1908, chap. 180).

25. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no express provision for the extension of corporate existence. (See, however, sec. 40.)

26. Dissolution. — By a majority vote of all classes of stock entitled to vote, a petition for dissolution, to be addressed to the courts having jurisdiction in the premises, may be authorized (secs. 51-55 inclusive; Acts of 1905, chap. 156).

Stone v. Framingham, 109 Mass. 303; Olds v. Company, 185 Mass. 500; 70 N. E. 1022.

27. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation which has a usual place of business within the Commonwealth or which is engaged therein permanently or temporarily, and with or without the usual place of business therein, in the construction, erection, alteration, or repair of buildings, bridges, railroads, or structures of any kind, shall, before doing business in this Commonwealth, in writing appoint the Commissioner of Corporations to be its attorney upon whom all lawful process may be served. A copy of the power of attorney and a copy of the vote authorizing its execution, duly certified, must be filed in the office of the State Corporation Commissioner; also a certified copy of its articles of association, together with a true copy of its by-laws, and a certificate in such form as the Commissioner of Corporations may require, setting forth the name of the corporation, location of its principal office, names and addresses of its president, treasurer, clerk, or secretary, and the members of its board of directors, date of its annual meeting for the election of officers, amount of its capital stock authorized and issued, number and par value of its shares and the amount paid in, and if any part of such payment has been made otherwise than in money, the details of such payment. This certificate must be signed and sworn to by the president and treasurer and by a majority of its directors. No foreign corporation can transact any business which is not permitted to domestic corporations by the laws of the Commonwealth (secs. 56-60; Laws of 1905, chap. 242).

Before transacting business within the State foreign corporations must pay $25 for filing copies of the charter, by-laws, and certificate required by the act. All corporations having a usual place of business within the Commonwealth, must within thirty days fixed for its annual meeting last preceding the date of said certificate, or within thirty days after the final adjournment of said meeting but in three months before the date so fixed for said meeting, prepare and file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, a certificate signed and sworn to by its president, treasurer, and by a majority of its board of directors, showing the amount of its authorized capital stock, its assets and liabilities as of a date not more than thirty days prior to said annual meeting, in such form as is required of domestic corporations under the statutes of the State (Acts of 1905, chap. 233). The foregoing certificate must be accompanied by a written statement under oath by the auditor as provided by section 47 of the Acts of 1903, chap. 437, as amended by Acts of 1908, chap. 300. Before the certificate is filed it must be submitted to the Commissioner of Corporations, who must examine and approve such certificate before it can be filed, and who must assess upon such corporation an excise tax in accordance with the Laws of 1903, chap. 437, sec. 75. The charge for filing this annual certificate of condition is $5 (sec. 91). Each year foreign corporations are required to pay an excise tax of one hundredth of one per cent of the par value of its authorized capital stock, as stated in its annual statement of condition, this amount never to exceed $2,000 (sec. 75 as amended by Acts of 1908, chap. 300). (As to special provisions covering corporations engaged in the construction, erection, etc., of buildings, bridges, railroads, or structures of any kind, see Acts of 1905, chaps. 233, 242; Acts of 1906, chap. 346.)

Under this section the manner of payment of the capital stock is required to be set forth in detail — this to include an itemized description of the property in which the stock payment is made, with the value at which each item is taken, which valuation shall be conclusive in the absence of actual fraud (Id.). There must be made and attached to the articles of association an affidavit by at least three of the organizers of such corporation, that they know the property described in such articles of association and that the same has been actually transferred to such corporation, and that such property is of the actual value therein stated (Laws of 1907, Act 146).

People ex rel. v. Company, 111 Mich. 405; 69 N. W. 653.

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to the statutory enumeration of the common law powers of corporations the act gives the following extraordinary powers: The corporation may conduct its business in whole or in part, if it desires, without the State and within the United States or any foreign country (Laws of 1907, Act 51). Also the power to issue capital stock in exchange for real and personal property, with the power to make such capital stock full paid stock and not liable for any further call, and to relieve the holders thereof from any stockholders' liability in the absence of actual fraud in the transaction. To vote by proxy, to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments, to enforce a lien for non-payment of debts, to issue preferred stock (Laws of 1903, chap. 223, 232, secs. 10, 11, 13, 14, 20; see also Laws of 1901, chaps. 176, 183; Laws of 1905, chap. 61; Laws of 1907, chaps. 141 and 162). Mining companies may acquire stock in certain designated corporations (Laws of 1903, chap. 233). In all elections for directors of any corporation organized under any general law of this State other than municipal, insurance, banking corporations, building and loan associations, every stockholder shall have the right to vote in person or by proxy the number of shares of stock owned by him for as many persons as there may be directors to be elected, or to cumulate their shares, and give one candidate as many votes as will equal the number of directors multiplied by the number of shares of his stock; or to distribute them on the same principle among as many candidates as he shall see fit. All such corporations shall elect their directors annually and the entire number of directors shall be balloted for at one and the same time and not separately; provided, that the by-laws of any such corporation shall not be so amended as to reduce the number of directors of such corporation in case the votes of a sufficient number of shares are recorded against such proposed amendment, which if cumulatively voted as herein provided, would elect one or more directors where the same number of shares if cumulatively voted would not be sufficient to elect the same number of directors of the reduced board (Laws of 1911, chap. 268, sec. 1).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles of association must be signed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators. It seems to be contemplated by the statute that the corporation shall be organized before the articles are filed in any State or local office (see Organization Meeting, post, sec. 10). The statute provides that before any corporation organized to operate in the State shall commence business, the president shall cause the articles of association to be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the county clerk of the county in which its operations are to be carried on. If it is organized to operate outside of the State, the requirement is the same, except that the articles must then be filed in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the county clerk of the county in the State where the domiciliary office is located. The corporate existence, however, commences as soon as articles are subscribed and acknowledged (Id. secs. 2, 9).

Carmody v. Powers, 60 Mich. 26; 26 N. W. 801; Whipple v. Parker, 29 Mich. 369.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limit prescribed by statute upon the creation of corporate indebtedness.

7. Organization Tax. — One-half of one mill on each dollar of authorized capital stock, that is, 50 cents on each thousand dollars, with a minimum fee of $5 (Laws of 1891, chap. 2; Laws of 1893, chap. 79; C. L. of 1897, sec. 8574).

Michigan Fem. Sem. v. Sec. of State, 115 Mich. 118; 73 N. W. 131.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The Secretary of State charges a filing fee of 50 cents or a recording fee of 20 cents per folio of one hundred words, or both, according as the act under which the corporation is incorporated may provide. The Secretary of State does not issue a certificate of incorporation. His charge for issuing a certified copy of articles of incorporation is 20 cents per folio of one hundred words. For filing and recording amendments the charge is 50 cents for filing, and 20 cents per folio of one hundred words for recording. For filing annual reports, 50 cents each. The filing fee in local county offices is usually 50 cents, and the recording fees vary from 10 to 20 cents per folio of one hundred words.

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the articles of association are filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, and — in the case of corporations formed to carry on its business within the State — in the office of the clerk of the county in which its corporate business is to be carried on, or — in the case of non-resident corporations — in the office of the county clerk of the county where the domiciliary office is located (Id. sec. 9). In the case of manufacturing, commercial companies, etc., before commencing business, at least ten per cent of the capital must be paid in and fifty per cent subscribed (Laws of 1903, chap. 232, sec. 2).

C. V. & P. Co. v. Secretary of State, 8 Detroit Leg. News, 795; Whitney v. Wyman, 101 U. S. 392.

10. Organization Meeting. — Any two of the stockholders named in the articles of association may call a meeting of the stockholders for the purpose of organization, by publishing notice thereof in the manner required by statute. This notice may be waived in writing by all the stockholders specifying the time for the organization meeting. The organization meeting should be held within the State in order to avoid any possible question as to the legality thereof (Id. sec. 3).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — The statute specifically provides that corporations may establish an office or offices for the transaction of business without the State and within the United States, and to hold any meetings of the stockholders and directors thereat. The place must be chosen by a vote of a majority of the stockholders at a meeting duly called for that purpose, and after being fixed cannot be changed within one year, and must be certified by the directors of the corporation to the Secretary of State within two months from the time such office is located (Id. sec. 20). Cumulative voting in the election of directors is permitted (Laws of 1905, chap. 61).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors who shall be stockholders. In mining companies the maximum number of directors is nine (Laws of 1903, chap. 233). There are no residential requirements (Id. sec. 4). Cumulative voting is provided for (Laws of 1903, chap. 224; Laws of 1905, chap. 61; Laws of 1907, Act 141).

Anderson Carriage Co. v. Pungs, 127 Mich. 534; 86 N. W. 1040.

b. Liabilities. — The directors are liable to creditors for failure to make annual reports as provided by law; for declaration of dividends when the company is insolvent, or when the payment of the same would render it insolvent; and are jointly and severally liable to the extent of three times the amount paid on the stock outstanding in their name for violation of any provision of the Business Corporation Act (Id. secs. 12, 22, 23; also for making false statements or reports, Laws of 1909, chaps. 25, 85).

Bank v. Pierson, 112 Mich. 410; 70 N. W. 901; M. I. W. C. & S. Co. v. Mosher, 114 Mich. 64; 72 N. W. 117; Keeney v. Converse, 99 Mich. 316; 58 N. W. 325; Gennert v. Ives, 102 Mich. 547; 61 N. W. 9; Silberman v. Munroe, 104 Mich. 352; 62 N. W. 555.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — If the capital stock of a corporation is withdrawn before the payment of the corporate debts for which such stock would have been liable, the stockholders are jointly and severally liable to any creditor to the amount that has been withdrawn. Stockholders are individually liable for all labor performed for the corporation. They are also liable to the amount of their unpaid stock subscriptions (Cons., Art. XV. sec. 7, Public Acts of 1903, Act 232, secs. 21, 24, 28, 29, 35). Incorporators are liable for false statements as to the amount of capital stock paid in.

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe. The par value of shares may be either $10 or $100, except in the case of mining companies, where it must be $25 (Laws of 1903, Act 232; Laws of 1907, Act 167).

15. Preferred Stock. — The corporation may provide in its articles of association or by amendment thereto, by a three-fourths vote of the stock, for the issuance of preferred stock, not to exceed two-thirds of the capital stock paid in, which shall be subject to redemption at par at a certain time to be fixed by the by-laws of the corporation and to be expressed in the certificate therefor. The holders of preferred stock shall be entitled to a dividend payable quarterly, half yearly, or yearly, same to be cumulative, and not to exceed eight per cent per annum. Preferred stockholders are not liable for the debts of the corporation excepting debts for labor. Preferred stockholders shall have voting power except when otherwise provided in the articles of association or amendments thereto. The right to vote is also given under certain other conditions (Id. sec. 35).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The statutes of Michigan are peculiar with respect to the manner of the payment of capital stock. Only such property may be taken in payment for capital stock as the purposes of the corporation may require, and only such property as can be sold and transferred by the corporation and as shall be subject to levy or sale on execution or other process issued out of any court having competent jurisdiction for the satisfaction of any judgment or decree against such corporation (Laws of 1907, Act 146). A recent amendment of the act requires that there shall be made and attached to the articles of association an affidavit by at least three of the organizers of such corporation, that they know the property described in said articles of association, and that the same has been actually transferred to such corporation and that such property has the actual value therein stated (Laws of 1907, Act 146). All stock must be issued and paid for at par (Laws of 1907, Acts 51, 146).

Graves v. Brooks, 117 Mich. 424.

17. Books. — Books containing accounts of the company must be kept at the office of the treasurer of the corporation within the State for the inspection of stockholders (sec. 15). Corporations having their principal place of business within the State are required to keep their stock transfer book at such office.

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation must maintain an office within the State and an agent to receive process. Such office cannot be changed within one year after incorporation (Laws of 1903, chap. 232, sec. 2).

19. Reports. — Corporations must annually in the month of January or February make duplicate reports showing the condition of such corporation on the 31st day of December next preceeding, or, if the fiscal year of any corporation shall close within ninety days preceeding said 31st day of December, the report may be as at the close of said fiscal year, provided flour-milling corporations shall make and deposit reports in the month of July for the year ending June 30th preceeding, such report to state the amount of common and preferred capital stock authorized, and the amount thereof subscribed for and the amount thereof actually paid for in cash, and the amount thereof paid for in property, the total value as near as may be estimated of all property owned by the corporation, the value of the different items or classes of property as follows: real estate used in the business, real estate not used in the business, goods, chattels, merchandise, material and other similar tangible property; patent rights, copyrights, trade-marks, and formule, good-will, and other property specifying the kind; value of all credits owing to the corporation; the amount of debts of the corporation; the name and post-office address of each stockholder and the number of shares of preferred and common stock held by him at the date of such report, the name and post-office address of each officer and director of the corporation. Such reports must be signed by a majority of the board of directors and verified by the oath of the secretary of the corporation and deposited in the office of the Secretary of State within the said month of January or February, or within sixty days after the close of such fiscal year, accompanied by a filing fee of 50 cents. The Secretary of State, after filing one of the reports in his office, is required to forward the other to the county clerk of the county in which the principal place of business of the corporation is situated, said county clerk to file the same in his office. Upon failure to file the report within the time specified, if continued in default until February 10th, the corporate powers shall be suspended thereafter until it shall have filed such report. During the default directors are made liable for the debts of the corporation contracted since the filing of the last report of said corporation (Laws of 1905, chap. 194; Laws of 1907, Act 137). For special provisions as to mining and smelting and certain classes of manufacturing corporations, see Laws of 1911, chap. 269).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Under the Act of March 3, 1899, all trusts or combinations intended to prevent free competition in business are prohibited (Stat., secs. 9354 j-9354 p; Laws of 1899, chap. 255; Laws of 1905, chaps. 229, 329).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited for entering illegal trusts or combines, for attempting to act as a corporation when not legally incorporated, or for misuser or non-user (Stat., secs. 8618, 8657, 9354 m). Also for failure to file annual reports for ten days after February 1st corporate powers are suspended (sec. 12; Laws of 1905, Act 194). Failure to keep stock and transfer books at principal office in the State is also ground for forfeiture (C. L. sec. 8567; see also C. L. 9950; Laws of 1899, Act 255; Laws of 1905, Acts 229, 329).

22. Amendments. — The capital stock may be increased or decreased at any annual meeting of the stockholders or at any special meeting thereof called for that purpose, notice of such purpose to be given with the notice of such annual or special meeting by a vote of two-thirds of the capital stock of the corporation. In voting upon the increase of the capital stock the stockholders shall have power, by the same statutory majority, to fix the value thereof, and the price per share, which shall not be less than par, at which the increase of the capital stock shall be subscribed and paid for by the stockholders, as well as the time and manner of the subscription and payment, and by the same vote to authorize the directors of the corporation to sell, at not less than the price so fixed, any part of such increase not subscribed by the stockholders after they have had a reasonable opportunity to make subscription of their proportionate shares thereof; and to make provision for calling in and cancelling the old and issuing new certificates of stock; but nothing herein contained shall in any way operate to discharge any company, which may diminish its capital stock, from any obligation or demand that may be due from said company. When a corporation shall so increase or diminish its capital stock, the president and a majority of the directors shall make a certificate thereof, which shall be signed by them and recorded and returned as provided herein for recording and returning the original articles of incorporation, and such increase or diminution shall commence and be operative from the date when such certificate is recorded in the office of the Secretary of State. Provided, that in order to entitle such certificate to be recorded it must show that at least fifty per cent of the total authorized stock, after such increase, has been subscribed, and that at least ten per cent of the total authorized capital stock has been actually paid in (sec. 3; Laws of 1907, chap. 146).

The articles of association may be amended in any other respect desired at any annual meeting or at any special meeting of the stockholders duly called for that purpose by a resolution adopted by a vote of two-thirds in interest of its capital stock. Such amendment shall not become operative until a copy of such resolution, signed by the president and secretary of the corporation, shall have been recorded as is provided herein for the recording of original articles of association (sec. 17).

Any corporation organized or existing under the provisions of this act may remove its place of business from any city, village, or town in this State, where it is or may be located, to any other city, village, or town in this State, by a vote of two-thirds of its stockholders in interest. But in case of a removal from one county to another, the president and secretary of such corporation shall attach to their articles of association a certificate that such corporation has thus removed, and said articles of association, together with said certificate, shall be left for record immediately on such removal, in the office of the county clerk of the county to which such corporation shall remove, and they shall be recorded by such clerk at full length in the book kept by him for that purpose. And the president and secretary of such corporation shall, immediately upon such removal, cause a certificate thereof to be recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county from which it removes (sec. 18).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — At any meeting called for that purpose to be held within one year immediately preceding the date of the termination of the corporate existence as fixed by the articles of association, the corporation may by a vote of two-thirds of its capital stock direct the continuance of the corporate existence for a further term not exceeding thirty years. After the adoption of this resolution, the president and secretary of the stockholders' meeting shall make, sign, and acknowledge duplicate articles of association as in the case of a new corporation, to which shall be appended a copy of such resolution certified and verified by the oath of the secretary, which shall be filed and recorded as in the case of a new corporation (Id. sec. 33; as amended by Laws of 1905, chap. 328; Cons., Art. XV. sec. 107).

24. Annual Franchise Tax. — There is no annual franchise tax in force in Michigan.

25. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved only upon application to the courts (Stat., sec. 4161 b, 4161 d 7–4164 inclusive, 8174, 8211 a; Laws of 1905, chaps. 10, 96).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations must file a certified copy of their articles with the Secretary of State and evidence of appointment of agent to receive process. Must pay franchise fee of one-half of one mill on each dollar of the proportion of its authorized capital stock represented by its business in Michigan to the Secretary of State, but which fee shall never be less than $25 (Laws of 1901, chap. 206, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 310). It must also pay the prescribed filing and recording fees in addition to the franchise tax (Laws of 1907, Act 310). Every foreign corporation by its president, secretary, treasurer, and superintendent, or any two of them, shall make and file with the Secretary of State a statement duly sworn to by at least two of such officers in such form as the Secretary of State shall prescribe, containing the following facts: (1) Location of its principal place or places of business and the names and addresses of its principal officers. (6) Such other facts bearing on the matter as the Secretary of State may require, including a statement of the particular purpose or the particular kind of business for which the company desires admission to this State (Laws of 1907, Act 310). When such corporation has fully complied with the provisions of this act, the Secretary of State may issue to such corporation a certificate of authority to carry on such business in this State during the period of its corporate existence, but not exceeding thirty years; provided, that no such foreign corporation shall be formed to transact business in this State unless it be incorporated in whole or in part for the purpose or object for which a corporation may be formed under the laws of Michigan, and then only for such purpose or object. The Secretary of State shall in the certificate which he issues state under what act said corporation is to carry on business in this State, and said corporation shall have all the powers, rights and privileges and be subject to all the restrictions, requirements and duties granted to or imposed upon corporations organized under said act; and the officers and directors of every such corporation shall be subject to all such requirements and duties as are imposed upon officers and directors of corporations organized under such act, and shall be subject to the same penalties and liabilities for failure to perform any duties imposed by such act as are the officers and directors of corporations organized under such act; provided, that the carrying on in this State by such corporation of business for which it has not been so admitted or failure to fully comply with the requirements of the act under which it has been so admitted, shall be sufficient cause for revoking the certificate of authority to do business in this State, and the Secretary of State may revoke such certificate, and shall promptly notify such corporation of such revocation and the reasons therefor by notice sent by mail to the home office of such corporation (Laws of 1911, chap. 266, sec. 4). Foreign corporations must file the same annual report as is required of domestic corporations (Laws of 1907, Act 137). Permits to do business run for thirty years (Laws of 1911, chap. 455).

If desired, the corporation may provide in its certificate of incorporation for classifying its directors in respect to the times for which they shall hold office, the several classes to be elected for different terms, provided that no class shall be elected for a term of less than one nor more than five years, and that the term of office of at least one class shall expire each year (sec. 2869). The certificate of incorporation may also provide that at all elections of directors each stockholder shall be entitled to as many votes as shall equal the number of shares of stock multiplied by the number of directors to be elected, and that he may cast all of such votes for a single director or may distribute them among the number to be voted for as he may see fit (sec. 2862).

g. Capital Stock. — The amount of capital stock and how the same is to be paid in. The authorized capital can never be less than $10,000. 4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of the common law powers of corporations, the act gives the following extraordinary powers: To issue preferred stock (secs. 2853, 2878). In the case of corporations organized for the purpose of carrying on a manufacturing, mechanical, or mining business, or for buying, working and dealing and selling mineral lands, power is given to such corporations to hold stock in other corporations if a majority of the stockholders shall so elect (sec. 2853, Laws of 1907, chap. 293, sec. 3, as amended by Laws of 1909, chap. 280). To renew corporate existence (secs. 2856, 2857). To vote by proxy (sec. 2861). To cumulate votes in the election of directors (sec. 2862). To enforce a lien upon the stock of its members for all debts due from them to the corporation, as well as to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments (sec. 2863). To hold such real and personal property as shall be necessary for the business of the corporation (sec. 2852; Laws of 1911, chap. 130). To classify directors (sec. 2860). Express power is conferred upon the directors of mining and manufacturing corporations to meet without the State, and the corporation is empowered to establish offices without the State for the transaction of its business (secs. 2870, 3071; see also secs. 3237, 3238; Laws of 1907, chap. 439; Laws of 1911, chap. 129).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate of incorporation must be signed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators. After execution and acknowledgment of the certificate by incorporators the same must be filed for record with the Secretary of State, who, if he finds that it conforms to law and that the required fee for incorporation has been paid, shall record the same and certify that fact thereon. Thereafter such certificate shall be filed for record with the register of deeds of the county where the principal business office of the corporation as specified in the certificate of incorporation is located. Certificates of incorporation must also be published in full in a qualified newspaper in the county wherein the principal place of business of the corporation is located as specified in the certificate. Such publication must be made for two successive days in a daily newspaper or for two successive weeks in a weekly newspaper. As soon as the publication is completed sworn proof thereof must be filed with the Secretary of State. When this is done the corporate organization is by statute held to be completed. Before the certificate of incorporation can be filed for record in the office of the Secretary of State, the organization tax must be paid to the State Treasurer. The latter officer issues a receipt in duplicate showing the payment of the organization tax. One of these duplicate receipts must be filed with the certificate of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State. No organization tax need be paid by corporations formed to operate solely in the raising or improving live-stock, or for the cultivation or improvement of farms, gardens, or agricultural lands, growing beets or for canning fruits or vegetables, or by any telephone company connecting towns or villages of less than 2,000 inhabitants (sec. 2873, as amended by Laws of 1909, chap. 202). Upon observing the formalities already described, the Secretary of State issues a certificate of incorporation specifying the names of the incorporators, the nature and purpose of the corporation, the amount of its capital stock, the fact of its compliance with all prescribed statutory provisions, and that it is duly organized and exists as a corporation in the name and of the kind specified (secs. 2850, 2851, 2873, 2874).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limit upon the creation of corporate indebtedness save as to certain classes of corporations: to wit, those empowered to take private property for public use.

7. Organization Tax. — Fifty dollars for the first $50,000 or fraction thereof of capital stock, and $5 for each additional $10,000 or fractional part thereof. But corporations raising or improving live-stock or formed for the cultivation or improvement of farms, gardens, or agricultural lands, growing beets, canning fruits or vegetables, or any telephone company connecting towns and villages of less than 2,000 inhabitants are not required to pay any organization tax (sec. 2873; Laws of 1907, chap. 329; Laws of 1909, chap. 202).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The recording fee in the office of the Secretary of State is 15 cents per folio. For issuing certificate of incorporation, $1. The cost of certified copy of certificate of incorporation is 15 cents per folio. For attaching certificate thereto, 50 cents. Filing affidavits of proof of publication, free. Filing and recording fees in local county offices averages about $3. If the certificates are short this charge may be substantially reduced. Cost of publishing articles, about $15. Usually a discount of 50 per cent of this amount can be obtained by attorneys.

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the articles of incorporation are filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the principal place of business is located, and as soon as the articles are published as required by law, and an affidavit of proof thereof filed in the office of the Secretary of State (secs. 2851, 2874).

10. Organization Meeting. — Unless the certificate of incorporation otherwise provides, the first meeting of every corporation shall be called upon not less than three weeks prior personal notice signed by one of the incorporators to the others, and to each subscriber of the capital stock, specifying the time, place, and purpose thereof (secs. 2875, 3071).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or corporate by-laws, every annual meeting shall be called and held at the principal place of business upon three weeks published notice thereof signed by the secretary of the corporation (secs. 2875, 2876, 2877, 3071).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors, each of whom must be a stockholder. A majority of the directors shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business (sec. 2858). There are no residential requirements. The statute provides that the president of every domestic corporation shall be a director. Directors may be classified with respect to the time for which they shall severally hold office. The several classes to be elected for different terms, provided that no class shall be elected for a term of not less than one or more than five years and that the term of office of at least one class shall expire each year (sec. 2860). Unless otherwise provided in the certificate or by-laws, each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote in person or by proxy for each share held by him. No stock can be voted at any election within twenty days after its transfer on the books of the corporation (sec. 2861). If the certificate of incorporation so provides the right of cumulating votes for directors may be exercised by the stockholders (sec. 2862).

b. Liabilities. — The act provides that every officer who knowingly and wilfully subscribes or makes any false statement, false report, or false entry in or upon any of the books, papers, or documents of a corporation, or shall knowingly and wilfully subscribe or exhibit any false payment book or document with intent to deceive any person or officer authorized to examine the financial condition of such corporation, or shall knowingly or wilfully subscribe or make any false report whatsoever, shall be guilty of a felony and be punishable by imprisonment in the State prison for not less than one nor more than ten years (secs. 2865, 2869, 2884, 2885, 3069, 3071, 3171; Laws of 1909, chap. 479; see also secs. 5116–5120).

The corporation act provides that if the directors shall pay a dividend when such corporation is insolvent, knowing such corporation to be insolvent, or that such dividend would render it so, or when its payment would render it insolvent, those assenting thereto shall be jointly and severally liable in an action on the statute for all debts due from such corporation at the time of any such dividend. Every officer who shall neglect or refuse to perform any duty imposed upon him by law shall be liable for all corporate debts contracted during the period of such neglect. If the corporation shall violate any provision of law whereby it becomes insolvent the directors ordering or assenting to such violation shall be liable in an action under the statute for all debts contracted after such violation (sec. 3069).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders in all classes of corporations are liable in any event to the amount of stock subscribed by them and unpaid (sec. 2865). Stockholders of all ordinary business corporations that may be organized under the General Act, except those organized to carry on exclusively a manufacturing or mechanical business, are liable to the amount of stock held or owned by them. This is a constitutional liability not requiring any statute to put it into effect, the Supreme Court having held it to be self-executing. Stockholders in corporations organized to carry on an exclusively manufacturing business or a mechanical business are only liable to the amount of their unpaid stock subscriptions (Cons., Art. X.; secs. 3, 2865). Stockholders are liable for failure on the part of the corporation to comply substantially with the provisions as to organization and publicity. They are also liable for personally violating any of said provisions in the transaction of any corporate business, as officer, director, or member, and for fraudulent or dishonest conduct in the discharge of their official duty (sec. 2865). Stockholders in manufacturing or mechanical corporations are also liable to the extent of capital illegally withdrawn from the corporation and received by them (sec. 3069).

14. Stock Certificates.— Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by the president or vice-president and by the secretary under the corporate seal (secs. 2861, 2879). The par value of the shares may be any amount not less than $1 nor more than $100 (secs. 2849, 2868.) Under sec. 2830 the par value of shares of mining and manufacturing companies is fixed at not less than $10 and not more than $100 each (see also sec. 3068).

15. Preferred Stock.— Corporations having capital stock divided into classes, unless specifically authorized, shall not issue any shares for a less amount to be actually paid in on each share than the par value of the shares as issued; provided that railroad, navigation, and manufacturing corporations and corporations for buying, holding, improving, selling, and dealing in lands, tenements, hereditaments, real, mixed, and personal property, created or organized under this chapter, or under any charter or special act of incorporation heretofore passed, shall have power to create, issue, and dispose of such amount of special, preferred, or full paid stock of the capital stock of such corporation, as may be deemed advisable by the board of directors of such corporation. Provided, that any corporation may by its articles of incorporation, or by any amended articles of its articles of incorporation, provide for special, preferred, and common stock of the capital stock of such corporation; and any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized, without changing its articles of incorporation, may issue its capital stock as a part special and a part preferred and a part common, or a part common and a part special or preferred, by direction of its board of directors, when so authorized by a majority of its stockholders at its annual meeting, or at a meeting called for that purpose; and said board of directors when so authorized by said meeting of said stockholders may give such preferences as it may deem best to such special or preferred stock, or such special and preferred stock (sec. 2878).

16. Payment of Capital Stock.— Stock is payable in money or money's worth. Stock cannot be issued for a less amount to be actually paid in on each share than the par value of the shares so issued (sec. 2853). The foregoing provision does not apply to such corporations as are specially authorized to issue and dispose of special, preferred, or full paid stock in such amounts as may be deemed advisable by their board of directors (sec. 2878).

17. Books.— Books of account shall be kept, and shall at all reasonable times be open to inspection, in the county where such corporation is located or at the office of the treasurer within the State (secs. 2864, 2869). A copy of the by-laws of every corporation, together with the names of its officers and a statement of the capital stock actually in good faith subscribed for the amount and character of payments actually paid thereof, must be kept posted by the corporation at its principal place of business.

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation must maintain an office within the State, and must at all times have an agent within the State upon whom process may be served (secs. 2870, 3071).

19. Reports. — The only report required of any domestic corporation is that relating to taxation. The president, secretary, or principal accounting officer of any corporation shall make out and deliver to the assessor of the county wherein such corporation has personal property a sworn statement of the amount of its capital stock, setting forth particularly (1) the name and location of the company or association; (2) the amount of capital stock authorized and the number of shares into which it is divided; (3) the amount of capital stock paid up; (4) the market value, or if they have no market value, then the actual value of the shares of stock; (5) the value of its real property, if any; (6) the value of its personal property; (7) the total amount of all indebtedness except the indebtedness for current expenses, excluding from such expenses the amount paid for the purchase or improvement of property (sec. 838).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Under the Act of April 10, 1901, all pools, trusts, and conspiracies for certain unlawful purposes are declared illegal (secs. 2098, 5168). (See also Laws of 1907, chap. 269.)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited for violation of law, for misuser and non-user of corporate powers (sec. 58). It may also be forfeited if the charter was procured on some fraudulent suggestion, or the concealment of material facts by the persons incorporating, or some of them, or with their knowledge and consent (secs. 3170, 3174). The charter may be forfeited also if it remains insolvent for one year, or for one year refuses to discharge its debts, or for one year suspends its lawful business (sec. 3174); also for violation of Anti-Trust Acts (secs. 5168, 5169).

M. C. R. Co. v. Melvin, 21 Minn. 339.

22. Amendments. — The certificate of incorporation may be amended in respect to amount of stock or any other matter which the original certificate of a corporation of the same kind might lawfully have contained, by the adoption of a resolution specifying the proposed amendment at a regular or at a special meeting called for that expressly stated purpose in either of the following ways: (1) By a majority vote of all of its shares, if a stock corporation, or if not (2) by a majority vote of its members: or in either case (3) by a majority vote of its entire board of directors, trustees, or other managers, within one year after having been thereto duly authorized by specific resolution duly adopted at said meeting of stockholders or members, and by causing such resolution to be expressed in a certificate duly executed by its president, secretary, or other presiding regular officers under its corporate seal, and approved, filed, recorded, and published in the manner prescribed for the execution, approval, filing, recording, and publishing of a like original certificate (sec. 2871).

Any corporation may, without change of its certificate of incorporation when its board of directors do so authorize by a majority vote of its stockholders at its annual meeting, or at a meeting called for that purpose, issue its capital stock, part special and part preferred and part common, or part common, part either special or preferred, and give such preference as it deems best to such special or preferred stock (sec. 2878).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — MINNESOTA.

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Express provision is made for renewing the corporate existence from time to time for a further term not exceeding thirty years, whenever a three-fourths vote of the stock represented at any regular meeting or at any special meeting called for that purpose shall adopt a resolution to that effect, and those desiring it shall have purchased at its value the stock of those opposed thereto. No resolution of extension of corporate existence shall take effect until a duly certified copy thereof shall have been filed, recorded, and published in the same manner as in the case of an original certificate (secs. 2856, 2857; Laws of 1911, chap. 244; see also as to reorganization of existing corporations, sec. 2886).

24. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax.

25. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved upon application to the courts (secs. 2882, 2883, 3171–3178, 3190; Laws of 1909, chap. 276).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation before doing business within the State must file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation duly certified and authenticated. They must also maintain an office within the State and appoint an agent resident therein upon whom service of process may be had (secs. 2888, 2889). At the time of filing a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State, there must also be filed with that official, a statement duly sworn to showing the proportion of the capital stock of said corporation that is represented by its property located and business transacted in the State, and such corporation shall pay into the State treasury $50 for the first $50,000 or fractional part of such proportion of capital stock, and a further sum of $5 for every additional $10,000 or fractional part of such proportion of capital stock, and no increase of capital stock of any corporation shall be valid until the corporation shall have paid into the State treasury $5 for every $10,000 or fractional part thereof of such increase of such proportion of capital stock of such corporation. In determining the proportionate share of capital stock upon which license fees shall be paid as aforesaid, the business of such corporation transacted in and out of the State during the year immediately preceding the filing of its articles or certificate as above provided must be considered and have control. Upon compliance with the above provision the Secretary of State issues a certificate to such foreign corporation authorizing it to do business in the State, stating the amount of its capital stock and the proportion thereof which is represented in the State. This certificate is valid for a period of thirty years from and after the date of such certificate (secs. 2888–2890).

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Mississippi is found in the Annotated Code of 1906, chap. 24, secs. 897-938 inclusive. Under this act corporations may be created for every lawful purpose, except for the construction and operation of a railroad other than street railroads and the carrying on of an insurance business. Special acts are provided for railroad and insurance corporations.

2. Incorporators. — There must be at least two incorporators. There are no residential requirements (sec. 898).

3. Contents of the Charter. — The Charter must contain (sec. 898):

a. Purposes. — Any number of purposes, not including those for which corporations can be organized only under special acts, may be inserted.

b. Incorporators. — The names of the corporators must be inserted.

c. Name. — Similarity of names is forbidden (sec. 936).

d. Corporate Powers. — The powers to be exercised must be set forth.

e. Duration. — This cannot exceed fifty years.

f. Capital Stock. — There is no maximum or minimum amount of capital stock fixed by law for corporations. There is an implied limit by reason of the provision that no corporation, except manufacturing companies, may hold real and personal estate exceeding $1,000,000 in amount. Manufacturing companies may purchase and hold property to the amount of $2,000,000.

g. Any provisions that may be desired for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation (sec. 833).

4. Statutory Powers. — The act enumerates the common law powers of corporations (sec. 901). All domestic business corporations created under the provisions of this chapter or the laws of this State may hold personal property in any amount necessary and proper for its uses and purposes, and every such corporation except manufacturing corporations may hold land to an amount not exceeding $1,000,000 in value, but building, machinery, or fixtures on such land shall be excluded in valuing the land. And a corporation shall not have a trust, use, or benefit in any property held in the name of any person or corporation for its use, either expressly or secretly, to an amount greater than it may lawfully hold, nor shall any corporation employ its capital, money, or either in any way than in pursuit of its legitimate business, and the corporation offending against any of these provisions shall forfeit its charter, and shall also forfeit to the State all real estate held, even that which it may lawfully hold; but an increase in the market value of real estate after it has been acquired by a corporation over the limit it was or is authorized to hold shall not operate to forfeit the charter or any part of the real estate of such corporation. Nothing herein contained shall prevent a corporation from taking land or a lien on land to a greater amount than it may lawfully hold in payment of or as security for a debt, if the same shall not be held for a longer period than ten years (Laws of 1906, chap. 252). Corporations are forbidden to own or purchase the capital stock of other corporations, or to acquire the franchise plant, or equipments of other corporations (Laws of 1900, sec. 5, chap. 88; Laws of 1910, chap. 223). Corporations are expressly given power to execute bonds in suits in which the corporation is interested (sec. 907). Greenville Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Company, 70 Miss. 669; 13 Sou. 879.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The charter must be signed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators. It must then be published for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper published at the domicile of the corporation. After publication it must be submitted for approval to the Governor, who is required to take advice of the Attorney-General as to the constitutionality and legality of the provisions of the charter (sec. 898). If the charter is approved, the governor so endorses such approval thereon, and the Secretary of State shall affix the State seal thereto. Upon the payment of the organization tax and upon recording the charter in the office of the Secretary of State the corporate existence commences. The law provides that it shall not be a defence to any suit against the corporation that there was a defect or informality in the organization thereof (secs. 833, 835). The charter must be recorded also in the office of the clerk of the Chancery Court of the county in which the corporation does business. Collateral inquiry into the legality of corporate existence is forbidden by statute (secs. 898, 900, 906, 916, 917).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Domestic business corporations are not permitted to contract debts in excess of the amount of the capital actually paid in (sec. 924). No loan of money can be made by the corporation to one of its stockholders (sec. 922).

Fargason v. Company, 78 Miss. 65; 27 Sou. 877.

7. Organization Tax. — Capital stock not exceeding $10,000, $20; between $10,000 and $30,000, $40; between $30,000 and $50,000, $60; exceeding $50,000 one-tenth of one per cent, but no fee to exceed $250 (sec. 938).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — There is no filing or recording fee imposed other than the organization tax required to be paid to the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State is entitled for other services as follows: For recording each amendment to the charter, $5; for each certified copy of domestic or foreign charters, $10; for filing articles of consolidation, $25; for filing other articles of agreement between corporations, $20; for filing each charter of a foreign corporation, $15 (sec. 938).

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the charter is duly executed, published, and approved by the governor, the organization tax paid, and the charter recorded in the office of the Secretary of State and with the clerk of the Chancery Court of the county in which the corporation does business (secs. 898-900). Before commencing business all corporations must within thirty days after organization make report thereof to the Secretary of State, who is required to furnish blank forms for that purpose, as provided by statute. The Secretary of State shall enter such report and index the same in a record to be kept for that purpose in his office (secs. 930, 931).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State. Unless the incorporators sign an agreement fixing the time and place for the organization meeting of the corporation, a notice signed by one or more persons named in the charter must be published in some business newspaper for at least ten days before the time appointed for such meeting. At this meeting the by-laws must be adopted and the board of directors chosen. Immediately after the adjournment of the organization meeting the board of directors elected thereat should meet and elect such officers as may be provided for in the by-laws (sec. 901).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide (sec. 902).

Thompson v. Company, 68 Miss. 423; 9 Sou. 821.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — The corporation may have any number of directors desired. There are no residential requirements. No person can serve on the board of directors who is engaged or interested in a competing business, without the consent of a majority in interest of the stockholders thereof (sec. 902).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are jointly and severally liable for the payment of dividends when the company is insolvent or when such payment would render it insolvent. Directors are also liable for illegal withdrawal of capital stock. Officers and directors are jointly and severally liable for permitting the loan of money to stockholders. They are also liable in case debts are contracted in excess of the amount of capital stock paid in (secs. 922-924). Directors are also liable for contributing corporate funds for political purposes (Laws of 1908, chap. 124).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable in any event to the amount of stock subscribed by them and unpaid (secs. 909, 921).

Scott v. Windham, 73 Miss. 76; 16 Sou. 206.

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe. The par value of shares may be any amount (secs. 898, 909).

15. Preferred Stock. — The act does not provide in terms for the issuance of preferred stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The statute seems to contemplate that stock must be paid for either in money or money's worth. The act provides that a note, obligation, or security of any kind given or transferred by any subscriber for stock shall not be considered, taken, or held as payment of any part of the capital stock of the company (secs. 909, 921).

Fargason v. Company, 78 Miss. 65; 27 Sou. 877.

17. Books. — Stock books must be kept in which shall be recorded the necessary data relative to transfers of stock (sec. 909).

18. Office and Agent. — The statute by implication would seem to require the maintenance of a domiciliary office within the State.

19. Reports. — Within thirty days after organization of business corporations they must make a report thereof to the Secretary of State upon blank forms provided by him for that purpose. This report gives the date of incorporation and organization, the place where organized, the names of the directors and officers for the ensuing year. It also requires the name of the post-office address of the president and secretary. This report must be certified by the president and attested by the secretary of the corporation (secs. 930, 931).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — All pools, trusts, or combinations for certain designated purposes are declared illegal (chap. 145, secs. 5002-5021; Laws of 1908, chap. 119).

Woodberry v. McClurg, 78 Miss. 831; 29 Sou. 514.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited for entering unlawful trusts or combines or for misuse or abuse of its powers (chap. 145, secs. 4017-4020, 5010; Laws of 1906, chap. 252).

22. Amendments. — The act provides in the case of amendments as follows: Every corporation desiring an amendment of its charter shall make publication in the same manner as is required in the case of original charters, setting forth at length in such publication the nature and extent of the amendment desired, and the covenant that the Attorney-General may grant the same. Every amendment shall be recorded at length in the office of the Secretary of State, and in the office of the clerk of the Chancery Court of the county in which the corporation does business (secs. 899, 900).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — The act refers to renewals of charters, and makes express provision with reference thereto (sec. 899).

24. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved upon application to the courts (secs. 912, 913). Whenever stockholders in any corporations formed under this chapter shall desire to surrender their charter, a meeting of the corporation shall be called for that purpose after three weeks' notice published in some newspaper at the domicile of the corporation, and a copy of such paper shall be mailed to each stockholder at his post-office address if known, and if at said meeting two-thirds of the stockholders of the company shall vote, either in person or by proxy, for the dissolution of the corporation, a petition shall be filed in the Chancery Court of the domicile of the corporation in the name of the corporation and against the dissenting stockholders if any, and if none, the proceedings shall be ex parte. If upon the hearing of the petition it shall appear that two-thirds of the stockholders have voted for such dissolution, and that it would be to the best interests of all parties in interest that the corporation be dissolved, then liquidators of the corporation shall be appointed by the Chancery Court, not exceeding three in number, who shall give bond in such sum as the court may fix, conditioned to faithfully perform their duties as liquidators; and if there are creditors of such corporation, such liquidators shall pay out of the assets of the corporation the debts of the corporation in full, if there be sufficient funds, and if not, then pro rata; and if there shall be any assets left after paying the debts, then the same shall be distributed among the shareholders. If there are no debts, the said liquidators shall distribute the assets among the stockholders. The Chancery Court may allow the liquidators such compensation as may be just and proper. When the assets of the corporation have been fully liquidated and distributed, they shall report to the Chancery Court, and the Chancery Court shall thereupon enter a decree dissolving the corporation, confirming the acts of the liquidators and ordering their discharge, and a certified copy of such decree shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and after filing of said decree in said office the corporation shall be dissolved. And all rights, privileges, judgments, and franchises which had theretofore been granted to such corporation by the State or any county or municipal corporation shall revert back and become the property of the grantor (sec. 932).

25. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax imposed.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation before doing business within the State must file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation duly certified and authenticated. The same must be duly certified by the president, secretary, or other chief executive officer of such corporation, and the corporate seal attached thereto (sec. 935).

If foreign corporations desire to become domesticated they may do so by filing with the Governor of the State a copy of their charter or articles of association. Upon doing so the Governor shall first take the advice of the Attorney-General of the State as to the constitutionality and legality of the provisions thereof, and if the Attorney-General shall certify to the Governor that he finds nothing in said charter or articles in violation of the constitutional laws of the State, the Governor of the State may approve the same, and he shall write his approval thereon and sign his name thereto, and shall cause the seal of the State to be thereto affixed by the Secretary of State. But the Governor may require amendments or alterations to be made previous to signing the same, or, if deemed expedient by him in the matter, withhold his approval entirely. The Secretary of State shall then cause all such charters or articles of incorporation, after he has received the same from the Governor with his approval, to be duly recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall cause to be issued to such corporation a copy of the charter or articles so filed, properly certified under the seal of his office. But such corporation shall pay to the Secretary of State the same fees required of similar corporations formed under the laws of Mississippi. Any corporation shall, upon compliance with the foregoing provisions, become to all intents and purposes a domestic corporation. In any action against such domesticated foreign corporation, service upon it may be served upon the Secretary of State in its behalf (secs. 914-920 inclusive). The fee to the Secretary of State for filing charter of foreign corporations, $15 (sec. 935; Laws of 1906, chap. 114).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles must be signed and acknowledged by the incorporators and by each of the directors named in the articles (Laws of 1911, p. 150). They must then be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county or city where the corporation is to be located. A certified copy of the articles must then be filed with the Secretary of State, and the corporate existence commences from the time of the filing of such copy. A certificate by the Secretary of State that such corporation has been duly organized is evidence of the corporate existence of the corporation. A certified copy of such certificate must be filed and recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county in which the corporation is organized. Before the articles can be filed in the office of the Secretary of State the organization tax must be paid to the State, and a duplicate receipt of the State Treasurer showing the payment of such tax must be filed with the Secretary of State (secs. 2975, 2976, 3340, 3341).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock can only be issued for money paid, labor done, or property actually received. All fictitious increase of stock is void (Cons., Art. XII. sec. 8; see also secs. 2981, 3350). All the authorized capital stock must be subscribed for before beginning business, and one-half paid in (secs. 3354-3355, 3339; Laws of 1911, p. 149).

Schickle v. Watts, 94 Mo. 410; 7 S. W. 274; Grocer Co. v. Crow, 36 Mo. App. 288; Garrett v. Mining Co., 113 Mo. 330; 20 S. W. 965; McDaniel v. Harvey, 51 Mo. App. 198; Berry v. Rood, 168 Mo. 316; 67 S. W. 644.

17. Books. — A transfer book and stock register shall be kept at the general office of the corporation, which shall be open to inspection of stockholders during usual business hours for thirty days previous to an election of directors (sec. 2985). The books and records of the proceedings of such corporation shall be kept open for the inspection of all persons interested (secs. 3349-3353; Cons., Art. XII. sec. 15).

18. Office. — Every domestic corporation is required to keep an office within the State (sec. 3035). The secretary of the corporation must have his office at the principal corporate office within the State (sec. 3035; see also Cons., Art. XII. sec. 15).

Cleaton v. Emery, 49 Mo. App. 345; M. L. M. & S. Co. v. Reinhard, 114 Mo. 218; 21 S. W. 488.

19. Reports. — The president, secretary, or managing officer of every domestic corporation must, within thirty days after the 1st day of July of each year, make what is known as the anti-trust affidavit in the form prescribed by statute (Laws of 1907, pp. 374-377). Corporations shall annually, on or before July 1st, report to the Secretary of State the location of the principal office, name of president and secretary, amount of capital stock both subscribed and paid up, par value of stock and actual value of stock at the time, cash value of all personal property and real estate within this State, on June 1st preceding, and amount of taxes paid by the corporation in this State for the year last preceding the report (sec. 3026; see also Laws of 1905, p. 71). The president or other chief officer of all corporations must deliver to the assessor a list of the names of the persons holding stock therein, the number of shares and the face value thereof; also a complete statement of all reserve funds, undivided profits, premiums on earnings, and of all other values belonging to the corporation (sec. 11357).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — All combinations to limit prices of certain designated articles are by statute declared to be illegal (Laws of 1901, chap. 143; Laws of 1907, pp. 234, 235). Anti-trust affidavit is required to be made out and sworn to by the president, secretary, or treasurer of each corporation on or before July 1st of each year (sec. 10306; Laws of 1907, pp. 234, 235, 374-382).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited for entering illegal trusts or combinations; also for failure to maintain an office within the State, and have at least three directors residents of the State for six months consecutively; also for abuse, non-use, or misuse of corporate rights and privileges (secs. 3035, 3036, 10304), and for violation of Anti-Trust Acts (Laws of 1907, pp. 234, 235, 374-384).

22. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporate existence may be extended for a further period of fifty years by complying with the law in respect thereto (sec. 2991). Corporations may also reincorporate under the old name, if they so desire (sec. 3021).

23. Annual Franchise Tax. — There is no annual franchise tax.

24. Amendments. — To increase the capital stock requires the consent of all persons holding the larger amount in value of the stock, such consent to be obtained at a meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose. Sixty days' notice of the time and place of such meeting to be given by publication at least once a week in some newspaper published in the county wherein the principal office of the corporation is located, the first insertion to be not less than sixty days, the last to be not less than one nor more than six days previous to the date on which said meeting shall be held. The notice must also state the amount of the proposed increase of stock. Upon the stock of any corporation being increased, the change and amount of such increase of stock shall be certified by the proper corporate officers to the Secretary of State, who shall record the same. In increasing stock the same proceedings shall be had so far as practicable as in the original proceeding for incorporation (secs. 2981-2983; Laws of 1911, p. 150).

To change the name or number of directors requires action by a majority of the stockholders taken at a meeting called for that purpose. The action so taken must be set forth in an affidavit of the president and secretary of the corporation, setting forth the name adopted or the number of directors fixed, together with the date on which said change of name or number of directors was voted by the stockholders of the corporation. This affidavit must be first recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county in which the corporation is located and then afterwards filed with the Secretary of State (sec. 2990; Laws of 1903, p. 114).

Corporations may, at a stockholders' meeting called and held in the same manner provided for in the increase of capital stock, reduce the par value of its shares of stock and correspondingly increase the number thereof by vote of a majority of the stock of the corporation. The same certificate of such change must be made out, recorded, and filed as is provided in the case of change of name or change in the number of directors (sec. 2990; Laws of 1903, p. 114).

The Manufacturing and Business Company Act contains a provision for changing the corporate business in the following manner, to wit: A meeting of the stockholders must be called by the directors upon notice signed by at least a majority of the directors and published in a newspaper in the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is located for a period of sixty days. This notice must also be sent to each stockholder by post at his usual place of residence at least sixty days previous to the date fixed upon for holding such meeting and specifying the object of the meeting, the time and place when and where such meeting is to be held, and the amount to which the stock is to be increased or diminished or the business changed. An affirmative vote of all persons holding the larger amount in value of all the shares of stock is necessary to effect the amendment. The published notice provided for requires that it shall be published at least once a week and the first publication must be at least sixty days before the date of said meeting. A statement of the proceedings at the stockholders' meeting must be prepared, showing compliance with the law, the amount of capital actually paid in, the business to which it is extended or changed, the whole amount of assets and liabilities of the corporation, and the amount to which the capital stock shall be increased or diminished. This statement must be acknowledged by the chairman and recorded in the same manner as is provided in the case of original charters (sec. 3356).

Ollesheimer v. Mfg. Co., 44 Mo. Ap. 122; N. S. H. Co. v. Cook, 178 Mo. 189; 77 S. W. 559.

25. Dissolution. — A corporation may be dissolved only on application to the courts for cause shown by a majority vote of the stockholders or without cause shown by a two-thirds vote thereof (sec. 3000). The affidavit of dissolution must be filed with the Secretary of State (sec. 3031).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations, in order to transact business within the State, must file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of their charter, duly authenticated by the proper authority, together with a sworn statement under the corporate seal setting forth the business of the corporation which it is engaged in carrying on or which it proposes to carry on in the State; and the principal officer or agent in Missouri must make and forward to the Secretary of State, with the affidavits required, a statement, sworn to, of the proportion of capital stock which is represented by its property located and business transacted in Missouri, and setting forth the location of its principal office within the State where legal service may be obtained upon it. The corporation is required to pay into the State treasury, upon the proportion of its capital stock represented by its property and business in Missouri, incorporating taxes and fees equal to those required of similar domestic corporations, with an addition of $10 as the license fee. For a corporation employing $50,000 capital in Missouri, it would have to pay first a tax of $50 thereon; this in addition to $10 for license and $1.50 for certificate. The tax on all additional capital employed in Missouri would be $5 on each additional $10,000 or fractional part thereof. The Secretary of State is not permitted to issue a license to any foreign corporation bearing the same name as that of a domestic corporation (R. S. sec. 3039).

In addition to the foregoing, every foreign corporation must maintain a place of business within the State where service of process may be made and where books shall be kept showing all of the corporate assets and liabilities as well as the names and residences of the shareholders and the officers and managers of the corporation (Laws of 1903, pp. 119-121). A license will not be issued to any foreign corporation that could not be organized under the Laws of Missouri (sec. 3343), nor to any foreign corporation organized by residents of Missouri to evade the Laws of Missouri (Laws of 1903, p. 121). Foreign corporations must annually file a report on July 1st of each year in the office of the Secretary of State, giving (1) the location of office; (2) name of principal officer in State; (3) cash value of real and personal property in State on June 1st; (4) amount of taxes paid in preceding year (sec. 3027). Also an affidavit must be filed on or before July 1st in each year in response to a letter of inquiry from the Secretary of State, and on forms supplied by him, in regard to trusts and conspiracies, on penalty of forfeiture of right to do business in the State (Laws of 1907, pp. 374-377).

The proportion of capital of foreign corporations employed within the State of Missouri cannot exceed $50,000,000 (Laws of 1907, p. 168).

Macginness v. Company, 29 Mont. 478; 75 Pac. 89.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles must be signed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators. They must then be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the principal place of business is to be located, and a copy thereof certified by the county clerk with the Secretary of State. Thereupon the latter official issues a certificate that a copy of the articles containing the required statement of facts has been filed in his office. Thereupon the corporate existence commences (secs. 3820, 3823, 3825; Laws of 1909, chap. 94; Laws of 1909, chap. 106, sec. 2). Collateral inquiry as to the legality of corporate existence is forbidden (sec. 3892).

No corporation hereafter formed shall purchase, locate or hold property in any county in this State, without filing a copy of the copy of its articles of incorporation filed in the office of the Secretary of State, in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such property is situated, within sixty days after the purchase or location is made. Every corporation now in existence, whether formed under the provisions of this code or not, must, within ninety days after the passage of this code, file such certified copy of the copy of its articles of incorporation in the office of the county clerk of every county in this State in which it holds any property, except the county where the original articles of incorporation are filed: and if any corporation hereafter acquire any property in a county other than that in which it now holds property, it must, within ninety days thereafter, file with the clerk of such county such certified copy of the copy of its articles of incorporation. The copies so filed with the several county clerks and certified copies thereof shall have the same force and effect in evidence as would the originals. Any corporation failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall not maintain or defend any action or proceedings in relation to such property, its rents, issues or profits, until such articles of incorporation and such certified copy of its articles of incorporation shall be filed at the places directed by the general law and this section: provided, that all corporations shall be liable in damages for any and all loss that may arise by the failure of such corporation to perform any of the foregoing duties within the time mentioned in this section; and provided, further, that the said damages may be recovered in an action brought in any court of this State of competent jurisdiction, by any party or parties suffering the same (Code, sec. 3823).

6. Organization Tax. — For recording and filing each certificate of incorporation and each certificate of increase of capital stock, there must be paid to the Secretary of State an organization tax in the following amounts: On all capitalization up to $100,000, 50 cents per thousand dollars, but in no case less than $20; additional from $100,000 to $250,000, 40 cents per thousand dollars; additional from $250,000 to $500,000, 30 cents per thousand dollars; additional from $500,000 to $1,000,000, 20 cents per thousand dollars; additional over $1,000,000, 10 cents per thousand dollars (Political Code, sec. 410).

For recording and filing the certificate of continuance of corporate existence the following amounts are charged: On amount of capitalization up to $100,000, 25 cents per thousand dollars; additional from $100,000 to $250,000, 20 cents per thousand dollars; additional from $250,000 to $500,000, 15 cents per thousand dollars; additional over $500,000 to $1,000,000, 10 cents per thousand dollars; additional over $1,000,000, 5 cents per thousand dollars.

7. Filing and Recording Fees. — The recording and filing fees to the Secretary of State are included in the organization tax. For issuing certificate of incorporation, the charge is $3; for certified copy of the articles of incorporation, 20 cents per folio for making copy and for affixing seal, $1. For issuing each certificate of decrease of capital stock, $3; for recording and filing each certificate of decrease of capital stock, $5; for issuing certificate of continuance of corporate existence, $3; for recording and filing each notice of removal of place of business, each certificate of change of name, or each certificate making capital stock assessable, $3. Recording fees in local county office, 15 cents per hundred words; for acknowledgment, 50 cents, and 10 cents for indexing. Usually $3 covers this entire service (Political Code, sec. 165).

8. Corporate Indebtedness. — Must never exceed the amount of capital stock (sec. 3894).

9. Commencing Business. — As soon as the certificate of incorporation has been recorded in the office of the county clerk and a copy thereof duly certified with the Secretary of State, and the latter has issued a certificate that a copy of the articles, properly drawn, has been filed in his office, the corporation may commence business (Laws of 1909, chap. 106, sec. 2). By-laws must be adopted within one month after filing articles (sec. 3829). No corporation can purchase, locate, or hold property in any county in the State, without filing a certified copy of its articles of incorporation in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such property is situated, within sixty days after such purchase or location is made (sec. 3823). The corporation must organize and commence business within one year after date of incorporation (sec. 3892).

Morrison v. Clarke, 24 Mont. 515; 63 Pac. 98.

10. Organization Meetings. — These must be held within the State, in the absence of any statute providing otherwise.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held at the office or principal place of business of the corporation within the State. Directors' meeting may be held within or without the State if the by-laws so provide. If held without the State, either the original or a copy of all proceedings had at such meeting, certified by the president and secretary under the corporate seal, shall be sent to and kept at the principal office of the corporation in Montana, and shall be part of the records thereat (sec. 3847).

McConnell v. Company (Mont.), 76 Pac. 194.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be not less than three nor more than thirteen directors, who must likewise be stockholders to the amount prescribed in the by-laws. The only exception is that the directors authorized by the articles of incorporation to act as such for the first three months need not be stockholders (sec. 3833).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are jointly and severally liable to the corporation and the creditors in the event of its dissolution, to the full amount of capital stock illegally withdrawn, paid out or reduced, and for debts contracted beyond the subscribed capital stock. Dissenting directors may protect themselves by causing their dissent to be entered at large in the minutes of the directors' meetings (sec. 3837). Directors are also liable for failure to file annual reports unless they make an affidavit in the form required by statute, explaining the reason for their neglect (sec. 3850 as amended by Act of March 11, 1909).

The Revised Code (sec. 3852) contains somewhat unique provision for relieving directors of personal liability. The act referred to provides that any director, trustee, or other officer of a corporation may resign his office by delivering to the secretary or president of the corporation, or depositing in the post-office in an envelope securely sealed with the necessary amount of postage prepaid thereon and addressed to the corporation at its principal place of business, his written resignation, and filing in the office of the clerk and recorder of the county where the principal office or place of business of the said corporation is situated a duplicate of such resignation, together with an affidavit of the delivery or mailing of said resignation as above specified, or an acknowledgment of service thereof, and by publishing in two consecutive issues of the official newspaper of the county where said company may be doing business, a notice of such resignation, and the director, trustee, or other officer shall upon such filing and publication no longer be responsible for any act or default of the corporation or of the other officers thereof occurring after the date of such filing, provided, however, that any director, trustee, or other officer shall also comply with the laws of the corporation relating to resignations of directors or officers. This act shall apply to resident directors of foreign corporations having a place or places of business in this State, as well as to directors and other officers of domestic corporations (sec. 3852; see also Civ. Code, 3834, 3859; P. C., sec. 8709, 8730 inclusive; Laws of 1909, chap. 96).

Gans v. Switzer, 9 Mont. 408; 24 Pac. 18; State Sav. Bank v. Johnson, 18 Mont. 440; 45 Pac. 662.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable, to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions, for all acts and contracts made by such corporation until the whole amount of capital stock subscribed by them shall have been paid in (sec. 3853).

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate of stock signed by the president and secretary (sec. 3855). Par value of shares may be any amount.

15. Preferred Stock. — Corporations may create two or more kinds of stock of such classes and with such distinct preferences and voting powers as shall be expressed in the articles of incorporation. The amount of preferred stock cannot exceed two-thirds of the capital stock paid in in cash or property. Preferred stock may be made subject to redemption at not less than par at a fixed time and price to be named in the stock certificate thereof, and the holders thereof shall be entitled to receive, and the corporation shall be bound to pay thereon, a fixed yearly dividend to be expressed in the certificate, not exceeding eight per cent, payable quarterly, semi-annually, or annually, before any dividend shall be declared by said board or paid on the common stock, and such dividend may be made cumulative. Unless the original or amended articles shall so provide, no corporation may create preferred stock (sec. 3889).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Corporations can issue stock or bonds only for labor done, services performed, money or property actually received. All fictitious increase of stock is void (sec. 3824, Cons., Art. XV. sec. 10). The Code provides that the directors may purchase mines, manufactories, and other property necessary for its business, and issue stock in the amount of the value thereof in payment thereof, and the stock so issued shall be declared and deemed to be full-paid stock and not liable to any further call. Neither shall the holders thereof be liable for unpaid stock subscriptions as provided in sec. 3853 of the Code. The law provides that any arbitrary value may be fixed on for mines, irrespective of actual value. Wherever stock has been issued therefor, such stock shall be deemed full-paid stock, regardless of the actual value of the mine at the time of such purchase (sec. 3824).

17. Books. — Books of by-laws, stock register, transfer book, and record books of corporation must be kept at principal office within the State. Stockholders have the right of inspection at any time during business hours (sec. 3832).

18. Office. — Every domestic corporation is required to keep an office within the State. The statute provides that the principal place of business within the State must be named in the articles of incorporation (secs. 3847, 3849).

19. Reports. — All corporations must, within twenty days from the 31st day of December of each year, file in the office of the clerk of the county in which their principal place of business is situated, a report, stating the amount of the capital stock, the proportion thereof actually paid in, and the amount thereof actually paid in in cash and the amount issued in payment of properties purchased and the amount of existing debts, and also the names and addresses of the directors or trustees, and of the president, vice-president, general manager, and secretary of the corporation. Such report shall be signed by the president and a majority of the directors, inclusive of the president, secretary, or treasurer of such corporation. In the absence or inability of the president to act, the vice-president may sign and verify the said report (sec. 3850 as amended by Act of March 11, 1909).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Certain kinds of trusts and combinations are declared illegal by statute. (See Cons., Art. XV. sec. 20; Penal Code, chap. 8, secs. 321, 325; Laws of 1909, chap. 97, 106, sec. 4.)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited upon direct proceedings taken by the State for misuser or non-user thereof. Also for failure to organize and commence business within one year from date of incorporation (Code Civ. Pro., sec. 1411; sec. 3892).

22. Extension of Corporate Existence. — The corporate existence may be extended by compliance with the statute in such case made and provided (secs. 3815, 3826).

23. Annual Franchise Tax. — There is no annual franchise tax.

24. Amendments. — To increase or decrease capital stock, extend or change the business, it is the duty of the trustees to publish a notice signed by at least a majority of them in a newspaper published in the county where the corporation's principal place of business is located, for at least six successive weeks, and deposit a copy thereof in the post-office, addressed to each stockholder, at his usual place of residence, at least six weeks previous to the date fixed for holding such meeting, specifying the object of the meeting, the time and place when and where such meeting shall be held, and the amount to which it is proposed to increase or decrease the capital, and the business to which the company would be extended. At the meeting so called, the vote of at least two-thirds of all the shares of stock must be cast in favor of the proposed amendment. A certificate of the proceedings showing compliance with the provisions of law, the amount of capital paid in, the business to which it is extended or changed, the whole amount of debts and liabilities of the company, and the amount to which the capital stock shall be increased or diminished, must be made out, signed, and verified by the affidavit of the chairman and countersigned by the secretary, and such certificate shall be acknowledged by the chairman and filed and recorded in the same manner as is required in the case of original charters (secs. 3826-3828 inclusive, sec. 3).

To change the location of the principal place of business, or to increase or diminish the number of trustees, it is necessary to obtain the consent in writing of the holders of two-thirds of the capital stock. After such consent is obtained and filed in the office of the corporation, notice of the intended change of location or of the intended increase or diminishment of the number of trustees must be published at least once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county wherein such principal place of business is located (sec. 3849).

Porter v. Company, 29 Mont. 347; 74 Pac. 938.

25. Dissolution. — Dissolution may be had only by application to the courts (Code Civ. Pro., secs. 6944, 6946, 6961, 6962, 7323-7329; see also Code, secs. 3905, 3906).

Gans v. Switzer, 9 Mont. 408; 24 Pac. 18.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations desiring to do business in Montana must file in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the county recorder of the county wherein they propose to carry on their business, a duly authenticated copy of their charter or certificate of incorporation, and a verified statement made by the president and secretary and attested by a majority of the board of directors, showing name of corporation and location of its principal place of business within and without the State; amount of capital stock; amount of capital stock paid in in money, or in any other way; amount of assets of the corporation, of what they consist and actual value thereof; statement of the liabilities of the corporation secured and unsecured. Such corporation shall also file at the same time and in the same offices a certificate under the seal of the corporation and the signature of its president or vice-president or other acting head, and its secretary, certifying that said corporation has consented to be sued in the courts of the State and that service of process may be made upon some person a citizen of the State whose name and place of residence shall be designated in such certificate (sec. 4413). In case of amendments to its charter in any respect it must, within thirty days after the same is adopted by the corporation, file a duly authenticated copy of such amendment in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the county clerk of the county where it intends to carry on business. In case the corporation increases its capital stock or extends its corporate existence, it must then pay to the Secretary of State at the time of filing in his office a duly authenticated copy of the certificate thereof. The same fee is required that is required by law from domestic corporations for filing certificates of increase of capital stock or certificates of extension of corporate business (sec. 4413). Must also file annual reports (sec. 3850 as amended by Act of March 11, 1909). For filing each certified copy of charter of any foreign corporation, the same fees shall be charged by the Secretary of State as is provided for in the case of domestic corporations. The Secretary of State is also entitled to collect the following fees from foreign corporations: For filing each notice of appointment of agent, $5; for filing annual statements of foreign corporations, $5. (As to when foreign corporations may exercise the right of eminent domain, see sec.

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Nebraska is found in Cobbe's Annotated Statutes of Nebraska for 1907. Special acts are provided for banks, building and loan, railway, safe deposit and trust, street railway, fidelity, and guaranty companies. Under the General Act parties may incorporate for any lawful business, including the construction of canals, railways, bridges, and other works of internal improvement.

2. Incorporators. — Any number of persons may incorporate. There are no residential requirements (sec. 4116).

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation. — It is customary to provide in the articles of incorporation for the following matters:

a. Name. — The name of the corporation. Similarity of names is not forbidden (sec. 4123).

b. Domiciliary Office. — The principal place within the State for the transaction of business (Id.).

c. Purposes. — The general nature of the business to be transacted. This would seem to permit of the incorporation of a company for more than one purpose. The Secretary of State construes the act to permit of the insertion of any number of purposes (Id.).

d. Capital Stock. — The amount of capital stock authorized, and time and conditions upon which it is to be paid in. The capital stock may be any amount. The par value of shares may be any amount. It is customary to insert provision that in case new stock is issued it shall be distributed pro rata among the existing stockholders (Id.).

e. Duration. — Time of the commencement and termination of the corporation. The corporate existence may be perpetual if desired (Id.).

f. Corporate Indebtedness. — Highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation is at any time to subject itself. The corporate indebtedness cannot exceed two-thirds of the capital stock (sec. 4120).

g. Directors. — A statement must be made to the effect that the affairs and business of the corporation shall be conducted by a board of directors of a certain designated number and by the officers by them to be elected as hereinafter provided (sec. 4123).

h. Organization and Annual Meeting. — A statement to the effect that the first meeting of the corporation shall be held upon the day of the organization of the corporation, and thereafter the annual meeting shall be held at the office of the corporation on a certain designated day. This should be followed by a statement that at such meeting and at the annual meetings thereafter the board of directors shall be elected by the stockholders from their own number to hold office until the annual meeting next after their election and until their successors are elected and qualify (Id.).

i. Officers. — A provision to the following effect should be inserted. The directors shall in each instance, as soon as convenient after their election, elect from their own number a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, who shall hold office until the annual meeting next after their election and until their successors are elected and qualify. Any two of said offices may be held by one and the same person, excepting the offices of president and vice-president (Id.).

j. By-Laws. — The board of directors shall have full power and authority to make all rules and by-laws for the proper government and control of the business affairs of the corporation, and (if desired) they may alter and amend the same at pleasure (Id.).

k. Filling of Vacancies. — Vacancies occurring in the board of directors shall be filled by the stockholders. Offices vacated from whatever cause shall be filled by the board of directors (Id.).

l. Amendments. — Provisions may be inserted providing as follows: These articles of incorporation may be amended at any time. Every amendment shall be first approved by a two-thirds vote of the entire board of directors, and upon being so approved, it shall be entered at large upon the records of the board. A draft of the proposed amendment, or amendments as the case may be, shall then be submitted to each stockholder, with the notice of the meeting called for the purpose of voting upon the same, which notice shall be given at least ten days prior to the date fixed for the meeting. If such amendment or amendments, or either of them, shall then be approved by the holder or holders of two-thirds of the capital stock of the corporation, each and every amendment so approved shall be considered adopted and be made a part of the articles of incorporation, and the board of directors shall thereafter subscribe, acknowledge, record, and publish the same, as by law required (sec. 4125).

4. Statutory Powers. — The statute merely enumerates the common law powers of corporations (sec. 4117; also secs. 4101, 4120, 4129, 4249). By constitutional provision the legislature is required to provide by law for cumulative voting in person or by proxy in the election of directors (Cons., Art. XIII. sec. 5).

Williams v. Lowe, 4 Neb. 382; Enterprise Ditch Co. v. Moffitt, 58 Neb. 642; 79 N. W. 560; Fremont Carriage Co. v. Thomsen (Neb.), 91 N. W. 376; McLeod v. Lincoln Medical College (Neb.), 98 N. W. 672.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles of incorporation must be signed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators (sec. 4123). After the articles have been thus signed and acknowledged they must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. Before such copy can be filed the organization tax must be paid, together with the filing fees. Thereupon the corporation becomes a body corporate. The law specifically provides that no body of men acting as a corporation under the provisions of the Business Corporation Act shall be permitted to set up the want of legal organization as a defence to any action brought against them as a corporation: nor shall any person suing on a contract made with such corporation or for an injury to the property of said corporation, be permitted to set up the want of legal organization in defence of said action. The articles of incorporation must also be filed with the county clerk in the county where the corporation's headquarters are to be located (sec. 4124).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — The amount of corporate indebtedness must not exceed two-thirds of the capital stock (sec. 4120).

7. Organization Tax. — On filing articles of incorporation there shall be paid to the Secretary of State the following fees: Where the capital stock of the proposed corporation is $10,000 or less, the filing fee is $10; where such capitalization is more than $10,000 but does not exceed $25,000, $20; where such capitalization is more than $25,000 and does not exceed $100,000, $50; where the capitalization is more than $100,000, the filing fee is 50 cents for each additional $1,000 in excess of $100,000 (sec. 9525).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — There are no fees payable to the Secretary of State for filing articles of incorporation, except the payment of the organization tax. A recording fee, however, of 10 cents per folio of one hundred words is charged. For issuing a certified copy of the articles of incorporation the charge is 10 cents per hundred words and $1 for certificate. For copies of exemplification of records with seal for each one hundred words, 10 cents; for filing certificate of increase of capital stock of any corporation, domestic or foreign, $5; for each one thousand dollars of increase capital stock so certified, 50 cents; for filing certificate of decrease of capital stock, $5; for filing articles of decree of court changing the name of any corporation, $5; for filing amendment to articles of incorporation, $5; for issuing license, $1. The fees for filing in the office of the county clerk average about $3. Publication of notice of intention to incorporate averages from $10 to $15 (sec. 9525).

9. Commencing Business. — Before a corporation can transact any business except its own organization, it must, in addition to adopting articles of incorporation and filing and recording them in the office of the Secretary of State, also file said articles with the county clerk of the county where their headquarters are to be located (sec. 4124; Laws of 1911, chap. 28). Within four months after filing the articles a notice must be published in a newspaper near the principal place of business for four weeks, setting forth the corporation's name, principal place of business, general nature of the business, amount of capital stock authorized, the time and conditions of payment, time of commencement and termination, highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation is at any time to subject itself, and by what officers its affairs are to be conducted. It is not necessary, however, for the corporation before commencing business to await the completion of the publication of the notice above referred to (sec. 4123). In manufacturing corporations the incorporators are ipso facto commissioners to open the books for stock subscriptions. When ten per cent of the capital stock is subscribed, such corporations may commence business (sec. 4140). The corporation must organize within one year after its incorporation (sec. 4140).

10. Organization Meeting. — Organization meetings must be held within the State. In the case of manufacturing corporations the law provides that the incorporators shall be commissioners to open books for the subscription to the capital stock of said company before the corporation is organized by the adoption of articles of incorporation as set forth above. Immediately after these articles have been adopted the incorporators should meet as stockholders and choose a board of directors of the number designated in the articles. The board of directors shall elect at this meeting the officers and adopt by-laws. The corporation must organize within one year after incorporation (sec. 4119).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — In the absence of any statute authorizing the holding of stockholders' meetings outside the State, such meetings should be held within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide (sec. 4139).

Haskell v. Read (Neb.), 93 N. W. 997.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. — a. Qualifications. The law does not prescribe the number of directors. There are no residential requirements. The directors of manufacturing corporations must be stockholders, and they must elect a president from their own number. (See sec. 4139.)

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for the illegal payment of dividends (secs. 4133, 4139). They are also liable if they are guilty of any deception as to assets or liabilities (sec. 2098).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions. If the corporation fails to publish the annual notice of existing debts hereafter referred to, then in case the assets of the corporation are thereafter exhausted, leaving debts unpaid, the stockholders are liable to the amount of stock owned by them for all debts contracted before such notice was given (sec. 4128). If any corporation fails to comply substantially with the provisions of law relative to giving notice and other requisites of organization, then in such case, after the assets of the corporation are first exhausted, the property of stockholders shall be liable for corporate debts to the amount of capital stock owned by them (sec. 4131). (See also Const., Art. XI. b, sec. 4.)

14. Stock Certificates. — Every stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe.

15. Payment of Capital Stock. — Neither the Constitution nor the statute prescribes how the capital stock shall be paid in. In the absence of such provision it is implied that it must be paid in in money or money's worth.

16. Books. — Stock books and books of account must be kept at the principal place of business of the corporation within the State, and be open to the inspection of stockholders. The foregoing provision would seem to apply only to manufacturing companies (sec. 4139).

17. Office. — Every corporation is required to keep an office within the State (sec. 4123). A copy of the by-laws must be posted in a conspicuous place in the office of the corporation and be open to public inspection (sec. 4127).

18. Reports. — Every corporation must give notice annually by publication in a newspaper published in the county where its principal place of business is located of the amount of existing debts. This statement must be verified by the oath of the secretary, president, and clerk (sec. 4128; see also Laws of 1909, chap. 111).

19. Anti-Trust Statute. — Under the Act of 1897, chap. 79, all trusts and conspiracies against trade and business as defined in the statute are declared to be illegal and void. See also Revised Civil Code, 12000 et seq., 12028 et seq., 12012 et seq.

State v. Neb. Dis. Co., 29 Neb. 700; 46 N. W. 155.

20. Preferred Stock. — There is no express provision in the statute authorizing the issuance of preferred stock.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited through any violation of the provisions of the General Corporation Act, such as the payment of dividends when the corporation has insufficient funds to meet its liabilities, etc. Repeated acts of misuser or non-user have been held to constitute grounds for forfeiture of franchise (sec. 4134; Civil

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — NEBRASKA.

Code, secs. 704-727 inclusive). The charter may be forfeited if the corporation does not organize within one year after its incorporation.

22. Annual Franchise Tax. — No corporation heretofore or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this State, or of any other State, shall do or attempt to do business by virtue of its charter or certificate of incorporation, in this State without a State occupation permit therefor (Laws of 1909, chap. 25, sec. 1).

It shall be the duty of every corporation incorporated under the laws of the State, and of every foreign corporation now doing business or which shall hereafter engage in business in this State, to procure annually from the Secretary of State an occupation permit, authorizing the transaction of business in this State, and it shall pay therefor, if the capital stock of such corporation is $10,000 or less, $5; over $10,000, but not exceeding $25,000, $10; over $25,000 and not exceeding $50,000, $20; over $50,000 and not exceeding $100,000, $30; over $100,000 and not exceeding $250,000, $50; over $250,000 and not exceeding $500,000, $75; over $500,000 and not exceeding $1,000,000, $100; over $1,000,000 and not exceeding $2,000,000, $150; over $2,000,000, $200.

Said occupation fee shall be due and payable on the 1st day of July each and every year to the Secretary of State, who shall pay the same into the State treasury for the benefit and use of the general fund. If not paid on or before the hour of four o'clock P. M., on the 20th day of September, next thereafter, the same shall become delinquent and there shall be added to the occupation (license fee), as a penalty for such delinquency, the sum of $10. The occupation fee hereby provided authorizes the corporation to transact business during the year or for any fractional part of such year in which such occupation fee is paid. "Year" within the meaning of this act means from and including the 1st day of July to and including the 30th day of June next thereafter (Laws of 1909, chap. 25, sec. 2, as amended by Laws of 1911, chap. 29).

23. Amendments. — The act does not specify just what amendments to the articles of incorporation may be made. It simply provides that every change in the articles shall be recorded and published in the same manner as original articles are required to be filed and recorded by law (sec. 4125). Special provision, however, is made in the case of reduction of capital stock. In this regard the law provides that the board of directors may, with the written consent of the persons in whose name a majority of the shares of the capital stock thereof shall stand, reduce the amount of the capital stock to the nominal value of the shares thereof, and issue certificates therefor (sec. 4102).

24. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved by consent of two-thirds of the stockholders (sec. 4126; see also secs. 4106, 4107).

Harrington v. Connor, 51 Neb. 214; 70 N. W. 911.

25. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Provision is made for the extension of corporate existence for companies incorporated for the purpose of erecting any public improvement (secs. 1991, 1992).

26. Foreign Corporations. — From and after June 30, 1905, all foreign corporations (except transportation companies), before they may engage in business within the State, must file a statement in the office of the Attorney-General of the State, signed and sworn to by its president, treasurer, or general manager, and a majority of the directors, on or before the 15th day of September in the year 1906, and in each year thereafter, for the year ending June 30 in said year, showing (a) The amount of its capital stock. (b) The market value of the same. (c) How much of the same has been paid in full in cash, or if the same has not been paid in full in cash, what has been received by the said corporation, joint-stock company, or other association in lieu thereof, and the value of whatever shall have been so received by it. (d) The names of the officers and directors of such corporation, joint-stock company, or other association, and all agents intrusted with the general management of its affairs. (e) The amount which has been paid in dividends during said year, the rate of percentage of such dividends, and times of paying the same. (f) A statement of all the stock owned by it, or any other corporation, joint-stock company, or other association, and the number and value of each share in it; the amount of its own capital stock by other corporations, joint-stock companies, or other associations held, and the value thereof, and the amount of stock in other corporations, joint-stock companies, or other associations held in trust for it, or in which it is interested, directly or indirectly, absolutely or conditionally, legally or equitably, specifying the corporations, joint-stock companies, or other associations. (g) It shall also, on or before the 30th day of June in the year 1906, file in the office of the Attorney-General of this State an undertaking, signed by such officers, general manager, and directors, that they will comply with the provisions of this and all other laws of this State in the management of the affairs of such corporation, joint-stock companies, or associations, and that they accept the provisions and liabilities of this act, and the obligations by it imposed, so long as they shall continue to hold or exercise such office, and shall thereafter, within ten days of their entering upon the duties of such offices, file a like undertaking, signed by every officer, general manager, or director thereof elected or appointed to such office or employment (sec. 12031).

This statement shall be in addition to all statements now or hereafter required by law, or by any other public authority, in this State. In addition to the foregoing every foreign corporation shall, before it is authorized to transact business in the State, make and file a certificate signed by the president or secretary of such corporation, duly acknowledged, with the Secretary of State and in the office of the register of deeds in the county in which its principal place of business in this State is located, designating the principal place where the business of this corporation shall be carried on in this State, and therein naming and appointing an agent or agents in this State, one of whom shall be the auditor of public accounts of the State, who shall in such certificate be designated by his official title, and one of whom shall reside at the principal place of business of said corporation, upon whom service of process in behalf of the corporation may be had (Laws of 1909, chap. 28). The Secretary of State shall keep a book in which shall be recorded all such certificates and books and addresses to be filed with him, and shall charge and receive from every such foreign corporation 10 cents per folio for recording and transcribing the same (Laws of 1907, chap. 32). Under Laws of 1905, chap. 162, sec. 7, foreign corporations are not permitted to control domestic corporations. The license and annual franchise taxes imposed upon foreign corporations are the same as that imposed upon domestic corporations of like capitalization. (See ante, sec. 7.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Nevada is to be found in the Laws of 1903, chap. 88, secs. 1-114. Under this act corporations may be formed for the transaction of any lawful business, within or without the State, except insurance, surety, or railway companies. These last may be incorporated under the act if formed to transact business exclusively out of the State.

2. Incorporators. — Three or more. No residential requirements (sec. 1).

See In re L. B. Co., 1 San. 349.

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation. — The certificate must set forth:

a. Name. — Similarity of names is forbidden (sec. 4, sub. 1). It must end with "incorporated," or contain one of the following words: "Association," "company," "corporation," "club," "society," or "syndicate" (Id.).

b. Purposes. — Objects for which the company is formed. Any number of purposes may be inserted (sec. 4, sub. 3).

c. Capital Stock. — Not less than $2,000; number of shares and par value thereof, which may be any amount. Amount of subscribed capital stock with which it will begin business not less than $1,000. Amount actually subscribed and amount actually paid up, if any. If preferred stock is to be issued, a description thereof and terms of its creation must be set forth (sec. 4, sub. 4).

d. Duration. — May be perpetual, if desired (sec. 4, sub. 6).

e. Original Subscribers. — The names of each of the original subscribers to the capital stock and the amount subscribed by each (Laws of 1905, p. 51).

f. Directors. — Whether the members of the first governing board shall be styled "directors" or "trustees," and the number thereof, which shall not be less than three (sec. 4, sub. 7).

g. Domiciliary Office. — The location of the principal office within the State, giving the street and number if practicable (sec. 4, sub. 2). If not so described as to be easily located, the Secretary of State shall refuse to issue a certificate until such location is made and established (Laws of 1905, chap. 51).

h. Assessments. — Whether the stock shall be subject to assessments or not after the subscribed price or par value thereof has been paid. Unless assessments are provided for, paid up stock and stock issued as fully paid up is non-assessable, and articles cannot be amended in this respect.

i. Regulation of Internal Affairs. — Any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that may be desired may be inserted (sec. 4, sub. 9).

4. Statutory Powers. — The act enumerates the common law powers, and also confers the following additional powers: To vote by proxy, to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments, to issue preferred stock, to transact business outside of the State, to hold stockholders' and directors' meetings outside of the State, to permit cumulative voting, to appoint an executive committee from the board of directors, to consolidate with other corporations, to issue stock for labor or property, to issue bonds, to remove directors, to delegate the power to directors to adopt by-laws, to surrender charter, to hold stock in other corporations, and to fix number of directors by by-laws (secs. 7-10, 14, 17, 20, 23, 43, 54, 78, 110).

Sutro v. Company, 19 Nev. 121; 7 Pac. 271; Bassett v. Company, 15 Nev. 293.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The incorporators must subscribe and acknowledge the articles, after which they must be filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county where the principal place of business is to be located. Next, a copy of these articles, certified under the seal of the clerk of said county, must be filed and recorded with the Secretary of State. This official, after payment to him of the organization tax and filing fees, issues a certificate that a copy of the articles containing the required statement of facts has been filed in his office. Thereupon the corporate existence commences (secs. 3, 5, 6). Within thirty days after organization there must be filed with the Secretary of State a certificate of the election of trustees, together with certain details required by sec. 85 of the Code. A certified copy of the articles must be filed in every county in which the corporation holds property or transacts business or to which its office may be removed (secs. 69, 70).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no statutory limitation upon corporate indebtedness. By a two-thirds vote of the stock, corporate bonds may be issued and the board of directors may make the same convertible into common stock (sec. 36). Bondholders may be given the right to vote and to inspect books (sec. 11).

7. Organization Tax. — Before incorporation there must be paid to the Secretary of State 10 cents for each thousand dollars of capital stock authorized, but in no case less than $10 (Laws of 1905, chap. 51).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — There is no charge for filing and recording in the Secretary of State's office other than the payment of the organization tax. Neither is any charge made for furnishing certificates of incorporation. The cost of certified copy of charter is 40 cents per folio of one hundred words, and $5 for certificate and seal of State. The charge is only $2 when copy is furnished. In drafting the certificate of incorporation it is always best to have four copies prepared, one for filing in the county clerk's office, one for filing in the Secretary of State's office, one to be certified by law and returned to the incorporators, and one to be filed in the office of the Nevada agent. The charge for filing and recording amendments to articles is $10. The filing and recording fees in local county offices vary according to the population of the county. The filing fee ranges from 15 to 25 cents, and the recording fee from 20 to 30 cents per folio; the cost of affixing certificate to copy ranges from 75 cents to $1. The cost of filing certificate of election of directors, etc., with Secretary of State is $1 (sec. 102).

9. Commencing Business. — Business may be commenced as soon as the certified copy of articles is filed in the office of the Secretary of State. The time limited by statute within which business must be commenced is two years (sec. 5). Corporate existence cannot be collaterally attacked (sec. 52). A certified copy of the articles must be filed in every county in which the corporation holds property or transacts business, or to which its office may be removed (secs. 69, 70).

10. Organization Meeting. — May be held within or without the State. Provision for calling the same is made in the act (secs. 12, 13, and 38). Surviving incorporators are given the right to appoint persons to act in place of deceased incorporators (sec. 38).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings may be held within or without the State, according as the by-laws provide. Voting by proxy permitted. Cumulative voting allowed. Directors' meetings may be held wherever the by-laws provide (secs. 13, 14, 17, 20, and 23).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors. They need not be stockholders. They must take the oath of office. No residential requirements (sec. 4, sub. 7, 9). They are empowered to appoint an executive committee of two or more of their number (sec. 23). The power to adopt by-laws may be delegated to the directors either by making provision therefor in the original articles, or by vote or written assent of two-thirds of the stockholders (sec. 21). Cumulative voting in the election of directors is mandatory unless otherwise prescribed in the certificate of incorporation (sec. 20). Bondholders and secured creditors may be allowed to vote at the election of directors by making provision to that effect in the certificate of incorporation (sec. 11). No stock may be voted at any election for directors which has been transferred on the books of the company within twenty days before such election (sec. 58). Fractions of shares cannot be voted (sec. 17).

b. Liabilities. — Jointly and severally liable where they give out fraudulent reports. Also liable for illegal declaration of dividends or unlawful withdrawal of capital stock, where they consent thereto (secs. 68, 73, 77). They are also liable for corporate debts contracted before filing a certificate of any decrease of capital stock (sec. 42). As to penalty for filing false reports, see Laws of 1907, chap. 60.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are only liable for debts of the corporation to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions (secs. 31, 32). The statutory liability of stockholders or directors of foreign corporations will not be enforced in Nevada (sec. 33). By provision made therefor in the articles of incorporation, full paid stock may be made liable for corporate debts (sec. 4). For non-compliance with law in respect to reduction of capital stock, stockholders are liable for such sums as they receive respectively out of the amount of reduced stock (sec. 42).

Thompson v. Bank, 19 Nev. 171; 7 Pac. 870.

14. Stock Certificates. — Must be signed by president or vice-president and secretary or treasurer.

Each and every provision of this act is hereby declared to be mandatory, and the officer or agent of any mining corporation subject to the provisions hereof who shall fail or neglect to execute and to file the statement or affidavits required by sections 1 and 2 of this act, or to otherwise comply with all other provisions hereof, or who shall wilfully do or perform any act or thing herein declared to be unlawful, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction be fined in any sum not less than $100 nor more than $500, or shall be imprisoned in the county jail for a period of not less than fifty days, nor more than six months, or be punished by both such fine and imprisonment.

In corporations already formed, or which may hereafter be formed, under this act, or otherwise, for mining purposes, where the amount of the capital stock of such corporation consists of the aggregate valuation of the whole number of feet, shares, or interest in any mining claim in this State, for the working and development of which such corporation shall be or has been formed, no actual subscription to the capital stock of such corporation shall be necessary, but each owner in said mining claim shall be deemed to have subscribed such an amount to the capital stock of such corporation as under the by-laws will represent the value of so much of his or her interest in said mining claim, the legal title to which he or she may, by deed, deed of trust, or other instrument, vest, or have vested in such corporation, for mining purposes, such subscription to be deemed to have been made and to have been fully paid on the execution and delivery to such corporation and its acceptance by such corporation of such deed, deed of trust, or other instrument; nor shall the validity of any assessment levied or which may hereafter be levied, by the board of directors or trustees of such corporation, provided such corporation has the right and power to levy assessments, be affected by reason of the fact that the full amount of the capital stock of such corporation, as mentioned in its certificate of incorporation, shall not have been subscribed as provided in this section, provided that the greater portion of said amount of capital stock shall have been subscribed, and provided further, that this section shall not be so construed as to prohibit the stockholders of any corporation formed, or which may be formed, for mining purposes, as provided in this section, from regulating the mode of making subscriptions to its capital stock and calling in the same by by-laws or express contract; provided further, that no corporation hereafter formed shall ever have power to assess paid up stock unless in its original articles or certificate of incorporation such power is reserved, and no amendment of such original in this respect, or to give such power, shall ever be made.

Such dividends may be made cumulative provided the corporation shall set apart or pay such dividends to the holders of non-cumulative dividends before any dividends shall be paid on the common stock, but in no event shall the holders of any class of stock be personally liable for the debts of the corporation nor for the payment of dividends (sec. 4, sub. 4, sec. 10). (See as to conversion of preferred stock into bonds, sec. 36.)

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS.—NEW JERSEY.

The provisions which are hereby specifically authorized by statute are the following: Clauses empowering directors to make and alter by-laws (sec. 11); classifying directors (sec. 12); giving to any class of stock the sole right to choose directors of some specified class (sec. 12); clause regulating the manner of calling and conducting meetings (sec. 17); clauses relating to the voting power of stock, such as providing for cumulative voting in the election of directors, or granting or taking away from preferred stockholders the right to vote in the election of directors (Laws of 1900, chap. 172); clause fixing the number of shares or amount of stock in interest (not more than a majority) necessary to constitute a quorum at a stockholders' meeting; clause providing that any action which now requires the consent of holders of two-thirds of the entire stock at any meeting after notice to them given, or requires their consent in writing to be filed, may be taken upon the consent of, and the consent given and filed by, the holders of two-thirds of the stock of each class represented at said meeting in person or by proxy (sec. 170, as amended by Laws of 1901, chap. 119); clause giving power to directors to fix the amount to be reserved from profits for the payment of dividends (sec. 47); clause giving power to directors to meet without the State (sec. 44).

g. Incorporators.—Names and post-office addresses of the incorporators and the number of shares subscribed for by each. The aggregate amount of stock subscriptions must be equal to the amount of stock with which the corporation will commence business, which renders stock subscriptions necessary to the amount of $1,000 (sec. 8; Laws of 1898, p. 410).

4. Statutory Powers.—In addition to the statutory enumeration of common law powers, the statute confers the following additional powers: To conduct business in other States and foreign countries; to have one or more offices out of the State; to hold, purchase, mortgage, and convey real and personal property out of the State. Corporations for the construction of railroads, water, gas, or electric works, canals, tunnels, bridges, viaducts, hotels, wharves, piers, etc., may subscribe for, pay for, hold, use, and dispose of stock or bonds in any corporation for the purpose of constructing, maintaining, and operating works of a similar character, and the directors of such corporations may accept in payment of stock subscriptions real or personal property necessary for the purposes of such corporation, or work, labor, and services performed or materials furnished to or for such corporation, to the amount of the value thereof, and issue full-paid stock in payment thereof. All classes of corporations which may be incorporated under the General Act are given express power to purchase, hold, sell, assign, transfer, mortgage, pledge, or otherwise dispose of the shares of the capital stock or any bonds, securities, or evidences of indebtedness created by any corporation of New Jersey or any other State, and while the owner of such stock to exercise all the rights, powers, and privileges of ownership, including the right to vote thereon. Other enumerated powers are the right to vote by proxy, to issue preferred stock, to lease its property and franchises to another corporation, to extend the corporate existence, to consolidate with other corporations, to dissolve itself, to enforce a lien upon the stock of its members for debts due the corporation, to sell stock subscribed for for non-payment of stock subscriptions, and to provide for cumulative voting in the election of directors. Power to adopt by-laws may be delegated to the directors by inserting a clause to that effect in the charter. Directors may also be given power to fix amount of profits to be reserved as working capital. A corporation may acquire and hold its own shares (secs. 1-3, 7, 11, 17, 18, 29,

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate of incorporation must be proved or acknowledged as required for deeds of real estate. If acknowledged without the State, the officer taking the acknowledgment must procure a county clerk's certificate of his appointment. The certificate, together with two copies thereof, should be taken to the office of the clerk of the county wherein the principal office of the corporation within the State is to be established. The clerk will then keep one of the copies for the purpose of recording the same, and will endorse upon the original and the other copy, certificates that they have been filed in his office. Then the original is filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and a duplicate copy with the county clerk's certificate endorsed thereon can be used by the Secretary of State for the purpose of furnishing the incorporators with a certified copy of the certificate of incorporation (secs. 8, 9).

E. G. L. Co. v. Green, 49 N. J. Eq. 329; 24 Atl. 560; Stockton v. Company, 55 N. J. Eq. 352.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no statutory limitation upon the amount of indebtedness which a corporation may incur.

Fee to county clerk for recording certificate of incorporation, 25 cents per folio of one hundred words (Laws of 1904, chap. 148).

9. Commencing Business. — Before any corporation can begin business, at least $1,000 of capital stock must be subscribed, and before it can incur debts the said $1,000 shall, within the discretion of the board of directors, be paid in either money or property. The law requires the president and secretary or treasurer, upon payment of each instalment of capital stock, or every increase thereof, to file in the Secretary of State's office within ten days thereafter a certificate stating the amount paid in in cash or in property, and the amount previously paid. There is no penalty attached for failure to comply with this provision, but officers neglecting or refusing to do so, for a period of thirty days after written request served on them by any stockholder, shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted before said filing (secs. 25, 26). The act provides that a certificate of election of directors and officers must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State within thirty days from the election (sec. 43; see post, sec. 19).

Stout v. Zulick, 48 N. J. L. 599.

10. Organization Meeting. — Must be held within the State. The law provides that where one or more of the incorporators shall die before the corporation is organized, the survivors may in writing designate other persons who may take the place of the deceased incorporators in the organization (sec.

115). The first meeting of every corporation shall be called by a notice signed by a majority of the incorporators, designating the time, place, and purpose of the meeting, which notice shall be published at least two weeks before the meeting in some newspaper of the county where the corporation is established; or said first meeting may be called without publication if two days' notice be personally served on all the incorporators; or if all the incorporators shall, in writing, waive notice and fix a time and place of meeting, no notice or publication shall be required.

Company*, 52 N. J. Eq. 440; Schwarzwalder v. Tegen, 58 N. J. Eq. 319; Kreissel v. Distilling Co., 47 Atl. Rep. 471.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — The minimum number of directors in New Jersey is three, one of whom must be a resident of the State. All directors must be stockholders, the number of shares to be fixed by the charter or by the by-laws. They may be classified, if desired. Cumulative voting may be provided for in the certificate of incorporation, if desired (secs. 12, 36, 39; Laws of 1900, p. 418). An executive committee may be provided for by inserting provision therefor in the certificate of incorporation (sec. 3, sub. 7). The power to make by-laws may be delegated to the board of directors (sec. 11).

Collier v. Company (N. J.), 57 Atl. 417.

b. Liabilities. — The directors are jointly and severally liable for paying dividends out of capital or for reducing the same. They are also liable for not making and publishing notice of decrease of capital; for failing to display name of the company at the principal office, and for failure to allow inspection of books or to furnish a list of stockholders at elections; also for failure to file certificate of payment of capital stock within thirty days of written notice so to do. They are also liable for making loans to stockholders (secs. 25, 26, 32, 33, 45, 48; Laws of 1898, p. 410; Laws of 1903, p. 362; Laws of 1904, chap. 143). They are also liable for making false reports, and for other breaches of trust (secs. 30, 33). Absent or dissenting directors may relieve themselves from liability by entering their dissent in the corporate minutes at the time or when they have notice of any such unlawful act on the part of other members of the board, such entry to be followed by publication of a true copy of dissent within two weeks thereafter in a newspaper of the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located (sec. 30). They are jointly and severally liable to a fine of $200 for failure to display the name of the corporation at the principal office (sec. 45). Officers are liable for making certificates or publications materially false (secs. 32, 52). (3) Who, knowing that a statement in writing has been made, respecting the financial condition or means or ability to pay, of himself, or such person, firm or corporation in which he is interested, or for whom he is acting, represents on a later day, in writing, that such statement theretofore made, if then again made on said day would be then true, when knowing in fact that said statement if then made would be false, and procures upon the faith thereof, for the benefit either of himself or such person, firm or corporation, either or any of the things of benefit mentioned in the first subdivision of this statement shall be guilty of a misdemeanor (Laws of 1912, chap. 241, sec. 1).

The preferred stock may, if desired, be made subject to redemption at any time after three years from the issue thereof at not less than par. No dividend exceeding eight per cent per annum, payable yearly, half yearly, or quarterly, can be paid thereon. Dividends may be made cumulative or non-cumulative as desired (sec. 18; see also Laws of 1902, p. 217, sec. 2). Preferred stock may be made convertible into bonds, if desired (Laws of 1902, p. 217).

Within ten days after the payment of the capital stock a certificate of such payment, signed and verified by the president and secretary or treasurer, must be filed with the Secretary of State. All officers neglecting to make such certificate, after written request so to do by a creditor or stockholder, are jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted before the filing of such certificate (secs. 25, 26). As to payment of capital stock in public service corporations, see Laws of 1906, chap. 331.

17. Books. — The books of the corporation, except the stock and transfer books, may be kept outside the State, if the by-laws or the certificate of incorporation so provide (secs. 33, 44). The two books mentioned are open to the inspection of stockholders.

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation must maintain its principal office within the State, and have an agent in charge thereof, wherein shall be kept the stock and transfer books of the corporation. The name of the corporation must be at all times conspicuously displayed at the entrance of such office (secs. 44, 45; Laws of 1897, p. 175; Laws of 1898, p. 410).

Hilles v. Parrish, 14 N. J. Eq. 380; Coe v. Company, 31 N. J. Eq. 105.

19. Reports. — Within thirty days after the first election of officers, and thereafter within thirty days after the annual election, a report must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, signed either by the president and one other officer, or by two directors, setting forth the name, registered office within the State, and agent in charge thereof, business authorized, capital stock and amount actually issued and outstanding, names and addresses of officers, terms thereof, and the date of the next annual election. It must also state whether the name of the company has been at all times displayed at the entrance of its registered office, and whether it has kept at its registered office a transfer book and stock book containing the names and addresses of the stockholders and the number of shares held by them. In addition to the foregoing the corporation must on or before the 1st day of May make a report as of January 1st preceding, signed by the president or treasurer, showing the amount of stock actually issued and outstanding as of that date as well as the amount of authorized stock, and whether payment has been made therefor in cash or property (secs. 43, 43 a; Laws of 1898, p. 410; Laws of 1901, chap. 9, p. 31). Every report must set forth the location of the principal office in the State, and the name of the agent in charge thereof upon whom process may be served (sec. 43). A certificate of payment of capital stock signed by the president and secretary or treasurer must be filed within ten days after such payment (sec. 25).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute in force in New Jersey. (See as to decision of courts relative to what agreements are valid and what not, Trenton Potteries Co. v. Olyphant, 58 N. J. Eq. 507 (1897); Meredith v. Company, 55 N. J. Eq. 211 (1897); 56 N. J. Eq. 454 (1897); Ellerman v. Company, 49 N. J. Eq. 217 (1891).)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charters may be forfeited in New Jersey upon the following grounds: For failure to comply with a court order requiring corporate books to be brought within the State; for non-payment of the annual franchise tax (sec. 44; Laws of 1896, p. 319; Laws of 1904, chap. 219; Laws of 1905, chap. 259).

22. Amendments. — Before the payment of any part of the capital stock incorporators are permitted to record with the clerk of the county in which the original certificate of incorporation is recorded and filed, and with the Secretary of State, an amended certificate duly signed and acknowledged by all the incorporators modifying, changing, or altering the original certificate of incorporation in whole or in part. The charge for filing and recording this amendment is $20 (sec. 26 a; see also Laws of 1899, p. 174).

To change the nature of the business, the corporate name, increase or decrease the capital stock, change the par value of the shares, change the location of the principal office of the corporation within the State, to extend corporate existence, or to create one or more classes of preferred stock, to change its common stock into one or more classes of preferred stock, the following method of procedure must be adopted: First, the board of directors must pass a resolution declaring that such amendment is advisable and calling a meeting of the stockholders to take action thereon. The meeting must be held upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and in the absence of such provision, upon ten days' notice given personally or by mail. If two-thirds in interest of each class of the stockholders having voting powers shall vote in favor of such amendment, a certificate thereof shall be signed by the president and secretary under the corporate seal, acknowledged or proved as in the case of deeds of real estate, and such certificate, together with the written assent in person or by proxy, of two-thirds in interest of each class of such stockholders, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and upon the filing of the same the certificate of incorporation shall be deemed to be amended accordingly (sec. 27; see also sec. 134; Laws of 1908, p. 84).

Special provision is made in the case of change of location of office or decrease of capital stock. The law provides that the board of directors may change the location of the principal office by resolution adopted at a regular or special meeting of said board by the vote of at least two-thirds of the members of such board. No certificate, however, is required to be filed in the case of the removal of any office from one point to another in the same town or city in the State. The foregoing provision generally covers cases where it is desired to change the resident agent in charge of the office. Upon the adoption of a resolution as aforesaid, a copy thereof must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State signed by the president and secretary of the corporation and sealed with its corporate seal. For filing this certificate the Secretary of State charges a fee of $5 (sec. 28 a; Laws of 1897, p. 175).

Decrease of capital stock may be effected by the retiring or reducing any class of the stock, or by drawing the necessary shares by lot for retirement, or by the surrender by every shareholder of his shares and the issuance to him in lieu thereof of a decreased number of shares, or by the purchase at not above par of certain shares for retirement, or by retiring the shares owned by the corporation, or by reducing the par value of the shares. The certificate reducing the capital stock must be published for three weeks successively, at least once in each week, in a newspaper published in the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located, the first publication to be made within fifteen days after the filing of such certificate (sec. 29).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — May be extended by compliance with the statute for any period desired (secs. 27, 119; Laws of 1903, chap. 205).

N. L. Lead Co. v. Dickinson (N. J.), 57 Atl. 138.

24. Dissolution. — Voluntary dissolution of the corporation requires a majority vote of directors and written assent of two-thirds in interest of the stock. If the written assent of all the stockholders is obtained, a meeting for the purpose of voting upon the question of dissolution is unnecessary (sec. 31; Laws of 1900, p. 316). The incorporators also have power to dissolve the corporation before capital is paid in and business commenced (sec. 32). Whenever any corporation shall become insolvent or shall suspend its ordinary business for want of funds to carry on the same, or if its business has been and is being conducted at a great loss and greatly prejudicial to the interest of its creditors or stockholders, any creditor or stockholder may by petition or bill of complaint, setting forth the facts and circumstances of the case, apply to the Court of Chancery for a writ of injunction and the appointment of a receiver or receivers or trustee or trustees, and the court being satisfied by affidavit or otherwise of the sufficiency of said application, and of the truth of the allegations contained in the petition or bill, and upon such notice, if any, as the court by order may direct, may proceed in a summary way to hear the affidavits, proofs and allegations which may be offered on behalf of the parties, and if upon such inquiry it shall appear to the court that the corporation has become insolvent and is not about to resume its business in a short time thereafter, or that its business has been and is being conducted at a great loss and greatly prejudicial to the interest of its creditors or stockholders so that its business cannot be conducted with safety to the public and advantage to the stockholders, it may issue an injunction to restrain the corporation and its officers and agents from exercising any of its privileges or franchises and from collecting or receiving any debts or paying out, selling, assigning, or transferring any of its estate, moneys, funds, lands, tenements or effects, except to a receiver appointed by the court, until the court shall otherwise order (Laws of 1912, chap. 300).

Benedict v. Company, 49 N. J. Eq. 23.

25. Annual Franchise Tax. — An annual franchise tax is imposed upon all domestic business corporations at the rate of one-tenth of one per cent on all amounts of capital stock issued and outstanding up to and including the sum of $3,000,000. On all sums of capital stock issued and outstanding in excess of $3,000,000, and not exceeding $5,000,000, the tax is one-twentieth of one per cent, and the further sum of $50 per annum per $1,000,000 or any part thereof on all amounts of capital stock issued and outstanding in excess of $5,000,000. Any shares of stock either fully paid or partly paid in cash or by property purchased, whether issued or otherwise, shall be deemed to be shares of stock issued and outstanding until such shares or any substitute therefor shall have been retired and actually cancelled (Laws of 1906, chap. 19). Manufacturing or mining corporations are exempt from the payment of the annual franchise tax provided at least fifty per cent of their capital stock issued and outstanding is invested in mining or manufacturing carried on within the State, and provided also that they shall state in their annual returns to the State Board of Assessors the location of such mine or manufacturing establishment, the grade of the ores mined, or the goods manufactured, the total amount of the capital stock embarked in such business, and the amount of capital stock actually employed in New Jersey in carrying on such business. If any manufacturing or mining company carrying on business in the State shall have less than fifty per cent of its capital stock issued and outstanding invested in business carried on within the State, such company shall pay the annual license fee or franchise tax herein provided for companies not carrying on business in the State, and shall be entitled in the computation of such tax to a deduction from the amount of its capital stock issued and outstanding of the assessed value of its real and personal estate so used in manufacturing or mining (Laws of 1906, chap. 19).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate of incorporation must be signed in person or by attorney in fact, by all of the subscribers to the capital stock named therein. It must be acknowledged in the same manner as is required for deeds of real estate, and must be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory. A copy thereof duly certified by the Secretary of the Territory must be recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose in the office of the recorder of the county, where the principal office of said company shall be established, and thereupon corporate existence commences (secs. 5, 7, 8, 9). 7. Organization Tax. — Ten cents for each thousand dollars of total authorized capital, but in no case less than $25 (sec. 119).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The Secretary of the Territory is entitled to no fees for filing and recording the certificate of incorporation other than the payment of the organization tax. The payment of this fee also entitles the incorporators to a certificate of incorporation. The charge for certified copy of certificate of incorporation is ten cents per hundred words for making copy and $1 for the certificate. For filing increase of capital stock, 10 cents for each thousand dollars of the total increase authorized, but in no case less than $20; consolidation and merger of corporations, 10 cents for each thousand dollars of capital stock authorized, beyond the total authorized capital of the corporation consolidated, but in no case less than $20. Cost of publication averages about $12.

9. Commencing Business. — Corporations may commence business as soon as the certificate of incorporation is filed, as required by law. The law provides that the president and secretary or treasurer upon payment of the capital stock, and of every increase thereof, shall make a certificate stating the amount of capital so paid, whether paid in cash or by the purchase of property, and stating also the total amount of capital stock, if any, previously paid and reported. This certificate after being signed and sworn to by the president and secretary or treasurer is within ten days after such payment to be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory (sec. 27). There is no absolute penalty for failure to comply with this provision, but officers neglecting or refusing to do so for a period of thirty days after written request served on them by any stockholder, are jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted before such filing.

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the Territory. If all of the incorporators shall in writing waive notice and fix a time and place for the meeting, no notice or publication shall be required (sec. 15). At the organization meeting the president must be elected (who must also be a member of the board of directors), and a secretary and treasurer. The secretary must be sworn and the treasurer must give such bond as may be provided for by the by-laws (sec. 12). The officers must be elected either by the stockholders or directors as the by-laws provide.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the Territory (secs. 16, 37-46 inclusive, and sec. 50). Directors' meetings may be held within or without the Territory as the by-laws may provide (sec. 50).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors who must be stockholders. after the same shall have been so entered, in a newspaper published in the county where the corporation has its principal place of business (secs. 33, 34). Directors are also forbidden to make loans to stockholders or officers of the corporation, and are liable for making false certificates (secs. 54, 59). Any officer neglecting or refusing to file the certificate required by law relative to the payment of capital stock within thirty days after written request so to do by a creditor or stockholder of the corporation, is jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted before the filing of such certificate. Directors are liable for failure to publish certificates of decrease of capital stock (sec. 33). Any officer who refuses to exhibit books or list of stockholders forfeits $200 for each offence, and directors by such refusal render themselves ineligible to office at next election (sec. 37). Directors are also ineligible to re-election by reason of failure to file annual report within thirty days after demand by the Territorial Secretary (sec. 48).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are personally liable to creditors to the amount of unpaid stock held by them where the capital stock is insufficient to meet the corporate debts and obligations (sec. 22). Even this liability may be avoided by filing with the certificate of incorporation a separate certificate signed and executed in the same manner as in the case of the original certificate of incorporation, declaring that there shall be no stockholders' liability on account of any stock issued. This certificate must be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory at the same time as the certificate of incorporation, and must be likewise certified and recorded in the office of the county recorder. To obtain the benefit of such a certificate, however, both the certificate of incorporation together with the declaration of non-liability of stockholders must be published in the manner provided by law (sec. 23). After this is done, stockholders in any corporation are only liable for the amount of the capital certified to have been actually paid in property or cash at the time of the commencement of business. (See also secs. 96-98.)

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate showing the number of shares owned by him and signed by the president and secretary (sec. 20).

15. Preferred Stock. — Corporations may issue two or more kinds of stock of such classes and with such distinctions and preferences and voting powers as shall be stated and expressed in the certificate of incorporation, or any certificate of amendment thereof. At no time, however, can the total amount of the preferred stock issued and outstanding exceed two-thirds of the capital stock paid in in cash or property. The preferred stock may if desired be subject to redemption at any fixed time after the issue thereof at a price not less than par, and the holders thereof shall be entitled to receive and the corporation shall be bound to pay thereon dividends at such rates and on such conditions as shall be stated in the original or amended certificate of incorporation, not exceeding ten per cent per annum, payable quarterly, half yearly, or yearly. Such dividends may be made cumulative if desired. Preferred stockholders are expressly exempted from liability for debts of the corporation, and in case of insolvency the corporation's debts or other liabilities must be paid in preference to the preferred stock (sec. 18). Preferred stock may be made convertible into bonds if desired (sec. 19).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — The law provides that nothing but money shall be considered as payment of any part of the capital stock except in the case of the purchase of property (sec. 54). The law, however, specifically provides that any corporation formed under the act may purchase mine, manufactories, or other property necessary or proper for its business, or the stock of any company or companies owning mines and manufacturing or producing materials or other property necessary or proper for its business, and issue stock to the amount of the value thereof in payment therefor, and the stock so issued shall be full paid stock and not liable to any further call, neither shall the holders thereof be liable for any further payment under any of the provisions of this act, and in the absence of fraud in the transaction the judgment of the directors as to the value of the property purchased shall be conclusive; and in all statements and reports of the corporation to be published or filed this stock shall not be stated or reported as being issued for cash paid to the corporation, but shall be reported in this respect according to the fact (secs. 55, 57). The law provides that the president and secretary or treasurer, upon payment of the capital stock and of every increase thereof, shall make a certificate stating the amount of the capital stock so paid, whether paid in cash or by the purchase of property, and stating also the total amount of capital stock, if any, previously paid and reported. This certificate, after being signed by the president and secretary or treasurer, and sworn to by the above officers, is within ten days after such payment to be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory (sec. 27).

17. Books. — Stock and transfer books must be kept at the principal and registered office of the corporation in the Territory (sec. 37). These books must be open to the examination of any stockholder during business hours. Any officer having charge of such books and refusing or neglecting to exhibit the same to a stockholder during the usual hours for business, shall for such offence forfeit the sum of $200. The law provides, however, that no stockholder or other person shall have the right to inspect such books for any improper purpose or any purpose not connected with the business of the corporation (sec. 37). All other books excepting the stock and transfer books may be kept outside of the Territory if desired (sec. 50).

18. Office and Agent. — The corporation must set forth in its certificate of incorporation the name of its agent therein, the one in charge of its registered office within the State and upon whom process against the corporation may be served. The office designated in the certificate shall be deemed the office and post-office address of the corporation (secs. 49 and 50). The maintenance of this office is made obligatory upon the corporation. (See sec. 50.) The law also requires the name of every corporation at all times to be conspicuously displayed at the office of the corporation in the Territory (sec. 51).

19. Reports. — All corporations, both foreign and domestic, must file in the office of the Secretary of the Territory within thirty days after the first election of officers and directors, and annually thereafter, within thirty days after the time appointed for holding the annual election of directors, a report, authenticated by the signatures of the president and one other officer, or by any two directors of the company, stating: (1) Name of the corporation. (2) The specific location of its registered office in the Territory and the name of the agent upon whom process against the corporation may be served. (3) The character of its business. (4) The amount of its authorized capital stock, if any, and the amount actually issued and outstanding. (5) The names and addresses of all the directors and officers of the company and when the term of office of each expires. (6) The date appointed for the next annual meeting of the stockholders for the election of directors. If such report is not made and filed, the Secretary of the Territory is entitled to a fee of $1 for notifying the corporation of such delinquency, and if the report is not made and filed within thirty days after such notice, the corporation shall forfeit to the Territory $25 (sec. 48, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 41). The law further provides that if the report is not so made and filed, all directors of any domestic corporation wilfully refusing to comply with the law and who are in office during the default shall at the time appointed for the next election, and for a period of one year thereafter, be rendered ineligible for the election or appointment to any office in the corporation (sec. 48, also sec. 49). The law provides that the president and secretary or treasurer, upon payment of the capital stock and of every increase thereof, shall make a certificate stating the amount so paid, whether paid in cash or in the purchase of property, and stating also the total amount of capital stock, if any, previously paid and reported. This certificate, after having been signed and sworn to by the above officers, is within ten days after such payment required to be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory.

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Trusts, pools, combinations having for their object the restriction of trade or commerce or the control of the quantity and price of any article of manufacture or product of the soil or mine, is declared to be illegal. (Compiled Laws of New Mexico, 1897, secs. 1292–1294 a, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 18.)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — All charters are subject to repeal by the legislatures (sec. 3). Also in case the corporation fails to comply with the order of any court calling for the producing of stock and transfer books for the inspection of those authorized to see the same, the charter of such corporation may be declared forfeited by the court making such order (sec. 50). The right to do business within the territory may be forfeited for failure to comply with the provisions as to publication of certificate of incorporation and filing proof thereof (sec. 135).

22. Amendments. — The incorporators before the payment of any part of its capital stock may file with the Secretary of the Territory and record a certified copy thereof in the office of the recorder of the county in which its principal place of business is located, an amended certificate duly signed by all the incorporators named in the original certificate of incorporation modifying or changing the original certificate in whole or in part (sec. 29).

Corporations may also change the nature of their business, change their name, increase or decrease their capital stock, change the location of their principal office, and make such other amendment as may be desired in manner following:

The board of directors shall pass a resolution declaring that such change or alteration is advisable and calling a meeting of the stockholders to take action thereon. The meeting may be held upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and in the absence of such provision upon twenty days' notice either personally or by mail. If two-thirds in interest of each class of the stockholders having voting powers shall vote in favor of such amendment, a certificate thereof shall be signed and acknowledged by the president and secretary under the corporate seal, and such certificate, together with the written assent in person or by proxy of two-thirds in interest of each class of the stockholders, or the affidavit of the president and secretary that the assent of two-thirds in interest of each class of stockholders is given to such amendment, shall be filed in the office of the recorder of the county in which the principal place of business of such corporation is located, and in the office of the Secretary of the Territory (sec. 30). The board of directors may change the location of the principal office of such corporation within the Territory to any other place within the Territory by resolution adopted at a regular or special meeting of such board by the vote of at least two-thirds of the members thereof. No certificate, however, is necessary in case of removal of the office from one point to another in the same town or city. Upon the adoption of the resolution as aforesaid, a copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory, signed by the president and secretary under the seal of the corporation, and a certified copy thereof shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county in which its principal place of business is located as changed (sec. 32).

Special provision is made in case it is desired to decrease capital. This may be effected by retiring or reducing any class of the stock, or by drawing the necessary shares by lot for retirement, or by the surrender by every shareholder of his shares and the issue to him in lieu thereof of a decreased number of shares, or by the purchase at not above par of certain shares for retirement, or by retiring the shares owned by the corporation, or by reducing the par value of shares. The certificate relative to the decrease of capital stock must be published for three weeks successively at least once in each week in a newspaper published in the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located, the first publication to be made within fifteen days after the filing of such certificate, and in default thereof the directors of the corporation shall be jointly and severally liable for such sums as they shall respectively receive of the amount so reduced (sec. 33).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporate existence may be extended to any period of time desired by complying with the statute in such case made and provided. (See sec. 30.)

24. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved by any corporation before the paying in of capital stock either in whole or in part (sec. 36). Dissolution after organization and the paying in of all the capital stock may only be had by application to the courts (secs. 60 to 67 inclusive). Corporations may surrender the charter before payment of any part of the capital stock (sec. 36). Corporations may be voluntarily dissolved by unanimous written consent of the stockholders or by vote of two-thirds of the stock at any special meeting called for that purpose. Such action or consent must be duly certified to the Territorial Secretary and the certificate of dissolution be duly published.

25. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax imposed.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation before transacting business in the Territory must file in the office of the Secretary thereof a certificate of its charter certified by the proper authority of the foreign State or country and a statement of the amount of its capital stock authorized, and the amount actually issued, the character of the business which is to be transacted in the Territory, and the agent therein, who must be a domestic corporation or a natural person of full age actual resident in the Territory, together with the last place of abode, upon which agent process against said corporation may be served. Upon the filing of such copy and statement the Secretary of the Territory shall issue to such corporation a certificate that it is authorized to transact business in the Territory (sec. 102). Within thirty days after the filing of the above, the charter must be published in some newspaper of general circulation in the county wherein resides the agent of the foreign corporation

The words "trust," "bank," "banking," "insurance," "assurance," "title," "indemnity," "guaranty," "guarantee," "savings," "investment," "loan," or "benefit," cannot be used (G. C. L., sec. 6; B. C. L., sec. 2).

No business corporation shall be authorized to do business in this State unless its name has such words affixed or prefixed therein or thereto as will clearly indicate that it is a corporation as distinguished from a natural person, firm, or co-partnership. (Laws of 1911, ch. 638.)

b. Purposes. — Any number of objects may be inserted provided they are not covered by the special acts above referred to (B. C. L., sec. 2).

forth (B. C. L., sec. 2; S. C. L., sec. 61). A provision may be inserted authorizing the issue of the whole or any part of the capital stock as partly paid stock, subject to calls thereon until the whole thereof shall have been paid in. In such case, by inserting upon the stock certificate the amount paid thereon, the holder is exempt from any liability thereon, except for the payment to the corporation of the amount remaining unpaid upon such stock and for the statutory liability to employees (S. C. L., sec. 60).

j. Provisions for the Regulation of the Internal Affairs of the Corporation. — The certificate may contain any other provision for the regulation of the business and the conduct of the affairs of the corporation and any limitation upon its powers or upon the powers of its directors and stockholders which does not exempt them from any obligation or from the performance of any duty imposed by law (G. C. L., sec. 10). The provisions which are hereby specifically authorized by statute are the following: clauses permitting the corporation to cumulate votes in the election of directors (G. C. L., 24); clause permitting corporations to hold and dispose of stocks and bonds of other corporations (S. C. L., sec. 52); clause allowing the issuance of partly paid stock (S. C. L., sec. 60); clauses for the classification of directors (S. C. L., sec. 25); clause permitting directors' meetings to be held within or without the State (B. C. L., sec. 2); clauses requiring the consent of more than two-thirds in interest of the stockholders to extend corporate existence (G. C. L., sec. 37); clause delegating to directors the right to adopt by-laws (B. C. L., sec. 2; G. C. L., sec. 34); clause permitting the corporation to transact business in other States and Territories (G. C. L., sec. 14); clause permitting directors to fix a quorum at less than a majority of the board (G. C. L., sec. 34). The Secretary of State permits the insertion of the following clause relative to the appointment of an executive committee, to wit: "The board of directors may, by means of a resolution adopted by a majority of the whole board at a meeting duly called for that purpose, designate — directors to constitute an executive committee, which committee shall have and exercise all the powers and rights of the full board of directors in the management of the business and affairs of the corporation which may be lawfully delegated."

Under the authority of Sheridan E. L. Company v. Bank, 127 N. Y. 517, and Alcott v. Company, 27 N. Y. 546, there can be no doubt that the board may delegate its authority to such a committee.

k. Corporations issuing Stock without Par Value. — Issuance of shares of stock without nominal or par value. Upon the formation or reorganization of any stock corporation, other than a moneyed corporation, and other than a corporation under the jurisdiction of any public service commission, the certificate of incorporation may provide for the issuance of the shares of stock of such corporation, other than preferred stock having a preference as to principal, without any nominal or par value, by stating in such certificate:

(1) The number of shares that may be issued by the corporation, and if any of such shares be preferred stock, the preferences thereof. If such preferred stock or any part thereof shall have a preference as to principal, the certificate shall state the amount of such preferred stock, having such preferences, and the amount of each share thereof, which shall be five dollars or some multiple of five dollars, but not more than one hundred dollars.

(2) The amount of capital with which the corporation will carry on business, which amount shall not be less than the amount of preferred stock (if any) authorized to be issued with a preference as to principal and in addition thereto a sum equivalent to five dollars or to some multiple of five dollars, for every share authorized to be issued other than such preferred stock; but in no event shall the amount of such capital be less than five hundred dollars.

Such statements in the certificate shall be in lieu of any statements prescribed by the law under which the corporation shall have been formed or reorganized as to the amount or the maximum amount of its capital stock or the number of shares into which the same shall be divided, or of the amount or the par value of such shares.

Each share of such stock without nominal or par value shall be equal to every other share of such stock, subject to the preferences given to the preferred stock if any authorized to be issued. Every certificate for such shares without nominal or par value shall have plainly written or printed on its face the number of such shares which it represents and the number of such shares which the corporation is authorized to issue, and no such certificate shall express any nominal or par value of such shares. The certificates for preferred shares having a preference as to principal shall state briefly the amount which the holders of each of such preferred shares shall be entitled to receive on account of principal from the surplus assets of the corporation in preference to the holders of other shares, and shall state briefly any other rights or preferences given to the holders of such shares.

Such corporation may issue and may sell its authorized shares, from time to time, for such consideration as may be prescribed in the certificate of incorporation, or as from time to time may be fixed by the Board of Directors pursuant to authority conferred in such certificate, or if such certificate shall not so provide, then by the consent of the holders of two-thirds of each class of shares then outstanding given at a meeting called for that purpose in such manner as shall be prescribed in the by-laws. Any and all shares issued as permitted by this section shall be deemed fully paid and non-assessable and the holder of such shares shall not be liable to the corporation or to its creditors in respect thereof (Laws of 1912, chap. 351, sec. 19).

Commencement of Business. — No corporation formed, pursuant to section nine hereof, shall begin to carry on business or shall incur any debts until the amount of capital stated in its certificate of incorporation shall have been fully paid in money, or in property taken at its actual value. In case the amount of capital stated in its certificate of incorporation shall be increased as herein provided, such corporation shall not increase the amount of its indebtedness then existing until it shall have received in money or property the amount of such increase of its stated capital. The directors of the corporation assenting to the creation of any debt in violation of this section shall be brought under the foregoing provision of this section unless within one year after the debt shall have been incurred the creditor shall have served upon the director written notice of intention to hold him personally liable for such debt. Any director who, because of any such liability under this section, shall pay any debt of the corporation, shall be subrogated to all rights of the creditor in respect thereof against this corporation, and its property, and also shall be entitled to contribution from all other directors of the corporation similarly liable for the same debt and the personal representative of any such director who shall have died before making such contribution.

No such corporation shall declare any dividend which shall reduce the amount of its capital below the amount stated in the certificate as the amount of capital with which the corporation will begin business. In case any such dividend shall be declared, the directors in whose administration the same shall have been declared, except those who may have caused their dissent therefrom to be entered upon the minutes of such directors at the time or who were not present when such action was taken, shall be liable jointly and severally to such corporation and to the creditors thereof to the full amount of any loss sustained by such corporation or by its creditors respectively by reason of such dividend (Laws of 1912, chap. 351, sec. 20).

Taxation. — The organization tax payable under section one hundred and eighty of the tax law by any corporation issuing such shares without designated monetary value shall be at the rate of five cents on each such share which the corporation is authorized to issue, and a like tax upon any subsequent increase thereof. The tax payable under section two hundred and seventy of the tax law in respect of any sale or agreement of sale or any memorandum of sale or delivery or transfers of shares or certificates of any share without designated monetary value hereafter issued by any such corporation issuing such shares shall be at the rate of two cents for each and every share of such stock so transferred. The franchise tax upon any corporation issuing such shares of stock payable under section one hundred and eighty-two of the tax law shall be determined by the amount of the gross assets of such corporation employed in any business within this State, less such proportion of its liabilities as shall represent the ratio of its gross assets wherever employed in business, and the rate of such franchise tax shall be fixed in the manner provided in said section one hundred and eighty-two of the tax law. For this purpose the rate of dividends shall be computed by dividing the total amount of dividends which have been paid during the year by the amount of assets of the corporation upon the first day of such year (Laws of 1912, chap. 351, sec. 21).

Increase or Reduction of Shares or Capital. — Any corporation formed or reorganized pursuant to section nineteen may amend its certificate of incorporation so as to increase or to reduce the number of shares which it may issue or so as to increase or to reduce the amount of its stated capital, by filing, in the manner provided for the original certificate of incorporation, a certificate of amendment under seal executed by its president or vice-president and by its secretary or its treasurer, stating the amendment proposed and that the same has been duly authorized by a vote of a majority of the directors and also by the vote of the holders of at least three-fifths of the outstanding shares of each class issued by the corporation, at a meeting of the stockholders called for the purpose in the manner provided in section sixty-three hereof, and by filing with such certificate of amendment a copy of the proceedings of such meeting, made, signed, verified and acknowledged by the president or a vice-president and by the secretary or the treasurer of the corporation; but an amendment cannot be made under this section unless as so amended the certificate of incorporation could lawfully have been filed under section nineteen of this chapter. In case of a reduction of the amount of capital of a corporation, a certificate setting forth the whole amount of the ascertained debts and liabilities of the corporation shall be made, signed, verified, and acknowledged by the president or a vice-president and by the secretary or the treasurer of the corporation, and shall be filed with the certificate of amendment; and such certificate of amendment shall have endorsed thereon the approval of the comptroller to the effect that as so stated the reduced amount of capital is sufficient for the proper purposes of the corporation and is in excess of its ascertained debts and liabilities (Laws of 1912, chap. 351, sec. 19).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to the statutory enumeration of common law powers (G. C. L. sec. 11), the statute confers the following additional powers:

To purchase, hold, and dispose of the stock and bonds and other evidences of indebtedness of any other corporation (S. C. L., sec. 52).

Also to issue in exchange therefor its own stock and bonds if authorized so to do by a provision in the certificate of incorporation; or, without such provision in the certificate, if the corporation whose stock is so purchased is engaged in a business similar to that of the holding corporation, or engaged in the manufacture, use, or sale of the property, or in the construction or operation of works necessary or useful in the business of such holding corporation or in which or in connection with which the manufactured article, produce, or property of the holding corporation may be used, or is a corporation with which the latter is authorized to consolidate (S. C. L., sec. 52).

To vote by proxy (G. C. L., sec. 26).

To issue preferred stock (S. C. L., sec. 61).

To enforce a lien upon the stock of its members for debts due the corporation (S. C. L., sec. 50).

To sell stock subscribed for non-payment of stock subscriptions (S. C. L., sec. 54).

To acquire or dispose of property in other States or foreign countries (G. C. L., sec. 14).

To consolidate with other corporations organized to carry on any kind of business of the same or a similar nature which a corporation organized under the General Act might carry on (S. C. L., sec. 9; S. C. L., sec. 15; B. C. L., secs. 4, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12).

To provide for cumulative voting (G. C. L., sec. 24).

To delegate the right to directors to adopt by-laws (B. C. L., sec. 2; G. C. L., sec. 34).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — NEW YORK.

To fix a quorum of directors less than a majority of the board (G. C. L., sec. 34).

To classify directors (S. C. L., sec. 25).

To issue stock in exchange for property (S. C. L., sec. 55).

To sell all the corporate assets (S. C. L., sec. 15; S. C. L., secs. 16, 17).

To guarantee bonds of other domestic corporations engaged in the same line of business (S. C. L., sec. 8).

Voting trusts limited to five years are permitted (G. C. L., sec. 25).

To borrow money and mortgage and pledge the corporate assets (S. C. L., sec. 6).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate of incorporation must be acknowledged by each of the incorporators before some officer authorized to administer oaths. It must then be filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State. A certified copy of the certificate or a duplicate original, together with the receipt of the State Treasurer for payment of the organization tax, must be filed and recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is to be located (B. C. L., sec. 2; G. C. L., sec. 4, 5).

O'Brien*, 101 App. Div. 296; 91 N. Y. Sup. 649.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limitation upon the amount of indebtedness which a corporation may incur. The capital stock cannot, however, be reduced below the amount of the corporation's debts and liabilities (S. C. L., sec. 62). All corporate mortgages except purchase-money mortgages must be consented to by the holders of not less than two-thirds of the capital stock of the corporation, which consent shall be given either in writing or by vote at a special meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose upon the same notice as is required for the annual meeting of the corporation, and a certificate under the seal of the corporation that such consent was given by the stockholders in writing or that it was given by a vote at a meeting as aforesaid, shall be subscribed and acknowledged by the president or vice-president and by the secretary or assistant secretary of the corporation, and shall be filed and recorded in the office of the clerk or register of the county wherein the corporation has its principal place of business. When authorized by such consent, the directors may confer on the holders of any debt secured by such mortgage the right to convert the principal thereof after two, and not more than twelve years after the date of the mortgage into stock of the corporation (S. C. L., sec. 6).

Strong v. R. R. Co., 93 N. Y. 426.

7. Organization Tax. — One-twentieth of one per cent upon the amount of capital stock which the corporation is authorized to have, and a like tax upon any subsequent increase provided that in no case shall the tax be less than $5. This tax is due and payable upon the incorporation of such corporation. Neither the Secretary of State nor the county clerk where the certificate of incorporation is filed is permitted to file the same until they have been furnished a receipt showing the payment of the organization tax from the State Treasurer, and no such corporation shall have or exercise any corporate franchises or powers, nor carry on business in the State until such tax shall have been paid. In case of a decrease of capital stock upon which the tax required by law has been paid, and the subsequent increase thereof, a tax shall be paid only upon so much of such increase as exceeds the amount of capital stock upon which the tax has been before paid. In case of the consolidation of existing corporations into a corporation, such new corporation shall be required to pay the tax herein provided for only upon the amount of its capital stock in excess of the aggregate amount of capital stock of such corporations (Laws of 1910, chap. 472).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — To the Secretary of State for filing certificate of incorporation, $10; for recording, 15 cents per folio; for certified copy of articles, 15 cents per folio, and $1 additional for certificate, under the Great Seal of the State; for recording certificate of payment of capital stock, 15 cents per folio; to the County Clerk for filing certificate, 6 cents, and for recording, 10 cents per folio. For recording certificate of consolidation, $10 (Laws of 1907, chap. 213; Laws of 1909, chap. 23, sec. 26).

9. Commencing Business. — At least $500 of stock must be subscribed before the corporation may begin business. Before any corporation can incur debts the amount of capital specified in the certificate of incorporation as the amount of capital with which the corporation will begin business must have been paid in, either in money or in property. One-half of the stock must be paid in, either in money or property, within one year. Within thirty days after such payment a certificate duly signed and verified by a majority of the directors and the president or vice-president and the secretary or treasurer must be filed with the Secretary of State and with the clerk of the county in which the principal office is located. If one-half the capital is not paid in within one year, the charter is subject to forfeiture (B. C. L., sec. 5). The charter is subject to forfeiture if use is not made of the corporate franchises within two years after incorporation (B. C. L., secs. 2, 3; S. C. L., sec. 55; G. C. L., sec. 36).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State, and within two years after the date of incorporation (G. C. L., sec. 36). At this meeting all the incorporators and stockholders should sign written waivers of notice of the meeting and consent to the holding of the same. If such waivers cannot be obtained, notices of the organization meeting will have to be given in the same manner as is provided by statute relative to calling annual meeting of stockholders (G. C. L., sec. 43; S. C. L., sec. 25). At the organization meeting of the directors the inspectors of the first election of directors and of all previous meetings of the stockholders prior to the annual meeting, shall be appointed by the board of directors named in the certificate of incorporation (S. C. L., sec. 31).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — While there are no statutory requirements as to holding either stockholders' or directors' meetings within the State, it is the general practice as well as unquestionably the only safe practice to hold all stockholders' meetings within the State. (See Ormsby v. Company, 56 N. Y. 623.) If meetings of the board of directors are to be held only in New York, the certificate or by-laws must so provide (B. C. L., sec. 2, sub. 9).

The corporation may by its by-laws fix the amount of stock which must be represented at meetings of the stockholders in order to constitute a quorum (G. C. L., sec. 11). Unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation, every stockholder of record of a stock corporation shall be entitled at every meeting of the corporation to one vote for every share of stock standing in his name on the books of the corporation; and at every meeting of a non-stock corporation, every member, unless disqualified by the by-laws, shall be entitled to one vote. The stockholders of a stock corporation, by a by-law adopted by vote at any annual meeting, or at any special meeting duly called for such purpose, may prescribe a period not exceeding forty days prior to meetings of the stockholders, during which no transfer of stock on the books of the corporation may be made. Except in cases of express trust or in which other provision shall have been made by written agreement between the parties, the record holder of stock which shall be held by him as security, or which shall actually belong to another upon demand therefor and payment of necessary expenses thereof, shall issue to such pledgor or to such actual owner of such stock a proxy to vote thereon. The certificate of incorporation of any stock corporation may provide that at all elections of directors of such corporation, each stockholder shall be entitled to as many votes as shall equal the number of his shares of stock multiplied by the number of directors to be elected, and that he may cast all of such votes for a single director or may distribute them among the number to be voted for, or any two of them as he may see fit, which right, when exercised, shall be termed cumulative voting. The stockholders of a corporation heretofore formed, who, by the provisions of laws existing on April 30, 1891, were entitled to the exercise of such right, may hereafter exercise such right according to the provisions of this section. A stockholder may, by agreement in writing, transfer his stock to any person or persons for the purpose of vesting in him or them the right to vote thereon for a time not exceeding five years upon terms and conditions stated, pursuant to which said person or persons shall act; every other stockholder, upon his request therefor, may by a like agreement in writing also transfer his stock to the same person or persons, and thereupon may participate in the terms, conditions, and privileges of such agreement; the certificates of stock so transferred shall be surrendered and cancelled, and certificates therefor issued to such transferee or transferees in which it shall appear that they are issued pursuant to such agreement; and in the entry of such transferee or transferees as owners of such stock in the proper books of said corporation that fact shall also be noted, and thereupon he or they may vote upon the stock so transferred during the time in such agreement specified; a duplicate of every such agreement shall be filed in the office of the corporation where its business is transacted and be open to the inspection of any stockholder daily, during business hours. No member of a corporation shall sell his vote or issue a proxy to vote to any person for any sum of money or anything of value. The books and papers containing the record of membership of the corporation shall be produced at any meeting of its members, upon the request of any member. If the right to vote at any such meeting shall be challenged, the inspectors of election or other persons presiding thereat shall require such books, if they can be had, to be produced as evidence of the right of the person challenged to vote at such meeting, and all persons who may appear from such books to be members of the corporation may vote at such meeting, in person or by proxy, subject to the provisions of this chapter (G. C. L., sec. 23).

Every member of a corporation, except a religious corporation, entitled to vote at any meeting thereof may so vote by proxy. No officer, clerk, teller, or bookkeeper of a corporation formed under or subject to the banking law shall act as proxy for any stockholder at any meeting of any such corporation. Every proxy must be executed in writing by the member himself or by his duly authorized attorney. No proxy hereafter made shall be valid after the expiration of eleven months from the date of its execution unless the member executing it shall have specified therein the length of time it is to continue in force, which shall be for some limited period. Every proxy shall be revocable at the pleasure of the person executing it; but a corporation having no capital stock may prescribe in its by-laws the persons who may act as proxies for members, and the length of time for which proxies may be executed (G. C. L., sec. 26).

If the directors shall not be elected on the day designated in the by-laws or by-law, the corporation shall not for that reason be dissolved, but every director shall continue to hold office and discharge his duties until his successor has been elected (G. C. L., sec. 28).

The directors of every stock corporation shall be chosen at the time and place fixed by the by-laws of the corporation by a plurality of the votes at such election. Each director shall be a stockholder unless otherwise provided in the certificate, or in a by-law adopted by a stockholders' meeting. Vacancies in the board of directors shall be filled in the manner prescribed in the by-laws. Notice of the time and place of holding any election of directors shall be given by publication thereof at least once in each week for two successive weeks immediately preceding such election, in a newspaper published in the county where such election is to be held, and in such other manner as may be prescribed in the by-laws. Policy holders of an insurance corporation shall be eligible to election as directors. At least one-fourth in number of the directors of every stock corporation shall be elected annually (S. C. L., sec. 25). Inspectors of election shall be appointed in the manner prescribed in the by-laws. No director or officer of a moneyed corporation shall be eligible or act as an inspector. Each inspector shall be entitled to receive a reasonable compensation for his services, to be paid by the corporation, and if any inspector shall refuse to serve or neglect to attend at the election, or his office become vacant, the stockholders may appoint an inspector in his place unless the by-law otherwise provide. The inspectors appointed to act at the meeting of the stockholders shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duty, be sworn to faithfully execute all the duties of inspectors at said meeting with strict impartiality and according to the best of their ability, and the oath so taken shall be subscribed by them, and immediately filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which such election shall be held with the certificate of the result of the vote taken thereat (S. C. L., sec. 31).

Ormsby v. V. C. M. Co., 26 N. Y. 623.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — Minimum number of directors under the statute are three. At least one-fourth of them must be elected annually. They must all be stockholders unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or in the by-laws. At least one of them must be a resident of New York (B. C. L., sec. 2; G. C. L., sec. 34; S. C. L., sec. 25). They may be classified if desired. Inspectors of elections are provided for (S. C. L., sec. 31). Cumulative voting is permitted if authorized by the certificate of incorporation (G. C. L., sec. 24). Directors have power to adopt by-laws for their own government subject to the provisions of the by-laws adopted by the stockholders; this too, in the absence of express power to that effect conferred in the certificate of incorporation (G. C. L., secs. 11, 34). In the certificate of incorporation power may be given to the directors to adopt all by-laws for the government of the corporation (B. C. L., sec. 2; G. C. L., sec. 10). Unless otherwise provided by law, a majority of the board of directors of a corporation at a meeting duly assembled shall be necessary to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and the act of a majority of the directors at a meeting at which a quorum shall be present shall be the act of the board of directors. The stockholders may in the by-laws fix the number of directors necessary to constitute a quorum at a number less than a majority of the board, but at least equal to one-third of such board (G. C. L., sec. 34). The act provides that no by-law adopted by the board of directors regulating the election of directors or officers shall be valid unless published for at least once a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper in the county where the election is to be held and at least thirty days before such election (G. C. L., sec. 11; see Wood v. Knapp, 100 N. Y. 10).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are jointly and individually liable to the corporation and its creditors for making unauthorized dividends or for withdrawing or in any way paying to the stockholders or any of them any part of the capital or for reducing the capital stock in any unauthorized way, the loss sustained by any such unlawful action being the measure of their liability (S. C. L., sec. 28; such action is also a misdemeanor under the Penal Law, sec. 664). But any director absent from the meeting where such unlawful action was taken, or if present, causing his dissent from such action to be entered on the minutes at large, is not liable therefor (S. C. L., sec. 28).

Directors and officers are jointly and severally personally liable for making loans to stockholders, for discounting any note or other evidence of debt for stockholders, or for receiving the same in payment in whole or in part due or to become due on any stock in the corporation, or for receiving or discounting any note or other evidence of debt to enable any stockholder to withdraw any part of the money paid in by him on his stock (S. C. L., sec. 29). The directors and officers involved shall jointly and severally be personally liable to the extent of such loan and interest for all debts of the corporation contracted before payment of the said loan, and to the full amount of the notes and other evidences of debt so received or discounted with interest from the time such liability accrued (S. C. L., sec. 29). Such unlawful action is also a misdemeanor under Penal Law, sec. 664.

Directors and officers making transfers of the corporate property to officers, directors, or stockholders for the payment of debt or in inducement of insolvency, or in event of insolvency, with intent to prefer or defraud creditors, shall be personally liable to the stockholders and creditors of the corporation to the full extent of any loss sustained (S. C. L., sec. 66).

Directors and officers are also jointly and severally personally liable for any reports or published notice made by them which shall be false in any material respect, to the amount of damage sustained by the stockholders or creditors acting upon the faith thereof. Action must be brought within two years from the time any such report was so made (S. C. L., sec. 35). Directors and officers making or concurring in such false reports are guilty of a misdemeanor (Penal Law, sec. 665). Any officers or directors having custody or control of the stock-books of the corporation wilfully neglecting or refusing to make any proper entry as required by law or refusing an inspection thereof to any person entitled by law to inspect the same, are guilty of a misdemeanor (Penal Law, sec. 665).

A director is deemed to have such knowledge of the corporate affairs as to enable him to determine whether any act, proceeding, or omission of the board to which he belongs is in violation of the Penal Law relating to directors, and if in violation thereof he must, to prevent or escape liability therefor, cause or in writing require his dissent to be entered on the minutes of the directors. Or, if absent from the particular meeting, he will nevertheless be held liable for any violations of the Penal Law occurring thereat — if they appear upon the minutes — unless he ceases being a stockholder within six months thereafter or otherwise causes or requires his dissent to be entered on the minute within that period (Penal Law, sec. 667). Officers neglecting or refusing to make annual report within ten days after written request by a stockholder or creditor shall forfeit to the people the sum of $50 for every day they shall neglect or refuse (S. C. L., sec. 34). Under section 90 of the General Corporation Law, actions may be maintained against the directors of a business corporation (1) compelling them to account for their official conduct including any neglect or failure to perform their duties in the management and disposition of the funds and property committed to their charge; (2) compelling them to pay to the corporation which they represent or to its creditors any money and the value of any property which they have acquired to themselves or transferred to others, or lost or wasted by or through any neglect or failure to perform, or by other violation of their duties.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are personally liable to creditors to an amount equal to the amount of unpaid stock held by them for debts of the corporation contracted while such stock was held by them, and are jointly and severally liable for all debts due or owing to laborers or servants or employees other than contractors, provided written notice of intention to enforce such liability is given within thirty days after termination of the services rendered (S. C. L., secs. 56, 59). Every corporation formed under this chapter may be or become a full liability corporation by inserting a statement in the certificate of incorporation that the corporation thereby formed is intended to be a full liability corporation; and in case of an existing corporation, which is not a full liability corporation, it may become such by filing in the office where certificates of incorporation are required to be filed a supplemental certificate stating that thereafter the corporation intends to be a full liability corporation, which certificate shall be executed and acknowledged by the president and treasurer of the corporation or by the board of directors, and shall have annexed thereto a copy of a resolution, adopted by a two-thirds vote of the board of directors, and the written consent of all the stockholders of the corporation authorizing and consenting to the change of the corporation to a full liability corporation. If the corporation is formed as or becomes a full liability corporation, all the stockholders of the corporation shall be severally individually liable to its creditors for all its debts and liabilities and may be joined as defendants in any action against it. No execution shall issue against any stockholder individually until execution has issued against the corporation and returned unsatisfied, and all the stockholders shall contribute a proportionate share, according to the number of shares of stock owned by each of the amount paid by any stockholder on a judgment recovered against him individually for a debt of the corporation, and he may recover from the other stockholders in the corporation in a joint or several action the proper portion due by them and each of them of the amount paid by him on any such judgment (B. C. L., sec. 6).

14. Stock Certificates. — Stock certificates must be signed by the president or vice-president, and by the secretary or treasurer (S. C. L., sec. 50). Stock certificates are not transferable without the consent of the corporation, until all indebtedness to the corporation has been paid (S. C. L., sec. 51). The par value of shares may be any amount not less than $5 nor more than $100 (B. C. L., sec. 2, sub. 4). There is hereby imposed and shall immediately accrue and be collected a tax, as herein provided, on all sales, or agreements to sell or memoranda of sales of stock, and upon any and all deliveries or transfers of shares or certificates of stock, in any domestic or foreign association, company or corporation, made after the first day of June, 1905, whether made upon or shown by the books of the association, company or corporation, or by any assignment in blank, or by any delivery, or by any paper or agreement or memorandum, or other evidence of sale or transfer, whether intermediate or final, and whether investing the holder with the beneficial interest in or legal title to said stock, or merely with the possession or use thereof, for any purpose or to secure the future payment of money, or the future transfer of any stock, on each hundred dollars of face value or fraction thereof, two cents. It shall be the duty of the person or persons making or effectuating the sale or transfer to procure and affix the stamps and pay the tax provided by this article. It is not intended by this act to impose a tax upon an agreement evidencing the depositing of stock certificates as collateral security for money loaned thereon, which stock certificates are not actually sold, nor upon such stock certificates so deposited, nor upon mere loans of stock or the return thereof. The payment of such tax shall be denoted by an adhesive stamp or stamps affixed as follows: In the case of a sale or transfer where the evidence of the transaction is shown only by the books of the association, company or corporation, the stamp shall be placed upon such books, and it shall be the duty of the person making or effectuating such sale or transfer to procure and furnish to the association, company or corporation, the requisite stamps, and of such association, company, or corporation to affix and cancel the same. Where the transaction is effected by the delivery or transfer of a certificate, the stamp shall be placed upon the surrendered certificate; and in cases of an agreement to sell, or where the sale is effected by delivery of the certificate assigned in blank there shall be made and delivered by the seller to the buyer, a bill or memorandum of such sale, to which the stamp provided for by this article shall be affixed. Every such bill or memorandum of sale or agreement to sell shall show the date of the transaction which it evidences, the name of the seller, the stock to which it relates, and the number of shares thereof; and no further tax is hereby imposed upon the delivery of the certificates of stock, or upon the actual issue of a new certificate when the original certificate of stock is accompanied by the duly stamped memorandum of sale as herein provided (secs. 270 to 280 as amended by Laws of 1912, chap. 292).

15. Preferred Stock. — Preferred stock may be issued if the certificate of incorporation so provides, or by consent of the holders of two-thirds of the capital stock given at a meeting duly called for that purpose. The corporation may, upon the written request of the holders of preferred stock by a two-thirds vote of its directors, exchange the same for common stock (S. C. L., sec. 61). Every domestic stock corporation may issue preferred stock and common stock and different classes of preferred stock, if the certificate of incorporation so provides, or by the consent of the holders of records of two-thirds of the capital stock, given at a meeting called for that purpose upon notice such as is required for the annual meeting of the corporation. A certificate of the proceedings of such meeting, signed and sworn to by the president or a vice-president and by the secretary or assistant secretary of the corporation, shall be filed and recorded in the offices where the original certificate of incorporation of such corporation was filed and recorded; and the corporation may, upon the written request of the holders of any preferred stock, by a two-thirds vote of its directors, exchange the same for common stock, and issue certificates for common stock therefor, upon such valuation as may have been agreed upon in the certificate of organization of such corporation, or the issue of such preferred stock, or share for share, but the total amount of such capital stock shall not be increased thereby.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Corporations cannot issue stock except for money, labor done, or property actually received for the use or lawful purposes of the corporation. The statute provides further that in the absence of fraud in the transaction the judgment of the directors as to the value of property so purchased shall be conclusive (S. C. L., sec. 55). The original or amended certificate of incorporation may contain a provision expressly authorizing the sale of the whole or any part of the capital stock as partly paid stock subject to calls thereon until the whole thereof shall have been paid in. In such case, if in or upon the certificate issued to represent said stock the amount paid thereon shall be specified, the holder thereof shall not be subject to any liability except for the payment to the corporation of the amount remaining unpaid upon such stock and for the payment of indebtedness to employees. In any such case the corporation may declare and may pay dividends upon the basis of the amounts actually paid upon the respective shares of stock, instead of upon the par value thereof (S. C. L., sec. 60). If the whole capital stock shall not have been subscribed at the time of filing the certificate of incorporation, the directors named in the certificate may open books of subscription to fill up the capital stock at the time of subscribing. Every stockholder whose subscription is payable in money shall pay to the directors ten per cent upon the amount subscribed by him in cash, and no such certificate shall be received without such payment

17. Books. — Every corporation must keep at its office within the State correct books of account of all its business transactions, and also a stock book containing an alphabetical list of the stockholders of the corporation, showing their places of residence and the number of shares held by them respectively, the time when they respectively became owners thereof, and the amount paid thereon (S. C. L., sec. 32). The stock book is open to the inspection of stockholders and judgment creditors. Every person, firm, company, association, or corporation engaged in whole or in part in the making or negotiating of sales, agreements to sell, deliveries or transfers of shares or certificates of stock, or conducting or transacting a brokerage business, shall keep or cause to be kept at some accessible place within the State of New York, a true and just book of account, in such form as may be prescribed by the Comptroller, wherein shall be plainly and legibly recorded, in separate columns, the date of making of every sale, agreement to sell, delivery or transfer of shares or certificates of stock, the name of the stock and the number of shares thereof, the face value of the stock, the name of the seller or transferor, the name of the purchaser or transferee, and the number and face value of the adhesive stamps affixed as provided for by section two hundred and seventy of this chapter.

Every association, company or corporation shall keep or cause to be kept at some accessible place within the State of New York, a stock certificate book and a just and true book of account, transfer ledger or register, in such form as may be prescribed by the Comptroller, wherein shall be plainly and legibly recorded in separate columns, the date of making of every transfer of stock, the name of the stock, and the number of shares thereof, the serial number of each surrendered certificate, the name of the party surrendering such certificate, the serial number of the certificate issued in exchange therefor, the number of shares covered by said certificate, the name of the party to whom said certificate was issued, and the number and face value of the adhesive stamps affixed, as provided by section two hundred and seventy of this chapter. It shall also retain and keep all surrendered or cancelled shares or certificates of its stock and all memoranda relating to the sale or transfer of any thereof.

All such books of account, transfer ledgers, registers and stock certificate books shall be retained and kept as aforesaid for a period of at least two years subsequent to the date of the last entry made therein as herein required; and all such surrendered or cancelled shares or certificates of stock and memoranda relating to the sale or transfer of stock shall be retained and kept for a period of at least two years from the date of the delivery thereof. For the purpose of ascertaining whether the tax imposed by this article has been paid, all such books of account, transfer ledgers, registers, stock certificate books, surrendered or cancelled share or certificates of stock and memoranda relating to the sale or transfer thereof, shall at all times between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and three o'clock in the afternoon, except Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays, be open to examination by the Comptroller or his duly authorized representative. The Comptroller may enforce his right to examine such books of account and bills or memoranda of sale or transfer; and such transfer ledger, register and stock certificate books and surrendered or cancelled shares or certificates of stock by mandamus. If the Comptroller ascertains that the tax provided for in this article has not been paid, he shall bring an action in his name as such Comptroller, in any court of competent jurisdiction, for the recovery of such tax and for any penalty incurred by any person under the provisions of this article.

Every person, firm, company, association or corporation who shall fail to keep such book of account, or bills or memoranda of sale or transfer, or transfer ledger, register or stock certificate book, or surrendered or cancelled shares of certificates of stock as herein required, or who alters, cancels, obliterates or destroys any part of said records, or makes any false entry therein, or who shall refuse to permit the Comptroller or any of his authorized representatives freely to examine any of said books, records or papers at any of the times herein provided, or who shall in any other respect violate any of the provisions of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall for each and every such offense pay a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or be imprisoned not less than three months, nor more than two years, or both, in the discretion of the court (sec. 276, as amended by Laws of 1912, chap. 292).

18. Office. — Every corporation must maintain a domiciliary office within the State (B. C. L., sec. 2; Tax Laws, sec. 11).

Conroe v. Company, 10 How, Pr. 405; Rossie Iron Works v. Westbrook, 36 N. Y. St. Rep. 555.

19. Reports. — All domestic business corporations must annually during the month of January, or, if doing business without the United States, before the month of May, make a report as of the 1st day of January, which will state: (1) The amount of its capital stock and proportion actually issued. (2) The amount of its debts or an amount which they do not exceed. (3) The amount of its assets or an amount which its assets at least equal. (4) The names and addresses of all of the directors and officers of the company, and, in the case of a foreign corporation, the name also of a person designated in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure as the person upon whom process against the corporation may be served within the State (S. C. L., sec. 34). Such report to be made by the president or vice-president, secretary or treasurer, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State. If such report is not made and filed, any officer of the corporation who shall thereafter neglect or refuse to make and file such report within ten days after written request so to do shall have been made by a stockholder or a creditor of the corporation, shall forfeit to the people the sum of $50 for every day he shall so neglect or refuse. In addition to the foregoing the corporation is required between November 1st and 15th to make an annual report to the State Comptroller showing the condition of the business on October 31st of that year, stating the amount of the capital stock paid in, the amount of its dividends declared during the year ending October 31st of that year, the amount of its entire capital, and the percentage thereof employed within the State during the preceding year. This report must be signed and sworn to by the president, vice-president, secretary, or treasurer (S. C. L., sec. 34; Tax Laws, sec. 192). After each annual election of directors a certificate of the result of such election made by the inspectors must be filed, with the oath of the inspectors, in the office of the clerk of the county in which the election is held (S. C. L., sec. 31; see Union Nat. Bank v. Scott, 53 App. Div. 65; see also S. C. L., sec. 69). The president or other proper officer of every moneyed or stock corporation deriving an income or profit from its capital or otherwise shall, on or before June 15th, deliver to one of the assessors of the tax district in which the company is liable to be taxed, and, if such tax district is in a county embracing a portion of the forest preserve, to the Comptroller of the State, a written statement specifying:

1. The real property, if any, owned by such company, the tax district in which the same is situated, and, unless a railroad corporation, the sums actually paid therefor; 2. The capital stock actually paid in and secured to be paid in, excepting therefrom the sums paid for real property and the amount of such capital stock held by the State and by any incorporated literary or charitable institution; and 3. The tax district in which the principal office of the company is situated, or, in case it has no principal office, the tax district in which its operations are carried on.

Such statement shall be verified by the officer making the same to the effect that it is in all respects just and true. If such statement is not made within twenty days after the 15th day of June, or is insufficient, evasive, or defective, the assessors may compel the corporation to make a proper statement by mandamus (Tax Law, Consolidated Laws of 1909, chap. 60, sec. 27).

Stockholders owning five per centum of the capital stock of any corporation other than a moneyed corporation, not exceeding $100,000, or three per centum where it exceeds $100,000, may demand a written statement of its affairs under oath, embracing a particular account of all its assets and liabilities, and the treasurer shall make such statement and deliver it to the person presenting the request within thirty days thereafter, and keep on file for twelve months thereafter a copy of such statement, which shall at all times during business hours be exhibited to any stockholder demanding an examination thereof; but the treasurer or such chief fiscal officer shall not be required to deliver more than one such statement in any one year. The Supreme Court or any justice thereof may upon application, for good cause shown, extend the time for making and delivering such certificate. For every neglect or refusal of the treasurer or other chief fiscal officer thereof to comply with the provisions of this section, he shall forfeit and pay to the person making such request the sum of $50, and the further sum of $10 for every twenty-four hours thereafter until such statement shall be furnished (S. C. L., sec. 69).

Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charters may be forfeited for failure to organize and commence the transaction of corporate business or the discharge of corporate duties within two years from the date of incorporation (G. C. L., sec. 36); also if one-half the capital stock is not paid in within one year (B. C. L., sec. 5); also for failure to pay the annual State tax within one year from the time a statement of the tax is sent to it (Tax Law, sec. 203; see also General Corporation Law, secs. 130–136).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — NEW YORK.

22. Annual Franchise Tax. — For the privilege of doing business or exercising its corporate franchises in this State, every corporation, foreign or domestic, doing business in the State must pay to the State Treasurer annually in advance an annual license tax to be computed upon the basis of the amount of its capital employed during the preceding year within the State, and upon each dollar of such amount. The measure of the amount of capital stock employed in this State shall be such a proportion of the issued capital stock as the gross assets employed in any business within this State bears to the gross assets wherever employed in business. For purposes of taxation the capital of a corporation invested in the stock of another corporation shall be deemed to be assets located where the physical property represented by such stock is located. If the dividends upon the capital stock amount to six or more than six per cent upon the par value of the capital stock during any year ending with the 31st day of October, the tax shall be at the rate of one-fourth of a mill for each one per cent of any dividend made or declared upon the par value of the capital stock during such year. If such dividend or dividends amount to less than six per cent of the par value of the capital stock, and (1) the assets do not exceed liabilities, exclusive of capital stock; or (2) the average price at which such stock sold during said year did not equal or exceed its par value; or (3) if no dividend was declared, — then each dollar of the amount of capital stock employed in this State, determined as hereinbefore provided, shall be taxed at the rate of three-fourths of one mill. If such dividend or dividends amount to less than six per cent of the par value of the capital stock, and (1) the assets exceed the liabilities exclusive of capital stock by an amount equal to or greater than the par value of the capital stock; or (2) the average price at which said stock sold during such year is equal to or greater than the par value, — then the amount of capital stock determined as hereinbefore provided to be employed in this State shall be taxed at the rate of one and one-half mills on each dollar of the valuation of the capital stock employed in this State; but such valuation shall not be less than (1) the par value of such stock; (2) the difference between the assets and liabilities exclusive of capital stock; (3) the average price at which such stock sold during said year. If such corporation, joint stock company, or association shall have more than one kind of capital stock, and upon one of such kinds of stock a dividend or dividends amounting to six or more than six per cent upon the par value thereof has been declared, and upon the other no dividend has been made or declared, or the dividend or dividends made or declared thereon amounted to less than six per cent upon the par value thereof, then the tax shall be at the rate of one-fourth of a mill for each one per cent of dividends declared upon the capital stock upon the par value of which the dividends declared amount to six or more than six per cent, and in addition thereto a tax shall be charged upon the capital stock, (1) upon any dividend so made or declared; or (2) upon which the dividend or dividends made or declared did not amount to six per cent on the par value, at the rate as hereinbefore provided for the taxation of capital stock upon which no dividend was made or declared, or upon which the dividend or dividends made or declared did not amount to six per cent on the par value (Tax Law, sec. 182).

Under section 182 of the Tax Law, all corporations not taxable under the foregoing shall be taxed in an amount not less than what would be produced by a tax of one and one-half mills on each one dollar of the actual value of its capital stock determined to be employed in this State, or at one and one-half mills on each dollar of said capital stock at the average price at which said stock sold during the year.

Laundry corporations, manufacturing corporations, to the extent only of the capital actually employed in this State in manufacturing and in the sale of the product of such manufacture, mining corporations wholly engaged in mining ores within this State, agricultural and horticultural societies or associations and corporations, shall be exempt from the payment of the franchise tax. But such laundrying, manufacturing, or mining corporation shall not be exempt from the payment of such tax unless at least forty per cent of the capital stock of such corporation is invested in property in this State and used by it in its laundrying, manufacturing, or mining business in this State (Tax Law, sec. 183).

If the dividend or dividends amount to less than six per cent of the par value of the capital stock, or no dividend is declared, the president, treasurer, or secretary of the corporation shall, under oath, between the 1st and 15th days of November in each year estimate and appraise the capital stock of such corporation at its actual value. If the Comptroller is not satisfied with such appraisal, he is authorized to make a valuation thereof and settle an account upon the valuation so made by him and the taxes, penalties, and interest to be paid the State (Tax Law, sec. 193). If an application be filed with the Comptroller by the corporation against whom the account is stated, or by the Attorney-General within one year after such account shall have been audited and stated, the Comptroller may at any time, upon notice thereof, sent to the corporation against whom it is stated, revise and readjust such account (Tax Law, sec. 198). (See, as to taxation of stock having no par value, Laws of 1912, chap. 351, sec. 19.)

23. Amendments. — If the certificate of incorporation contains any matter not authorized by law to be stated therein, or if the proof or acknowledgment thereof shall be defective, either the incorporators or directors of the corporation may make and file an amended certificate correcting such informality or defect or striking out such unauthorized matter. The Supreme Court may, upon due cause shown and proof made, and upon notice to the Attorney-General and such other persons as the court may direct, and upon such terms and conditions as it may impose, amend any certificate of incorporation which fails to express the true object and purpose of the certificate so as to truly set forth such object and purpose (G. C. L., sec. 7).

To change the corporate name requires a petition to the Supreme Court, special term, held in the judicial district in which the corporation's principal business office is situated. The petition must have annexed thereto a certificate of the Secretary of State that the name which such corporation proposes to assume is not the name of any other domestic corporation. The petition must be in writing, signed and verified in like manner as a pleading by an officer of the corporation (usually the president), and must specify the present name of the corporation as well as the name it proposes to assume. Notice of the presentation of the petition to the court must be published once in each week for six successive weeks in two newspapers. A copy of the petition and notice of motion must be filed with the Secretary of State prior to the commencement of publication of such notice. If the court is satisfied that the petition should be granted, it then makes an order authorizing the petitioner to assume the name proposed on a day specified not less than thirty days after the entry of the order. The order and the papers on which it was granted must be filed within ten days thereafter in the clerk's office of the county in which the original certificate of incorporation was filed, and a certified copy of such order must within ten days after the entry thereof be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. Such order must also direct the publication within ten days after the entry thereof of the order in a designated newspaper once in each week for four successive weeks. If the order is fully complied with, and if within forty days after the making of the order an affidavit to the publication thereof shall be filed and recorded in the office in which the order is entered, and in each office in which certified copies are required to be filed, if any, the petitioner shall, on and after the day specified for that purpose in the order, be known by its new corporate name (General Corporation Laws, secs. 60-65).

To change the number of directors requires the vote of a majority of the stock of the corporation at a meeting held at the usual place of meeting of the directors, on two weeks' notice in writing to each stockholder of record. Such notice may be served personally or by mail. Proof of the service of such notice shall be filed in the office of the corporation at or before the time of such meeting. The proceedings of such meeting shall be entered in the minutes of such corporation, and transcript thereof verified by the president and secretary of the meeting shall be filed in the office where the original certificates of incorporation were filed. Such change in the directorate may also be effected by unanimous consent without a meeting; in which case there shall be filed in the offices above specified the unanimous consent of the stockholders in writing signed by them or by their proxies, to which must be attached an affidavit of the custodian of the stock book of such corporation, stating that the persons who have signed such consent are the holders of record of the entire capital stock of said corporation, issued and outstanding (S. C. L., sec. 26). If the number of directors be increased, the additional directors must be elected by a vote of a majority of the directors in office at the time of the increase (S. C. L., sec. 26).

Stock Corporation Law, section 18, provides for amendment of the certificate of incorporation, so as to include therein the purposes, powers, or privileges which at the time of such alteration may be applied to corporations engaged in business of the same general character, or which might be included in the certificates of incorporation of a corporation organized under any general laws of the State for business of the same general character.

The amendment is effected by filing, in the manner provided for the original certificate of incorporation, an amended certificate executed by the president and secretary stating the alteration proposed, and that the same has been duly authorized by a vote of a majority of the directors, and also by a vote of stockholders representing at least three-fifths of the capital stock at a meeting of the stockholders called for the purpose in the manner provided in sec. 18 of the Stock Corporation Law.

To increase or reduce the capital stock the same must be authorized either by the unanimous consent of the stockholders expressed in writing and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and in the office of the clerk of the county in which the principal business office of the corporation is located, or by vote of the stockholders owning at least a majority of the stock of the corporation, taken at a meeting of the stockholders specially called for that purpose in the manner provided by law or by the by-laws. Notice of the meeting, stating the time, place, and object, and the amount of the increase or reduction proposed, signed by the president or vice-president and secretary, shall be published once a week for at least two successive weeks in a newspaper in the county where the corporation's principal place of business is located, and a copy of such notice shall be duly mailed to each stockholder or member at his last known post-office address at least two weeks before the meeting, or shall be personally served on him at least five days before the meeting. At such meeting a majority of the stockholders must be present either in person or by proxy. A sufficient number of votes shall be given in favor of such increase or reduction, and if the same shall be authorized by the unanimous consent of the stockholders expressed in writing, a certificate of the proceedings showing the compliance to the provisions of law and the amount of capital theretofore authorized and the proportion thereof actually issued and the amount of the increased or reduced capital stock, and in the case of a reduction of capital stock the whole amount of the ascertained debts or liabilities of the corporation, shall be made and filed in the office of the clerk of the county where its principal place of business is located, and a duplicate thereof in the office of the Secretary of State. In case of the reduction of the capital stock the certificate of consent hereinbefore referred to must have endorsed thereon the approval of the Comptroller to the effect that the reduced capital is sufficient for the proper purposes of the corporation and is in excess of its ascertained debts and liabilities. When the certificate of the unanimous consent of stockholders in writing, approved as aforesaid, has been filed, the capital stock of the corporation shall be increased or reduced as the case may be to the amount specified in such certificate or consent (S. C. L., secs. 63, 64).

To increase or reduce the number of shares requires a two-thirds vote of all stock duly represented at a meeting held and conducted in like manner, and upon the filing of like certificate as required for the increase or reduction of its capital stock (S. C. L., sec. 65; see also G. C. L., sec. 7; S. C. L., secs. 18, 51, 62, and 63). To change the location of the place of business the change must be authorized either by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders expressed in writing and duly acknowledged and filed in the office of the Secretary of State or by a vote of stockholders at a special meeting called for that purpose. The president and secretary and a majority of directors must sign a certificate stating the name of the corporation, and stating the town and county where the principal office and place of business was originally located and to which it may have been subsequently changed, and the city, town, and county to which it is desired to change the same, and that it is the purpose of said corporation to actually transact and carry on its regular business at such place, and that such change has been authorized as provided by law, and the names of the directors and their places of residence. This certificate must be verified and acknowledged by all persons signing the same, and must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and a duplicate copy thereof in the office of the clerk of the county from which said present office or place of business is to be removed or changed, and entered in the office of the clerk of the county to which such removal or change is to be made (S. C. L., sec. 13; Laws of 1905, chap. 489). The number of shares may be increased or decreased without changing the amount of the authorized capital, thereby changing the par value of shares, by a two-thirds vote of all stock (S. C. L., sec. 65).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporate existence may be extended, if desired, by compliance with the statute (G. C. L., sec. 37). Corporate existence may be extended by consent of stockholders owning two-thirds in amount of the capital stock. This consent must be given either in writing or by a vote at a special meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose upon the same notice as is required for annual meetings. A certificate under the corporate seal must be prepared showing that such consent was given by the stockholders in writing, or that it was given by a vote at a special stockholders' meeting. This certificate must be subscribed and acknowledged by the president or the vice-president, and by the secretary or assistant secretary of the corporation, and must be filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, and a certified copy of such certificate with a certificate of the Secretary of State of such filing and recording, or a duplicate original of such certificate, must be filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the court of the county where the corporation has its principal place of business. The act also provides that the certificate of incorporation may require that the consent of stockholders owning a greater percentage than two-thirds of the stock shall be requisite to vote an extension of corporate existence (G. C. L., sec. 37).

25. Dissolution. — Voluntary dissolution may be brought about in two ways: First, by a two-thirds vote in interest of the stockholders favoring dissolution preceded by a resolution to that effect passed by the board of directors; second, by application to the Supreme Court (G. C. L., secs. 221, 230–276; Code of Civ. Pro., secs. 90–102, 170–195). The charter may be surrendered by the incorporators before the payment of any part of the capital stock and before commencing business (G. C. L., sec. 220).

26. Foreign Corporations. — The General Corporation Law (secs. 15 and 16) provides as follows:

§ 15. Certificate of Authority of a Foreign Corporation. — No foreign stock corporation other than a moneyed corporation shall do business in this State without having first procured from the Secretary of State a certificate that it has complied with all the requirements of law to authorize it to do business in this State, and that the business of the corporation to be carried on in this State is such as may be lawfully carried on by a corporation incorporated under the laws of this State for such or similar business, or if more than one kind of business, by two or more corporations so incorporated for such kinds of business respectively. The Secretary of State shall deliver such certificate to every such corporation so complying with the requirements of law. No such corporation now doing business in this State shall do business herein after December thirty-first, eighteen hundred and ninety-two, without having procured such certificate from the Secretary of State, but any lawful contract previously made by the corporation may be performed and enforced within the State subsequent to such date. No foreign stock corporation doing business in this State shall maintain any action in this State upon any contract made by it in this State unless prior to the making of such contract it shall have procured such certificate. This prohibition shall also apply to any assignee of such foreign stock corporation and to any person claiming under such assignee of such foreign stock corporation, or under either of them. No certificate of authority shall be granted to any foreign corporation having the same name as an existing domestic corporation, or a name so nearly resembling it as to be calculated to deceive, nor to any foreign corporation, other than a moneyed or insurance corporation, with the word "trust," "bank," "banking," "insurance," "assurance," "title," "indemnity," "guarantee," "guaranty," "savings," "investment," "loan," or "benefit," as a part of its name.

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — NEW YORK.

Proof to be filed before granting Certificate. — Before granting such certificate the Secretary of State shall require every such foreign corporation to file in his office a sworn copy of its charter or certificate of incorporation, and a statement under its corporate seal, particularly setting forth the business or objects of the corporation which it is engaged in carrying on, or which it proposes to carry on, within the State, and a place within the State which is to be its principal place of business, and designating, in the manner prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure, a person upon whom process against the corporation may be served within the State. The person so designated must have an office or place of business at the place where such corporation is to have its principal place of business within the State. Such designation shall continue in force until revoked by an instrument in writing designating in like manner some other person upon whom process against the corporation may be served in this State.

If the person so designated dies, or removes from the place where the corporation has its principal place of business within the State, and the corporation does not within thirty days after such death or removal designate in a like manner another person upon whom process against it may be served within the State, the Secretary of State may revoke the authority of the corporation to do business within the State, and process against the corporation in an action upon any liability incurred within this State before such revocation may, after such death or removal and before another designation is made, be served upon the Secretary of State.

The statement under the foregoing provisions must set forth the following, to wit:

1. The business or objects of the corporation which is engaged in carrying on, or which it proposes to carry on, within the State.
2. The place within the State which is to be its principal place of business.
3. The designation of a person upon whom process against the corporation may be served within the State. Such person must have an office or place of business within the State.

The written consent of the person designated, duly acknowledged by such person, must also be attached.

Said statement must be executed in the name and on behalf of the corporation by an officer thereof.

The customary proof must be appended to the instrument, showing that the same was executed by authority of the corporation and proving the corporate seal.

There must be annexed to the papers a copy of the charter or the certificate of incorporation of the company, sworn to as a true copy thereof by an officer of the corporation.

All papers must be attached in convenient form for filing.

An acknowledgment or affidavit taken by a notary public in another State must be authenticated by a clerk of a court of record.

The filing fees are $11, under sec. 26 of the Laws of 1909, chap. 23, which sum must accompany the papers.

The papers when received will be referred to the State Comptroller, who will later communicate with the corporation, and adjust the tax under sec. 181, chap. 908, Laws of 1896.

Annual reports required as of domestic corporations. Stock book with data of stockholders must be kept at office of transfer agent in the State, and shall be open to inspection, under penalty of $250. Every foreign corporation, except banking corporations, fire, marine, casualty, and life insurance companies, co-operative fraternal insurance companies, and building and loan associations authorized to do business under the General Corporation Law shall pay to the State Treasurer for the use of the State a license fee of one-eighth of one per cent for the privilege of exercising its corporate franchises, or carrying on its business in such corporate or organized capacity in this State, to be computed upon the basis of the capital stock employed by it within this State during the first year of carrying on its business in this State; and if in any year thereafter such corporation shall employ an increased amount of its capital stock within this State, the same license fee shall be due and payable upon such increase. The measure of the amount of capital stock employed in this State shall be such a proportion of the issued capital stock as the gross assets employed in any business within this State bears to the gross assets wherever employed in business. For purposes of taxation the capital of a corporation invested in the stock of another corporation shall be deemed to be assets located where the physical property represented by such stock is located: No action shall be maintained or recovery had in any of the courts in this State by such foreign corporation after thirteen months from the time of beginning such business within the State without obtaining a receipt from the Comptroller for the payment of the license fee upon the capital stock employed by it within this State during the first year of carrying on its business in this State (Laws of 1910, chap. 340). Foreign corporations are required to pay the same annual license tax as is imposed upon domestic corporations. This is assessed, however, upon the basis of the amount of capital stock within the State. (See ante, sec. 22; G. C. L., secs. 15, 16; S. C. L., secs. 33, 70; C. C. Any corporation which shall have more than one kind of stock may, by so providing in its certificate of incorporation, confer the right to choose the directors of any class upon the stockholders of any class to the exclusion of the others (sec. 1147). Cumulative voting in the election of directors is permitted whether provision therefor is made in the certificate of incorporation or not (sec. 1183, Laws of 1907, chap. 457).

Any stockholder owning or controlling more than twenty-five per cent of the stock of any corporation shall have the same right to vote cumulatively as any other stockholder, and no amendment of the certificate of incorporation, charter or by-laws of any corporation which may be hereafter adopted or allowed shall have the effect of abrogating or abridging any right herein conferred, provided further that such right to vote cumulatively shall not be exercised unless some stockholder shall announce in open meeting before the balloting vote for directors, trustees, or managers begins his purpose to exercise such right, in which case each and every stockholder may likewise vote cumulatively (chap. 827, sec. 1).

No corporation shall create preferred stock except by authority given to the board of directors by a vote of at least two-thirds of the stock voted at a meeting of the common stockholders duly called for that purpose (sec. 1159).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued in exchange for money, labor done, personal property, real estate or leases thereof. In the absence of fraud in the transaction, the judgment of the directors as to the value of such labor, property, real estate or leases thereof shall be conclusive (sec. 1159). Corporations may purchase mines and manufactories and issue stock in payment therefor to the amount of the value thereof, and the stock so issued shall be full paid stock and not liable to any further call. In the absence of fraud the judgment of the directors as to the value of the property so taken shall be conclusive. Upon the payment in full of each instalment of capital stock, a certificate setting forth the particulars thereof, verified by the president and secretary or treasurer, must within ten days after such payment be filed in the office of the Secretary of State (secs. 1159–1161).

Also on or before July 1st of each year an annual report must be filed with the State Auditor (Laws of 1905, chap. 90, sec. 34; sec. 5270. See also as to compulsory auditing of books of corporations, Laws of 1911, chap. 1349).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is a somewhat drastic anti-trust statute in force in North Carolina (Laws of 1899, chap. 666; Laws of 1901, chap. 586; Laws of 1907, chap. 218; also sec. 3739).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charters may be forfeited for failure to bring the books of the corporation into the State after an order to that effect made by the Superior Court upon proper cause shown (secs. 1217, 1218). Charter may also be dissolved by the State for abuse, misuser, or non-user of its corporate powers and privileges and for violation of the anti-trust statute (secs. 1196–1198, 1209, 1246); also for assuming or exercising any franchise or transacting any business not allowed by its charter (sec. 49, Laws of 1899, chap. 66, sec. 5; Laws of 1901, chap. 2, sec. 107; sec. 1198). Charters may also be forfeited if the incorporators for two years should neglect or fail to organize the company, or when organized if they for two years at any time shall cease to act (secs. 1198, 1246), also for failing to pay annual franchise tax for three consecutive years (Laws of 1905, chap. 588, sec. 83).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — NORTH CAROLINA.

22. Amendments. — The incorporators before the payment of any part of the capital stock may file with the Secretary of State an amended certificate of incorporation duly signed by all the incorporators, amending the original certificate of incorporation in whole or in part. The amended certificate when recorded in the local county office takes the place of the original certificate of incorporation (sec. 1174). Every corporation after the payment of its capital stock may change its name, increase or decrease its capital stock, change the par value of its shares, and make any other amendment desired in manner following, to wit:

The board of directors shall pass a resolution declaring that such amendment is advisable and calling a meeting of the stockholders to take action thereon. The meeting shall be held upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and, in the absence of such provision, upon ten days' notice given personally or by mail. If two-thirds in interest of each class of the stockholders having voting powers shall vote in favor of the amendment, a certificate thereof shall be signed and acknowledged by the president and secretary under the corporate seal, and such certificate, together with the written assent in person or by proxy of two-thirds in interest of each class of such stockholders, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and upon such filing they shall be recorded in the county in which the original certificate of incorporation is recorded. Thereupon the certificate of incorporation shall be deemed to be amended accordingly (sec. 1174).

The board of directors may change the location of the principal office of such corporation within the State to any other place therein by resolution adopted at a regular or special meeting of such board by the vote of at least two-thirds of the members of such board. No certificate, however, is required to be filed on account of the removal of any office from one point to another in the same city or town of the State. Upon the adoption of a resolution as foreshaid a copy thereof must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, signed by the president and secretary of such corporation under the corporate seal (sec. 1176).

Special provision is made in the case of decrease of capital stock as follows: The decrease may be effected by retiring or reducing one class of stock or by drawing the necessary shares by lot for retirement, or by the surrender by every shareholder of his certificates and the issuance to him in lieu thereof of a decreased number of shares, or by the purchase at not above par of certain shares for retirement, or by retiring shares owned by the corporation, or by reducing the par value of shares one-fourth. A certificate showing the decrease must be published for three weeks successively at least once in each week in a newspaper published in the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located, the first publication to be made within fifteen days after the filing of such certificate, and in default thereof the directors of the corporation shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts of the corporation contracted before the filing of said certificate, and the stockholders shall also be liable for such sums as they may respectively receive of the amount so reduced (sec. 1164). Special provision is made for correcting errors in the certificate of incorporation. The law provides (sec. 1144), whenever in any certificate of incorporation under any general law there shall be any error or omission in the recital of the act under which said corporation is created, or in the omission of any other matters, which is required to be stated in the certificate, it shall be lawful for such corporation to correct such error in the manner following: The board of directors of such corporation shall pass a resolution declaring that such error exists, and that such corporation desires to correct the same, and shall call a meeting of the stockholders of said corporation to take action upon said resolution, the meeting of said stockholders to be held upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and, in the absence of such provision, ten days' notice given personally or by mail. If two-thirds in interest of all of the stockholders shall vote in favor of the correction of such error or omission, a certificate of such action shall be made and signed by the president and secretary under the corporate seal; which certificate shall be acknowledged and proved as in the case of deeds of real estate, and such certificate, together with the written assent in person or by proxy of two-thirds in interest of all of the stockholders of such corporation, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and upon the filing thereof the certificate of incorporation shall be deemed to be corrected and amended accordingly, and the filing of such certificate in conformity with this chapter shall have the same force and effect as if such certificate of incorporation had been originally drafted in conformity with the amendment so made (sec. 1144).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporation may extend its corporate existence for any period desired (secs. 1175, 1178).

24. Dissolution. — A corporation may be dissolved by mutual consent upon the vote of two-thirds in interest of the stockholders (secs. 1195, 1200-1208, 1211, 1219-1232; Law of 1909, chap. 15). The charter may be surrendered by the incorporators before the payment of any part of the capital and before beginning business by complying with the statute in such case made and provided (sec. 1177; see also Laws of 1909, chap. 730).

25. Annual License Fee. — Where the corporation has a capital stock paid in or subscribed of $25,000, the annual tax is $5; up to $50,000, $10; up to $100,000, $25; up to $250,000, $50; up to $500,000, $100; up to $1,000,000, $200; over $1,000,000, $500 (sec. 5190).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations must file with the Secretary of State a copy of their charter attested by the president and secretary under the corporate seal, and accompanied by a statement attested in like manner setting forth the amount of capital stock authorized, amount issued, location of principal office in the State, and name of agent in charge thereof, character of the business to be transacted, and names and post-office addresses of officers and directors (sec. 1194). Such corporations must also pay a tax of 10 cents per thousand dollars on authorized capital stock, provided, however, that the same shall never be less than $10 nor more than $100 (sec. 5190). Foreign corporations are subject to the same annual license tax imposed upon domestic corporations (Laws of 1905, chap. 588, sec. 83). Annual reports must also be filed (sec. 1152, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 944. As to service of process upon foreign corporations, see Public Laws of 1907, chaps. 460, 473).

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of North Dakota is to be found in the Revised Code of 1905, chaps. 11 and 15. Under this act corporations may be formed for any purpose for which individuals may lawfully associate themselves, except that special acts are provided for railway, wagon road, insurance, bridge, agricultural fair, and eleemosynary corporations (sec. 4168). There are some special provisions applicable to mining and manufacturing companies.

2. Incorporators. — Not less than three, one-third of whom must be residents of the State (sec. 4176).

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation. — The articles must set forth (sec. 4169):

a. Name. — There is no statute expressly forbidding the use of a name already in use by another domestic corporation, but the power is assumed by the Secretary of State to refuse articles attempting to make use of such name.

b. Purposes. — Purpose for which it is formed. The Secretary of State permits the insertion of any number of purposes in the articles not covered by special acts (secs. 4168).

c. Domiciliary Office. — Place where its principal business is to be transacted.

d. Duration. — Term for which it is to exist, not exceeding twenty years.

e. Directors. — Number of directors and names and residences of those who are to serve until their successors are elected and qualified.

f. Capital Stock. — Amount of capital stock, number of shares into which it is divided. Both may be any amount desired (sec. 4173). If preferred stock is to be issued make provision for it here (Laws of 1909, chap. 61).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of common law powers, the following additional powers are granted: To authorize voting by proxy; to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments; to own its own stock; to provide penalties for violation of by-laws not to exceed $100; to permit cumulative voting, and to remove directors (secs. 4214, 4193 et seq., 4202, 4207, 4213).

Tourtelot v. Whithead, 9 N. D. 407; 84 N. W. 8.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The charter must be subscribed and acknowledged by the incorporators (sec. 4176). The articles must then be filed with the Secretary of State (sec. 4180). There must be filed with the Secretary of State a duplicate receipt of the State Treasurer showing payment of organization tax. When all these formalities have been complied with, the Secretary of State issues a certificate of incorporation. Collateral inquiry into the legality of corporate existence is forbidden (secs. 2852, 2867).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Corporate indebtedness must not exceed the amount of subscribed capital stock. Express authority is given to issue bonds (sec. 4225).

7. Organization Tax. — For capitalization up to $25,000, the fee is $25; for capitalization up to $50,000, the fee is $50 to be paid to the State Treasurer, and $5 for every additional $10,000 or fractional part thereof. Every corporation for profit except corporations organized for the purpose of irrigation, water users associations, building and loan associations, county mutual insurance companies, corporations for the manufacturing of dairy products, agricultural fair associations, corporations whose capital stock does not exceed $5,000, formed for the purpose and maintenance of male animals for the improvement of stock, corporations whose capital stock does not exceed $2,000, formed for the purchase of musical instruments, music and uniforms for bands of musicians, and corporations whose capital stock does not exceed $5,000, formed for the purpose of purchasing or leasing grounds for the erection thereon of necessary fences, buildings, and seats, and purchasing the necessary equipments for the use of base ball clubs, foot ball teams, and other athletic associations when composed of non-salaried members or players shall, at or before the filing of the articles of incorporation, pay into the State treasury the sum of $25 for the first $25,000 or fraction thereof of the capital stock of such corporation, and the sum of $50 for $25,000 up to $50,000 of the capital stock of such corporation, and the further sum of $5 for every additional $10,000 or fraction thereof of its capital stock (Laws of 1911, chap. 105).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — For filing and recording articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State, $3; for issuing a certificate of incorporation, $5; for issuing certified copy of articles of incorporation, 25 cents per folio of one hundred words and $1 for certificate. The charge for filing and recording amendments to articles of incorporation is 25 cents per folio of one hundred words.

9. Commencing Business. — Business may be commenced as soon as the articles are executed and filed as required by law (sec. 1480). Every corporation formed under this chapter must within one month after filing articles of incorporation adopt a code of by-laws for its government, not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of this State. The assent of stockholders representing a majority of all of the subscribed capital stock, or of a majority of the members, if there is no capital stock, is necessary to adopt the by-laws if any are adopted at a meeting called for that purpose, and in event of such meeting being called notice thereof shall be published two times, once in each week for two successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which the principal place of business of the corporation is located, or if none is published therein, then in a newspaper published at the seat of government. The written assent of the holders of two-thirds of the stock or of two-thirds of the members, if there is no capital stock, shall be effectual to adopt a code of by-laws without a meeting for that purpose; provided, however, that any corporation incorporated in this State after the taking effect of this act may by its articles of incorporation provide that each stockholder shall have only one vote on any question arising at any of its stockholders' meetings regardless of the amount of stock owned, and provided further that any corporation may amend its articles of incorporation at any time and adopt such provisions of unit vote by the unanimous vote of all stockholders owning stock in such corporation (Laws of 1911, chap. 104).

10. Organization Meeting. — In the absence of a provision in the articles providing otherwise the organization meeting must be held within the State (sec. 4217). By making provision in the articles therefor all meetings may be held without the State, at some place within the United States (sec. 4520). Unless the same is waived in writing by all the incorporators, notice of the organization meeting must be published twice a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county where the corporation's principal office is located (sec. 4201). The by-laws adopted at this organization meeting must be certified by a majority of the directors and kept in the book of by-laws (sec. 4204).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — In the absence of a provision in the articles providing otherwise meetings of stockholders and directors for the election of officers of the corporation must be held at its principal place of business within the State. Other meetings of the board of directors may be held at such place within or without the State as the by-laws may provide (sec. 4217). By making provision in the articles therefor, all meetings may be held without the State at some place within the United States (sec. 4520).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. — a. Qualifications. There must be at least three and not more than eleven directors, all of whom must be stockholders, and one a resident of the State (sec. 4208). Power to make by-laws may be delegated to the board of directors (sec. 4204).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable to creditors to the extent of the amount of debts in excess of the subscribed capital stock. They are also liable for the declaration of illegal dividends. Express provision is made in the act for their removal from office (secs. 4210, 4211 as amended by Laws of 1909, chap. 63). Directors are also liable for illegal issue of bonds (sec. 2905). Directors in mining and manufacturing companies are liable for violations of law which result in insolvency of the company (sec. 3161). There is also a liability for issuing stock at less than par value paid thereon (sec. 4194). They are also liable for making false reports, certificates, etc. (secs. 4212, 4521). For issuing stock or bonds for insufficient value given therefor in property or labor, they are liable for the difference between the value of the stock or bonds issued and the actual value of the property or labor (sec. 4195).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions. Stockholders of manufacturing and mining corporations are jointly and severally liable for all debts to mechanics, workmen, and laborers employed by such corporation (secs. 2902, 3157).

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate showing the number of shares owned by him, signed by the president and secretary (sec. 4194).

No shares or certificates of stock in any mining corporation established under the laws of this State, or of any State, Territory, province, country, or government, shall be sold or offered for sale within this State by such corporation, or by any person, firm, association, or corporation acting as agent, representative, attorney, or broker, for such corporation, until such corporation shall have filed in the office of the Secretary of State a statement under oath, showing the financial condition of such corporation; the location of the mine or mines, owned by such corporation, with plans of the same; the amount of work done therein and the condition of the plant and machinery connected therewith. Such statement shall be signed by the president, secretary, and treasurer of the corporation, and shall be verified by the oath of each of such officers to the effect that the same is in all respects true (Laws of 1909, chap. 169, sec. 1).

The statement provided for in section 1 of this act shall be substantially in the following form:

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued for money, labor done, or property estimated at its true money value actually received by it. All officers who consent to the issuance of stock for labor or property in excess of its actual cash value, or who, having knowledge thereof, do not formally dissent therefrom, are jointly and severally liable to creditors of such corporation for the difference between the actual value of such labor or property at the time the stock was issued and the par value of the stock issued therefor. Corporations are expressly forbidden to accept notes in payment of stock subscriptions (secs. 2877, 2878). Corporations are expressly forbidden to issue stock with the understanding that the full par value shall not be paid (sec. 2876). The act provides that the directors named in the certificate of incorporation shall proceed to open books of subscription to the capital stock then unsubscribed, and to secure subscriptions to the capital stock still unsubscribed, and to secure subscription to the full amount of the fixed capital (sec. 2874).

17. Books. — Regular books of account of all of the business of the corporation must be kept, which with the vouchers shall at all reasonable times be open for the inspection of any of the stockholders, and any stockholder in making such inspection shall be privileged to take with him an expert accountant to aid him in making the inspection, and as often as once in each year a statement of said accounts shall be made by order of the directors and laid before the stockholders (sec. 4516, Laws of 1907, chap. 55). Stock and transfer books must be kept which are open to this inspection of stockholders and creditors (sec. 4226).

18. Office and Agent. — All corporations must maintain an office within the State, and an agent to receive process (secs. 2861, 2885, 2907, 3160, 3265 a).

19. Reports. — Must file annually with the Secretary of State an anti-trust affidavit. The filing fee is $2.50 (Laws of 1905, chap. 188). Between July 1st and August 1st every domestic or foreign corporation must report to the Secretary of State, on blank forms sent out by him before June 1st, the location of its principal office in the State, names, post-office addresses, and residence of its officers, with date of expiration of their respective terms of office, whether or not the corporation is pursuing active business under its charter and the kind of business engaged in. The report is to be sworn to by one of the chief officers under the corporate seal. A $50 penalty for failure for sixty days after notice to file such report by registered letter, forfeiture of charter or right to do business by entry on records in Secretary of State's office (Law of 1905, chap. 65). Tax returns sworn to by the president, secretary, or principal accounting officer must be made to the county assessor where the principal office is located, or if there is no such office, where the business is carried on (sec. 1183). These returns are filed between April 1st and June 1st of each year as of April 1st (sec. 1189), and set forth (1) name and location of company; (2) amount of capital stock authorized and number of shares into which it is divided. (3) Amount of capital stock paid in. (4) Market value, or if there is no market value, the actual value of the shares of stock. (5) Total amount of indebtedness except that for current expenses, excluding from such expenses the amount paid for, purchase or improvement of property. (6) Value of real property. Every mining, manufacturing, or other industrial company must annually, within twenty days from January 1st, make a report signed by the president and a majority of the directors, verified by the president and secretary, to be published in the newspaper nearest the corporation's place of business, and to be filed with the register of deeds of the county in which its business is carried on, stating the capital stock and the amount thereof actually paid in, amount and nature of its indebtedness and amounts due the corporation; number and amounts of dividends and when paid, and the net profits. Neglect to make, publish, and file such report is a misdemeanor (sec. 4518). Publication of notice of meetings may be dispensed with by waiver or written assents, except in case of increase of stock or indebtedness where personal service can be had. Notices of dissolution or of sale of stock for non-payment of assessments must be published. All corporations engaged in transacting business in this State who shall issue, sell or offer for sale their stocks, securities, notes, obligations, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness by whatever name the same may be designated, shall on demand of the State Bank Examiner furnish him with a detailed itemized report of their assets, liabilities and business transacted, which reports shall be made to the State Examiner in such form as he may prescribe, and shall be made and filed in his office for the information of the public. Such reports shall be verified by the oath of the Secretary or chief executive officer of such corporation.

Sec. 2. When requested in good faith by any resident of this State and when good faith and sufficient reasons are given therefor, the State Examiner may, if necessary, cause an examination of the financial condition of such corporation to be made, and he shall report the findings thereof to the person applying for such examination. His powers and duties in connection therewith shall be the same as in the examination of banks, and the same fees shall be charged and paid therefor as for the examination of banks. His report shall be submitted to and filed with the State Banking Board.

Sec. 3. The State Banking Board, on being satisfied of the insolvency, mismanagement, fraud or breach of trust of any such corporation, or of any violation of any provision of this act by any such corporation, may forthwith take charge of such corporation pending action in the District Court to dissolve and wind it up, which action shall be brought by the Attorney-General in the name of the State, under the direction of such Board.

Sec. 4. Any officer, agent or employee of any such corporation who makes or subscribes any false report under this act, or who hinders, deceives or obstructs the State Examiner or his deputy in the discharge of any lawful duty hereunder, shall on conviction for each offence be punished by fine of not less than $50 and not more than $1,000, or by imprisonment in the jail of the county for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment (Laws of 1911, chap. 102, sec. 1).

22. Amendments. — To increase or diminish the capital stock corporate action must be taken at a meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose by the directors as follows: Notice of the time and place of the meeting, stating its object and the amount to which it is proposed to increase or diminish its capital stock, must be personally served on each stockholder resident in the State sixty days prior to the time of such meeting at his place of residence, if known; and the notice must be given to stockholders whose places of residence are unknown, or who are not residents in the State, by the publication of such notice in a newspaper published in the county where the principal office of the corporation is situated not less than once a week for sixty days prior to such meeting. The capital stock must in no case be diminished to an amount less than the indebtedness of the corporation, or the estimated cost of the works which it may be the purpose of the corporation to construct. At least two-thirds of the entire capital stock must be represented by the vote in favor of the increase or diminution before it can be effected. A certificate must be signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting and a majority of the directors showing a compliance with the requirements of this section, the amount to which the capital stock has been increased or diminished, the amount of stock represented at the meeting, and the vote by which the object was accomplished (sec. 4224).

5. Procuring the Charter. — Articles must be subscribed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators, and the official character of the officer taking the acknowledgment must be certified to by the clerk of the court of common pleas of the county wherein taken. The articles must then be filed in the office of the Secretary of State (secs. 3236, 3238).

State ex rel. v. Ins. Co., 49 Ohio St. 440; 31 N. E. 658; Society Perun v. Cleveland, 43 Ohio St. 481; 3 N. E. 357.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Corporate indebtedness must not exceed the amount of its authorized capital stock. Provision may be made in the case of mortgage indebtedness where the same does not exceed one-half of the capital stock actually paid in, that the holders of the debt secured by such mortgage shall have the right to convert the same into either common or preferred stock (secs. 3256, 3257, 3265).

7. Organization Tax. — Corporations having authorized capital stock of $10,000 or under, $10; corporations with more than $10,000, one-tenth of one per cent on such capital stock (secs. 148, 148 a).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The payment of the organization tax includes the filing and recording fees in the Secretary of State's office. The incorporators are also entitled free of charge to one certified copy of the articles of incorporation. For additional copies the charge is 10 cents per hundred words and 50 cents for attaching certificate. The cost of filing certificate as to stock subscriptions is $2. For filing and recording amendments to articles of incorporation the charge is $5.

9. Commencing Business. — The incorporators, or a majority of them, must order books to be opened for subscriptions to the capital stock at such times and places as they may deem expedient. The act requires thirty days' notice thereof, unless the incorporators waive the same in writing, such waiver to be entered in the corporate records (sec. 3242, as amended by Laws of 1906, p. 294). As soon as ten per cent of the capital stock is subscribed, the subscribers of the articles of incorporation, or a majority of them, shall so certify in writing to the Secretary of State, and thereupon give notice to the stockholders as provided in sec. 3242, to meet at such time and place as they may designate for the purpose of choosing not less than five, nor more than fifteen directors who shall continue in office until the time fixed for the annual election (Laws of 1906, p. 294). Publication of this notice may be waived by all of the stockholders in writing, who must be present either in person or by proxy (Laws of 1906, p. 294). As soon as these directors are elected the corporation may begin business. Business must be commenced within five years after date of incorporation (secs. 3242-3244 inclusive, 6780, Laws of 1904, p. 170).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State (sec. 3252). The law provides that the incorporators shall give notice to the stockholders, as provided in the Revised Statutes (sec. 3242), to meet at such time and place as may be designated, for the purpose of choosing not less than five nor more than fifteen directors, who shall continue in office until the time chosen for the annual election. The law, however, provides that in case all the subscribers to the capital stock are present in person or by proxy, the notice required by statute may be waived in writing (Laws of 1904, p. 170). At the first election incorporators are authorized to act as inspectors of election (sec. 3245).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide (secs. 3238 a, 3245 a (1), 3252). The law provides that a corporation may provide in its articles of incorporation that each stockholder, irrespective of the amount of stock he may own, shall be entitled to one vote and no more at any election of directors (sec. 3245 a). The law further provides that where a corporation limits the votes of its stockholders in the manner indicated above, then in such case, no person shall hold or own stock in excess of $1,000 face value (sec. 3245 b (1)). As to right to cumulate votes, see State ex rel. Stockley, 45 Ohio St. 304; State ex rel. Henderson v. Hogan, 1 W. L. B. 227; State ex rel. Dent v. Halloway, 1 C. C. 157.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be not less than five nor more than fifteen directors (Laws of 1906, pp. 294, 295). All must be stockholders, and a majority citizens of Ohio. The statute expressly authorizes the directors to adopt a code of by-laws for their own management. The directors must each subscribe to an oath of office (secs. 3244, 3247, 3248, 3250; Laws of 1909, p. 12). Cumulative voting is permitted in the election of directors.

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for the illegal declaration of dividends (secs. 3269, 1-4). They are also personally liable for contracting debts before ten per cent of the capital stock has been subscribed, and for issuing false statements and reports (Laws of 1908, p. 336). There is also a liability for allowing contributions of corporation for political purposes (Laws of 1909, p. 23).

Trust Co. v. Floyd, 47 Ohio St. 525; 26 N. E. 110.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Since the Constitutional Amendment adopted in 1903, stockholders in Ohio corporations are liable only to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions. (See former statute, sec. 3258; see also Laws of 1904, p. 396.) The law requires that a majority of the subscribers to the articles of incorporation shall certify to the Secretary of State that ten per cent of the capital stock is subscribed. The law further provides that such stockholders shall be liable to any person affected thereby to the amount of any deficiency in the actual payment of such ten per cent at the time of so certifying (Laws of 1904, p. 170).

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to have a stock certificate issued to him, signed by the president and secretary (sec. 3254). There shall be no lien in favor of a corporation upon the shares represented by a certificate issued by such corporation, and there shall be no restriction upon the transfer of shares so represented by virtue of any by-law of such corporation or otherwise, unless the right of the corporation to such lien or the restriction is stated upon the certificate (Laws of 1911, p. 503, sec. 15).

15. Preferred Stock. — Preferred stock is expressly authorized by providing therefor in the articles of incorporation or by subsequent action of the stockholders. Holders of preferred stock are entitled to dividends not to exceed eight per cent per annum out of the surplus profits in preference to all other stockholders. At no time can the preferred stock exceed two-thirds of the actual stock paid in in cash or property (secs. 3235 a, 3263).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued only for money or property. (See sec. 3235 a.)

Gates v. Company, 57 Ohio St. 60; Peter v. Company, 56 Ohio St. 181.

17. Books. — Must keep a stock book open to inspection of stockholders in which are recorded subscriptions and transfers of stock. Minutes of the stockholders' and directors' meetings must be kept (sec. 3254). Manufacturing companies must keep their books of account at their principal office. This is open to inspection of assessors.

C. V. Co. v. Hoffmeister, 62 Ohio St. 189; 56 N. E. 1033.

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation must maintain an office and agent to receive service of process, and keep accounts of financial condition, and also transfer books (secs. 3236, 3855, 5651).

Mercantile Tr. Co. v. Elsa Iron Works, 4 Ohio Cir. Ct. 579.

19. Reports. — During May a report must be filed with the Secretary of State, containing among other things names and addresses of the officers and directors; amount of capital stock subscribed, issued, outstanding, and paid in; kind of business engaged in. Annual reports must also be made to stockholders (secs. 3268, 3269. Laws of 1902, p. 124. See also Act of April 12, 1911).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Ohio has a somewhat drastic anti-trust statute on its statute-books (secs. 4427, 1-12).

State v. Gage, 72 Ohio St. 210.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charters may be forfeited by the State for misuser or non-user for five years, or for violation of the anti-trust act, or for failure to pay annual license tax; also for failure to file annual report (secs. 4427-4432, 6760, 6761, 6780; Laws of 1904, pp. 381-383).

State v. Company, 62 Ohio St. 350; 57 N. E. 62.

22. Amendments. — Before the capital stock can be increased, all of the original authorized stock must be fully subscribed for, and ten per cent paid in either in cash or in property. The amendment providing for the increase of stock is rendered effective by a majority vote cast at a stockholders' meeting called by a majority of the directors. At least thirty days' notice of the time, place, and object of such meeting must be given by publication and by letter addressed to each stockholder whose place of residence is known. If all of the stockholders are present in person or by proxy at said meeting, the foregoing prescribed notice may be waived. The stockholders must also agree in writing to said increase, naming the amount thereof to which they agree. A certificate of the action taken at said meeting must be filed with the Secretary of State (sec. 3262; see also Peters v. Company, 56 Ohio, 200). It would appear to be necessary, also, that a copy of such amendment to the original articles should be filed with the Secretary of State, together with a certificate thereto attached, signed by the president and secretary of the corporation and sealed with the corporate seal, stating the nature and date of the adoption of the amendment, and certifying that a copy thereof, to which the certificate is attached, is a true copy of the amendment as adopted (sec. 3238 a).

A corporation may by a vote of a majority of its stock at any regular meeting of the company increase the number of directors to any number not greater than fifteen; in like manner the number of directors may be decreased to any number not less than five, at any stockholders' meeting called in the manner as provided in sec. 246. At said meeting the corporation may by a vote of a majority of its stock increase the number of its directors in the manner above set forth, who shall hold office respectively until the next annual meeting for directors (Laws of 1906, p. 295).

Any corporation may at any meeting of its stockholders, of which and of the business to come before said meeting thirty days' notice has been given by a majority of the directors in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the principal place of business of said corporation is located, by a vote of three-fifths of its subscribed capital stock, amend its articles so as to change its corporate name, or its domiciliary office, or so as to modify, enlarge, or diminish the purposes for which it is formed, provided the original purposes are not substantially changed, or so as to add anything omitted therefrom, or which might lawfully have been provided for in the original articles. When adopted, a copy of such amendment with a certificate thereto attached, signed by the president and secretary of the corporation under the corporate seal, stating the fact and date of the adoption of the amendment, and that such copy is a true copy of the original, must be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State. Before the amendment can take effect, the secretary of the corporation must give notice of such amendment for three successive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in the county where the principal place of business is located. Publication of all of the foregoing notices may be waived in writing by all of the stockholders signing such waiver (sec. 3238 a).

State ex rel. Taylor, 55 Ohio St. 67.

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for extension of corporate existence.

24. Dissolution. — A majority of the managing board or stockholders, representing one-third of the capital stock, may apply to the court of common pleas for dissolution (R. S., secs. 5651–5688 inclusive, 6781, 6782; Laws of 1909, pp. 102–104; O. L., 1902, p. 274). Charters may be surrendered, if desired, before any instalment of capital stock has been paid in or debts incurred, by complying with the statute in such case made and provided (sec. 5674; Laws of 1904, p. 383).

Domestic corporations may sell out their entire property and assets under the following conditions: First. That three-fourths of the directors of such corporation shall authorize the execution of an agreement therefor, prescribing the terms and conditions thereof, which considerations may be money, stocks, bonds, or other instruments for the payment of money, or any valuable consideration. Second. Such sale must not be made for the purpose of forming any trust or combination for the purpose of restricting trade or competition. Third. Such agreement shall be submitted to the stockholders of such corporation, at a meeting called for the purpose, of taking the same into consideration, of which ten days' notice of the time and place of holding the same, and the object thereof, shall be given by registered letter, containing a written or printed notice addressed to each of the persons in whose names the capital stock of the said corporation stands on the books thereof; and also by like notice published in some newspaper in the city or town where such corporation has its principal office or place of business; provided that in case all the stockholders are present at said meeting in person or by proxy, such notice may be waived in writing. At the meeting of the stockholders the agreement of the directors shall be considered, and the vote by ballot taken for the adoption or rejection of the same, and if each share of stock upon which has been paid all the instalments called for by the board of directors, the holder thereof shall be entitled to one vote. The ballots shall be cast in person or by proxy, and if three-fourths of the votes cast at the meeting be for the adoption of the agreement by the stockholders of said corporation, the officers thereof shall execute and deliver to the purchaser good and sufficient deeds to purchasers of all of the property and assets of the corporation upon the terms and conditions in said agreement provided. Fourth. If any stockholder in the said corporation shall be dissatisfied with the said sale and refuses to participate in the proceeds thereof, he shall, within thirty days after the adoption of such agreement by said corporation, state his objections thereto in writing and file the same with said corporation and demand in writing from said corporation payment for his stock, and said corporation shall within sixty days thereafter pay to him the value of his stock at the time of the adoption of said agreement. In case of a disagreement as to the value of said stock it shall be ascertained by three disinterested persons, one of whom shall be chosen by the said stockholder, one by the directors of the corporation, and the other by the two selected as aforesaid, who shall conduct such arbitration in all respects as provided by law regarding arbitrations. And in case the said award is not paid within sixty days from the making thereof and notice thereof given to said stockholder and to said corporation, the amount of the award shall be evidence of the amount due from such corporation and may be collected as other debts are by law collectible, but on receiving payment of the award such stockholder shall surrender his stock to said corporation. Fifth. If any stockholder refuses to submit the question to arbitration, the judge of the court of common pleas shall, upon the application of a director of such company, appoint the arbitrators, who shall proceed to ascertain the value of the stock in the same manner as if the question had been submitted by consent of both parties; and if the party owning the stock refuses to receive the amount awarded in the case, the company may deposit the same with the clerk of the court of common pleas of the county in which the arbitration is held, which deposit shall operate the same as if payment were made to the owner of the stock, and shall further operate as a cancellation of said stock upon the books of the company. In all cases of such arbitration the party desiring such arbitration shall give the opposite party ten days' notice at least of his intention to apply for the judge for the appointment of arbitrators, which notice shall be served in the same manner as is provided for the service of summons and shall specify the time and place of the hearing of the application; but in cases of non-residents, the notice shall be by publication for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper printed in the county (Laws of 1906, pp. 229-231).

25. Annual License Fee. — One-tenth of one per cent upon subscribed or issued and outstanding stock (sec. 2780, sub. d. 24). Tax is due in September.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Before commencing to transact business within the State every foreign corporation must, under oath of its president, secretary, treasurer, superintendent, or managing officer within the State, make and file with the Secretary of State a statement containing the following facts: (1) Number of shares of authorized capital stock and par value thereof.

(2) Name and location of the office and officers of the company in Ohio, and the name and address of the officers or agents of the company in charge of its business in Ohio; (3) The value of the property owned and used by the company in Ohio, where situate, and the value of the property owned and used outside of Ohio; (4) The proportion of the capital stock of the company which is represented by property owned and used, and by business transacted in Ohio. Thereupon the Secretary of State shall determine the proportion of the capital stock represented by property and business in Ohio, and shall impose and collect a tax of one-tenth of one per cent upon the proportion of the authorized capital stock of the corporation, represented by property owned and used, and business transacted in Ohio. This tax is payable annually thereafter, and can never be less than $10 (sec. 2780, sub. 24-31). Foreign corporations transacting business without a permit are subject to fine, and are cut off from all recourse to the courts. The law, however, provides that a foreign corporation obtaining a permit shall not be subject to attachment as a foreign corporation (Laws of 1904, p. 383).

It must be noted that there are two laws in this State applying to foreign corporations. The one referred to below — the Act of April 25, 1893 — requires a foreign corporation doing business in the State — that is, a corporation which maintains an office or an agent in the State to file with the Secretary of State a sworn copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, and a statement under its corporate seal setting forth the amount of its authorized capital stock, the kind of business proposed to be carried on, and designate a principal office or place of business and a person upon whom process may be served, and pay a fee proportioned to the amount of its authorized capital stock. Upon the foregoing enumerated papers being filed with the Secretary of State, the latter official is entitled to receive and must be paid fees according to the amount of capital stock of each foreign corporation of the character enumerated above as follows: Where authorized capital is $100,000 or less, $15; more than $100,000 and not exceeding $300,000, $20; more than $300,000 and not exceeding $500,000, $25; more than $500,000 and less than $1,000,000, $30; $1,000,000 or more, $50 (R. S. sec. 148 d).

The other is the Act of May 16, 1894, additional to the Act of April 25, 1893, but it applies only to such foreign corporations as own or use a portion or all of their capital or plant in this State. Such corporations must comply with both laws; and, in addition to the license fee prescribed by the Act of April 25, 1893, must pay a franchise tax of one-tenth of one per cent upon the proportion of the authorized capital stock represented by property owned, or business done in the State of Ohio. If only a portion of the property is owned and used, and only a portion of the business is done in this State, the corporation is taxed only in the proportion so represented, which is the measure of the franchise enjoyed here; but if all the property owned and all the business done by the corporation is in Ohio, then the tax must be paid on the entire authorized capital stock, no matter if only a portion of the authorized capital stock has been issued.

Under section 148, known as the Massie Law, Ohio corporations are required to pay to the State, for the privilege of becoming incorporated, a fee or franchise tax of one-tenth of one per cent upon the authorized capital stock. It matters not what the subsequent issue of capital stock may be, the fee is based upon the entire amount of the authorized capital stock. The Act of May 16, 1894, is designed to impose upon foreign corporations the same burden that is imposed upon domestic corporations. It is not for the privilege of doing business, but is a condition upon which a foreign corporation may exercise its franchises in Ohio. By express provision, it exempts from its application all corporations engaged in Ohio in interstate commerce business, and foreign corporations, entirely non-resident, soliciting business, or making sales in this State by correspondence or travelling salesmen. The tax, therefore, is imposed only upon those corporations which the State, in the exercise of its sovereign power, may either exclude from the State altogether, or admit upon such terms and conditions as it may see fit to impose. Foreign corporations must make annual report to the Secretary of State during the month of September, setting forth: (1) Name of corporation and under laws of what State or country organized. (2) Location of principal office. (3) Names of president, secretary, treasurer, and directors and post-office address of each. (4) Date of annual election of officers. (5) Authorized capital stock and par value of each share. (6) Amount of stock subscribed, amount issued, and amount paid up. (7) Nature of business and place or places of business within the State and without the State. (8) Name and location of its office or offices in Ohio and the name and address of the officers or agents in charge of the corporate business in Ohio. (9) Value of property owned and used by the company in Ohio, where situated, and value of property owned and used outside of Ohio and where situated. (10) Change or changes, if any, in the above particulars since the last report (Laws of 1904, p. 383).

This report must be signed and sworn to by one of the executive officers of the corporation and filed with the Secretary of State.

(The references cited below are to Wilson's Annotated Statutes of 1903, chap. 18, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. —

The Business Corporation Act is to be found in chap. 18 of Wilson's Revised and Annotated Statutes of Oklahoma, 1903. Parties may incorporate under the General Act for the following purposes: Mining, manufacturing, and other industrial pursuits, the construction of railroads, wagon roads, street railways, electric light, power, and gas plants, water works, irrigating ditches, eleemosynary purposes, for conducting the business of insurance, banks of discount and deposit (but not of issue), building and investment companies, loan, trust, and guarantee corporations, merchandizing, wholesale or retail or both; for the purpose of locating, laying out, and improving town sites, and buying and selling real estate therefor, including the sale and conveyance of the same in lots, subdivisions, or otherwise; for the purpose of constructing telegraph and telephone lines and systems, and the organization and maintenance of commercial clubs and business exchanges, and for the purpose of constructing sewers and other municipal improvements (secs. 930, 1084, 1085 as amended by Laws of 1903, chap. 9).

No corporation shall be created or licensed in this State for the purpose of buying, acquiring, trading, or dealing in real estate other than real estate located in incorporated cities and towns and as additions thereto; nor shall any corporation doing business in this State buy, acquire, trade, or deal in real estate for any purpose except such as may be located in such towns and cities and as additions to such towns and cities, and further except as shall be necessary and proper for carrying on the business for which it was chartered or licensed, nor shall any corporation be created or licensed to do business in this State for the purpose of acting as agent in buying and selling land; provided, however, that corporations shall not be precluded from taking mortgages on real estate to secure loans or debts, or from acquiring title thereto upon the foreclosure of such mortgages or in the collection of debts, conditioned that such corporation or corporations shall not hold such real estate for a longer period than seven years after acquiring such title; and provided further, that this section shall not apply to trust companies taking only the naked title to real estate in this State as a trustee, to be held solely as security for indebtedness pursuant to such trust; and provided, further, that no public service corporation shall hold any land, or the title thereof in any way whatever in this State, except as the same shall be necessary for the transaction and operation of its business as such public service corporation (Cons., Art. XXII, sec. 2).

2. Incorporators. — Not less than three, one-third of whom must be residents of the State (sec. 946 as amended by Laws of 1903, chap. 9).

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation. — The articles must set forth:

a. Name. — The Secretary of State will not permit two domestic corporations of the same name.

b. Purposes. — Purposes for which it is formed. State officials allow articles to pass allowing incorporation for different lines of industrial business, so long as they do not conflict with any special statute in regard to the organization of corporations.

c. Domicile. — The place where the principal business is to be transacted.

Any corporation formed for the purposes mentioned in the act, may provide in the articles of incorporation for having a business office without this State, at any place within the United States, and to hold any meeting of the stockholders or directors of the corporation at such office so provided for; but every such corporation having a business office out of this State must have its main office for the transaction of business within the State, to be also designated in such articles (sec. 1090).

d. Duration. — The term of existence of corporations formed for manufacturing and other industrial pursuits is limited to twenty years.

e. Directors. — Number of directors and names and residences of those who are to serve until formal election of the first board of directors. The qualifications of the directors must also be set forth.

f. Capital Stock. — The amount and number of shares into which it is divided. Both the capital and the par value of shares may be any amount (sec. 943; see also for additional provisions in the case of irrigation, flume, and tunnel companies, secs. 1092, 1096, 1097, 1098).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to the enumeration of common law powers, the statute confers the following additional powers: To purchase its own shares; to vote by proxy; to have a business office without the State at any place within the United States, and to hold any meeting of the stockholders or directors of the corporation at said office; to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments; to remove directors; to provide penalties to the amount of $100 for violation of by-laws (secs. 959, 961, 973, 999-1004, 1090). The power to adopt by-laws may be delegated to the board of directors by a two-thirds vote of the stockholders (sec. 964).

All corporations formed under the laws of this State shall be bodies corporate for the period for which they are organized and chartered, unless such license or charter be altered or amended as provided by law, or unless the same be forfeited or revoked prior to the expiration thereof; may sue and be sued; may have a common seal with which they may alter or renew at pleasure; may own, possess and enjoy so much real estate as shall be necessary and proper for carrying on the business for which each of such, respectively, is licensed or chartered, and may sell and dispose of the same when not required for the use of the corporation. Provided, that no corporation shall be created, licensed, or chartered in this State for the purpose of acquiring, buying, selling, trading, or dealing in real estate other than real estate located in incorporated cities and towns, and as additions to such cities and towns; nor shall any corporation doing business in this State, acquire, buy, sell, trade, or deal in real estate for any purpose, except such lands as may be located in incorporated cities and towns and as additions thereto, and except such as shall be necessary and proper for carrying on the business for which such corporation was licensed or chartered; nor shall any corporation be created, licensed, or chartered to do business in this State for the purpose of acting as agent in buying or selling real estate except as herein provided; provided, however, that corporations shall not be precluded from taking mortgages on real estate to secure loans or debts, or from acquiring title thereto upon foreclosure of such mortgages or in the collection of debts, conditioned that such corporation or corporations shall not hold any real estate so acquired for a longer period than seven years and conditioned that disposition or incumbrance of such land shall in no way be made to another corporation or corporations; Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to trust companies taking only the naked title to real estate in this State, as trustee, to be held solely as security for indebtedness pursuant to such trust (Act of May 26, 1908, sec. 1; Laws of 1908, p. 196).

No corporation chartered or licensed to do business in this State shall own, hold, or control in any manner whatever, the stock of any competitive corporation or corporations engaged in the same kind of business, in or out of the State, except such stock as may be pledged in good faith to secure bona fide indebtedness acquired upon foreclosure, execution sale, or otherwise for the satisfaction of debt. In all cases where any corporation acquires stock in any other corporation, as herein provided, it shall be required to dispose of the same within twelve months from the date of acquisition; and during the period of its ownership of such stock it shall have no right to participate in the control of such corporation, except when permitted by order of the corporation commission. No trust company or bank or banking company shall own, hold, or control in any manner whatever, the stock of any other trust company, or bank or banking company, except such stock as may be pledged in good faith to secure bona fide indebtedness acquired upon foreclosure, execution sale, or otherwise for the satisfaction of debt; and such stock shall be disposed of in the time and manner hereinbefore provided (Const., Art. IX. sec. 41).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles must be subscribed by each of the incorporators and acknowledged before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments of conveyances of real property (sec. 946). The articles must then be filed and recorded with the Secretary of State (sec. 948). Collateral inquiry into the legality of corporate existence is forbidden (secs. 933, 947, 949).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — The corporate indebtedness is limited to the amount of subscribed capital stock (sec. 970).

Rodgers v. Bonnett, 2 Okla. 553; 37 Pac. 1078.

7. Organization Tax. — The organization tax is one-tenth of one per cent upon the whole authorized capital stock. The minimum tax is $3 (Laws of 1908, p. 194).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — To the Secretary of State for recording articles, 25 cents per folio of one hundred words; for affixing certificate to copy of articles, $1; for making copy of articles, 10 cents per folio (Laws of 1908, p. 194).

9. Commencing Business. — The company must be organized and business must be commenced within one year from the date of the issuance of the certificate of incorporation (sec. 981). Mining, manufacturing, and industrial corporations must commence the construction of their works within ninety days from the date of issuance of certificate of incorporation and must complete the same within two years (secs. 1099, 1100). The company must be organized — to the extent of the adoption of by-laws at least — within thirty days after the filing of articles of incorporation (secs. 962, 964).

Before commencing business all corporations must first file in the office of the Corporation Commission a list of its stockholders, officers, and directors with the residence and post-office of, and the amount of stock held by each (Const., Art. IX. sec. 43).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting may be held without the State if the charter so provides (sec. 1090). By-laws must be adopted within thirty days after filing articles of incorporation. The by-laws must be adopted by a majority vote of the subscribed capital stock at a meeting called on two weeks' notice in a newspaper published in the county where the principal place of business is located. The first meeting may, however, be dispensed with and by-laws be adopted by written assent or two-thirds vote of the stockholders (sec. 962). The by-laws must be certified to by a majority of the directors and the secretary and be kept in a book of by-laws (sec. 964). 11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — If the charter so provides, both the stockholders' and directors' meetings may be held without the State. The power to adopt by-laws may be delegated, by a two-thirds vote of the stockholders, to the directors (sec. 964).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for illegally increasing or reducing the stock of the corporation, for declaring illegal dividends; also for making false reports, for creating debts beyond the amount of subscribed capital stock, and for making loans to stockholders (secs. 970, 978). Penal provisions are also in force, punishing frauds on the part of boards of directors and officers of a corporation. Directors are deemed to have knowledge of acts of the board, and any director will be held liable therefor unless he causes his dissent to be entered in the corporate records provided he remains a director for six months thereafter (secs. 971, 1091, 2542-2544, 2553-2555, 2559-2563).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable for debts of the company to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions. Also for debts due mechanics, workmen, and laborers employed by the corporation (secs. 975, 1087).

15. Preferred Stock. — The act makes no special provision for the issuance of preferred stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Corporations can issue stock for money, labor done, or money or property actually received. The act expressly provides that all stock certificates issued in excess of the capital stock shall be void (Const., Art. IX. sec. 39; see also Stat., sec. 958).

17. Books. — Stock transfer books and a journal of the meetings of directors and stockholders must be kept open for inspection of stockholders, but the place where such book is to be kept is not specified by statute (secs. 979, 1086; see also Cons., Art. II. sec. 28; Laws of 1908, p. 233).

18. Office. — The act requires every corporation to have its main office for the transaction of its business within the State (secs. 45, 161).

19. Reports. — Corporations for mining, manufacturing, and other industrial pursuits must annually, within twenty days from the 1st day of January, make a report which must be published in some newspaper published at the place where the principal business of the corporation is carried on, stating the capital stock, and the amount thereof actually paid in, the amount and rating of its indebtedness, and the amount due the corporation, the number and amount of dividends and when paid, and the net amount of profits. This report must be signed by the president and a majority of the directors, and verified by the president or secretary, and filed in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the corporate business is carried on (sec. 1088; see also sec. 1089).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Certain classes of trusts and combinations are prohibited (Cons., Art. II. sec. 32; Art. V. sec. 44; Art. IX. sec. 45; Laws of 1908, p. 750 et seq.).

21. Statutory Ground for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited for failure to organize and commence the transaction of business within one year from filing articles, also by neglect, abuse, or surrender of its corporate rights (secs. 981, 1099, 5357-5359).

22. Annual Franchise Tax. — There is no annual franchise tax in Oklahoma.

23. Amendments. — Articles may be amended in any particular, except for increasing or decreasing the capital stock, by having the directors and officers of the company execute new articles to be known as "Amended Articles of Incorporation." The latter must set forth clearly and specifically the amendments desired. The articles as amended must be filed with the Secretary of State (sec. 945). The foregoing section undoubtedly contemplates action by the stockholders on the proposed amendment prior to the execution of the certificate of amendment by the directors and officers.

To increase or diminish the capital stock action must be taken at a meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose by the directors as follows: (1) Notice of the time and place of the meeting, stating its object and the amount to which it is proposed to increase or diminish its capital stock, must be personally served on each stockholder resident in the State, at his place of business, if known, and if not known, at the place where the principal office of the corporation is situated, and be published in a newspaper published in the county of such principal place of business, once a week for four weeks successively. (2) The capital stock must in no case be diminished to an amount less than the indebtedness of the corporation or the estimated cost of the works which it may be the purpose of the corporation to construct. (3) At least two-thirds of the entire capital stock must be represented by the vote in favor of the increase or diminution before it can be effected. (4) A certificate must be signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting and a majority of the directors, showing compliance with the requirements of this section, the amount to which the capital stock has been increased or diminished, the amount of stock represented at the meeting, and the vote by which the object was accomplished. (5) The certificate must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, there to be recorded in the book of corporations, and thereupon the capital stock shall be so increased or diminished. (6) The written assent of the holders of three-fourths of the subscribed capital stock shall be as effectual to authorize the increase or diminution of the capital stock as if a meeting were called and held, and upon such written assent the directors may proceed to make the certificate herein provided for (sec. 978).

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Corporate existence may be extended, if desired, by compliance with the statute (sec. 1223).

25. Dissolution. — Two-thirds vote of the stockholders authorizes petition for dissolution in the District Court (sec. 980).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations must file in the office of the Secretary of State an authenticated copy of their charter, and appoint an agent to receive process. This agent must reside in the county where the principal business of the corporation is to be carried on. An authenticated copy of the agent's appointment must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State.

Every foreign corporation must, before being licensed to do business in the State, file in the office of the corporation commission a list of its stockholders, officers, and directors, with the residence and post-office address of and the amount of stock held by each (Const., Art. IX. sec. 43). No annual license fees are imposed upon foreign corporations (see generally Laws of 1908, p. 214). To obtain a license foreign corporations must pay the same fee as is required by domestic corporations (see sec. 8, ante). No corporation except created solely for religious or charitable purposes shall transact business within this State until it shall have filed in the office of the Secretary of State a certified copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, which shall be recorded in a book to be kept by the Secretary of State for that purpose, and shall have paid the fees required by law. Every foreign corporation shall, before it shall be authorized or permitted to transact business in this State, or continue business therein if already established, by its certificate under the hands and seal of the company appoint an agent, who shall be a citizen of the State, and residing at the State capital, upon whom service of process may be made in any action in which said corporation be a party, and said action may be brought in any county in which the cause of action arose as now provided by law, and service upon such agent shall be taken and held as due service upon said corporation. Such certificate shall also state the principal place of business of such corporation in this State, with the address of the resident agent. A duly authenticated copy of the appointment of such agent shall be filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, for which a fee therefor of $1 shall be paid to the Secretary and a like fee of $1 for each subsequent appointment of any agent so filed (Laws of 1909, chap. X. Art. I. sec. 1).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limit upon the amount of corporate indebtedness.

7. Organization Tax. — Where the capital stock shall not exceed $5,000, the organization tax is $10; where it exceeds $5,000 and does not exceed $10,000, $15; where it exceeds $10,000 and does not exceed $25,000, $20; where it exceeds $25,000 and does not exceed $50,000, $25; where it exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $100,000, $35; where it exceeds $100,000 and does not exceed $250,000, $45; where it exceeds $250,000 and does not exceed $500,000, $60; where it exceeds $500,000 and does not exceed $1,000,000, $75. 8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The payment of the organization tax covers the filing and recording fees in the office of the Secretary of State. The charge for certified copy of certificate of incorporation is 25 cents for each one hundred words, and $2 for affixing certificate thereto. For filing and recording certificate with county clerk the fee is $2.50 (Laws of 1907, chap. 237).

9. Commencing Business. — As soon as the articles are filed as required by law and one-half of the capital stock has been subscribed and the annual tax for the succeeding fraction of the fiscal year has been paid, the corporation may commence the transaction of business (secs. 5053, 5057, Laws of 1907, chap. 237). Directors must be elected and business commenced within one year from time of filing articles (secs. 5057, 5067; Laws of 1905, chap. 50).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State in the absence of any statute providing otherwise. Provision is made for the calling of the organization meeting. At the incorporators' meeting the incorporators act as inspectors of election, and certify that they will elect directors, and appoint time and place for their first meeting (sec. 5058). Directors cannot be elected until one-half of the capital stock has been subscribed (sec. 5057).

Nickum v. Burekhardt, 30 Ore. 464; 47 Pac. 789; 48 Pac. 474.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. The provision that a majority of the directors shall be residents of the State practically renders it necessary to hold the directors' meetings within the State unless the expedient is resorted to of delegating the powers of directors to an executive committee composed of a minority of the directors (sec. 5062). Under a recent amendment mining corporations may hold meetings of its directors outside of the State of Oregon (Laws of 1905, chap. 190).

Doernbecker v. Company, 21 Ore. 573; 28 Pac. 899.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must not be less than three directors, all of whom must be stockholders, and, except in the case of corporations of the character mentioned below, a majority of the board must be residents of the State (secs. 5057, 5059). A ma-majority of the directors of any corporation incorporated for the purpose in whole or in part of and actually engaged as its principal business in acquiring, owning, or working mines, or acquiring or owning or operating mills, reduction works, smelters, or power plants for mining purposes, or acquiring or constructing or operating steam or electric railroads as a common carrier may, while said corporation is so engaged in the business aforesaid as its principal business and no longer, reside out of the State of Oregon. Any such corporations may also have officers and directors without this State and meetings of directors may be held without the State; but at least one director of every such corporation shall reside in the State, and every such corporation, if its president does not reside within the State, must at all times maintain within the State, and within the county where its principal office and place of business is located, an agent upon whom service of summons and process issued to or against such corporation may be served (Laws of 1907, chap. 146). Each director must subscribe to an oath of office (sec. 5059). Less than a majority may constitute a quorum if desired (sec. 5062). There shall be an annual election of directors, and at each election after the first, the president of the corporation shall act as inspector of election and certify who are elected directors. The directors chosen shall hold their offices for one year thereafter and until their successors are elected and qualify, or if the stockholders shall so decide they may be elected in the following manner: Of the directors first chosen as nearly one-third of the whole number as may shall be elected for the term of one year, as nearly one-third of the whole number as may be, for the term of two years, the remainder for the term of three years, all of whom shall serve for such terms respectively and until their successors are elected and have qualified. Thereafter as the terms of the directors expire, their successors shall be chosen for the term of three years and until their successors are elected and qualify. Any vacancy in the Board of Directors who are elected for a term of more than one year shall be filled by election for the remainder of the term. The powers vested in the directors may be exercised by a majority of them, and any such number may constitute a quorum at all regular or stated meetings authorized by the by-laws of the corporation in all cases when either the directors or incorporators shall have filed with the Secretary of State and county clerk a written statement designating such less number sufficient to form a quorum and insurance companies formed under this law may designate in their articles of incorporation what amount of per centum of the capital stock shall be required to be paid in before commencing business, and the stockholders shall be liable for their respective stock held by them respectively when the business or liability of the corporation shall require it (Laws of Oregon, 1911, chap. 160, amending sec. 6693).

Silsby v. Strong, 38 Ore. 36; 62 Pac. 633.

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for the illegal declaration of dividends, and for the unlawful withdrawal of capital (sec. 5066).

Patterson v. Thompson, 86 Fed. 85; 90 Fed. 647.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions (Cons., Art. XI. Laws of 1911, p. 519).

Lee v. Imbrie, 13 Ore. 510; 11 Pac. 270; Brundage v. Company, 12 Ore. 322; 7 Pac. 314; Hawkins v. Company, 38 Ore. 544; 64 Pac. 320; Aldrich v. A. C. & D. Co., 24 Ore. 32; 32 Pac. 756; Balfour v. Company, 27 Ore. 300; 41 Pac. 164.

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate showing the number of shares held by him, signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe.

15. Preferred Stock. — There is no express provision authorizing the issuance of preferred stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be paid for in money or money's worth.

On the subject of payment of capital stock the Supreme Court of Oregon has recently given utterance to the following valuable opinion:

"The appellant's contention is that the corporation, through its board of directors, exercised its best judgment as to values of properties taken over in exchange for stock, and acted in good faith in accepting the property, including the good-will of a partnership concern, in full payment of the capital stock issued, and therefore the transaction is unimpeachable at the suit of creditors; in other words, the stockholders must be held to be exonerated from all liability to the corporation for the benefit of the creditors, except in case of actual fraud charged against the corporation and stockholders, and affirmatively proven.

"The directors of a corporation, in the absence of a constitutional or statutory inhibition to the contrary, may receive property in payment for stock in any case in which they are authorized under the charter to purchase for the benefit of the corporation, and to subserve the purposes for which it is organized.

"If the nature of the property [so purchased] and the extent of the over-valuation thereof [by the directors] are such that the excess valuation may have possibly been due to error in honest conviction or judgment, then, to render the transaction invalid, actual fraud must be shown, and it is one of fact. The real question in cases of this character being whether the property was placed and taken at a high valuation with a fraudulent intent of evading the plain meaning of the law. It is competent for the determination of this question to take into consideration the value of the property, the purposes for which it is accepted, and all the conditions and circumstances attending and surrounding the transaction, and if, from the whole, it appears that the board has acted in good faith in the honest exercise of its best judgment, no adverse presumption impeding, then are its acts conclusive, otherwise not." Macbeth v. Banfield (Ore.), 78 Pac. 693.

17. Books. — The stock book and all other books of the corporation, necessary in carrying on its business, must be kept within the State at the principal office (sec. 5063). They are open to inspection at all reasonable hours.

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation must maintain an office within the State at all times (sec. 5055). In the case of mining and those corporations specially authorized to have a majority of the directors non-residents of the State (see ante, sec. 12), the law provides that such corporations must file with their annual statement a power of attorney appointing a person therein named as its duly authorized agent to receive service of process upon it. This power of attorney must also give the full name and residence of the agent (Laws of 1907, chap. 146).

19. Reports. — All corporations shall, during the month of June of each year, furnish the Secretary of State with a statement sworn to by one of the officers, setting forth the name of the corporation, location of its principal office, names of its president, secretary, and treasurer, and their post-office addresses, date of annual election of officers and directors, amount of authorized capital stock, number and par value of shares, amount of capital stock subscribed, amount issued and paid up (Act of Feb. 16, 1903, sec. 5). In the case of mining and other corporations specially authorized to have a majority of their board of directors non-residents of the State (see ante, sec. 12), there must be filed with the annual statement a power of attorney appointing a person therein named as duly authorized agent of the corporation for service of process upon it. This power of attorney shall state the agent's full name and residence (Laws of 1907, chap. 146). Mining corporations must, during the month of June in each year, furnish to the Secretary of State a report setting forth certain particulars as to their business. Mining corporations whose annual output shall not exceed the sum of $1,000, shall, upon the filing of such report, be exempt from the payment of the annual license fee now provided by law, and in lieu thereof shall pay an annual license fee of $10. They can, however, avoid the making of such report, if they shall pay the annual license fee required of other domestic corporations of like capitalization (Laws of 1905, chap. 50; Laws of 1911, pp. 40, 41).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute in force in Oregon.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charters may be forfeited, if the corporation for any period of six months after the commencement of business neglects or ceases to carry on the same. They may also be forfeited for abuse or misuser of corporate powers, or for failure to elect directors and commence business within one year after filing articles of incorporation (sec. 5067). The right to transact business is in abeyance while the annual franchise tax is in default (Laws of 1903, p. 39 et seq.). The charter may be forfeited for non-payment of license fee for two successive years (Laws of 1905, chap. 172). Charter may be forfeited for violation of statute law, for non-user of its franchise, for doing or omitting to do any act which amounts to a surrender of its franchise, or for exercising a franchise or privilege not conferred upon it by law (secs. 366, 367).

22. Amendments. — Any corporation may, at any meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose, by a vote of a majority of the stock, increase or diminish its capital stock or the amount of shares thereof (sec. 3235, Hills' Annotated Laws of Oregon). The stockholders may, by a majority vote of the stock, change the general place of business (sec. 5072).

The directors of any corporation may file supplemental articles of incorporation at any time when a three-fourths vote of all the stock subscribed shall so determine, for the purpose of engaging in any business cognate or germane to the original objects or primary purposes of said corporation not in violation of law, or at any time when a seven-eighths vote of all the stock subscribed shall so determine, for the purpose of engaging in any new enterprise or pursuit not in violation of law, or for the purpose of change in part of their road or canal or other terminus, or both, when not in violation of law or any contract entered into by such corporation; the directors shall cause a notice to be published of the filing of such supplemental articles setting forth the object of the same (sec. 5073; Laws of 1905, chap. 50).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for the extension of corporate existence.

24. Dissolution. — Corporations may be dissolved by a majority vote of the stockholders of the corporation (sec. 5070; Laws of 1903, p. 41).

25. Annual License Fee. — Every corporation organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, except corporations formed or organized for any educational, literary, scientific, religious, or charitable purpose, and every foreign corporation, joint-stock company, or association now doing business in this State, or that may hereafter do business within this State, except fire, marine, fire and marine, life, accident, life and accident, plate glass and steam boiler

The tax becomes due and payable August 15th of each year.

Every corporation formed or organized under and pursuant to the laws of the State of Oregon, for the purpose of engaging in the business of mining for any of the precious metals, and whose business it shall be to engage in said business only, and whose annual output or products shall not exceed in value the sum of $1,000, shall thereupon be exempt from the payment of the annual license fee above set forth, but in lieu thereof shall pay an annual license fee of $10 (Laws of 1907, chap. 237; see also Laws of 1909, chap. 40).

26. Foreign Corporations. — A foreign corporation must file with the Secretary of State a declaration of its purposes to engage in business within the State, and state name under which it proposes to transact business, name of State under whose laws it is organized, location of its home office, date of its incorporation, amount of capital stock, nature of its business, location of its principal office within the State, name of its attorney in fact, names and addresses of its principal officers and directors, and name and residence of principal agent within the State; also certified copy of its charter, certified to by the legal keeper of the original, together with a certificate of the Secretary of State of the State issuing the charter as to whether said articles of incorporation are genuine; and must pay to the Secretary of State $50 for filing and recording the same, together with annual license fee for the succeeding fraction of the year. The annual license tax is the same as for domestic corporations. Must also file annual reports same as domestic corporations, and must appoint an attorney within the State upon whom process may be served (Act of February 16, 1903, secs. 6, 7). The attorney so appointed must be a citizen of the United States, and a citizen and resident of Oregon (Laws of 1903, p. 47, sec. 7. See also Laws of 1911, pp. 71-73).

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — Much of the hopeless confusion that may be discovered upon a cursory examination of the Business Corporation Laws of Pennsylvania may be removed by the following explanatory statement: On April 7, 1849, the Legislature of Pennsylvania passed an act for the incorporation of manufacturing companies. This was followed in 1854 by the enactment of the Mining Company Act, providing for the incorporation of mechanical and mining companies. On July 18, 1863, an act was passed providing for the incorporation of quarrying, manufacturing, and mechanical companies. On April 29, 1874, a general act was passed providing for the organization of a large number of classes of corporations. Under this act corporations could be organized for any specific purpose mentioned in the act. It was, however, limited at that time in its operation and did not permit of incorporation for all purposes. The act was later amended so as to permit of incorporation for any one kind of business not otherwise provided for (1901, July 9, P. L. 624, sec. 1). Corporations are now incorporated under the Act of April 29, 1874, and acts amendatory thereof. The various statutes in Pennsylvania referring to the earlier Incorporation Acts of 1849, 1854, and 1863 are binding only upon corporations previously created under these acts. The Corporation Act of July 9, 1901 (P. L. 313), provides that all previous acts inconsistent therewith shall be repealed by the provisions of this act (see Laws of 1909, P. L. 2887). Special acts are provided for banks, trust companies, railway, canal, navigation, insurance, building, and loan companies, and eleemosynary corporations (1874, April 29, P. L. 73; 1893, June 10, P. L. 435; 1901, July 9, P. L. 624, sec. 1; 1903, April 23, P. L. 204; April 26, 1911), P. L. 79.

2. Incorporators. — Three or more persons, one of whom must be a citizen of Pennsylvania (1901, May 29, P. L. 326, sec. 1; 1903, April 23, P. L. 273).

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation. — The certificate must set forth:

a. Name. — Similarity of names is forbidden. A charter will be refused where the proposed name is already in use by another domestic corporation (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 3; 1903, April 22, P. L. 251; Laws of 1909, P. L. 215).

American Clay Mfg. Co. v. Company, 198 Pa. 189; 47 Atl. 936; Nether Providence Ass'n, 12 Pa. C. C. 666.

b. Purposes. — Purposes for which corporation is formed. Only one purpose may be inserted. Certificates for incorporation of manufacturing or mercantile companies must describe in a general way the goods to be manufactured or sold (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 3; 1893, June 10, P. L. 435. See cases in Vol. 3 of Pepper & Lewis' Digest of Pennsylvania Decisions, pp. 4769-4777, 4801-4808).

c. Domicile. — Place or places where business is to be transacted (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 3).

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — PENNSYLVANIA.

d. Duration. — Term of existence. May be perpetual, if desired (1874, April 29, P. L. secs. 1, 3, 4).

e. Subscribers' Names and Subscriptions. — Names and residences of subscribers and number of shares subscribed for by each (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 3).

f. Directors. — Number of directors to be not less than three; also names and residences of those for the first year (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 3; 1901, April 19, P. L. 51). Where a corporation has only three directors, it has been held that the treasurer cannot be named as one of these (Corporation Officers, 3 Pa. Cir. Ct. 188).

g. Capital Stock. — Amount thereof. Number and par value of shares. Capital stock may be any amount. Par value of shares must not exceed $100 (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 3, 11, 39; 1899, May 3, P. L. 120; 1901, Feb. 9, P. L. 1; 1901, July 2, P. L. 302). Par value of shares in the case of mining companies may be $1 (1865, March 27, P. L. 34, sec. 8). If any stock is issued for property, a statement of the amount so issued must be inserted (1876, April 17, P. L. 10, sec. 4).

h. Preliminary Payment of Stock Subscriptions. — A statement that ten per cent of the capital stock has been paid in in cash to the treasurer, together with his name and residence (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 2).

Cook v. Marshall, 191 Pa. 315; 43 Atl. 314.

4. Statutory Powers. — The statute enumerates the common law powers of corporations (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 1). The following additional powers are also conferred: To consolidate with other corporations (1901, May 29, P. L. 349; 1905, March 31, P. L. 95 (1909, P. L. 229)). To purchase and hold stock in other corporations (1905, March 31, P. L. 95; 1895, June 26, P. L. 278, sec. 1; 1901, July 2, P. L. 298; 1887, June 17, P. L. 411, sec. 3). To issue preferred stock (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 16, 39; 1872, April 3, P. L. 39, sec. 1; 1873, April 28, P. L. 39, sec. 1). To vote by proxy (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 6; 1820, March 28, 7 Sm. L. 320, sec. 1; 1903, March 5, P. L. 14). To enforce a lien for corporate debts (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 39). To forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments (1895, June 26, P. L. 278, sec. 1). To cumulate votes in the election of directors and to classify directors (1876, April 25, P. L. 47, sec. 1; 1887, June 17, P. L. 411, secs. 1, 2). The power to adopt by-laws may be delegated in the charter to the board of directors (1891, May 14, P. L. 61, sec. 1. See generally on Corporate Powers, Constitution, XVI. secs. 6, 7; 1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 38, 39, 43; 1887, May 24, P. L. 188, sec. 1; 1868, March 31, P. L. 50, sec. 1; 1893, May 18, P. L. 81, sec. 1; 1905, March 31, P. L. 95). (As to reorganization of corporations see P. L. of 1911, June 20, p. 192).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate must be subscribed and acknowledged by at least two of the incorporators, who must swear that the statements contained in the certificate are true. This certificate must be acknowledged before a recorder of the county in which the corporation is to be located, or before any notary public of Pennsylvania. Notice of intention to apply for charter must be published in the legal journal, if any of the proper county in which court notices usually appear, which journal for such publication shall be deemed a newspaper of general circulation, provided that the rates charged for such publication shall not be in excess of the usual current rates charged by such newspapers. This notice must be published once a week for three weeks and must state the character and object of the proposed corporation (Laws of 1909, P. L. 215). The notice of intention to apply for charter should give the names of at least three incorporators, designating the time when application will be made to the Governor for the charter, the Act of the Assembly under which it is made, and the purposes proposed. The proof of publication of the notice must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State upon the recording of the certificate. The certificate of incorporation should be on file in this office during the period of publication. Re-advertisements will be required for applications received thirty days after the time designated in the notice. The certificate must have at least two subscribers, one of whom must be a citizen of the Commonwealth, and must be acknowledged and verified by at least two subscribers. The object of the corporation should be restricted to the purposes set forth definitely in the incorporation act, and so concisely stated as to be void of diversity. Special care should be taken that only the purpose is stated and not the powers which come to the corporation by grant of law, and that the certificate be confined to the statement of a single purpose. Certificates for the incorporation of manufacturing and mercantile companies should describe in a general way the character of the articles to be manufactured and sold. The certificate, together with proof of publication, must then be forwarded to the Governor, who, if he approves of it, endorses his approval thereon and directs letters patent to issue. The certificate is then recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, registered with the Auditor-General, and the original articles, with the endorsement mentioned, must then be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county where the chief operations of the company are to be carried on (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 3, 4, 26, 45; 1891, April 15, P. L. 18; 1874, May 15, P. L. 107; 1901, May 29, P. L. 207; 1903, April 23, P. L. 273).

M. B. Co. v. Company, 196 Pa. St. 25; 46 Atl. 99.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Loans to an amount not exceeding one-half the capital stock may be made on real estate and machinery, or on real estate alone. Corporations belonging to classes designated in the statute as 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 11, 24, may borrow money to an amount not exceeding double the amount of capital stock paid in. Under the Laws of 1905, chap. 190, all other business corporations are given right to mortgage, borrow, and pledge without limit as to amount (Cons., Art. XVI. sec. 7; 1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 38, 39; 1874, April 18, P. L. 61, sec. 1; 1874, May 15, P. L. 86, sec. 1; 1879, May 13, P. L. 57, sec. 1; 1881, June 8, P. L. 69, sec. 1; 1889, May 21, P. L. 257, sec. 1; 1901, Feb. 9, P. L. 1, sec. 1).

7. Organization Tax. — A bonus of one-third of one per cent upon the authorized capital stock must be paid (1878, May 22, P. L. 97, sec. 1; 1897, June 15, P. L. 155; 1899, May 3, P. L. 120; 1899, May 7, P. L. 115, sec. 1; 1901, Feb. 9, P. L. 1).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — Filing fees in the office of the Secretary of State, $30; for making copy of certificate, 25 cents per typewritten page and 75 cents for certificate, and $1 for affixing great seal of State. Recording fees in local county office, 25 cents per folio; fee upon organization for filing statements, $5; cost of publishing notice of application for letters patent, usually about $9. In Philadelphia the cost of publishing notice is usually about $13.

9. Commencing Business. — Before the corporation can commence business ten per cent of the authorized capital stock must have been paid in in cash to the treasurer of the intended corporation. The corporation cannot commence business without first filing with the Auditor of the Commonwealth the name of the corporation, the date of the incorporation, the authority under which incorporated, place of business, post-office address and names of the president, secretary, and treasurer, the amount of capital authorized by the charter, and amount of capital paid in to the treasurer of the company (1876, April 17, P. L. 30, sec. 6; 1879, June 7, P. L. 112, sec. 1; 1889, June 1, P. L. 420, sec. 19). Business must be commenced within two years after incorporation (1889, May 16, P. L. 241, sec. 2; 1883, June 13, P. L. 122, sec. 5; see Corporation Officers, 3 Pa. C. C. 188; Potter Gas Co., 15 Pa. C. C. 347). One-fourth of the capital stock must be paid up within two years (1883, June 13, P. L. 122, sec. 5). Work must be begun in two years and finished in five years (1889, May 16, P. L. 241, sec. 2).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the Commonwealth, unless a majority of the incorporators or stockholders are citizens of another State (1891, May 14, P. L. 61, sec. 1). When a majority of the directors, corporators, or stockholders thereof are citizens of another State, the corporation may be organized without the State, if desired (1865, Nov. 27, P. L. (1866) 1228, sec. 1; 1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 38; 1826, March 28, 7 Sm. L. 320, secs. 1, 2).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — The annual meetings for the election of officers must be held in the State of Pennsylvania. Special stockholders' meetings and meetings of the board of directors may be held without the State, if a majority of the stockholders and a majority of the directors are respectively citizens of another State (1865, Nov. 27, P. L. (1866) 1228, sec. 1). Iron and steel corporations may hold all meetings without the State, if desired (1820, March 28, 7 Sm. L. 320, secs. 1, 2; 1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 38; 1893, June 8, P. L. 351).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors, one of whom must be a resident of the State. Directors need not be stockholders (Corporate Directors, 7 Pa. C. C. 178). If the by-laws so provide, the number of directors may be changed from time to time by the directors without a vote of the stockholders and without amending the certificate of incorporation. Directors may be classified, if desired. If the certificate so provides, directors may adopt by-laws (1891, May 14, P. L. 61, sec. 1). The right of stockholders to cumulate their votes in the election of directors is a constitutional right (1874, April 29, P. L. 74, sec. 38; 1876, April 25, P. L. 47; 1877, June 17, P. L. 411, secs. 1, 2; 1887, May 31, P. L. 281, sec. 1; 1887, June 17, P. L. 411; 1901, April 19, P. L. 80, sec. 1).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for the declaration of illegal dividends and for the illegal withdrawal of capital stock. They are also liable to creditors and stockholders for moneys embezzled by officers (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 39; 1878, June 12, P. L. 196, sec. 1). Directors absent or objecting to any such action may exempt themselves from liability by filing objection in writing with the clerk of the company (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 39). Directors of all corporations organized under the Act of July 18, 1863 (P. L. 1102, sec. 1), are liable: First, for property used for other purposes than that stated in the charter (1863, July 18, P. L. 1102, sec. 2); second, for neglect of duties relative to filing certificates of amendments to increase and reduce capital stock (1863, July 18, P. L. 1102, secs. 21-22); third, for loans to stockholders (1863, July 18, P. L. 1102, sec. 25); fourth, for permitting the corporation to contract debts in excess of the capital stock paid in (1863, July 18, P. L. 1102, sec. 26). Probably this last provision is repealed by Laws of 1905, chap. 190. Directors are also liable for making false certificates (1863, July 18, P. L. 1102, secs. 27, 34).

Strunk v. Owen, 199 Pa. St. 73; 48 Atl. 888.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions. They are also liable for debts to laborers, clerks, and operatives for services rendered within six months after demand made and neglect or refusal on the part of the corporation to make payment. This liability extends to the amount of stock held by each stockholder. They are also jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted by them for work or labor done or materials furnished for opening, improving, and preparing their lands for mining purposes. They are also liable for the illegal withdrawal of capital (Cons., XVI. sec. 7; 1854, April 21, P. L. 437, sec. 5; 1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 15, 24, 38, 39; 1876, April 17, P. L. 32, sec. 3; 1863, July 18, P. L. 1102, secs. 39, 47).

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate signed by the president or vice-president and countersigned by the treasurer, and sealed with the seal of the corporation (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 7; 1895, June 24, P. L. 258).

15. Preferred Stock. — Preferred stock may be issued, if authorized in the certificate of incorporation, or with the consent of a majority in interest of the stockholders after incorporation. It may be divided into classes, if desired. The amount of preferred stock cannot at any time exceed one-half of the authorized capital stock. The amount of dividends thereon is limited to twelve per cent. The holders of preferred stock are not liable for debts of the corporation (1872, April 3, P. L. 37, sec. 1; 1873, April 28, P. L. 79, sec. 1; 1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 16, 39; 1876, April 17, P. L. 30, sec. 4).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued in exchange for money, labor done, or property actually received. Stock may be issued for real and personal estate, mineral rights, patent rights, and other property necessary for the purposes of organization. The stock so issued shall be declared and taken to be full paid stock and not liable to any further calls or assessments. One-quarter of the capital stock must be paid up within two years. No note of a stockholder can be accepted in payment of stock. The president and directors, with the treasurer and clerk, must, in the case of manufacturing companies, before the payment of the last instalment of the capital stock, make a certificate stating the amount of the capital so fixed and paid in, which certificate must be signed and sworn to by the officers last mentioned, and must be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds for the county wherein the corporation has its principal place of business. (See Cons., XVI. sec. 7; 1874, April 29, P. L. 73, sec. 39; 1876, April 17, P. L. 30, sec. 4; 1895, June 26, P. L. 369, sec. 1; 1905, March 24, P. L. 39.)

17. Books. — Directors of manufacturing, mechanical, mining, quarrying, and other business, provided in sec. 18 of the enumeration of the classes of business corporations, are required to keep a stock book or stock register, which must be opened for inspection during business hours to all persons (1849, April 7, P. L. 563, sec. 24; 1891, May 14, P. L. 61, sec. 1; 1893, May 26, P. L. 141, secs. 1, 2; June 8, P. L. 355, sec. 1; 1849, April 7, P. L. 563, sec. 24).

Commonwealth v. Phoenix Iron Co., 105 Pa. 111.

18. Office and Agent. — Aside from all iron and steel manufacturing companies, the principal office of all business corporations must be located in the State, and the place where the business is to be transacted must be designated in the certificate. In the case of iron and steel companies, the latter may have an office without the State, if the by-laws so authorize, where meetings of stockholders and directors may be held (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 3, 38).

19. Reports. — Every corporation shall make an annual report to the Auditor-General in the month of November of the condition of the corporation. This report must state: (1) Total authorized capital stock; (2) total authorized number of shares; (3) number of shares issued; (4) par value of each share; (5) amount paid on each share; (6) amount of capital stock paid in; (7) amount of capital stock on which dividends have been declared; (8) date of each dividend during the year ending the 1st Monday in November; (9) rate per cent of each dividend; (10) amount of dividend during the year ending 1st Monday of last month; (11) gross earnings during the year; (12) net earnings during said year; (13) amount of surplus; (14) amount of profits added to sinking fund during said year; (15) highest price on sales of stock between November 1st and 15th; (16) highest price on sales of stock during the year (1901, May 8, P. L. 150). Two officers of the company are required to appraise the stock between November 1st and 15th, and one of these must verify the report (1905, April 14, P. L. 166; 1905, April 17, P. L. 186).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute. (See Nester v. Company, 161 Pa. St. 473; 29 Atl. 102.) Combinations of telegraph, railroad, or canal companies running parallel or competing lines and discrimination in rates are prohibited (Cons., Art. XVI. sec. 12; Art. XXIII. secs. 4, 7, 8; see also Morris R. C. Co. v. Company, 68 Pa. St. 173).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charter may be forfeited for failure to organize within two years after the issuance of charter. It may also be forfeited for misuser or non-user, or by the commission of any act whereby forfeiture thereof shall by law be created. Neglect to pay the bonus tax renders the charter liable to forfeiture (1836, June 14, P. L. 621, sec. 2; 1883, June 13, P. L. 123, sec. 5; 1901, May 21, P. L. 176; 1870, April 1, P. L. 45, sec. 1; 1872, April 4, P. L. 46, sec. 1; 1883, June 13, P. L. 122, sec. 5; 1889, May 16, P. L. 241, sec. 2).

22. Amendments. — Charters may be amended for the purpose of improving, amending, or altering the conditions upon which they were formed and established, by securing the approval of the Governor to such proposed amendment. Notice of intention to apply for such amendment must be given by publication thereof in two newspapers of general circulation, printed in the county wherein the corporation's principal place of business is located, once a week for three weeks. This notice must set forth briefly the character and objects of the desired improvements, amendments, or alterations, and the intention to make application therefor. Thereupon the corporation shall prepare a certificate under its corporate seal, setting forth the character and objects of the proposed amendment; also setting forth that all reports required by the Auditor-General of the Commonwealth have been filed, and that all taxes due the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have been paid. This certificate must be acknowledged by the president and secretary of the corporation before the recorder of deeds of the county wherein such corporation has its principal office or place of business, which certificate, together with proof of publication of notice, shall then be produced to the Governor of the Commonwealth for his approval. After this is obtained, the certificate shall then be recorded in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and with all these endorsements shall then be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in and for the proper county wherein the principal place of business of such corporation is located (1883, June 13, P. L. 122, secs. 1-4, as amended by 1905, March 31, P. L. 93).

The capital stock or indebtedness, or both, of any corporation created by general or special law may, with the consent of all persons or bodies corporate holding the larger amount in value of its stock, be increased to such amount in the aggregate of each, without regard to the amount of the other and regardless of any limitation upon the amount of either, prescribed in any general or special law regulating any such corporation as it shall deem necessary to accomplish, carry on, and enlarge the business and purposes of such corporation. Such increase of either may be made at once or from time to time, as a majority in interest of the stockholders shall determine, as aforesaid; and upon the authorization of any such increase of indebtedness by the stockholders of such corporation in the manner herein provided for, it shall be lawful for such corporation to secure the payment of the principal or interest, or both, of all or any part of such indebtedness by mortgage or deed of trust or other pledge or conveyance by way of security of all or any part of its real and personal property, rights, privileges, and franchises, and in such manner and upon such terms as its board of directors shall determine (1899, May 3, P. L. 189, sec. 2; 1901, Feb. 9, P. L. sec. 1; 1905, April 22, P. L. 280).

As preliminary to the increase of stock, the board of directors, by a majority vote, must call a meeting of the stockholders to vote thereon. The question may be presented either at any annual meeting or a special meeting called by publishing notice of the time, place, and object thereof once a week for sixty days prior thereto, in at least one newspaper published in the locality wherein the corporation's principal place of business is located. Within thirty days after the proper consent is given to such increase, the corporation must file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth one of the copies of the certificate of the president and secretary of the annual meeting, or one of the copies of the return of such election at the special meeting held for that purpose, with a copy of the resolution and notice calling the same thereto annexed. Also the president and treasurer must, within thirty days thereafter, make a return to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, under oath, of the amount of such increase actually made; and concurrently therewith the bonus tax on the increase must be paid (1901, Feb. 9, P. L. 1, secs. 1-3). The capital stock of any corporation created by general or special law may be reduced from time to time by consent of the persons or bodies corporate holding the larger amount in value of the stock of such corporation, provided that such reduction shall not be below the minimum amount of capital stock required by law for the formation of corporations formed for similar purposes (1905, April 22, P. L. 264).

To change the par value of the shares requires that such change shall be authorized by a majority of the stockholders at any annual or special meeting called for that purpose. Upon the adoption of any such amendment, the proper officers of the company must file a certificate of that fact in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, under the seal of the corporation (1901, July 2, P. L. 606, sec. 2).

The board of directors may change the location of the principal office, place, and time of the annual meeting of stockholders by a two-thirds vote of the board, approved by two-thirds vote of the stockholders. Upon such action being taken, the president must file in both the office of the Secretary of State and Auditor-General a report under seal of the corporation specifying the changes so made (1830, Feb. 6, P. L. 42, sec. 2; 1893, June 8, P. L. 355, sec. 1).

Cook v. Marshall, 191 Pa. St. 315; 43 Atl. Rep. 315.

To change the corporate name requires a resolution of the board of directors, adopted by a two-thirds vote thereof, approved at any annual or special meeting of the stockholders duly called by a two-thirds vote thereof. Thereupon the president of the corporation shall file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth a certificate under the seal of the company, setting forth the resolution adopted by the board of directors and approved by the stockholders, the date of the adoption of such resolution by the board of directors, the date of the approval by the stockholders, the date of the original incorporation of the company, the Act of Assembly under which the said corporation was created, the name under which it was originally incorporated, and the name which the corporation desires to adopt. All corporations required to record the original certificate of incorporation in the office for the recording of deeds must likewise record, in the office for the recording of deeds where the original certificate of incorporation was recorded, the certificate granted by the Secretary of the Commonwealth authorizing the use of the new corporate name (1903, April 22, P. L. 251). The Act of March 27, 1865 (P. L. 34, sec. 6), provides that errors in incorporation may be corrected at a meeting of stockholders specially called for that purpose. Thereafter a certificate must be first submitted to the Attorney-General and certified to by him to the effect that the same is in conformity with law. Thereupon this certificate, after being duly attested by the proper officers of the corporation, must be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Provision is made for the extension of corporate existence of business corporations (1874, April 29, P. L. 73, secs. 4, 40; 1895, June 25, P. L. 310).

24. Dissolution. — Court of Common Pleas may accept surrender of powers and enter a decree dissolving corporation, with consent of a majority of the stockholders and after advertisement in two newspapers (1856, April 9, P. L. 283, sec. 1; 1872, April 4, P. L. 40, sec. 1; 1887, May 31, P. L. 278, secs. 1, 3; 1903, March 27, P. L. 79; 1907, May 23, P. L. 165).

M. B. Co. v. Company, 196 Pa. St. 25; 46 Atl. 99.

25. Annual License Fee. — Five mills upon each dollar of the actual value of its whole capital stock of all kinds, including common, special, and preferred, must be paid to the Treasurer of the Commonwealth annually within thirty days from date of settlement of the account by the Auditor-General and State Treasurer. Manufacturing companies with property exclusively in the State are generally exempt from this annual license fee (1893, June 8, P. L. 353, sec. 1; 1899, May 3, P. L. 120; Laws of 1907, June 7, P. L. 294).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Statement must be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, showing name and object of the corporation, location of its office, and resident agent therein; must also pay State Treasurer a bonus of one-third of one per cent upon the capital actually employed or to be employed wholly within the State; must file annual report with the Auditor-General. Foreign corporations may become domestic, if they so desire, by complying with the statute in such case made and provided. The same annual tax is required as of domestic corporations, based, however, upon the amount of capital actually employed within the State (1881, June 9, P. L. secs. 1, 3; 1887, May 23, P. L. 176, secs. 1, 2; 1893, June 8, P. L. 389, secs. 1, 2; 1893, June 16, P. L. 466, sec. 1; 1901, May 8, P. L. 121; 1903, April 15, P. L. 200; 1903, Feb. 5, P. L. 4; 1903, March 11, P. L. 23; 1903, March 26, P. L. 67; 1905, Feb. 28, P. L. 27; Laws of 1907, June 7, P. L. 294). Every foreign corporation, before doing any business in this Commonwealth, shall appoint in writing the Secretary of the Commonwealth and his successor in office to be his true and lawful attorney and authorized agent upon whom all lawful process in any action or proceeding against it may be served; and service of process on the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on it; and the authority for such service of process shall continue in force so long as any liability remains outstanding against it in the Commonwealth. The power of attorney shall be executed with the seal of the corporation and signed by the president and secretary thereof, and shall contain a statement, showing the title and purpose of such corporation and location of its principal place of business in the Commonwealth, and the post-office address within the Commonwealth to which the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall send by mail any process against it served on him; which address such corporation may change from time to time as it may find occasion, by filing a certificate under its corporate seal with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, setting forth such change of address. Upon the payment of a fee of $10 for the use of the Commonwealth, the said power of attorney and statement shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and copies, certified by him, shall be sufficient evidence thereof. Service of such process shall be made by attorney of Dauphin County by leaving two copies of the process and a fee of $2 in the hands or at the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and he shall make due return of his service of such process to the court, magistrate or justice of the peace issuing the same. Such process may be issued by any court, or magistrate or justice of the peace having jurisdiction of the subject matter in controversy, in any county of the Commonwealth in which such corporation shall have its principal place of business, or any such county in which the right of action arose. Upon the filing of the said power of attorney with the Secretary of the Commonwealth it shall be his duty to certify forthwith to the auditor-general the corporate name of the corporation filing the same and the location of its principal place of business in the Commonwealth as set forth in said power of attorney (P. L. 1911, p. 710, sec. 2).

Sec. 3. When legal process against any such corporation has been served upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth it shall be sent by mail, postage prepaid, and one copy of such process directed to the corporation at the post-office address designated by it as hereinbefore provided. The fee of $2 paid by the plaintiff to the Secretary of the Commonwealth at the time of the service shall be taxed in his costs if he prevails in the suit. The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall keep a record of the day and hour of the service of such process on him, and a certified copy of such report shall be sufficient evidence thereof (P. L. 1911, p. 711).

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — On March 1, 1906, the Philippine Commission enacted a General Business Corporation Act, to take effect on April 1, 1906. 2. Incorporators. — Not less than five nor more than fifteen. A majority thereof must be residents of the Philippine Islands (sec. 6).

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation. — The articles of incorporation must contain:

a. Name. — Any name is permitted not already in use by another domestic corporation, or by a foreign corporation authorized to transact business in the Philippines.

b. Purpose. — The purpose for which the corporation is formed. The insertion of more than one line of business is permitted, provided the same is not covered by special act.

d. Corporate Existence. — The term for which it is to exist, not exceeding fifty years.

e. Incorporators. — The names and residences of the incorporators.

In addition to these the following extraordinary powers are granted: To delegate to the directors the power to adopt and amend by-laws; to remove directors; to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments. Voting by proxy is also permitted (secs. 13, 21, 22, 34).

The articles must then be signed by the incorporators, and the execution thereof be duly acknowledged before a notary public. To the articles must be annexed the affidavit of the treasurer elected by the incorporators, to the effect that he was duly elected by the subscribers named in the articles of incorporation as treasurer of the corporation, to act as such until his successor has been duly elected and qualified in accordance with the by-laws of the corporation, and that as such treasurer he has been authorized by the subscribers to receive for the corporation all subscriptions paid in by the subscribers for the capital stock. Next, he must name the amount of money in pesos that has been actually subscribed and the amount that has been actually paid in for the benefit and to the credit of the corporation. He must further certify that at least twenty per cent of the capital stock has been subscribed and at least twenty-five per cent of subscriptions have been actually paid in to him for the benefit and to the credit of the corporation. Next, the articles must be filed in the office of the Chief of the Division of Archives, Patents, Copyrights, Trade Marks, of the Executive Bureau. At the same time there must be paid to him the organization tax provided by law.

It will be noted that before the articles can be filed the subscribers to the capital stock of the corporation as named in the articles must meet and elect a treasurer, who is required to take subscriptions to at least twenty per cent of the entire capital stock and to receive at least twenty-five per cent of the stock subscribed for. The Chief of the Division of Archives, Patents, Copyrights, and Trade Marks issues a certificate of incorporation as soon as the requirements named above have been complied with (secs. 6-11 inclusive).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no limit upon the amount of indebtedness which a corporation may incur.

A special meeting of the stockholders or members of a corporation for the purpose of removal of directors, or any of them, must be called by the secretary or clerk on order of the president, or on the written demand of a majority of the members entitled to vote, or, if it be a stock corporation, on the written demand of the stockholders representing or holding at least one-half of the shares entitled to be voted. Should the secretary or clerk fail or refuse to call the special meeting demanded, or fail or refuse to give the notice, or if there is no secretary or clerk the call for the meeting may be addressed directly to the members or stockholders by any member or stockholder of the corporation signing the demand. Notice of the time and place of such meeting, as well as of the intention to propose such removal, must be given by publication or by written notice as prescribed in sec. 29. Written or printed notice of the proposed increase or diminution of the capital stock, and of the time and place of the stockholders' meeting at which the proposed increase or diminution of the stock is to be considered, must be addressed to each stockholder at his place of residence as shown by the books of the corporation and registered and deposited so addressed in the post-office with postage prepaid.

A certificate in duplicate must be signed by a majority of the directors of the corporation and countersigned by the chairman and secretary of the stockholders' meeting, showing compliance with the requirements of this section, the amount of the increase or diminution of the capital stock, the amount of stock represented at the meeting, and the vote authorizing the increase or diminution of the capital stock. One of the duplicate certificates shall be kept on file in the office of the corporation and the other shall be filed in the office of the Chief of the Division of Archives, Patents, Copyrights, and Trade Marks of the Executive Bureau, and attached by him to the original articles of incorporation. From and after the filing of the duplicate certificate with the Chief of the said division the capital stock shall stand increased or reduced.

Code, sec. 59).

9. Commencing Business. — Before beginning business an authenticated copy of the articles of incorporation must be filed with the treasurer of Porto Rico, together with a statement verified by the oath of the president, and attested by a majority of the directors, stating the name of the corporation, its domicile and the kind of business engaged in, branches elsewhere, and the commercial registry in which the articles have been recorded (Pol. Code, sec. 353). Another requirement is that business cannot be commenced until the amount of capital is paid in which is designated in the articles of incorporation as the amount with which it will commence business (sec. 36).

10. Organization Meeting. — Within sixty days after the filing of the articles of incorporation the first meeting of the corporation shall be called by a notice subscribed by a majority of the incorporators, designating the time, place, and purpose of the meeting. In all cases where it is not otherwise provided by law, the meetings of stockholders must be held at the principal office of the corporation in Porto Rico (sec. 42 a). Voting by proxy is provided for (secs. 42, 48). To permit of cumulative voting for directors, provision therefor must be made in the articles of incorporation (sec. 49). No share of stock can be voted upon which has been transferred on the books of the company within twenty days before the election (sec. 49). Directors, if the by-laws or articles of incorporation so provide, may hold their meetings and have an office outside of Porto Rico (sec. 41).

At least one-fifth must be elected each year (sec. 40). If desired, the stockholders may delegate to the directors the adop-

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for contracting debts in excess of the paid up capital stock or the value of the corporation's assets (sec. 62). They are also liable for making any dividend except from surplus profits, or for dividing and paying capital stock in any manner except as provided by law (sec. 46). Directors are also liable for making false statements in certificate of public notice (sec. 61). 16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Any corporation may purchase property necessary for its business or shares in the stock of any other corporation owning property necessary for its business, and may issue shares to the amount of the value thereof in payment of the same, and the shares so issued shall be fully paid stock and not liable to any further call. In the absence of actual fraud in the transaction, the judgment of the directors as to the value of the property purchased shall be conclusive. If any of said officers shall neglect or refuse to perform the duty thus imposed upon them for thirty days, at the written request so to do by a creditor or stockholder of any corporation, they shall be jointly and severally liable for all its debts contracted before the filing of such certificate (sec. 43).

Any corporation failing to make such a full report shall forfeit to the island of Porto Rico $200, to be recovered with costs in an action to be prosecuted by the Attorney-General (sec. 56).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — The Territory of Porto Rico has no anti-trust statute.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The Legislative Assembly of Porto Rico has power to dissolve all corporations (sec. 34). The corporation may also be dissolved for failure to bring books into the island when ordered so to do by the court (sec. 41).

Such amendments, changes, or alterations shall be made in the following manner. The board of directors shall pass a resolution declaring that such change or alteration is advisable and calling a meeting of the stockholders to take action thereon. The meeting shall be held upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and in the absence of such notice upon thirty days' notice given personally or by registered mail. If holders of two-thirds in amount of the capital stock issued shall vote in favor of such amendment, alteration, or change, a certificate thereof shall be signed by the president and secretary under the corporate seal, and acknowledged by a Notarial Act, and such certificate, together with the assent given in person or by proxy of stockholders representing two-thirds of the total number of shares issued, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of Porto Rico, and upon the filing of the same the articles of incorporation shall be deemed amended accordingly (sec. 44).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — This may be effected by amendment to the articles of incorporation. (See ante, sec. 22.)

24. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax.

25. Dissolution. — The corporation may be dissolved by joint action of the board of directors and stockholders. A two-thirds vote of the stockholders is required to carry into effect a dissolution. When two-thirds of the stockholders shall have consented to dissolution in writing, such consent, together with the names and residences of the directors and officers, certified by the president or secretary and treasurer, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of Porto Rico, who, on being satisfied by due proof that the requirements of law have been complied with, shall cause such certificate to be published four weeks successively in a newspaper published in Porto Rico. Upon affidavit being made that such certificate has been published, the corporation shall be dissolved, and the board of directors shall proceed to liquidate the business and affairs of such corporation. Whenever all the stockholders shall consent in writing to a dissolution in meeting, the notice thereof shall be inserted, and the Secretary of Porto Rico shall forthwith issue a certificate of dissolution on filing such consent in his office, which certificate shall be published as above provided (secs. 55-60 inclusive).

The president or acting head of the corporation and the secretary under the corporate seal must also file a certificate consenting to be sued in the courts of Porto Rico upon all causes of action arising against it therein, and further that service of process may be made in its behalf upon some person a resident of Porto Rico and whose name and place of residence shall be designated in such certificate (sec. 66). To this must be attached the written consent of the person so designated to act as such agent (sec. 67). Foreign corporations must make the same annual reports as are required of domestic corporations (sec. 69; see ante, sec. 19). RHODE ISLAND.

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Rhode Island is to be found in the General Laws, chaps. 176, 177, 180. Under this act corporations may be formed for the transaction of any ordinary business, except railroad, canal, turnpike, insurance, banking and trust companies, and corporations created for dealing in bonds, notes, and other evidences of indebtedness (see also Const., Art. IX.).

2. Incorporators. — Three or more persons of lawful age. No residential requirements (chap. 176, sec. 2).

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation. — The certificate must set forth:

a. Name. — Agreement to constitute an ordinary business corporation under a designated name. The latter must be one that must not be mistaken for that of a copartnership, and one not in use by an existing domestic corporation.

b. Purposes. — Business for which it is constituted. State officials construe this to authorize the insertion of any number of purposes in the articles not covered by special acts.

c. Domiciliary Office. — Town or city in which it is to be located.

d. Capital Stock. — Amount of capital stock, whether common or preferred, and how much of it, and the par value of shares. Capital stock may be any amount. The par value of shares may be any amount. If preferred stock is desired, the articles must set forth the advantages thereof over common stock (chap. 176, sec. 2).

e. If desired, provision may be made that the corporation shall have a lien on all shares for indebtedness of the shareholders due to the corporation. The right may also be given to the corporation in case of sale of stock by any stockholder to purchase said stock at the lowest price at which he is willing to sell before the same shall be sold by him to any other party (sec. 9) (Laws of 1906, chap. 1326).

The duration of a corporation is perpetual unless it shall expire by its own limitation or shall be legally annulled (G. C. L., secs. 1, 9, chap. 177).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of common law powers, the following additional powers are conferred: The right to authorize voting by proxy; the right to issue preferred stock; the creation of a lien upon shares for assessments or indebtedness due the corporation; the right to forfeit such stock for non-payment of assessments (chap. 177, secs. 1, 3, 9). Corporations may be dissolved for certain causes enumerated in the statute upon the petition of either stockholders or creditors (see Laws of 1909, chap. 424).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles of incorporation must be signed by each of the incorporators (setting forth the place of residence of each) and must be acknowledged in the same manner in which deeds of real estate are required to be acknowledged within the State. The agreement must then be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, together with the certificate of the general Treasurer, that the organization tax has been paid (chap. 176, secs. 3, 4). Upon payment of $1 the Secretary of State issues a certificate of incorporation in the form prescribed by statute (chap. 176, sec. 4). As soon as a treasurer is elected, his name and address must be filed with the Secretary of State (chap. 176, sec. 16). If the treasurer be a non-resident, then the corporation must appoint an agent residing within the State with authority to accept service of process in behalf of the corporation.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Corporate indebtedness in manufacturing corporations cannot be created beyond the amount of the actual capital paid in without subjecting the directors to personal liability therefor (chap. 180, sec. 15).

7. Organization Tax. — On capital stock less than $100,000, the tax is $100; on capitalization of $100,000 or more, the tax is one-tenth of one per cent on authorized capital stock. The tax is payable to the General Treasurer.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The payment of the organization tax includes the filing and recording fees in the office of the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State charges 10 cents per folio of 100 words for making copy of certificate of incorporation, and $1 for affixing certificate thereto. The fee for issuing certificate of incorporation is $1, for filing appointment of agent in behalf of a foreign corporation, $1.50.

9. Commencing Business. — Business may be commenced as soon as the articles are filed as prescribed by law. Within thirty days after organization there must be filed with the Secretary of State a certificate under oath of the treasurer, or other officer authorized to make same, setting forth the name of the corporation, date of organization, amount of capital stock actually paid in upon organization, the town in which such corporation is located, and the name and post-office address of its treasurer (chap. 177, sec. 24). Corporation must be organized within two years after incorporation (chap. 177, sec. 23).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State, in the absence of any statute providing otherwise. The meeting of the incorporators to form the corporation shall be called by a notice signed by one or more of the corporators, stating the time, place, and purpose of the meeting, and copy of which shall be mailed at least five days before the date appointed for the meeting to each corporator, addressed to his usual place of business or residence, which notice may be given as soon as said agreement and the certificate of the general treasurer have been filed with the Secretary of State, provided, however, that such first meeting may be held by agreement in writing of all the corporators without such notice; said first meeting to be held in any event subsequent to the issuing of said certificate by the Secretary of State (chap. 176, sec. 6).

The first meeting of the corporation, unless notice be waived in writing by all of the corporators, must be called by a notice signed by one or more of the corporators setting the time, place, and object of the meeting, and such notice shall, seven days before such meeting, be delivered to each member, or published in some newspaper of the county where such corporation may be established, or if there be no newspaper in the county, then in some newspaper of an adjoining county (chap. 177, sec. 4. As to contents of by-laws, see chap. 177, sec. 3).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. Voting by proxy at all stockholders' meetings is permitted (chap. 177, sec. 3). Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide (chap. 177, sec. 3).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — The number of directors is not limited; nor are there any residential requirements. The practice in Rhode Island is to require that all directors shall hold at least one share of stock in order to qualify them to act.

b. Liabilities. — Directors of manufacturing corporations are liable to the creditors for failure to file a certificate executed by themselves, together with the president, treasurer, and clerk of the company, within ten days after the payment of the last instalment of the capital stock fixed and limited by the charter, or by vote of the company, stating the amount of the capital so fixed and paid in. The certificate must then be recorded within the said ten days in the office of the town clerk of the town wherein the manufactory shall be established. They are also liable for illegal declaration of dividends. They are also liable under certain conditions (see chap. 180, secs. 15, 16) to the extent of the debts created by them in excess of the amount of stock actually paid in. Directors are also liable for making false certificates, knowing them to be false. They are also liable for making loans to stockholders to the extent of such loan and interest thereon (chap. 180, secs. 2, 3, 6, 7, 15, 16, 20, 21). Officers and directors are also liable for wilfully making any false statement in the tax statement required by the Tax Act of 1912 (see Laws of 1912, chap. 769, sec. 17).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions (Laws of 1901, chap. 839). The members of every incorporated manufacturing company shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts and contracts made and entered into by such company except as hereinbefore provided, until the whole amount of the capital stock fixed and limited by the charter of such company, or by vote of the company, in pursuance of the charter, or of law, shall have been paid in, and a certificate thereof shall have been made and recorded in a book kept for that purpose in the office of the town clerk of the town wherein the manufactory is established and no longer, except as hereinafter provided (chap. 180, sec. 1).

The president and directors, with the treasurer and clerk of such company, within ten days after the payment of the last instalment of the capital stock fixed and limited by the charter or by vote of the company, in pursuance of the charter or of law, shall make a certificate, stating the amount of the capital so fixed and paid in, which certificate shall be signed and sworn to by the president, treasurer, and clerk and by a majority of the directors, and they shall within said ten days lodge the same to be recorded in the book kept as aforesaid in the office of the town clerk of the town wherein the manufactory shall be established. In case of increase of the capital stock of said companies, like proceedings shall be had as to the amount added and paid in (chap. 180, sec. 2).

The liability provided by section 1 of chapter 180 is specifically limited to the shares of such stockholders in such corporation paid up and the par value thereof.

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a stock certificate showing the number of shares held by him, signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe.

15. Preferred Stock. — The issue of preferred stock is expressly authorized by law, and provision therefor must be made in the articles of incorporation (chap. 176, secs. 2, 7).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Capital stock may be paid for either in money or in property. This not by virtue of any specific statute, but under well-recognized principles of corporation law (see in this connection, chap. 180, secs. 8, 9, 10).

17. Books. — Records of transfers of stock of domestic corporations shall be made and kept within the State, and the officer of every such corporation whose duty it may be to record the transfers of shares in the capital stock thereof, shall at the time of his election or appointment be a resident of the State (chap. 177, sec. 19).

18. Office and Agent. — All corporations must have a place of business within the State, and shall have a clerk, treasurer, or other agent, who shall reside therein (chap. 177, sec. 21). The officer whose duty it is to record stock transfers must be a resident of the State (chap. 177, sec. 1). If the treasurer of a domestic corporation does not reside within the State, the corporation must forthwith appoint some competent person resident in the State as its attorney upon whom service of process upon the corporation may be made. A copy of the power of attorney designating such agent duly certified and authenticated must be filed with the Secretary of State (chap. 176, sec. 16).

19. Reports. — Annual reports are required to be filed with the Board of Tax Commissioners on or before the first day of March of each year (as to contents of report, see sec. 25, Annual Franchise Tax). By section 39, chapter 557 of the Laws of 1910, it is provided as follows:

"No stock, shares, or instalment shares in any investment company or in any real estate, mining, or co-operative corporation, society, association, or organization other than building and loan associations, or notes or bonds or other securities thereof, shall be sold or offered for sale in this State by any such company, corporation, society, organization, or association, or by any agent or broker representing such company, corporation, society, organization, or association until such company, corporation, society, organization, or association has filed in the office of the Secretary of State a statement and certificate showing its financial condition, the location of its property or properties with plans of the same, the amount of work done thereon, the amount of cash expended for improvements thereon, and the condition of the plant and machinery, if any, connected therewith. Such statement and certificate shall be subscribed and sworn to by the president, treasurer, and secretary of such company, corporation, society, organization, or association. A like statement and certificate shall be filed annually thereafter on or before the 1st day of July of each year. For the filing of such statement or certificate a fee of $10 shall be paid to the Secretary of State, and such statements and certificates shall be recorded by the Secretary of State in a book kept for that purpose and open for public inspection.

"Any company, corporation, society, organization, or association, or any agent or broker representing such company, corporation, society, organization, or association, selling or offering for sale any stock, shares, or instalment shares, or any notes, bonds, or other securities in any such company, corporation, society, organization, or association which has failed to file a statement or certificate as herein provided, shall be fined not exceeding $500 for each offence (Laws of 1910, chap. 557, sec. 40)."

"The provisions of this act shall not apply to any corporation incorporated under the laws of this State where at least ninety per centum of the property of such corporation is located in this State (Laws of 1910, chap. 557, sec. 41)."

On the request of the governor or Secretary of State, the bank commissioner shall privately examine the books and accounts of any such company, corporation, society, organization, or association, and if in his opinion such company, corporation, society, organization, or association is insolvent, or its condition is such as to render a continuance of the business hazardous to the public, said bank commissioner may petition the Superior Court for the counties of Providence and Bristol for the appointment of a receiver of the estate and effects in this State of such company, corporation, society, organization, or association and for an injunction to restrain such company, corporation, society, organization, or association, its officers or agents, from doing business in this State, and from selling or offering for sale in this State its stock, shares, notes, bonds, or other securities, and if incorporated under the laws of this State, for a dissolution, and said court shall have jurisdiction in equity of such petition. Such receiver shall have the rights and powers given to receivers under the provisions of sections 28, 29, and 30 of this chapter, and all acts in amendment thereof or in addition thereto. The actual expenses of such examination of the books and accounts of such company, corporation, society, organization, or association shall be paid by such company, corporation, society, organization, or association, if found by the bank commissioner to be insolvent or the continuance of its business to be hazardous to the public, or of failing to file any report as required by law" (Laws of 1910, chap. 557, sec. 42).

"If any company, corporation, society, organization, or association refuses to allow an examination of its books and accounts by the bank commissioner, he shall apply to the Superior Court for the counties of Providence and Bristol alleging such fact, and said court, on proof thereof, shall enjoin such company, corporation, society, organization, or association from doing business within this State, and from selling or offering for sale in this State its stock, shares, notes, bonds, or other securities, and if such corporation is incorporated under the laws of this State, the court may order a dissolution of said corporation and may appoint a receiver, who shall have the rights and powers above referred to" (Laws of 1910, chap. 557, sec. 42).

20. Anti-trust Statutes. — There is no anti-trust statute in force in Rhode Island.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited for failure to organize within two years after filing articles of agreement (chap. 177, sec. 23).

Any corporation having a non-resident treasurer and failing for the period of one year to appoint a resident agent within the State may be dissolved upon application by any creditor or by any other party in interest to the appellate division of the Supreme Court (chap. 176, sec. 16).

22. Amendments. — Whenever a corporation is created as provided by law, and more capital than the amount prescribed in the articles of agreement shall be necessary or desirable, such articles may be amended in pursuance of a vote therefor representing in amount three-quarters of the whole capital stock passed at a meeting of the corporation duly called for that purpose, by the filing in the office of the Secretary of State of a certificate of such vote duly attested by the president and secretary of said corporation, together with the certificate of the general treasurer that said corporation has, with previous payments to the general treasurer, paid into the treasury, for the use of the State, a sum equal to one-tenth of one per centum of its capital stock when so increased. Such vote shall set forth the amount, the par value, and kinds, of additional stock and the advantages of the preferred, if any, over the common stock. Such agreement may be amended in any other particular, excepting as provided in the following section, by like vote of the corporation, and the filing in the office of the Secretary of State of a copy of such vote duly attested by the president and secretary of said corporation (chap. 176, sec. 7).

Whenever a corporation is created as provided by law and it is deemed necessary or desirable to decrease the amount of capital stock of the corporation, prescribed in the articles of agreement or any amendment thereof, said articles may be so amended in pursuance of a vote therefor representing in amount three quarters of the whole capital stock passed at a meeting of the corporation duly called, when a copy of such vote duly attested by the president and secretary of said corporation, has been duly filed in the office of the Secretary of State; and the secretary of such corporation shall immediately notify in writing every stockholder of record of such decrease, and each stockholder shall forthwith present his certificate or certificates to be exchanged for others, or to have endorsed thereon proper evidences of the decrease of the par value thereof, as the case may be (chap. 176, sec. 8).

The articles of incorporation may be amended so as to provide that the corporation shall have a lien upon all shares for assessments or other indebtedness due from shareholders, or they may amend so as to give the corporation the right in case of sale of stock by any stockholder to purchase such stock at the lowest price at which he is willing to sell, before the same shall be sold by him to any other party, by compliance with the following provisions:

The amendment must be carried by a vote of the stockholders representing the whole capital stock, passed at a meeting of the corporation duly called for that purpose, and followed by the filing in the office of the Secretary of State of a certificate of such vote, duly attested by the president and secretary of the corporation (chap. 176, sec. 9, as amended by Laws of 1906, chap. 1326).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no statutory provision for the extension of corporate existence.

24. Dissolution. — Corporate powers cease if organization is not completed within two years, and court of common pleas may dissolve any company for non-user. May also dissolve voluntarily by resolution of stockholders representing a majority of capital stock (chap. 177, sec. 27, as amended by Laws of 1909, chap. 424). Whenever any corporation incorporated under the laws of this State, except a bank, savings bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of this State, is insolvent or whenever by reason of fraud, negligence, misconduct or continued absence from the State of the executive officers of any such corporation, or whenever by reason of the neglect, refusal, or omission by the stockholders of any such corporation for an unreasonable time to hold meetings or attend to its concerns, the estate and effects of such corporation are being misapplied or are in danger of being wasted or lost, or whenever any such corporation has done or omitted to do any act, which act or omission is ground for the forfeiture of its charter, or whenever a majority in interest of the members of such corporation having a capital stock, or a majority of the members of such corporation having no capital stock, shall have voted to dissolve said corporation, and to wind up its affairs, the Superior Court may, upon the petition of any stockholder or creditor of such corporation, and upon such reasonable notice as the court may prescribe, decree a dissolution of such corporation and appoint a receiver of its estate and effects, or may decree such dissolution without appointing a receiver, or may appoint such receiver without decreeing a dissolution (Laws of 1912, chap. 780, sec. 27).

Said Board, on the first business day of June in each year, shall make up a list of all corporations subject to tax upon their corporate excess, with the amount of the corporate excess of each, and shall assess a tax upon each such corporation at the rate of forty cents for each one hundred dollars of the amount of its corporate excess, and enter the amount of the tax against the name of each such corporation. Said Board shall certify to the correctness of such list and deliver a duly attested copy thereof as a public record to the general treasurer, who shall receive and collect the taxes so assessed in the same manner and with the same powers as are prescribed for, and given to, collectors of taxes by chapter 60 of the General Laws, and by any acts in amendment thereof or in addition thereto. Said Board shall also forthwith mail a notice of the amount of the tax to each such corporation, but the failure to receive such notice shall not excuse the non-payment of said tax. The tax assessed as aforesaid shall be payable on the first day of July next after its assessment as aforesaid, and if not paid by the fifteenth day of such July shall bear interest from the first day of such July at the rate of eight per centum per annum until paid, if such payment is made before the commencement of legal proceedings for the recovery of the tax, and at the rate of ten per centum per annum if made after the commencement of such proceedings. Such tax, if unpaid, shall constitute a lien upon the real estate of such corporation within this State for the space of two years after the assessment thereof, and if such real estate be not aliened, then until the same is collected (Laws of 1912, chap. 769, sec. 11).

By vote of three-fourths of the stockholders the corporation may direct the sale or mortgage of all of its corporate properties (Laws of 1909, chap. 118). Directors may be classified if provision is made therefor in the articles of incorporation (Laws of 1911, chap. 106).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The certificate must be signed and acknowledged by the incorporators before the same can be filed and charter issued. Two of the incorporators must take oath that the corporation is not formed for the purpose of enabling it to avoid the purposes of the South Dakota Anti-Trust Act, and upon the filing and recording of the certificate in his office the Secretary of State issues a certificate of due incorporation (R. C. C., secs. 410, 411; C. L., secs. 2904, 2905; Revised Penal Code, sec. 781).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Debts cannot be contracted beyond the amount of stock subscribed (R. C. C., sec. 436; C. L., sec. 2928).

7. Organization Tax. — Where the authorized capital stock is $25,000 or less, $10; over $25,000 and not exceeding $100,000, $15; over $100,000 and not exceeding $500,000, $20; over $500,000 and not exceeding $1,000,000, $30; over $1,000,000 and not exceeding $1,500,000, $40; over $1,500,000 and not exceeding $2,000,000, $50; over $2,000,000 and not exceeding $2,500,000, $60; over $2,500,000 and not exceeding $3,000,000, $70; over $3,000,000 and not exceeding $3,500,000, $80; over $3,500,000 and not exceeding $4,000,000, $90; over $4,000,000 and not exceeding $4,500,000, $100; over $4,500,000 and not exceeding $5,000,000, $110; over $5,000,000, $150 (Laws of 1907, chap. 149).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The payment of the organization tax covers all filing and recording fees in the office of the Secretary of State. For making certified copy of articles of incorporation the charge is 25 cents per folio of one hundred words for copying, and $1 for certificate. No charge is made for issuing a certificate of incorporation. For examining and filing amended articles of incorporation, $10, where the same does not provide for the increase of stock; in the latter case an organization tax must be paid on the increased capital stock as authorized; for making transcript of articles of incorporation, 25 cents per folio; for official certificate, $1; for examining and filing articles of incorporation of foreign corporations and issuing authority to do business, $10; for examining and filing annual statement, $5; for making and filing and recording appointment of resident agent of foreign corporation, $10.

9. Commencing Business. — Where a resident agent is not named in the certificate of incorporation, all domestic corporations not doing business within the State must, before commencing business, appoint a resident agent residing at the domiciliary office of the corporation. One of the officers of the corporation may be appointed as such agent, if desired (Laws of 1907, chap. 104). After the issuance of the certificate of incorporation, the incorporation act directs (without providing any penalty therefor) that the directors must proceed in the manner specified in the by-laws, or if none is specified, then in such manner as they may adopt, to secure subscriptions to the full amount of the fixed capital (R. C. C., sec. 421; C. L., sec. 2913). Unless the corporation organizes and commences the transaction of business or the construction of its works within one year from the date of its incorporation, its corporate powers cease. Every corporation shall, within one month after filing articles of incorporation, adopt a code of by-laws for its government, but no penalty or forfeiture is declared in case of non-compliance with this provision, and it is regarded as directory only (R. C. C., sec. 411; C. L., sec. 2905). No collateral inquiry into corporate existence is permitted (R. C., sec. 399; C. L., sec. 2892).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting may be held at the principal office of the corporation without the State if provision is made therefor in the articles, otherwise it must be held within the State (R. C. C., sec. 786; C. L., sec. 3114; R. C. C., sec. 440; C. L., sec. 2932). The act provides that when all the stockholders of a corporation are present at any meeting, however called or notified, and sign a written consent thereto on the records of such meeting, the doings of such meeting are as valid as if had at a meeting legally called and noticed (R. C. C., sec. 442; C. L., sec. 2934).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Incorporators', stockholders', and directors' meetings must be held at the office or principal place of business of the company. All meetings of stockholders and directors of mining, manufacturing, and other industrial corporations may be held at the outside office named in the articles of incorporation; and this may be provided for in the articles; and the articles may be amended to change the location of the outside office. The mode of calling meetings is as provided in the by-laws. The domiciliary office is kept at the place in the State named in the articles as the principal place of business. The original books and records may be kept at the outside business office, if there be one (R. C. C., sec. 786; C. L., sec. 3114; see also R. C. C., sec. 440; C. L., sec. 2932). Under the 1907 Amendment offices may be named without the State, in any other State, or in any foreign country, wherein may be held all stockholders' and directors' meetings, if desired (Laws of 1907, chap. 104).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — The act provides that one of the directors or officers of the corporation shall be a resident of the State (Laws of 1907, chap. 104, sec. 1). Directors are elected annually by a majority vote of the stockholders. The board must be composed of at least three and not more than eleven directors. The president of the corporation must be a member of the board. The directors must be stockholders to an amount to be fixed by the by-laws. Immediately after their election the directors must organize by the election of a president, secretary, and treasurer. An executive committee composed of two or more members of the board may be appointed by resolution of the board of directors. Such committee may be provided for in the by-laws of the corporation, and such committee shall have the same powers as the board of directors (R. C. C., sec. 434; C. L., sec. 2926; Laws of 1907, chap. 104; Laws of 1909, chap. 264, sec. 3). Directors may be classified if provision is made therefor in the articles of incorporation (Laws of 1911, chap. 106).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for the illegal declaration of dividends, or for the unlawful withdrawal of capital, or for any violation of law applying to corporations whereby the latter become insolvent. Directors assenting to such violation are jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted after such violation (R. C. C., sec. 436; C. L., sec. 2928; R. C. C., sec. 787; C. L., sec. 3115). Any officer wilfully making false reports, certificates, or entries is liable in damages to any person injured thereby (R. C. C., sec. 437; C. L., sec. 2929). Any superintendent, director, secretary, manager, agent, or other officer of any corporation formed or existing under the laws of South Dakota or transacting business in the said State, and any person pretending or holding himself out as such superintendent, director, secretary, manager, agent, or other officer who shall wilfully subscribe, sign, endorse, verify, or otherwise assent to the publication, either generally or privately to the stockholders or other persons dealing with such corporation or its stock, knowing the same to be untrue, or wilfully and fraudulently issues exaggerated report, prospectus, account, statement of operations, values, business, profits, expenditures, or prospecti, or other paper or document intended to produce or give, or having a tendency to produce or give, to the shares of stock in such corporation a greater value or less apparent or market value than they really possess, or with the intention of defrauding any particular person or persons, or the public or persons generally, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in State prison or a county jail not exceeding two years or by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or both (sec. 1, chap. 108; Sess. Laws, 1907).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the amount of their unpaid stock subscriptions (R. C. C., sec. 431; C. L., sec. 2933). They are also liable for labor claims (R. C. C., sec. 783; C. L., sec. 3111. As to constitutionality of this statute, see cases cited below).

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate signed by the president and secretary (R. C. C., sec. 423; C. L., sec. 2915; Laws of 1907, chap. 104). The by-laws may provide for issuing certificates of stock prior to full payment, if desired (Laws of 1907, chap. 104).

15. Preferred Stock. — Preferred stock may be issued in such amounts as may be provided for in the articles of incorporation or in the by-laws (Laws of 1907, chap. 104).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued in exchange for money, labor done, or money or property actually received (Cons., Art. XVII. sec. 8). When property is taken by the corporation in consideration for capital stock of the corporation, the judgment of the board of directors, made in good faith and entered in the minutes of the corporation, shall be conclusive as to the value of such property (Laws of 1907, chap. 104). The act provides that the directors named in the articles of incorporation must proceed to open books of subscription to the capital stock unsubscribed and to secure subscriptions to the full amount of the fixed capital (R. C. C., sec. 421; C. L., sec. 2913).

Hennesy v. Griggs et al., 1 N. D. 52; 44 N. W. 1010; C. H. S. Co. v. Ferguson et al., 8 S. D. 534; 67 N. W. 615.

17. Books. — Every corporation must keep a journal of meetings of directors and stockholders. They must also keep a stock and transfer book, which with the journal is open to inspection of stockholders, directors, and creditors of the corporation, containing a record of all stock, the names of stockholders alphabetically arranged, instalments paid or unpaid, transfers, etc. Also a book of by-laws, to be open to inspection during office hours. The law does not provide, however, that any of these books shall be kept within the State, and provisions in the articles of incorporation for keeping them at the outside office are regularly allowed by the Secretary of State (R. C. C., sec. 423; C. L., sec. 2915; R. C. C., sec. 428; C. L., sec. 2920; R. C. C., sec. 445; C. L., sec. 2937; R. C. C., sec. 782).

Section 3110 of the Compiled Laws provides as follows: Regular books of account of all the business of corporations must be kept, which, with the vouchers, shall be at all reasonable times open for the inspection of any of the stockholders; and as often as once in each year a statement of such accounts shall be made, by order of the directors, and laid before the stockholders.

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation of the State which is not doing or carrying on business within the State shall appoint a resident agent who shall reside at the place of business or domiciliary office of such corporation in the State designated in the articles of incorporation, and such resident agent may be one of the officers of the corporation, and service of legal process upon such agent shall constitute legal and valid service upon such corporation. Such appointment of resident agent shall be made in writing signed by the president or secretary of the corporation and duly acknowledged, and shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. If desired, such resident agent may be appointed in the articles of incorporation (Laws of 1907, chap. 104).

19. Reports. — The statute provides that business corporations doing business within the State shall annually, within twenty days from the 1st day of January, make a report which must be published in some newspaper at or nearest to the place where the business of the corporation is carried on, which report must state the capital stock and the amount thereof actually paid in, the amount and nature of indebtedness, and the amount due the corporation, the number and amount of dividends and when paid, and the net amount of profits. Such report must be signed by the president and a majority of directors, and be verified by oath of the president or secretary, and filed in the office of register of deeds of county where the business of the corporation is carried on. The only penalty provided for failure to comply with the statute is that a person who wilfully neglects or refuses to make, sign, or publish such report shall be guilty of misdemeanor (R. C. C., sec. 784; C. L., sec. 3112). Upon written request of twenty per cent of the issued capital stock the treasurer is required to furnish a written statement of the affairs of the corporation (R. C. C., sec. 785; C. L., sec. 3113).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is a somewhat drastic anti-trust statute in force in South Dakota (Laws of 1909, chap. 224).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Unless the corporation is organized and commences business within one year after incorporation, the corporate powers cease. Charters may also be forfeited by the State on any of the following grounds: For violating any of the laws creating, altering, or renewing corporations; by violating any express provisions of the law whereby the corporation shall have forfeited its charter by abuse of its powers; by failure to exercise its powers; whenever it shall have done or omitted to do any act which amounts to a surrender of its corporate rights; for exercising franchises or privileges not conferred upon it by law (R. C. C., sec. 447; C. L., sec. 2939; R. C. C., sec. 571; C. L., sec. 5346).

22. Amendments. — Articles may be amended so as to modify or enlarge corporate business or purposes, change number of directors, change name or location of its business within the State or without the State, increase or decrease the capital stock, or in any other respect, by vote of two-thirds of all outstanding stock at any regular or special meeting called for that purpose after thirty days' notice (sixty days for increase of stock) given to each stockholder, stating nature of proposed amendment. After notice of proposed amendment is served upon stockholders, time may be waived by all of them, and amendment can be adopted immediately. Capital stock cannot be diminished to an amount less than indebtedness of corporation or estimated cost of works which it may be the purpose of the corporation to construct. After amendment is adopted, the president and secretary of the corporation shall prepare in duplicate a certificate setting forth amendment, stating number of votes cast therefor, and total number of shares of stock subscribed and outstanding, and that legal notice was given. One of these certificates must be filed with the Secretary of State, and the other with the secretary of the corporation. The signature of president and secretary to such certificate must be acknowledged before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments, who knows the parties signing the same to be the president and secretary of the corporation, and when such certificate is filed with the Secretary of State he shall issue a certificate of amendment, setting forth in what particular the original articles of incorporation have been amended (Laws of 1903, chap. 106, secs. 1-7 inclusive. As to increase of stock see Cons., Art. XVII. sec. 8).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Under Laws of 1903, chap. 105, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 106, sec. 1, special provision is made for the extension of corporate existence for a period not to exceed twenty-five years. To effect the extension such application must be signed by stockholders owning three-fourths of the capital stock, and opposite the signature of each stockholder shall be stated the number of shares of stock owned by each. The application must be made in the same manner as articles of incorporation. Before presenting this application to the Secretary of State, the corporation must file with him a statement verified by oath of the president and secretary of the corporation, setting forth: (1) The assets and liabilities of the corporation; (2) the nature of its business; (3) the number of shares of stock issued and outstanding; (4) the number of shares of stock subscribed and not issued; (5) the names and post-office addresses of each stockholder and the number of shares owned by each; (6) the names and post-office addresses of the directors.

24. Dissolution. — Voluntary dissolution is effected by application to the Circuit Court of the county where the corporation's principal place of business is situated, upon verified petition of a majority of the board of directors, the proceedings being simple and brief. The application must set forth that at a meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose the dissolution of the corporation was resolved upon by a vote of not less than two-thirds of the outstanding stock, and that all claims and demands against the corporation have been satisfied and discharged (C. C., sec. 446, sub. 2 of sub. 3 as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 105). Involuntary dissolution is effected under Code of Civil Procedure by action in the name of the State on leave of the Circuit Court or judge (R. C. C., sec. 446; C. L., sec. 2938; see also Laws of 1911, chap. 103).

25. Annual License Fee. — There is no annual license fee.

26. Foreign Corporations. — Before any corporation can transact business within the State, or acquire, hold, and dispose of property within the State, or sue in the courts therein, it must file and record in the office of the Secretary of State a duly authenticated copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, and shall also appoint an agent within the State upon whom process may be had. A duly authenticated copy of the appointment of such agent or officer must be filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State and register of deeds of the county where said agent resides (R. C. C., sec. 883, 884; C. L., secs. 3190, 3191). The State constitution provides that no foreign corporation shall do business in the State without having one or more known places of business and an authorized agent or agents in the same upon whom process may be served (Cons., Art. XVII. sec. 6). The fee for filing articles and issuance of certificates of authority to do business is $10. For recording certificates of appointment of agent and issuing certificates of appointment, $10.

TENNESSEE.

(The references cited below are to the Code of 1884, unless otherwise stated.)

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Tennessee is based upon the Act of March 19, 1875 (Session Laws of 1875, chap. 142). The law is peculiar in that it specifically prescribes for what purposes companies may be incorporated, and sets forth the form of charter for each. The above "Charter Act" has been amended from time to time, until now it is possible to incorporate in Tennessee under said act for all ordinary business purposes (Laws of 1903, chap. 474; Laws of 1905, chap. 174).

2. Incorporators. — Not less than five, except for brēwery corporations, where only three incorporators are required. There are no residential requirements (sec. 1692; Laws of 1903, chap. 474).

3. Contents of the Certificate of Incorporation. — The forms for drawing charters are set out at length in the statutes, and vary according to the purposes sought to be obtained by incorporation. Speaking generally, all the forms set forth: First, name of the corporation, which the Secretary of State requires shall be different from that of any existing corporation. Second, the purposes must be set forth, and the incorporators are limited strictly to purposes included in one class. Third, the amount of capital stock, with the amount and par value thereof. If preferred stock is to be issued, provision should be made therefor as provided by law. The charter must state whether it is to be redeemed at not less than par, and if so the time and price thereof (Laws of 1905, chap. 174). The amount of capital stock is unlimited, except in the case of brewery companies, which latter must be capitalized for not less than $5,000 and not more than $500,000. Fourth, an enumeration of the general powers of the corporation, which are in substance merely an enumeration of common law powers. The statutory form also contains a large number of provisions for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation. In this connection provision should be made relative to by-laws, powers, and proceedings of the board of directors, keeping of corporate books, the assessments of stock, provisions for amendments and dissolution, etc. The statute also provides that the first board of directors shall consist of the incorporators named in the charter of incorporation (secs. 1692, 1852; Laws of 1897, chap. 32; Laws of 1899, chaps. 17, 224, 300, 304; Laws of 1903, chap. 474). Duration may be unlimited, if desired.

4. Statutory Powers. — The statute enumerates the common law powers of corporations, and in addition thereto grants the following powers: For the purpose of repairs, rebuilding, or to meet contingencies, or for the purpose of a sinking fund, corporations may establish a fund of which they may loan, and in relation to which they may take proper securities. Mining companies are authorized to subscribe for stock in a railway corporation whose line of road is contiguous to their works. Manufacturing corporations are given power to locate, on their own lands, elevators, hoisting, warehouses, transfer trucks, etc. They are also given power to purchase, use, or dispose of patent rights. All corporations are given power to vote by proxy and to consolidate with other corporations engaged in the same general business; also to sell in its entirety all the assets of the corporation to any corporation engaged in the same general line of business. (See references cited at end of sec. 3; also secs. 1704, 1709-1711 a, 1853, 1860-1862, 1864, 1866-1868, 1872; Act of March 28, 1887; Laws of 1903, chap. 486.) Also to issue preferred stock (Laws of 1903, chap. 174); to vote by proxy (Laws of 1907, chap. 104); to dispose of the corporate assets as an entirety (Laws of 1907, chap. 437).

5. Procuring the Charter. — Incorporators must subscribe and acknowledge the execution of the charter, which is in fact a petition for incorporation. The charter must be acknowledged or any one or more signatures proved by a witness before the clerk of the county court (Laws of 1903, chap. 474). This instrument when so acknowledged must be registered in the county where the principal office of the company is situated, and also in the office of the Secretary of State. The latter officer issues a certificate of registration, which in turn must be registered in the register's office of the county where the principal business office of the company is situated. If agencies are established in other counties, the incorporation papers must be registered there (sec. 2027). Thereupon the formation of the corporation is completed (secs. 1692, 1694). Collateral inquiry into the legality of corporate existence is forbidden (secs. 1693, 1712; Laws of 1903, chap. 474).

Shields v. Clifton Co., 94 Tenn. 123; 28 S. W. 668.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Corporations are limited in the creation of debts to the amount of the authorized capital stock (sec. 1858; Laws of 1903, chap. 474).

7. Organization Tax. — For business corporations a tax of one-tenth of one per cent on the authorized capital stock is exacted. There is also a registration tax of $10 (Act of June 17, 1895; Laws of 1897, chap. 32; Laws of 1899, chap. 432).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — In addition to the payment of the organization tax, the Secretary of State is entitled to a fee of $10 for registering the company. In lieu of issuing a certificate of incorporation, the Secretary of State attaches his certificate of registration to the papers recorded in his office and returns them to the incorporators. For issuing certified copy of the articles of incorporation his fee is $10. The fee for recording in the local county register's office averages $3.

9. Commencing Business. — Business may be commenced as soon as the charter is registered as required by law and the organization completed. If the corporation establishes agencies in any other county, the charter must be recorded there (sec. 1694).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State, in the absence of any statute providing otherwise. The incorporators act as the first board of directors (Laws of 1903, chap. 474).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Annual stockholders' meetings must be held within the State. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide (secs. 1706, 1863).

Synnott v. Association, 117 Fed. 379; 54 C. C. A. 553.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be, except in the case of brewery companies, where there may be three, at least five directors. There are no residential requirements (secs. 1702, 1706; Laws of 1903, chap. 474).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for illegal declaration of dividends, or for authorizing the creation of any indebtedness in excess of the capital stock paid in. Directors are liable for loans to stockholders in mining corporations, quarrying, boring, or manufacturing companies; they are also liable for intentional fraud in failing to comply substantially with the articles of incorporation, or in deceiving the public or individuals in relation to their liabilities (secs. 1716, 1717, 1856-1858, 1859; Laws of 1897, chap. 49; Laws of 1903, chap. 474). Directors are liable for contributing corporate funds for political purposes (Laws of 1907, chap. 402).

Allison v. Coal Co., 87 Tenn. 60; 9 S. W. 226.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable for the amount of their unpaid stock subscriptions. They are also jointly and severally liable for moneys due or owing to the laborers, servants, clerks, or operators of the company in case the corporation becomes insolvent (secs. 1708, 1858; Laws of 1903, chap. 474).

14. Stock Certificates. — The par value of stock certificates may be $100 or less (sec. 2052). Each shareholder is entitled to a certificate showing the number of shares held by him, signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe.

15. Preferred Stock. — Capital stock may be divided into common and preferred stock, provided it shall be stated in the charter of incorporation together with the respective amounts of each, and provided the preferred stock does not exceed two-thirds of the total authorized capital stock, and provided further that the capital stock shall be issued only for cash. It must be stated in the charter of incorporation whether the preferred stock is subject to redemption at not less than par, and, if so, the time and price of such redemption. Preferred stockholders are entitled to receive a fixed yearly dividend not exceeding ten per cent, payable annually or semi-annually, before any dividend can be paid on the common stock, and such dividend may be made cumulative. No preferred stock can be issued except by authority given to the board of directors by a vote of at least two-thirds of the common stock at a meeting duly called for that purpose, nor shall preferred stockholders have any voting powers except such as may be given by a two-thirds vote of the common stockholders. If there are more than two classes of stock, each share must have written or printed thereon the words "common stock" and "preferred stock" (Laws of 1905, p. 373).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — In the case of mining, quarrying, boring, and manufacturing companies nothing but cash or land at a fair cash valuation can be accepted in payment of capital stock (sec. 2335). Manufacturing companies are, however, authorized to receive an assignment of a patent in payment of stock subscribed to the amount of the value of such patent (sec. 2351). The act specifically provides that the amount of any unpaid stock due from the subscriber to the corporation shall be a fund for the payment of any debts due from the corporation; the transfer of stock by any subscriber does not relieve him from payment unless his transferee has paid up all or any of the balance due on said original subscription (secs. 1708, 1856, 1872; Laws of 1903, chap. 474). Construction companies are authorized to receive stock and bonds in payment for their capital stock (Laws of 1905, chap. 479).

Searight v. Payne, 6 Lea, 283; Kelley v. Fletcher, 94 Tenn. 1; 28 S. W. 1099.

17. Books. — The act requires the keeping of books showing the list of stockholders, with their respective interests, the amount paid on shares subscribed, and all stock transfers by and to whom made (sec. 1707; Laws of 1903, chap. 474).

18. Office and Agent. — There are no express statutory provisions requiring the maintenance of an office and agent within the State. By implication, however, the company must maintain a domiciliary office within the State. (See sec. 1693.)

19. Reports. — By acts adopted previous to 1903 semi-annual statements are required of banks and trust companies, and annual statements of building and loan companies, mining, quarrying, boring, and manufacturing companies. Annual statements are required of all corporations securing their charters under the Act of 1903 (Laws of 1903, chap. 474). The report must be published in a newspaper printed in the county where the principal office or business is located, showing the amount of capital stock, existing liabilities, and list of names of stockholders. Without expressly repealing chap. 474 of the Laws of 1903, the Tennessee Legislature in 1907 (Laws of 1907, chap. 684) passed an act requiring each domestic corporation to prepare and file annually on or before the 1st day of July in the office of the Secretary of State a written statement signed by its president or vice-president, and attested by its corporate seal and sworn to by either its secretary or president, containing the following information, to wit: The name and style of the corporation and its principal office or place of business in the State of Tennessee, if it be a domestic corporation; if it be a foreign corporation, its principal office or place of business in the State of its creation and also in Tennessee; the amount of its capital stock authorized by its charter and the amount of capital stock issued and outstanding; the names of its principal officers, to wit, its president, vice-president or vice-presidents, secretary, and treasurer, and a complete list of its board of directors; and, finally, the nature and character of the business in which it is engaged.

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is an anti-trust statute in force in Tennessee. (See Act of March 10, 1890; Act of March 30, 1891; Act of April 30, 1897; Laws of 1905, chap. 479; Laws of 1907, chap. 36.)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charters may be forfeited where the corporation has by neglect, non-user, abuse, or surrender forfeited its corporate rights. Any act of the board of directors as a board constituting an express violation of the statute is declared to be a forfeiture of the charter (secs. 1718, 4162; see also sec. 2484; Code of 1896, sec. 6625).

22. Amendments. — Any corporation may change its name, increase its capital stock, or obtain any powers granted by law, by the board of directors preparing a certificate and making application to the Secretary of State in these words:

"We, the undersigned, comprising the Board of Directors of ——— Corporation, apply to the State of Tennessee by virtue of the General Laws of the country for amendment to said charter of incorporation for the purpose of investing said corporation with the power" (here state the clause in the general law aforesaid which is desired as an amendment, or if it be simply to change the name, so state the fact).

"Witness our hands this ——— day of ———" (to be signed by the directors).

This instrument must be acknowledged, and a certificate of alteration, given by the Secretary of State under the great seal of the State, shall complete the amendment to such corporation. The amendment must be registered in all respects the same as the original charter (Code of Tennessee, 1896, secs. 2028, 2029, 2344; Laws of 1907, chap. 304).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Perpetual existence is open to incorporators, if they desire it. There is no provision for the extension of corporate existence.

24. Dissolution. — The corporation may be dissolved on application to the courts. Directors are by statute made trustees for that purpose, unless other persons are appointed by the court (secs. 1719-1723; Act of March 28, 1887. As to sale of entire corporate assets and provision for the protection of minority stockholders in case of said sale, see Laws of 1907, chap. 437).

25. Annual License Tax. — On or before the 1st day of July in each year all domestic business corporations must pay to the Secretary of State the following annual license taxes: Where the authorized capital stock is $25,000 or less, $5; where it is more than $25,000 and not more than $50,000, $10; where it is more than $50,000 and less than $100,000, $20; where it is more than $100,000 and less than $250,000, $30; where it is over $250,000 and less than $500,000, $50; over $500,000 and less than $1,000,000, $100; over $1,000,000, $150 (Laws of 1907, chap. 434).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation upon applying for a permit to do business in the State must pay into the office of the Secretary of State a tax upon its authorized capital stock as follows, to wit: Companies of $50,000 or less, $50; over $50,000 and less than $100,000, $100; over $200,000 and less than $300,000, $200; over $300,000 and less than $400,000, $250; over $400,000 and less than $500,000, $300; over $500,000 and less than $750,000, $400; over $750,000 and less than $1,000,000, $500; over $1,000,000 and less than $2,000,000, $750; over $2,000,000 and less than $5,000,000, $1000; over $5,000,000 they shall pay a fee of $1500; provided that any company chartered under the laws of another State desiring to locate its principal office and do all of its business in and from Tennessee, and have all of its main property holdings in Tennessee, shall pay a privilege tax of one-tenth of one per centum on the authorized capital stock, just as domestic corporations are now required to do; provided also that insurance companies shall be credited by the amount of fees paid to the Insurance Commissioner upon entering the State to do business (Laws of 1909, chap. 504). Foreign corporations must pay the same annual license tax as is required of domestic corporations. (See ante, sec. 25.) For filing charter of foreign corporation the Secretary of State is entitled to a fee of $20; for each abstract thereof, $20 (secs. 2546, 2553; Laws of 1895, chap. 21; sec. 119, Laws of 1899, chap. 2; Laws of 1899, chaps. 14-31; Laws of 1903, chap. 239).

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. — The Business Corporation Act of Texas is to be found in the Revised Statutes of 1895, secs. 640-670 inclusive, secs. 680-686, secs. 744-749 c, and the amendments of 1897, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1903, 1905, and 1907. Special Acts are provided for railroad and insurance corporations. Under the General Act corporations are divided into some seventy-one different classes, covering almost all lines of business (sec. 642; Laws of 1907, chaps. 9, 23, 150, 151).

Hamilton v. Company, 15 Texas App. 338; 39 S. W. 641.

2. Incorporators. — Three or more persons. Two must be citizens of Texas (secs. 641, 644).

Hamilton v. Company, 15 Texas App. 338; 39 S. W. 641.

3. Contents of the Articles of Incorporation. — The articles must set forth:

a. Name. — No corporation can be incorporated under a name already in use by a domestic corporation.

b. Purposes. — Corporations are limited in their purposes to those named in some one of the seventy-one classes specifically named in the classification of purposes for which a corporation may be incorporated, except that in certain enumerated cases where the corporation act expressly permits incorporation for more than one purpose. (See sec. 642, sub. 1-71.) The cases here referred to are as follows: Provided corporations may be formed for two or more of the purposes following, namely, the construction of bridges and the maintenance of mills and gins; the manufacture and supply to the public of ice, gas, light, heat, water, and electric motor for power or use in connection with such mills and gins or either; the harvesting of grain or the harvesting and threshing of grain; provided that the authorized capital stock of all such corporations shall not exceed $250,000 (Laws of 1903, p. 227). Corporations may also be created for two or more of the following purposes, namely, the supply of water to the public, the manufacture and supply of ice, electric light and motor power, or either of them, to the public, and the manufacture, supply, and sale of carbonated water and the operation of cottonseed-oil mills, provided that all private corporations including one or more of the purposes mentioned in this article in their charter shall each pay a franchise tax as provided by law on each of the purposes included in their respective charters, and provided further that the authorized capital stock of corporations authorized by this article shall not exceed $200,000, and the provisions of the act shall not apply to cities of over ten thousand inhabitants (650 a and 650 b; see also Laws of 1905, chaps. 24, 53; Laws of 1907, pp. 292-294; see also Laws of 1911, chaps. 22, 111; see Borden v. Company, 82 S. W. 463).

c. Domiciliary Office. — Place or places where the business is to be transacted.

d. Duration. — Term for which it is to exist not to exceed fifty years. Where no period is limited the duration is twenty years (Laws of 1907, chap. 158).

e. Directors. — Number and names and residences of the board for the first year (Laws of 1907, chap. 158). The number of directors shall be not less than three, nor more than twenty-one (Laws of 1909, chap. 115).

f. Capital Stock. — Amount thereof and number of shares into which it is divided (sec. 643). Both capital stock and par value thereof may be any amount (sec. 633; see also Laws of 1907, chap. 166).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to a statutory enumeration of common law powers of corporations, the following additional powers are granted: To vote by proxy, to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments, to issue preferred stock, and to authorize directors to adopt by-laws (secs. 651–653, 668, 669; Laws of 1907, chap. 158; Laws of 1909, chap. 115). Corporations may be formed to own and hold stock in manufacturing companies (secs. 642 s. d. 49; see also Laws of 1903, chap. 94); also to transact business in other States and countries (sec. 642, Laws of 1901, chap. 43).

5. Procuring the Charter. — The articles must be subscribed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators, before application can be made to the Secretary of State for the issuance of a charter. Stock must be subscribed in good faith to the full amount of the authorized capital stock, and fifty per cent thereof must be paid in before said corporation can be chartered. At the time that the articles of incorporation are presented to the Secretary of State for filing and recording in his office, they must be accompanied by evidence satisfactory to the Secretary of State that the full amount of the authorized capital stock has in good faith been subscribed and fifty per cent thereof paid in cash or its equivalent in property (Laws of 1907, p. 309. The sub. 56 of section 642 seems to have been amended by Laws of 1907, p. 309). When this evidence has been presented and payment has been made of all recording and filing fees, of the organization tax and of the portion of the annual franchise tax due for the remaining portion of the State fiscal year, then the Secretary of State is authorized to receive, file, and record the articles in his office and to give a certificate showing the record thereof. As to what constitutes satisfactory evidence relative to the payment of fifty per cent of the authorized capital stock, the statute provides as follows: Satisfactory evidence shall consist of the affidavit of those executing the charter, stating therein (1) The name, residence, and post-office address of each subscriber to the capital stock of such company; (2) the amount subscribed by each and the amount paid by each; (3) the cash value of any property received, giving the description, location, and from whom and the price at which it was received; (4) the amount, character, and value of labor done, from whom and price at which it was received; provided, that if the Secretary of State is not satisfied he may, at the expense of the incorporators, require other and more satisfactory evidence before he shall be required to receive, file, and record said charter; and provided further, that the corporations created under sections 21, 29, 37, 54, and 61 of the Article 642, Revised Statutes of this State, are exempt from the provisions of this section; provided further, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to corporations formed for the construction, purchase, and maintenance of mills and gins having a capital stock of not exceeding $15,000, nor to mutual building and loan associations, nor to water works, ice plants, electric-light plants, and cotton warehouses in cities of less than ten thousand inhabitants (Laws of 1907, chap. 166).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — Corporate indebtedness cannot be created in excess of the amount of the authorized capital stock (sec. 653).

7. Organization Tax. — For ordinary business corporations (exclusive of public service and eleemosynary corporations) the organization tax is $50, provided that if the authorized capital stock of such corporation shall exceed $10,000 it shall be required to pay an additional fee of $10 for each additional $10,000 of its authorized capital stock or fractional part thereof after the first (sec. 2439, as amended by Laws of 1909, chap. 4, sec. 1). Before filing its articles of incorporation the corporation must pay not only the organization tax, but also pay the fractional part of its annual franchise tax, corresponding to the length of time before the next following 1st day of May (Laws of 1907, Special Session, chaps. 22, 23).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The payment of the organization tax includes the filing and recording fees. The charge for certified copy of the articles of incorporation is 15 cents for each one hundred words and $1 for certificate issued by the Secretary of State.

9. Commencing Business. — Whenever a private domestic corporation is chartered in this State, and whenever a foreign corporation is authorized to do business in this State, such corporation shall be required to pay in advance to the Secretary of State, as its franchise tax from that time down to and including the 30th day of April next following, only such proportionate part of its annual franchise tax as the period of time between the date of filing of its articles of incorporation or the issuance of its permit to do business, as the case may be, and the 1st day of May next following bears to a calendar year. (See post, sec. 25; also Laws of 1907, chap. 23, Special Session.) Business may be commenced as soon as the Secretary of State has issued a certificate showing payment of all fees and taxes and the filing and recording of the articles of incorporation in his office. By reference to sec. 4 (ante, sec. 4), it will be seen that the articles cannot be received for record until the entire amount of the capital stock has been subscribed for in good faith and fifty per cent thereof paid in. The balance of the authorized capital stock must be paid in within two years from the date of the filing of the articles in the office of the Secretary of State. Proof of this fact must be furnished the Secretary of State in the same manner as is required with reference to the payment of the first fifty per cent of the authorized capital stock at the time the articles are filed (Laws of 1907, Special Session, chap. 166). Business must be commenced within three years of the filing of the charter, or the latter will be thereby forfeited and the corporation dissolved (Laws of 1907, Special Session, chap. 166).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State. The statute makes no provision for the organization of the corporation.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Meetings of stockholders must be held within the State at such time and place as the by-laws of the corporation may require. Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide.

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three and not more than thirteen directors. There are no residential requirements (sec. 651, sub. 8). By-laws may be adopted by the directors subject to the control of the stockholders (sec. 657; Laws of 1907, chap. 158).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable for knowingly declaring illegal dividends. The extent of their liability is, however, limited to the amount of such dividends (sec. 670). Directors are also liable for violation of the Anti-Trust

DIGEST OF INCORPORATION ACTS. — TEXAS.

Acts. (See Laws of 1907, chaps. 12, 97, 120, 173; chap. 10, Special Session.) Directors are also liable for diversion of corporate assets and for intentional violation of law, unless within one year of such violation they have caused to be entered upon the records of the board of directors within the State of Texas an order repudiating the wrong and permanently dismissing from their service all persons directly or indirectly connected with such violation (Laws of 1907, chap. 166).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions (sec. 686).

M. B. C. Co. v. Company, 89 Texas, 511; 39 S. W. 1047; Cole v. Adams, 92 Texas, 171; 46 S. W. 790.

14. Stock Certificates. — Stockholders are entitled to certificates showing the number of shares owned by them, signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe.

15. Preferred Stock. — The right to issue preferred stock is only given in express terms to corporations organized for the purpose of storing, transporting, buying, and selling oil, gas, salt, brine, and other mineral solutions.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock can be issued only for money paid, labor done, or property actually worth at least the sum for which it was taken by the company (Laws of 1907, chap. 166; Cons., Art. XII. sec. 6).

17. Books. — A stock register, transfer book, and record of business transactions must be kept (statute does not provide where to be kept), and the books and records must be open to inspection of stockholders at all reasonable times. By inference from reading sec. 5 of chap. 166 of Laws of 1907 it appears to be necessary that the corporation minute book should be kept within the State. The secretary must furnish to any creditor or his attorney, in an action to enforce stockholders' liability, a list of stockholders, with residences and amounts of holdings (sec. 672; see also Cons., Art. X. sec. 3). The Attorney-General or any of his assistants or representatives, when authorized in writing by the Attorney-General, shall have the power and authority to make diligent investigation into the organization, conduct, and management of any corporation authorized to do business within this State, and shall have the power to examine or inspect all or any of the books, accounts, records, minutes, letters, memoranda, documents, checks, vouchers, telegrams, constitution, and by-laws of such corporation, and take copies of any or all of such records or documents herein set forth as in his judgment may show or tend to show that said corporation has been or is engaged in acts or conduct in violation of any law of this State; provided that the Attorney-General or his assistant or assistants, or representative or representatives, shall not make public or use such copies, or any information derived in the course of said examination of said records or documents as herein above set forth, except in the course of some judicial proceedings of which the State is a party, or in a suit by the State to cancel the permit or forfeit the charter of such corporation, or to collect penalties for a violation of the law of this State, or for the information of any of the officers of this State charged with the enforcement of its laws (Laws of 1907, chap. 21).

18. Office and Agent. — An office must be kept in the State, and an agent therein upon whom process may be served (secs. 673, 1222, 1223; Cons., Art. X.).

Beattie v. Hardy, 93 Texas, 131.

19. Reports. — The directors shall, when required by one-third of the stockholders, make report showing amount of company's business, etc. Annual reports are required (see sec. 25, post. For reports required in connection with payment of annual franchise tax, see Laws of 1907, pp. 502 to 508).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — Texas has enacted a bountiful collection of the most drastic anti-trust statutes to be found anywhere within the country. (See Laws of 1907, chaps. 12, 97, 120, 173, and chap. 10 of the Special Session.)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charters may be forfeited for violation of the Anti-Trust Act, or for acts of misuser or non-user, or for failing to organize and commence business within three years from date of incorporation (see Laws of 1903, chap. 92); also for failure to pay annual franchise taxes (Laws of 1909, p. 224; Laws of 1911, chap. 21). Charters may be forfeited by failure to pay up the full amount of authorized capital stock within two years (Laws of 1907, chap. 166); also for express violations of law whereby it is provided charter should be forfeited without judicial ascertainment (Laws of 1907, chap. 166); and may also be forfeited for contributing corporate funds for political purposes and for further employing the assets in other than the legitimate objects of the corporation's creation (Laws of 1907, chap. 166).

22. Amendments. — Charters may be amended in any respect desired, except to so change the original purpose as to prevent the execution thereof, or to decrease the capital stock (secs. 647, 649, 651, 652). The act provides that the articles may be amended by filing copies of such amendments with the Secretary of State in the manner required in the case of original charters (sec. 647). The act unquestionably contemplates action by the stockholders at a meeting convened for that purpose in order to make the amendment effective. It also undoubtedly contemplates the making of a certificate by the president or other officer of the corporation, showing the manner in which the amendment was adopted. The act also provides that the number of directors may be increased or diminished to any number not less than three nor more than thirteen by a vote of the stockholders cast as the by-laws may provide.

To increase the capital stock to any amount not exceeding at any one time double the amount of its authorized capital requires the vote of the stockholders cast in conformity with the by-laws, and if a majority of the stockholders shall vote for the increase of such stock the same may be increased by the board of directors. Upon such increase of stock being made in accordance with the by-laws, the date and amount shall be certified to the Secretary of State by the directors, and from the time such certificate is filed the increase of stock shall become a part of the capital thereof. Such certificate shall be filed and recorded in the same manner as the original charter (sec. 652). The following provision relative to the increase or decrease of capital stock is to be found in chap. 166 of the Laws of 1907, to wit: A corporation may increase its authorized capital by a two-thirds vote of all its stock; and when such vote is given in favor of the increase the same may be done by the board of directors, trustees, or managing board of such corporation; and upon such increase of stock being made in accordance with the above provisions and certified to the Secretary of State by the directors, together with satisfactory proof, which shall be the affidavit of the directors, showing that the full amount of the increase has been in good faith subscribed and fifty per cent thereof paid, and in other respects conforming to the proof required as on an original application for charter; or showing that such portion thereof has been subscribed, or subscribed and paid in, as is required for the corporation, thus increasing its stock; and if the Secretary of State is satisfied that the increase of stock has been made in accordance with law, and that the requirements of the law have been complied with as to the subscription and payment of stock and other respects as on an original application for charter, he shall file such certificate of increase, and thereupon the same shall become a part of the capital stock of such corporation; and in case of failure by the stockholders to pay the unpaid portion of the increase within two years from the date of filing of such certificate of increase in the office of the Secretary of State, the charter of such company shall be forfeited and the provisions of sec. 2 of this act shall govern same as in case of an original creation of a corporation; provided, that a corporation may decrease its capital stock by such amount as its stockholders may decide by a two-thirds vote of all its outstanding stock, in like manner as is required for an increase as above provided, but no such decrease shall prejudice the rights of any creditor of such corporation in any claim or cause of action as such creditor may have against the company, or the stockholder or director thereof; nor shall such decrease become effective until full proof is made by the affidavit of the directors to the Secretary of State of the financial condition of such corporation, giving therein all its assets and liabilities, with names and post-office addresses of all creditors and amount due each, and the Secretary of State may require as a condition precedent to the filing of such certificate of decrease that the debts of such corporation be paid or reduced.

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no express provision for the extension of corporate existence. (See however, sec. 61, sub. 1.)

24. Dissolution. — The corporation may be dissolved by expiration of the charter, or by judgment of dissolution by a court of competent jurisdiction; also through failure to commence business within three years from the date of charter (secs. 680-681). Under the Laws of 1907, chap. 166, the following provision is made for the dissolution of the corporation, to wit: Where four-fifths in interest of all the stock outstanding shall vote in favor of a dissolution at a stockholders' meeting called for that purpose on notice signed by a majority of the directors, stating time, place, and object of the meeting, served personally, or by mail at least thirty days next before the meeting. If at said meeting four-fifths in interest of all the stockholders of said company shall signify their consent in writing to the dissolution of the corporation, such consent in writing, together with a list of the directors and officers of the company, giving post-office address and place of residence of each, certified by the president and the secretary and treasurer as true and correct action of the stockholders, shall be filed with the Secretary of State; or when, without a stockholders' meeting, all the stockholders of the corporation consent in writing to a dissolution, the same shall be certified to as above and filed with the Secretary of State. When any such certificate as above mentioned is filed with the Secretary of State, he shall issue a certificate that such consent has been filed and that the corporation is dissolved, and said officer shall so note on the ledger in his office.

25. Annual Franchise Tax. — All domestic corporations are required on or before the 1st day of May of each year to pay in advance to the Secretary of State a franchise tax for the year following, which shall be computed as follows, to wit: 50 cents on each $1,000, or a fractional part thereof of the authorized capital stock of such corporation, unless the total amount of capital stock of such corporation issued and outstanding, plus its surplus and undivided profits, shall exceed its authorized capital stock, and in that event the franchise tax of such corporation for the year following shall be 50 cents on each $1,000 of capital stock of such corporations issued and outstanding, plus its surplus and undivided profits; provided, that such franchise tax shall not in any case be less than $10; provided, that where the authorized capital exceeds $1,000,000, such franchise tax shall be 50 cents for each $1,000 up to and including $1,000,000, and for each additional $1,000 in excess of $1,000,000 it shall be 25 cents. The franchise tax herein provided for shall be computed upon the basis of the total amount of the capital stock issued and outstanding, plus the surplus and undivided profits of the corporations, instead of upon the authorized capital stock, whenever such total amount is different from the authorized capital stock. Affidavit of the head of the corporation and secretary thereof to these facts may be filed with the Secretary of State, or may be required whenever in his judgment the same is necessary to protect the interests of the State. Any corporation, either domestic or foreign, which shall fail to pay the tax provided for in this article at the time specified herein shall immediately become liable to a penalty of twenty-five per cent on the amount of the tax due by it, and if the amount of said tax and penalty be not paid in full on or before the 1st day of July thereafter such corporation shall for such default forfeit its right to do business in the State, which forfeiture shall be consummated without judicial ascertainment by the Secretary of State entering upon the margin of the ledger kept in his office relating to such corporation the word "Forfeited," giving the date of such forfeiture; and any corporation whose right to do business may be thus forfeited shall be denied the right to sue or defend in any of the courts of this State, and in any suit against such corporation on a cause of action arising before such forfeiture no affirmative relief may be granted to such corporation unless its right to do business is revived as provided in Article 5243 j. And each and every director of any corporation whose right to do business within the State shall be so forfeited shall as to any and all debts of such corporation which may be created or incurred, with his knowledge, approval, and consent within the State, after such forfeiture by any such directors or officers, and before the revival of the right of such corporation to do business, be deemed and held liable thereon in the same manner and to the same extent as if such directors and officers of such corporation were partners (Laws of 1907, Special Session, chap. 23). Nothing in this act shall affect the amount of the franchise tax to be paid by any corporation for the period of time ending with April 30, 1907, excepting only such domestic corporations as may be chartered after this act shall take effect and such foreign corporations as may, after this act shall take effect, apply to the Secretary of State for a permit to do business within the State. For the purpose of determining the amount of the first franchise tax payment required by this act of any domestic corporation which may be hereafter chartered, or of any foreign corporation which may hereafter apply for a permit to do business within the State, and also for determining the correctness of any report which is provided in this act, the Secretary of State may, whenever he may deem it necessary or proper to protect the interests of the State, require any one or more of the officers of such corporations to make and file in the office of the Secretary of State an affidavit or affidavits in writing which shall be subscribed by such officers, and by him sworn to before some officer who is by law duly authorized to administer oaths, and verified by his seal of office, setting forth fully the facts concerning the amount of the surplus and undivided profits respectively, if any, of such domestic or foreign corporation; and until the Secretary of State shall be fully satisfied as to the amount of such surplus and undivided profits, respectively, if any, he shall not file the articles of incorporation of such proposed domestic corporation, or issue such permit or accept such franchise tax. For the purpose of ascertaining and determining the amount of any annual franchise tax prescribed by this act, the president, vice-president, general manager, secretary, treasurer, and superintendent of each and every domestic or foreign corporation embraced within the provisions of this act shall annually, and between the 1st and 10th days of March, and also whenever called upon by the Secretary of State in writing and under oath to do so, report to the Secretary of State, as required by sec. 4 of this act, the total amounts of the capital stock issued and outstanding, and the surplus and undivided profits respectively, if any, of such corporation, on the 1st day of March next preceding, and the Secretary of State may ascertain such facts from other sources, and if the true aggregate of such amounts shall exceed the authorized capital stock of such corporation as disclosed by its then current original or amended articles of incorporation, the amount of its annual franchise tax for the year beginning the 1st day of May next thereafter shall be collected and paid; otherwise, its annual franchise tax shall be calculated and paid upon the amount of its authorized capital stock as shown by its aforesaid original or amended articles of incorporation. The making and filing by any one of such officers of such corporation of the record required by this section shall relieve the other officers of the corporation from the duty of making any report required by this section, except such report or reports as may be required by the Secretary of State. In the event of increase in the authorized capital stock of any domestic or foreign corporation, it shall also pay in advance a supplemental franchise tax thereon for the remainder of the year down to and including the 30th day of April next thereafter, the amount of which shall be determined as is provided in sec. 3 of this act in case of the first franchise tax payment to be made under this act by a domestic corporation which may be hereafter authorized to do business within the State.

Every person required by this act to make any annual report to the Secretary of the State who shall for a longer period than five days, and every person who shall for more than ten days after the mailing by the Secretary of State demand upon him any other report which the Secretary of State is by this act authorized to require, fail or refuse to make such report, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than $50 and not more than $200, and each day of such failure or refusal after the expiration of said five days or ten days, as the case may be, shall constitute a separate offence (Laws of 1907, pp. 502-508, as amended by Laws of 1909, p. 224).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations must file with the Secretary of State a certified copy of their articles of incorporation, a permit to do business within the State being issued by said official upon payment of the original license fee hereinafter set forth, and in addition to this the proportionate part of the annual license tax for the remaining portion of the State's fiscal year must be paid. The permit issued by the Secretary of State runs for only ten years (sec. 748). The corporation seeking to procure the permit must furnish satisfactory proof that either $100,000 in cash or fifty per cent of the authorized capital stock has been subscribed and at least ten per cent paid in before permit will issue (sec. 642, sub. 56; Laws of 1901, chap. 15). The Secretary of State may require an anti-trust affidavit in the same form required for domestic corporations (sec. 2439, as amended by Laws of 1909, p. 266). If the authorized capital stock be $10,000 or less, the fee for permit shall be $50; if the authorized capital stock be in excess of $10,000, fee for permit is $50 for the first $10,000 and $10 for the additional $10,000 and fractional part thereof (Laws of 1907, Special Session, chap. 22; sec. 2439 as amended by Acts of 1909, p. 266). Each and every foreign corporation authorized or that may hereafter be authorized to do business in this State shall, on or before the 1st of May of each year, pay in advance to the Secretary of State a franchise tax for the year following, which shall be computed as follows: viz., $1 on each $1,000 or fractional part thereof of the authorized capital stock of the corporation up to and including $100,000, and $2 on each $5,000 or fractional part thereof of such stock in excess of $100,000 and up to and including $1,000,000; and $2 on each $20,000 or fractional part thereof of such stock in excess of $1,000,000 and up to and including $10,000,000, and $2 on each $50,000 of such stock in excess of $10,000,000; unless the total amount of the capital stock of such corporation issued and outstanding, plus its surplus and undivided profits, shall exceed its authorized capital stock, and in that event the franchise tax of such corporation for the year following shall be $2 on each $1,000 or fractional part thereof of the authorized capital stock of such corporation issued and outstanding, plus its surplus and undivided profits, up to and including $100,000, and $2 on each $5,000 or fractional part thereof of such stock, surplus, and undivided profits in excess of $100,000 and up to and including $1,000,000; and $2 on each $20,000 or fractional part thereof of such stock, surplus, and undivided profits in excess of $1,000,000 and up to and including $10,000,000; and $2 on each $50,000 of such stock, surplus, and undivided profits in excess of $10,000,000; provided that such franchise tax shall not in any case be less than $25. If the capital stock is to be divided into different kinds and classes, the rights and privileges of each class must be provided for, and the power of voting may be confined to such classes as the articles may designate. Unless otherwise provided, each shareholder is entitled to one vote for each share of stock owned by him or held in trust for others (Id.; see also Laws of 1903, chap. 59).

h. The law provides that articles of agreement shall also contain provisions as to the payment of stock subscriptions in property, if it is desired to pay them in this manner. (See sec. 5, post, "Procuring the Charter.") Provision may also be made in the articles of incorporation designating what proportion of the outstanding capital stock shall be represented at a stockholders' meeting, and what proportion of the stock so represented shall be necessary to determine any question relative to the election of officers (sec. 316, as amended by Laws of 1901, chap. 81). When so provided in the articles of agreement, meetings of the board of directors may be held for the transaction of any business of the corporation at such place without the State as the directors may by resolution or by by-law provide (sec. 324; Laws of 1903, chap. 94). The articles of agreement may provide that the entire property of the corporation may be sold, mortgaged, or otherwise disposed of by the directors or by the stockholders (Laws of 1905, chap. 131).

4. Statutory Powers. — In addition to statutory enumeration of common law powers corporations have the following additional powers: To authorize voting by proxy, to forfeit stock for non-payment of assessments, to consolidate with other corporations engaged in the same line of business in the same vicinity, to enforce a lien upon the stock of its members for debts due the corporation, to remove directors and to authorize directors to adopt by-laws, to dispose of the assets of the corporation when such power is inserted in the articles of agreement and is given to the board of directors (R. S., sec. 322; R. S. secs. 335, 356, 373; R. L., secs. 340, 341; R. S., sec. 333; R. L., secs. 322, 327, 333, 335, 340, 341, 356, and 376; see also Laws of 1905, chap. 27; Laws of 1905, chaps. 108, 131). Domestic corporations may transact business without the State (sec. 324; also Laws of 1903, chap. 94).

Bear River Co. v. Hanley, 15 Utah, 506.

5. Procuring the Charter. — The agreement must be subscribed by all of the incorporators, and sworn to and acknowledged by at least three of their number before the county clerk or any notary public of the county in which they have established or intend to establish their principal place of business (Laws of 1905, chap. 22). In addition to the foregoing, three or more of the incorporators must make oath to the effect that they have commenced, or it is bona fide their intention to commence, carrying on the business mentioned in the agreement; that the affiants verily believe that each party to the agreement has paid, or is able to and will pay, the amount of the stock subscribed by him, provided that such affidavit shall not be made until not less than ten per cent of the stock subscribed and ten per cent of the capital stock of the corporation has been paid in, and provided also, where subscriptions to the capital stock shall consist of property necessary to the pursuit agreed upon, there must appear in the articles of incorporation a description of the property so taken, with a statement of the fair cash value thereof, which statement, except in the case of corporations organized for mining or irrigation purposes, shall be supplemented by the affidavit of three persons to the effect that they are acquainted with the said property, and that it is reasonably worth the amount in cash for which it was accepted by the corporation, and the owner of such property shall be deemed to have subscribed such amount to the capital stock of said corporation as will represent the fair cash value of so much of said property and of such interest therein as they may have conveyed to the corporation by deed actually executed and delivered (Laws of 1905, chap. 111). Before the first officers shall enter upon the duties of their respective offices they shall take and subscribe an oath of office that they will discharge the duties of such office to the best of their judgment, and that they will not do or consent to the doing of any matter or thing relating to the business of the corporation with intent to defraud any stockholder or creditor or the public. Thereupon the articles of agreement, together with the oath of office of the officers, shall within ten days from its due execution be filed and recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the corporation's general business is to be carried on (secs. 316-318). The county clerk issues a certificate to the effect that the agreement and oaths of office have been filed in his office, which certificate, together with a copy of the agreement and oaths, must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and thereupon he issues a certificate that the above mentioned instruments have been filed in his office (secs. 316, 320, as amended by Laws of 1901, chap. 81).

P. T. C. Co. v. Company, 23 Utah, 474; 65 Pac. 735.

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — The capital stock cannot be diminished to an amount less than fifty per cent in excess of the indebtedness of the corporation (sec. 338; Laws of 1905, chap. 30).

7. Organization Tax. — Twenty-five cents on each $1,000 of the capital stock (Laws of 1897, chap. 1; Laws of 1901, chap. 60).

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The payment of the organization tax includes the filing fees in the Secretary of State's office. To the Secretary of State for issuing certificate of incorporation, $5; for certified copy of articles of agreement, 15 cents per folio of one hundred words and $1 for certificate; for filing and issuing certificate of amendment, $5; to the county clerk for filing and indexing articles of agreement, $2.50; for recording the same, 20 cents per folio; for filing oath of officers, 50 cents each; for issuing certificate of compliance on the part of a foreign corporation, $5; for receiving and filing acceptance of the provisions of the constitution on the part of an incorporating company and issuing certificate thereof, $3 (secs. 965, 972; Laws of 1901, chap. 60; Laws of 1905, chaps. 73, 127; Laws of 1911, chap. 50).

9. Commencing Business. — Business may be commenced as soon as the articles are filed as required by law, and ten per cent of the capital stock subscribed, and ten per cent of the authorized capital stock has been paid in, and the officers have duly taken their oaths of office. Business must be commenced within the period of two years after the time of filing articles, to avoid forfeiture of charter (Laws of 1891, chap. 81, amending R. S., secs. 316, 321).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State; this in the absence of any statute expressly authorizing the holding of organization meetings without the State.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Meetings of stockholders and directors may be held at the time and place designated in the articles of agreement. In the absence of any statute expressly authorizing the holding of stockholders' meetings without the State, it is safe to say that without the consent of all stockholders such meetings must be held within the State (R. L., secs. 334, 336). When so provided in the articles of incorporation meetings of the board of directors may be held for the transaction of any business of the corporation at such place without the State as the directors may by resolution or by-law provide (sec. 324; Laws of 1903, chap. 94). Voting by proxy is permitted. In order to permit of cumulative voting provision must be made in the articles of incorporation. The right to vote may be withheld from any class of stock by making provision to that effect in the articles of agreement (secs. 335, 337; Laws of 1903, chap. 59).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three and not more than twenty-five directors, one-third of whom must be residents of the State. Directors may be classified into three classes, one-third to be elected annually (sec. 315; Laws of 1905, chap. 22). They must take the oath of office (sec. 317). In case of corporations doing an interstate business no directors need be residents or stockholders unless expressly required by the articles of incorporation (sec. 324; Laws of 1903, chap. 94). One-fourth of the entire number may constitute a quorum if the articles so provide. Directors must be stockholders. Special provision is made for their removal by the stockholders (R. S., secs. 324, 327; Laws of 1901, chap. 81).

b. Liabilities. — Quo warranto proceedings may be brought against corporate officers who unlawfully exercise the duties of a corporate office (sec. 3609). Directors are liable for fraud; for making false reports to public officers, for the unauthorized use of names in prospectus; for the illegal declaration of dividends or illegal withdrawal of capital; for receiving notes in payment of capital stock, or for receiving from any other stock corporation stock of such corporation in exchange for that of the corporation and of which the above person is a director (secs. 4408-4413). Every director who is present at a meeting is deemed to concur in the action taken thereat, unless his dissent is entered on the minutes of the directors' meeting (secs. 4419, 4420).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Unless the articles of agreement otherwise provide, stockholders are only liable to the creditors to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions (R. S., sec. 331; see also Cons., Art. XII. sec. 18; see also R. S., secs. 338, 354).

Richardson v. Company, 23 Utah, 366; 65 Pac. 74; Salt Lake Hardware Co. v. Company, 13 Utah, 423; 45 Pac. 200; Henderson v. Turngren, 9 Utah, 432; 35 Pac. 495; Crowfoot v. Thatcher, 19 Utah, 212.

14. Stock Certificates. — Each shareholder is entitled to a certificate showing the number of shares owned by him, signed by such officers as the by-laws may prescribe. Par value of shares may be any amount.

15. Preferred Stock. — The issue of preferred stock is expressly authorized by statute (Laws of 1903, chap. 59). Preferred stock may be issued on such terms and with such voting powers as may be prescribed in the articles of agreement (sec. 335; Laws of 1903, chap. 59).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Capital stock may be paid for in property by providing therefor in the articles of agreement and describing such property therein (Laws of 1901, chap. 81, amending R. S., sec. 316; Laws of 1905, chap. 111). Assessments cannot be made on full paid stock for any purpose unless so provided in the articles of agreement (sec. 354). No amendments to articles to make it assessable can be made except by unanimous consent of stockholders (sec. 338).

17. Books. — Correct books of the proceedings and business of the corporation must be kept open for inspection by stockholders. The place where such books are to be kept is not regulated by statute (R. S., secs. 328, 329, 4415).

18. Office and Agent. — The Constitution provides that no corporation shall do business within the State without having one or more places of business within the State and an agent located thereat upon whom process may be served (Art. XII. sec. 9; see also R. S., sec. 4415).

19. Reports. — The statutes do not require reports to be made except for insurance, banking, loan, trust, and guaranty companies.

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is a moderate anti-trust statute in force in Utah (R. S., secs. 1752-1762).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charter may be forfeited for non-user for a period of two years consecutively, or for entering illegal pools or trusts (R. S., secs. 321, 1758). Quo warranto lies for misuse or non-use of charter (secs. 3610-3626 inclusive).

Jackson v. Company, 21 Utah, 1; 59 Pac. 238.

22. Amendments. — Articles of incorporation may be amended in any respect desired, by conforming to the provisions of law in such case made and provided (sec. 338). To carry the amendment into effect requires the vote of a majority of the stockholders cast at a stockholders' meeting called for that purpose. The law provides that if all the stockholders vote in favor of such amendment, notice thereof required by law, hereinafter referred to, need not be given, and provided further that the original purpose of the corporation shall not be altered or changed without the approval or consent of all the outstanding stock, and provided further that adding to the purposes or objects or extending the power and business of the corporation shall not be deemed to change the original purposes of the corporation (Laws of 1903, chap. 94; Laws of 1905, chap. 30). In the absence of unanimous consent on the part of the stockholders, notice of the meeting must be given by the president or secretary of the corporation in some newspaper having general circulation in the county where the corporation has its principal place of business for at least twenty-one days, stating the nature of the proposed amendment and the time and place of said meeting. Such change or amendment when adopted shall be signed by the president and secretary of such corporation, and be filed and recorded in the manner provided for the filing and recording of original articles (sec. 339; Laws of 1905, chap. 30).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for the extension of corporate existence.

24. Dissolution. — Voluntary dissolution may be had by application to the District Court upon two-thirds vote of the stockholders at a special meeting of the stockholders (R. S., secs. 3114, 3661-3667; Laws of 1909, chap. 50).

25. Annual License Fee. — All domestic business corporations except water, canal, and irrigation corporations of a certain designated character, and all foreign corporations doing business within the State, must on or before the 15th day of November of each year pay to the Secretary of State a corporation license tax. All corporations with an authorized capital stock of $10,000 or less, $5; more than $10,000 and not to exceed $25,000, $10; more than $25,000 and not exceeding $50,000, $15; more than $50,000 and not exceeding $75,000, $20; more than $75,000 and not exceeding $100,000, $25; more than $100,000 and not exceeding $150,000, $35; more than $150,000 and not to exceed $200,000, $40; any amount over $200,000, $50 (Laws of 1909, chap. 106). Upon payment of the license tax the Secretary issues to such corporation a certificate authorizing it to transact its business in the State for the period of one year (Laws of 1909, chap. 106. See Laws of 1911, chap. 57).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Foreign corporations must file with the Secretary of State and county clerk of the county where the principal office of the corporation is to be located a copy of their articles of incorporation and by-laws. The board of directors of such corporations must appoint some person residing within the county where the corporation's principal place of business is located to receive service of process upon the corporation. A similar resolution must be passed accepting in behalf of the corporation the provisions of the Constitution of the State of Utah. The fee for filing such acceptance is $3. Otherwise the filing and recording fees are the same as for domestic corporations. Foreign corporations pay the same fees to the Secretary of State as domestic corporations of like capitalization (Laws of 1911, chap. 50). Foreign corporations must also pay the same annual license tax as is exacted from domestic corporations (secs. 351, 352; Laws of 1907, chap. 107). Under the Constitution, Art. XIII. sec. 6, no corporation organized outside of the State is permitted to transact business within the State on conditions more favorable than those prescribed by law to similar corporations organized under the laws of Utah. (As to right of foreign corporations to exercise the power of eminent domain, see Laws of 1909, chaps. 20, 47.)

This certificate is filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and a certified copy thereof with the clerk of the town in which the principal place of business is to be located (secs. 4156, 4158).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting must be held within the State. Any three of the signers of the articles of association may call the first meeting of the persons signing such articles, by delivering to each, or leaving at his abode, or mailing, postage prepaid, to his address at least seven days prior to the time of such meeting, a notice of the time and place thereof. Such meeting may be held without previous notice if all the signers of such articles voluntarily assemble for such purpose or agree thereto in writing (sec. 4142). At said first meeting the signers of said articles shall effect an organization by choosing a temporary clerk by ballot, the adoption of by-laws, and the election of officers (sec. 4143).

When by reason of death or other disqualifications of any of the persons named as incorporators or commissioners in an act of incorporation, heretofore or hereafter passed, such corporation cannot be organized, the governor may, upon application of any one of the incorporators or commissioners named in the act on such reasonable notice to the surviving incorporators or commissioners and the commissioner of State taxes as the Governor shall order, designate other persons to act as incorporators or commissioners with the survivors named in the act, and such persons shall, with the survivors named, have all the rights and powers to receive subscriptions for capital stock and organize such corporations as the persons named in the act (Laws of 1908, No. 102; Laws of 1909, p. 90).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — There is no statute authorizing the holding of stockholders' meetings without the State, and by implication at least they must be held there. Directors' meetings may be held within or without the State, as the by-laws may provide (secs. 4144, 4145, 4152).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors, who must be stockholders, and two of them must be residents of the State. Directors may fill vacancies in the board or in the office of the clerk of the corporation (secs. 4146, 4151). It would appear that an executive committee of the board of directors may be provided for in the by-laws. (See Roebeling Sons v. Barre, 76 Vt. 131.)

b. Liabilities. — Directors are liable if the corporation contracts debts before a copy of its articles of association and a certificate as to the amount of capital stock paid in are filed in the office of the clerk of the town in which the principal office of the corporation is to be located. They are also liable for illegal payment of dividends, or for permitting the creation of indebtedness in excess of two-thirds of the capital stock paid in (secs. 4156, 4157; see also secs. 4150, 4109, 4110).

Farr v. Briggs Estate, 72 Vt. 225; 47 Atl. 793; Davenport v. Newton, 71 Vt. 11; 42 Atl. 1087.

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are liable to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions. If the capital stock is withdrawn or refunded to the stockholders before the full payment of its debts, each stockholder is personally liable to the amount thereof refunded to him (secs. 4159, 4160).

Barton Nat. Bank v. Atkins, 72 Vt. 33; 47 Atl. 176; Corey v. Morril, 61 Vt. 598; 17 Atl. 840.

14. Stock Certificates. — Stockholders are entitled to a certificate signed by such officers as the by-laws prescribe. The par value of shares must not exceed $100 each (sec. 4162). As to obtaining new certificates for lost ones, see secs. 4124–4126.

15. Preferred Stock. — There is no provision expressly authorizing the issuance of preferred stock.

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued in payment for any property deemed necessary for the business of the corporation, and the stock so issued shall be fully paid stock, and not liable to further call (sec. 4158).

17. Books. — Stock book must be kept within the State, containing the names of the holders of stock, their places of residence, and number of shares held by each, amount actually paid in on each share, and time when they acquired the same (secs. 4111, 4148, 4167). All records, amounts, and papers of the corporation are open to the inspection of stockholders (secs. 4109, 4110, 4148, 4150, 4167). Special power is granted to the courts to require the production of corporate books and papers by corporate officers of either domestic or foreign corporations doing business within the State (Laws of 1906, Act 75).

18. Office and Agent. — Must have an office within the State in charge of a clerk in the town where its principal place of business is located (secs. 4146, 4167, 4108). If the corporation neglects for six months to appoint and have a clerk residing in the State, it shall forfeit $50 to the person injured (sec. 4108).

19. Reports. — All domestic corporations must within ten days after organization file their annual tax returns with the State Treasurer and the Commissioner of State Taxes in the manner hereinafter set forth to cover the unexpired portion of the fiscal year commencing the 1st day of February next preceding. The report here required must be upon blanks furnished by the Commissioner of State Taxes. The corporation must fill out such blanks and answer all interrogatories therein contained. Such blanks so filled out shall be subscribed and sworn to by the clerk, treasurer, or other proper officer of the corporation. One copy of the blank so filled out and sworn to, shall be returned to the Commissioner of Taxes, one copy shall be sent to the State Treasurer, and one copy shall be retained by the corporation. Such returns are required to be made annually, and should be filed on or before the 1st day of March (secs. 645–647, 699, as amended by Laws of 1906, chap. 36). Every domestic corporation, by its clerk, treasurer or other proper officer and cashiers of national banks, shall annually, on or before the 5th day of April, file with the Commissioner of Taxes, on blanks to be furnished by him, a sworn return showing the name and residence of each shareholder therein, the number of shares standing in the name of each shareholder on the first day of said last-named month, and the par value of such shares (Laws of 1911, chap. 37, sec. 1).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute in force in Vermont.

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Charter may be forfeited for failure to pay license taxes (secs. 695, 704, 705; Laws of 1906, Acts 36, 75).

22. Amendments. — Articles may be amended for the purpose of increasing or decreasing capital stock, for the purpose of changing the corporate name or place of domicile, or for the purpose of altering, adding to, or changing the business of the corporation. To increase the capital stock requires a meeting of the stockholders warned for the purpose. After the increase has been voted a certificate must be prepared, and signed and sworn to by the president and clerk, stating the nature of the amendment. This must be filed and recorded with the Secretary of State, and a certified copy thereof returned and recorded in the town clerk's office in the same manner as the original articles of association.

To reduce the capital stock requires a meeting of the stockholders warned for that purpose, and action thereat had by two-thirds of its stockholders in amount. After such reduction a certificate thereof, signed and sworn to by the president and clerk, must be filed and recorded with the Secretary of State, and a certified copy thereof returned and recorded in the town clerk's office in the manner provided in the case of increase of capital stock. The name of the corporation may be changed by a two-thirds vote of the stockholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock cast at a meeting duly warned for that purpose. Thereafter a certificate signed by the clerk must be filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, setting forth the name and the substance of the voting. A certified copy of such certificate must be recorded in the town clerk's office, where the certified copy of the original articles of association is required to be recorded.

The purposes of the corporation may be changed by a vote of all of the stockholders at a meeting duly called for that purpose. A certificate setting forth such change, signed and sworn to by the president and clerk of such corporation, must be filed and recorded with the Secretary of State, and certified copy thereof returned and recorded in the town clerk's office in the same manner as the original articles of association (Laws of 1904, chap. 91). The domicile of a corporation formed under chap. 165 of Vermont statutes may be changed from any town of this State in which it may be located to any other town of this State, by a two-thirds vote of the stockholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock, or if it has no capital stock, by a two-thirds vote of all the members present at a meeting duly warned for that purpose, and by transmitting and causing to be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State a certificate signed by the clerk, setting forth the change made and the substance of the vote, and causing a certified copy thereof to be recorded in the town clerk's office where a certified copy of the original articles of association is required to be recorded, and causing a certified copy of the original articles of association and a certified copy of the certificate hereinbefore referred to, to be recorded in the town clerk's office in the town of the new domicile (Acts of 1898, No. 68).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — Companies may be incorporated for an unlimited term. The only provision for extension of corporate existence is found in Laws of 1906, chap. 38. This act provides that the payment of the charter tax on or before the 1st day of March in each year shall extend the time one year from said date within which the corporation may organize under its charter notwithstanding the time limited may be fixed in such charter for its organization.

24. Dissolution. — Dissolution may be voted at any meeting called for that purpose at which a majority vote of the total stock issued and outstanding is voted in favor of winding up the corporate affairs. The decree of dissolution must be obtained by application to the Court of Chancery through the medium of a bill of complaint setting forth the county wherein the corporation has its principal office, together with such facts as may be material, and praying for the winding up of such corporation. After decree of dissolution is obtained the clerk of the court shall forthwith cause a certificate copy of the decree to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and when so filed the existence of the corporate shall terminate in accordance with the terms of the decree (secs. 4132–4137). Voluntary dissolution to avoid payment of annual tax may be accomplished by filing and recording with the Secretary of State and the Commissioner of State Taxes a verified statement sworn to by the president, secretary, or any two officers of the corporation stating that all debts have been paid and that the corporation owns no property in the State (secs. 705, 706).

25. Annual License Fee. — On capital stock up to $50,000, $10; and for each $50,000 or part thereof in excess of $50,000, $5; but no tax shall exceed $50. The fiscal year for the purpose of the imposition of the annual license tax commences the 1st day of February. All domestic corporations must file their annual license tax returns as of that date. The tax must be paid on or before the 1st day of April in each year (secs. 690, 695, 697, 703, 704–706, as amended by Laws of 1906, Act 36).

26. Foreign Corporations. — Every foreign corporation desiring to do business in Vermont must first procure from the Secretary of State a certificate that it has complied with all requirements of law to authorize it to do business in this State, and that the business of the corporation to be carried on in Vermont is such as may be lawfully carried on by a corporation incorporated under the laws of the State for such or similar line of business. The requirements here referred to are: First, that it has filed in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the Commissioner of State Taxes a sworn statement in the English language of its charter or certificate of incorporation, and a statement under its corporate seal stating the business it is engaged in or which it proposes to carry on in the State, and the place within the State which is to be its principal place of business, with the person residing in the State upon whom process may be served. The person designated must have a principal place of business within the State (secs. 707, 714, 715; Laws of 1907; Act 36; Laws of 1910, chap. 54). Within ten days after the date of its certificate of registration in Vermont it must file its annual tax returns and pay the pro rata proportion of the annual tax for the unexpired portion of the current year (sec. 700, as amended by Laws of 1906, Act 36; see ante, sec. 19). A fee of $2 must be paid to the Secretary of State and to the Commissioner of State Taxes (sec. 716). By non-payment of annual license tax by April 1st it forfeits the right to sue in the State, and may be enjoined from doing business therein (sec. 710, as amended by Laws of 1906, Act 36; see also secs. 1344, 4644–4649 of the Laws of 1906, Act 75). Foreign corporations must file the same reports as domestic corporations (Laws of 1911, chap. 37, sec. 2).

The statute authorizes the directors to appoint an executive committee of two or more directors from their own number (sec. 1105 a, 13).

5. Procuring the Charter. — Such certificate shall be signed by at least three persons, and shall be acknowledged by them, before an officer authorized by the laws of this State to take acknowledgment of deeds, and shall be presented in term time or in vacation to the judge of the Circuit Court of the court, or of the circuit, corporation, or chancery court of the city wherein the principal office of the corporation is to be located. Such judge shall thereupon certify thereon whether in his opinion such certificate is signed and acknowledged in accordance with the requirements of this act, and if in all respects it is valid. As soon as the certificate is so endorsed by the judge and the fee and tax, if any, required by law to be paid to the State upon the charter shall have been duly paid, it, together with the receipt for such payment, separate certified checks or bank drafts, postal note or money order, one payable to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and one payable to the clerk of the proper court for the amount of the proper fees for recording such charter, may be presented to the State Corporation Commission, which shall ascertain and declare whether the applicants have complied with the requirements of the law entitling themselves to the charter, and shall issue or refuse the same accordingly. When so issued the certificate with all endorsements, together with the order thereon to the State Corporation Commission as required by law to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and by the last-named officer recorded in the charter records of his office, who shall thereupon certify the same to the clerk of the Circuit Court of the county, or to the corporation court of the city wherein the principal office of such corporation is located, or to the clerk of the chancery court of the city of Richmond, when such principal office is located in said city, who shall likewise record the same in a book to be provided and kept for the purpose in his office, and when so recorded the fact of such recordation shall be endorsed upon the said certificate, and the said certificate with all endorsements thereon shall be returned by the said clerk to the State Corporation Commission and lodged and preserved in the office of its clerk. As soon as the charter shall have been lodged for recordation in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the persons who signed and acknowledged said certificate, and their successors and such other persons as may be associated with them, according to the provisions of law or of their charter shall be a body politic and corporate by the name set forth in the said certificate together with the powers, and upon the terms set forth therein, and so far as not in conflict with this act; and in addition shall have all the general powers and be subject to all general restrictions and liabilities conferred and imposed by this act, and by the general laws of this State applicable thereto, not in conflict with this act, or with said charter as hereinbefore provided. Any failure on the part of the said clerk to comply with the provisions of this section shall subject him to a fine of not less than $10, nor more than $100, to be imposed by the State Corporation Commission (sec. 1105, a, 3; as amended by Acts of 1908, chap. 335).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — There is no statutory limitation upon the amount of corporate indebtedness. The statute expressly gives the right to a corporation to create a bonded indebtedness. No corporation created under the laws of this State shall create any bonded indebtedness, or increase its bonded indebtedness, to be secured by lien on any of its property or franchises, until the creation of such bonded indebtedness, or the increase of such bonded indebtedness be sanctioned by a vote in person or by proxy of a majority in amount of all the stockholders having voting powers present or represented and voting, at a meeting of the stockholders called by the Board of Directors of the corporation for that purpose, of which meeting notice by publication at least six times a week for two successive weeks prior to such meeting, in some newspaper published in or near the place where its principal office is located, or notice in writing must be given to each stockholder of record by serving the same on him personally, or by mailing to him, addressed to the postoffice nearest his place of residence, as it appears on the stock books of the corporation, at least ten days prior to such meeting; and in such notice must be stated the time and place of the meeting and its object. If at such meeting a majority in amount of all the stockholders present or represented and voting, shall vote in favor of creating such bonded indebtedness or of increasing such bonded indebtedness, bonds of such corporation may then be issued to the amount authorized by the vote of the stockholders, as hereinbefore provided, and the payment thereof with the interest to accrue thereon, may be secured in such manner and upon such terms as the stockholders at such meeting may by resolution prescribe; provided, however, that no such bonds shall be issued until after full compliance with the provisions of article one hundred and sixty-seven of the Constitution of this State, so far as applicable; and in default thereof any such corporation shall be subject to all the penalties prescribed in this act against corporations for issuing bonds or stock without having first complied with the provisions of said article of the Constitution; provided, further, that nothing in this act shall apply to any note or bond given for the deferred instalments of the purchase price of property and secured by deeds of trust on the property, nor to any corporation dealing in real estate, taken in the usual course of business, nor to any note or bond given for the deferred instalments of the purchase price of rolling stock leased or purchased by railroad corporations (Laws of 1912, p. 57). If provision is so made in the articles of incorporation or by amendment thereto, voting powers in the corporation may be granted to bondholders (sec. 1105 e, 4, 29).

7. Organization Tax. — On capitalization of $50,000 or less, $10; over $50,000 and less than $3,000,000, 20 cents for each $1000 or fraction thereof; $3,000,000 or more, $600. (The foregoing schedule does not apply to transportation or transmission companies.) (Laws of 1902-3-4, chap. 148, sec. 38; see Act of February 26, 1910.)

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — The organization tax is payable to the Secretary of the Commonwealth. The following additional fees are charged: $1 for application of the seal of the Charter Commission to the certificate, and 50 cents per page plus $2 for recording the charter in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. The registration fee as well as the franchise tax is payable annually on or before March 1st of each year. The annual franchise tax is payable to the order of the Treasurer of Virginia, and forwarded to the Auditor of Public Accounts at Richmond. There is no charge for the approval of the local judge, or for obtaining his certificate to the effect that the certificate of incorporation is executed according to law. The State Charter Commission charges $1 for certificate under seal that the applicants for a charter have complied with the requirements of law and are entitled to a charter. The Secretary of the Commonwealth makes no additional charge other than the charges referred to above for giving his certificate to the clerk of the Circuit Court as to the filing in his office of the certificate of incorporation. The charges for filing and recording in the local office (e. g., clerk of the State court) are the same as for the Secretary of the Commonwealth given above. The State Charter Commission makes no charge for finally lodging the certificate of incorporation in their office. The Secretary of the Commonwealth charges $1.50 for issuing certificate of incorporation. The cost of certified copy of the certificate of incorporation is 50 cents per page, 50 cents for certificate plus $1 for application of seal when required under seal. There are no charges made for filing and recording report as to officers, directors, etc. Under sec. 39, chap. 5, of the act concerning corporations, a report is required to be filed with the Charter Commission. Under sec. 14, chap. 1, of the same act a report is required to be filed with the clerk of the court. There is no charge as to the report under sec. 39, chap. 5, of the Corporation Act, but a charge of 25 cents to the clerk of the court for the report under sec. 14, chap. 1, is made. There is an additional charge of 50 cents per page where the certificate of incorporation exceeds two pages in length.

9. Commencing Business. — Business may be commenced as soon as the certificate has been recorded and approved as required by law, and as soon as the minimum capital stock as fixed by the certificate of incorporation has been filed. Before any capital stock can be issued there must be submitted to the State Corporation Commission a statement relative to the financial plan on which such stock issued is to be made. (See post, sec. 16.) The corporation must commence business within two years after the date of the issuance of the charter (sec. 1105 e, 39; 1105 a, 14). Within thirty days after the first election of officers and directors a report authenticated by the signature of the president or one of the vice-presidents or the secretary of the corporation must be filed in the office of the State Corporation Commission, stating character of its business, corporate name, location, name of agent upon whom process may be served, amount of its authorized capital stock, amount actually issued and outstanding, names and addresses and terms of office of officers and directors, and date of annual meeting (sec. 1105, 14).

Every corporation, all of whose officers and directors are non-residents of the city or county in which its principal offices are located, shall, before commencing to do business, by written power of attorney appoint some practising attorney at law, residing in the city or county wherein the principal office of such corporation is located, its attorney or agent, upon whom all legal process against the corporation may be served, and who shall be authorized to enter an appearance in its behalf. Such power of attorney shall be recorded in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of the county or of the clerk's office of the circuit, corporation, or chancery court of the city wherein the principal office of such corporation is located. And such power of attorney shall remain effective until lawfully revoked, and when lawfully revoked shall be immediately re-executed and recorded. A duplicate of such power of attorney shall be filed with the clerk of the State Corporation Commission. Written notice of the resignation or voluntary revocation of such power of attorney by the corporation shall be forthwith filed in the clerk's office wherein it is recorded, and the clerk shall note such resignation or revocation on the margin of the page of the book wherein the power of attorney is recorded, and be entitled to a fee of twenty-five cents therefor, and until this is done such revocation shall be ineffective and the original power of attorney shall remain effective. If there be no such attorney in fact in office residing in such county or city, then all legal process against such corporation may be served upon the clerk of the court of such county or city, wherein is such principal office having jurisdiction of the suit, action, or proceeding. Any such corporation failing to comply with the provisions of this section within sixty days after its annual meeting, shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $100, and each day's continuance of such failure may be construed to be a separate offence under this section, such fine to be imposed and enforced by the State Corporation Commission, with right of appeal to the Supreme Court of appeals; and if any such corporation shall be in default for more than six months in complying with the provisions of this section, the State may proceed against such corporation by writ of quo warranto, or information in the nature of a writ of quo warranto, for the vacation and forfeiture of its charter, and upon judgment in such proceeding against any such corporation, its charter shall thereafter be vacated and forfeited. Such proceeding shall be instituted and prosecuted by the attorney general, at the request of the State Corporation Commission (Acts of 1910, p. 43).

10. Organization Meeting. — The organization meeting should properly be held within the State (sec. 1105 a, sub. 4). The corporation must organize and commence business within two years after granting of the charter. Incorporators may assign their interests, if desired (sec. 1105 e, 6; sec. 1105 e, 51).

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — The annual meeting of the stockholders must be held within the State. It would seem that special meetings should likewise be held within the State (Acts of 1910, p. 43). Directors' meetings may be held within or without the State as the by-laws provide (sec. 1105 e, 7).

12. Directors' Qualifications and Liabilities. a. Qualifications. — There must be at least three directors, including the president, who must be a director. The act provides for the appointment by directors of an executive committee to manage the business of the corporation (sec. 1105 a, sub. 13; sec. 1105 e, 10). Directors may be classified, if desired (sec. 1105 e, sub. 12).

b. Liabilities. — Directors are jointly and severally liable for any damage resulting from their wilfully and fraudulently causing to be published or given out a report of the condition or business of the corporation known to them to be false in any material respect. To enforce this liability action must be brought within two years after the right of action accrues (sec. 1105 e, 26, 35). They are also liable for illegal declaration of dividends, if they do not dissent therefrom (1105 e, 60).

13. Stockholders' Liabilities. — Stockholders are only liable for their unpaid stock subscriptions (1105 e, 9). No stock can be assigned on the books of the corporation without the consent of the corporation until all dues and debts are paid thereon (1105 e, 57). If the stock is assigned before all stock subscriptions are paid thereon, the assignee is liable for any instalments which have accrued or which may thereafter accrue under the subscription agreement (Id.).

14. Stock Certificates. — Each stockholder is entitled to a certificate signed by the president or one of the vice-presidents and the treasurer, or by any two officers of the corporation thereto authorized by the board of directors (sec. 1105 e, 14). As to lost certificates of stock, see Acts of 1910, p. 580.

15. Preferred Stock. — Preferred stock is expressly authorized by the act. Provision may be made for the issuance of the same either in the original certificate or by subsequent amendment thereto. Preferred stock may be issued, if desired, subject to redemption, three years after the issue thereof at a price not less than par. Every corporation shall have power to create two or more kinds of stock of such classes, with such distinctions, preferences, and voting powers or restrictions or qualifications as shall be stated or expressed in the charter, certificate of incorporation, or articles of association, or in any amendment thereof; and the power to increase or decrease the stock, as in this act elsewhere provided, shall apply to all or any of the classes of stock. Any preferred stock that may be issued may, if desired, be made subject to redemption at any time after three years from the issue thereof at a price not less than par, and the holders thereof shall be entitled to receive, and the corporation bound to pay thereon, dividends at such rates and on such conditions as shall be stated in its charter or any amendment thereof, or in the original or amended certificate of incorporation or articles of association or any amendment thereof, and such dividends may be made payable before any dividends shall be set apart or paid on the common stock, and such dividends may be made cumulative (sec. 1105 a, 2, also 1105 e, 3).

16. Payment of Capital Stock. — Stock may be issued for money, land, or other property, real or personal, leases, options, mines, minerals, mineral rights, patent rights, rights of way, easements, contracts, labor, or services. The act provides that there shall be no individual liability on any subscriber beyond the obligation to comply with his contract of subscription. Under the Constitution of 1902, sec. 167, it is provided that whenever stocks or bonds are to be issued by a corporation it shall, before issuing the same, file with the State Corporation Commission a statement (verified by the oath of the president or secretary of the corporation) in such form as may be prescribed by the commission, stating fully and correctly the basis or financial plan upon which stock or bonds are to be issued; and where such basis or financial plan includes services or property received or to be received by the company, such statement shall correctly specify and describe, in the manner prescribed or required by the commission, the services and property, together with the valuation at which the same are received or to be received. (See also Code of 1904, sec. 1105 e, 9.) The act further provides that the judgment of the directors as to the value of the property taken in exchange for stock shall, in the absence of fraud in the transaction, be conclusive. For violating this provision a fine of $1,000 may be imposed, and judgment entered therefor by the said Corporation Commission, which is given judicial powers for this purpose (sec. 1105 e, 9).

17. Books. — Transfer books must be kept (sec. 1105 e, 18).

18. Office and Agent. — Corporations must have a principal office within the State. In case the officers and directors are non-residents of the county, city, or town where the principal office is located, they must annually, by written power of attorney, appoint some practising attorney at law residing therein, as their attorney or agent upon whom service of process may be made, who shall be authorized to enter an appearance in its behalf. This power of attorney must be recorded in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of the county or the Corporation or Chancery Court of the city wherein the principal office of the corporation is located. It must also be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth (sec. 1105 a, 2; also sec. 1105 e, 5, 39).

19. Reports. — Companies incorporated under the general laws must, within thirty days after the annual meeting, file in office of State Corporation Commission a report stating name of the corporation, location, character of business, authorized capital stock, amount issued and outstanding, names and addresses of officers and directors, date of next annual meeting. Every corporation must file with the State Corporation Commission by February 1st of each year report of the amount of its maximum capital stock. Every corporation shall also, at the time of paying its annual registration fee, make to the State Corporation Commission such report of its status, business, or condition as the State Corporation Commission shall require. Non-compliance with these provisions subjects the corporation to a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $100 for each thirty days' default (sec. 1105 e, 39). Every corporation shall, after the annual meeting of its stockholders, certify to the clerk of the Circuit Court of the county or the clerk of the Circuit, Corporation, or Chancery Court of the city wherein is located its principal office, a list of the officers and directors of such corporation elected at said annual meeting (chap. 1, sec. 14). A fee of 25 cents must be paid for filing such certificate (Acts of 1910, p. 43).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — The Constitution of 1902, sec. 165, provides that the General Assembly shall enact laws preventing all trusts, combinations, and monopolies inimical to the public welfare. (See Laws of 1907.)

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — Whenever the principal purpose for which the corporation was formed has failed, or the management thereof is abandoned by its officers, or when operations under the charter have been suspended or abandoned for a period of three years, or the corporation has become insolvent, the charter of such corporation is liable to forfeiture or may be dissolved (sec. 1105 a, 15; Acts of 1908, chap. 335). Charters may be forfeited for failure to appoint resident agent when all the officers and directors are non-residents of the county wherein the principal place of business is located (Acts of 1910, p. 43).

22. Amendments. — Before the amount of stock fixed by the incorporators as the minimum capitalization shall have been subscribed, any amendment to the original certificate may be made by a supplemental certificate signed and acknowledged by the incorporators, and certificate issued and recorded in the office of the State Corporation Commission in the same manner as provided in reference to the original certificate (sec. 1105 a, 5).

At any time after such subscription shall have been completed, the subscribers to the capital stock may, until the corporation is duly organized, apply to the State Corporation Commission for any amendment to the original certificate, and to that end may present the State Corporation Commission a supplemental certificate signed and acknowledged by them in the same manner as in the case of the original certificate certified by a judge as provided in the case of original certificates, and thereupon said State Corporation Commission shall act thereon in the same manner as provided in the case of such original certificates; and if the amendment be issued, then such supplemental certificate, together with all endorsements and order of the commission thereon, shall be recorded in the office of the State Corporation Commission as is provided in the case of original certificates, and when lodged in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth for record the original charter shall be deemed to be altered or amended accordingly (sec. 1105 a, 6).

At any time after organization any such corporation may change the nature of its business, change its name, decrease its capital stock, change the par value of the shares of its capital stock, change the location of its principal office in this State, extend its corporate existence, create one or more classes of preferred stock, and make such other amendments, changes, or alterations as may be desired in the manner following, except that no increase of capital stock shall be made otherwise than in the manner prescribed in sec. 9 of this act (sec. 1105 a, 7).

The board of directors shall pass a resolution declaring that such amendment, change, or alteration is advisable, and calling a meeting of the stockholders to take action thereon, the meeting to be held upon notice by publication at least six times a week for two successive weeks prior to such meeting in some newspaper published in or near the place where its principal office is located, or notice in writing to each of the stockholders, to be served on him personally, or by mailing the same to him to his last known post-office address, at least ten days prior to such meeting; such notice must state the time and place of the meeting and its object. If two-thirds in interest of each class of the stockholders having voting power shall vote in favor of such amendment, change, or alteration, a certificate thereof shall be made by the president or by one of the vice-presidents, under the seal of the corporation, attested by the secretary and acknowledged by them before an officer authorized by the laws of the State to take acknowledgments of deeds. Such certificate, and if the amendment or alteration be one in respect to which the payment of a fee to the State is imposed by law, a receipt for such payment shall be presented to the State Corporation Commission, which shall ascertain and declare whether the said applicant, by complying with the requirements of the law, is entitled to the amendment, alteration, or extension set forth in said certificate, and shall issue or refuse the same accordingly. If the same is issued, the said certificate with the endorsements thereon, together with the order thereon of the commission, shall be forthwith certified as required by law to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, to be recorded by the last-named officer as provided in reference to original certificates, and shall be certified by him to the clerk of the Circuit Court of the county, or the Circuit, Corporation, or Chancery Court of the city in which the original certificate of incorporation is recorded, and the clerk of such court shall thereupon record the same in his office in a book provided and kept for the recordation of charters, and shall endorse the fact of such recordation upon the said certificate, and return the same to the State Corporation Commission, to be lodged and preserved in the office of its clerk. As soon as the said certificate is lodged for recordation in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the original certificate of incorporation shall be deemed to be amended accordingly; provided, however, that such certificate of amendment, change, or alteration shall contain only such provisions as it would be lawful and proper to insert in an original certificate of incorporation, made at the time of making such amendment or alteration, (sec. 1105 a, 8; as amended by Laws of 1910, chap. 174).

In case the capital stock of any corporation organized under this chapter or under any charter heretofore granted by any court, or by the General Assembly of this State, for any purpose permitted under sec. 1 of this chapter, is found to be insufficient for its purposes, such corporation may increase its capital stock from time to time to any amount that it may deem requisite, such increase to be sanctioned by a vote in person or by proxy of two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders who shall be present or represented and voting at a meeting of the stockholders, which two-thirds shall amount to at least a majority of the capital stock of the corporation, called by the directors for that purpose by a notice by publication at least six times a week, for two successive weeks prior to such meeting, in some newspaper published in or near the place where its principal office is located, or notice in writing to each of the stockholders, to be served on him personally, or by mailing the same to him at his last known post-office address, at least ten days prior to such meeting; such notice must state the time and place of the meeting and its general object, and the amount to which it is proposed to increase the capital stock. The proceedings of said meeting must be entered on the minutes of the proceedings of the stockholders; and if two-thirds in amount of such stockholders vote in favor of such increase, a certificate thereof shall be made by the president, or by one of the vice-presidents, under the seal of the corporation attested by the secretary, and shall be acknowledged by said officers signing the same before any officer authorized by the laws of the State to take acknowledgments of deeds; and when so acknowledged, it, together with the receipt for the payment of any fee to the State which may be imposed by law for such increase of capital, may be presented to the State Corporation Commission, which shall ascertain and declare whether the said corporation has, by complying with the requirements of the law, entitled itself to make such increase of the capital stock of said corporation, and accordingly shall issue or refuse a certificate for said increase of capital. If the amendment to the charter of such corporation allowing such increase of capital be issued, it shall be certified by the commission as required by law to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and recorded by the last-named officer in the charter records of his office, and by him certified to the clerk of the court of the county or city in which the original certificate of incorporation is recorded, who shall likewise record the same in his office, and endorse upon such certificate the fact of such recordation, and return the same to the State Corporation Commission, to be lodged and preserved in the office of its clerk. As soon as the said certificate is lodged for recordation in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the charter of said corporation shall stand so amended, and the increase of capital stock shall become effective, and from time to time the board of directors may proceed to dispose of the capital stock as so increased, upon such terms and conditions and for such considerations as they may deem for the best interests of the corporation, but not until after full compliance with the requirements in that regard of sec. 167 of the Constitution of the State (sec. 1105 a, 9). Whenever the actually issued and outstanding capital stock of any corporation organized under this chapter or under any charter heretofore granted by any court or by the general assembly of this State for any purposes permitted under sec. 1 of this chapter, shall be found to be more than sufficient for its purposes, it may with the concurrence of two-thirds in amount of all its stockholders, given as hereinafter provided, decrease its capital stock from time to time to any amount, not less than the minimum fixed in its charter, or some amendment thereof. Such decrease must be sanctioned by a vote, in person or by proxy, of two-thirds in amount of the stockholders of the corporation at a meeting of such stockholders called by the Board of Directors for that purpose, of which meeting notice by publication, at least six times a week for two successive weeks prior to such meeting in some newspaper published in or near the place where its principal office is located, or notice in writing must be given to each stockholder of record by serving the same on him personally, or by mailing it to him, addressed to the post-office nearest his place of residence, as it appears upon the stock books of the corporation, at least ten days prior to such meeting, and in such notice must be stated the time and place of the meeting, its object, and the amount to which it is proposed to decrease the capital stock. If at such meeting two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders vote in favor of decreasing the capital stock to an amount not less than the amount mentioned in such notice, which shall not be less than the minimum amount of authorized capital of the corporation, a copy of the proceedings so far as they relate to this subject, entered upon the records of the corporation, may be certified by the president, or by one of the vice-presidents, under the seal of the corporation, attested by its secretary and acknowledged by them before an officer authorized by the laws of this State to take acknowledgments of deeds. A copy thus certified may be presented to the State Corporation Commission, which shall ascertain whether the applicants have, by complying with the requirements of the law, entitled themselves to make such decrease of the capital stock, and accordingly shall issue or refuse a certificate permitting the same, which certificate shall be certified to the Secretary of the Commonwealth to be recorded by the last-named officer as provided with reference to original certificates and shall be certified by him to the clerk of the circuit court of the county or the circuit, corporation or chancery court of the city in which the original certificate of incorporation is recorded, and the clerk of such court shall thereupon record the same in his office in a book provided and kept for the recordation of charters and shall endorse the fact of such recordation upon the said certificate and return the same to the State Corporation Commission to be lodged and preserved in the office of the clerk. When so recorded in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the power of the said corporation to make such decrease, subject to the provisions of sec. 167 of the Constitution, so far as applicable thereto, shall be complete.

The capital stock may thereupon be decreased in the manner following, that is to say, by retiring or reducing any class of stock, or by the surrender of every stockholder of his shares, and the issue to him in lieu thereof of a decreased number of shares, or by the purchase at the fair market value not exceeding par, of certain shares for retirement, or by retiring shares owned by the corporation, or by reducing the par value of shares, and when any corporation shall decrease the amount of its capital stock as hereinbefore provided, the certificate decreasing the same shall be published for three weeks successively, at least once a week in a newspaper published in the county or city in which the principal office of the corporation is located, and if no newspaper be published therein, then in a newspaper published in a county or city convenient thereto, the first publication to be made within fifteen days after the filing of such certificate; provided, however, that no such decrease in capital stock shall affect the right of any creditor of the said corporation existing at the time of such decrease (Acts of 1912, p. 79).

23. Extension of Corporate Existence. — There is no provision for the extension of corporate existence after the expiration of the charter.

24. Dissolution. — The incorporators before the payment of any part of the capital stock and before beginning business may surrender all their corporate rights and franchises by following the steps prescribed in the statutes. After organization, on resolution of a majority of the board of directors, with the consent of two-thirds in interest of the stockholders, the corporation may be voluntarily dissolved (sec. 1105 a, 11, 12, 15; see also Acts of 1908, p. 338).

25. Annual Franchise Tax. — Before the 1st day in October in each year every domestic corporation and every foreign corporation doing business in this State must pay into the treasury of the State a tax to be assessed by the State Corporation Commission, as follows:

Every corporation, joint stock company, or association organized or created under, by, or pursuant to law in this State, except railway, canal, light, heat, and power companies, insurance, banking, and surety companies, telephone companies having an authorized maximum capital stock of $5000 or less, cemeteries, religious and charitable associations, shall in addition to the charter fee, tax on property and income or receipt and license tax, and the registration fee prescribed by law, pay into the treasury of the State on or before the 1st day of March of each and every year, an annual State franchise tax to be assessed by the State Corporation Commission, as follows:

Where the maximum capital stock is $25,000 and under, $10; over $25,000 and not in excess of $50,000, $20; over $50,000, and not in excess of $100,000, $40; over $100,000 and not in excess of $300,000, $60; over $300,000 and not in excess of $500,000, $100; over $500,000 and not in excess of $1,000,000, $200; over $1,000,000, an additional sum of $10 for each $100,000 or fraction thereof in excess of $1,000,000.

The State Corporation Commission shall ascertain the amount of the authorized maximum capital stock of said corporation, company, or association as of the 1st day of January in each year, and shall assess against such corporation, company, or association, the State franchise tax herein imposed, and a certified copy of such assessment when so made shall be forwarded by the clerk of the State Corporation Commission before the 15th day of February, to the Auditor of Public Accounts and to the president or other proper officer of every such corporation, company, or association.

Any such corporation, company, or association failing to pay the said tax into the State Treasury within the time prescribed shall incur a penalty thereon of five per centum and interest at the rate of six per centum on the total amount of tax and penalty from the date when the same was due until paid, which shall be added to the amount of such tax (Acts of 1903, p. 182 as amended by Acts of 1908, p. 590; Act of Feb. 26, 1910; Laws of 1910, p. 87).

26. Annual Registration Fee. — All domestic corporations other than charitable and foreign corporations doing business within the State shall pay annually into the treasury of the State before March 1 of each year the following registration fee: With capitalization of $15,000 or under, $5; over $15,000 and not exceeding $50,000, $10; over $50,000 and not exceeding $100,000, $15; over $100,000 and not exceeding $300,000, $20; over $300,000, $25. This fee is payable in addition to the annual franchise tax or other taxes imposed upon the corporation. Failure to pay such fee for two years and ninety days operates as revocation of the charter of the corporation (Act of 1908, p. 338; Acts of 1909, p. 338; see also Cons., 1902, sec. 157).

27. Foreign Corporations. — The Constitution of 1902, sec. 163, provides that no foreign corporation shall be authorized to carry on in the State any kind of business which domestic corporations are prohibited from doing, or be relieved from compliance with any of the requirements of similar domestic corporations by the Constitution and laws of the State where the same can be made applicable to such foreign corporations without discriminating against it. Every incorporated company doing business in this State shall have an office in the State, at which all claims against the company due residents of the State may be audited, settled, and paid. Every such company incorporated under a jurisdiction beyond the limits of the State (and hereinafter designated as a foreign corporation) shall, before doing business in this State, present to the State Corporation Commission (a) a written power of attorney executed in duplicate, appointing some person residing in this State its agent upon whom all legal process against the corporation may be served, and who shall be authorized to enter an appearance in its behalf; (b) two duly authenticated copies of the charter of the corporation; and (c) a certificate of the Auditor of Public Accounts, showing the payment into the treasury of the fee required by law to be paid by such corporation, and shall obtain from said Corporation Commission a license to transact business in the State. If it shall be made to appear to the State Corporation Commission that said corporation has complied with the law relative to the licensing of a foreign corporation of the character of the applicant corporation, then said Corporation Commission shall issue to said corporation a license to transact business in the State. Certain mining and manufacturing corporations are given special power with reference to the acquisition of real estate, subject to the limitation that they shall not be allowed to acquire and hold save in Tazwell, Russell, and Buchanan counties more than ten thousand acres of land in any one county (sec. 1103 b). Under the Constitution foreign corporations may be taxed the same as domestic corporations (Cons., 1902, sec. 163). Under Laws of 1902-3-4, chap. 148, sec. 38, they pay the same fee upon commencing to do business as is imposed upon domestic corporations at the time of organization. In the case of the foreign corporation, this fee is based upon the amount of their property located within the State. Foreign corporations doing business within the State are subject to payment of the annual registration tax, and the annual franchise tax (Cons., 1902, chap. 157; see also Laws of 1903, chap. 242). Foreign corporations are also required to make the same reports as are required in the case of domestic corporations (secs. 1105 e, 39; Cons., 1902, secs. 157, 163; secs. 1103 b, 1104, 1105, 1105 a).

Every foreign corporation when it obtains from the State Corporation Commission a certificate of authority to do business in this State, shall pay an entrance fee into the treasury of Virginia to be ascertained and fixed as follows: For a company whose maximum capital stock is $50,000 or less, $30; over $50,000 and not to exceed $1,000,000, 60 cents for each $1,000 or fraction thereof; over $1,000,000 and not to exceed $10,000,000, $1,000; over $10,000,000, and not to exceed $20,000,000, $1,250; over $20,000,000 and not to exceed $30,000,000, $1,500; over $30,000,000 and not to exceed $40,000,000, $1,750; over $40,000,000 and not to exceed $50,000,000, $2,000; over $50,000,000 and not to exceed $60,000,000, $2,250; over $60,000,000, and not to exceed $70,000,000, $2,500; over $70,000,000 and not to exceed $80,000,000, $2,750; over $80,000,000, and not to exceed $90,000,000, $3,000; over $90,000,000, $5,000; provided, however, that foreign corporations without capital stock shall pay $50 only for such certificate of authority to do business in this State (Act of Feb. 26, 1910).

18. Office and Agent. — Every corporation must maintain an office within the State and an agent thereat to receive service of process (sec. 4251).

19. Reports. — Before the second Tuesday in January all corporations both domestic and foreign must file with the auditor of the county where business is located a statement showing names and addresses and titles of company's officers and terms of office, and also, within thirty days of date of incorporating, must file a similar report. No penalty, however, is provided for failure to comply therewith, and the provision is generally disregarded (secs. 4259, 4260; see also Laws of 1905, chap. 115).

20. Anti-Trust Statute. — There is no anti-trust statute in force in this State. The Constitution, however, prohibits combinations to fix the price or limit the production of commodities (Cons., Art. XII. sec. 22).

21. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The provisions of law as to the bringing of information in the nature of quo warranto against corporations will be found in Ballinger's Codes and Statutes (secs. 5189, 5190). The Secretary of State is authorized to strike from the records of his office the names of all corporations which have neglected for a period of two years to pay their annual license fee. If the corporation does not apply within six months after its name has been so stricken from the record in the office of the Secretary of State for reinstatement, then the corporation shall thereupon be dissolved, and the trustees of such corporation shall hold title to the property of the corporation for the benefit of its stockholders and creditors, to be disposed of under proper court proceedings (Laws of 1909, chap. 19). The name of any corporation which is stricken from the records of the office of the Secretary of State for non-payment of its annual license tax may be adopted by another corporation at the termination of the period of six months next ensuing from the date when such name has been so stricken from said records (Laws of 1909, chap. 19; see also sec. 5789, Laws of 1909, p. 928).

22. Annual Franchise Tax. — On or before July 1st of each year every corporation must pay an annual license tax of $15. For failure to pay the annual license fee on or before the 1st day of July and prior to the 1st day of January next following, a fine of $2.50 is imposed (Laws of 1907, chap. 140).

Any corporation neglecting for a period of two years to pay its annual license fee shall have its name stricken from the records in the office of the Secretary of State. Any corporation may apply within six months after its name has been stricken from the records of the office of the Secretary of State for reinstatement by it and payment of license fees and penalties then due from it and the sum of $25 for additional penalty (Laws of 1909, chap. 19).

23. Amendments. — Amendments for any purpose may be made by a majority vote of the trustees and the vote or written assent of two-thirds of the capital stock of the corporation. If the written assent of two-thirds of the capital stock has not been obtained, the vote of said stock may then be taken at any regular meeting called for that purpose in the manner provided in the by-laws for special meetings of stockholders. The president and secretary of the said corporation shall certify such amendments in triplicate under the seal of said corporation to be correct, and file a copy of the same as in the case of the original articles. The time of existence of such corporation shall not be extended by amendment beyond the time fixed in the original articles of incorporation (Laws of 1905, chap. 11).

Whenever a corporation shall execute and file in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the county auditor of the proper county supplemental articles of incorporation changing its corporate name, such corporation shall file in the office of such county auditor at the time of filing such supplemental articles, or within ten days thereafter, a written notice signed by the president, vice-president, or secretary, setting forth its original corporate name, its corporate name as changed, and stating that supplemental articles making such change of name have been filed in the office of the Secretary of State and in the office of the county auditor of the county (Laws of 1905, chap. 109).

Whenever it is desired to increase or diminish the amount of capital stock, a meeting of the stockholders shall be called by a notice signed by at least a majority of the trustees, and published at least eight weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the principal place of business of the company is located, or if no newspaper is published in the county, then the nearest thereto in that State, which notice shall specify the object of the meeting, the time and place where it is to be held, and the amount to which it is proposed to increase or diminish the capital, and a vote of two-thirds of all the shares of the stock shall be necessary to increase or diminish the amount of the capital stock (sec. 4272).

If at a meeting so called a sufficient number of votes have been given in favor of increasing or diminishing the amount of capital, a certificate of the proceedings showing compliance with these provisions, the amount of capital actually paid in, the whole amount of debts and liabilities of the company and the amount to which the capital is to be increased or diminished, shall be made out, and signed and verified by the affidavit of the chairman and secretary of the meeting, certified by a majority of the trustees, and filed in the same manner as is required in the case of original articles, and when so filed the capital stock of the corporation shall be increased or diminished to the amount specified in the certificate (sec. 4273).

Any corporation desiring at any time to remove its principal place of business into some other county in the State shall file in the office of the county auditor a certified copy of its certificate of incorporation. If it is desired to remove its principal place of business to some other city, town, or locality within the same county, publication shall be made of such removal at least once in each week for four weeks in the newspaper published nearest to the city, town, or locality from which the principal place of business of such corporation is desired to be removed. The formation or corporate acts of any corporation hereafter formed under this chapter shall not be rendered invalid by reason of the fact that its principal place of business may not have been designated in the certificate of incorporation: Provided that within three months from the passage of this chapter such corporation shall cause publication to be made once a week for at least four weeks in a newspaper published nearest the city, town, or locality, and where the principal place of business of such corporation has been located, designating the city, town, or locality and county where its principal place of business shall be located. On compliance with the provisions of the section in the several cases herein mentioned, the principal place of business of any corporation shall be deemed established or removed at or to any designated city, town, or locality and county in the State (sec. 4276).

Such corporations shall also constitute and appoint an agent, who shall reside at the place in the State where the principal business of the corporation is to be carried on, to be designated as hereinafter required. Such appointment shall be in writing, signed by the president or chief officer of such corporation, and shall be attested by its corporate seal, and shall contain the name of the agent, his place of residence, and the place where the principal business of such corporation is to be carried on, and shall authorize such agent to accept service of process in any action or suit pertaining to the property, business, or transactions of such corporation within this State, in which such corporation may be a party. The signature of such president or chief officer, attested by the corporate seal to such written appointment, shall be sufficient proof of the appointment of such agent. Such appointment when duly executed shall be filed for record in the office of the Secretary of State by such corporation, and shall be there recorded, and such corporation shall have and keep continually some resident agent, empowered as aforesaid, during all the time such corporation shall conduct or carry on any business within this State, and service of any process, pleading notice, or other paper shall be taken and held as due service on such corporation. Such corporation may change its agent or its principal place of business from time to time by filing and recording with the Secretary of State a new appointment stating the change of such agent or the change in the principal place of business, and in the event such foreign corporation shall withdraw from this State and cease to transact business therein it shall continue to keep and maintain such agent within this State upon whom service of process, pleadings and papers may be made, until the statute of limitations shall have run against anyone bringing an action against said corporation, which accrued prior to its withdrawal from this State. In case said corporation shall revoke the authority of its designated agent after its withdrawal from this State and prior to the time when the statute of limitation would run against causes of action accruing against it, then in that event service of process, pleadings, and papers in such actions may be made upon the Secretary of State, of the State of Washington, and the same shall be held as due and sufficient service upon such corporation (sec. 4293; Laws of 1890, sec. 3, p. 290, as amended by Laws of 1909, p. 72).

1. Statutes under which Business Corporations may incorporate. —

The Business Corporation Act is to be found in the Code of West Virginia (Laws of 1899, as amended in 1901, chap. 52, secs. 1-24; chap. 53, secs. 1-63; chap. 54, secs. 1-83). For convenience in classification for prescribing and assessing license tax on charters or certificates of incorporation, corporations are divided into two classes, domestic and foreign. A domestic corporation is (a) one incorporated by or under the laws of this State, or (b) under the laws of the State of Virginia before June 20, 1863, and which has its principal place of business and chief works (if it have chief works) in this State. Every other corporation is a foreign corporation. Domestic corporations are subdivided into two classes, resident and non-resident. A resident corporation is a domestic corporation whose principal place of business or chief works (if it have chief works) are located within this State, and a non-resident corporation is a domestic corporation whose principal place of business or chief works are located without this State. The words "chief works" as used in the act include shops, factories, mines, manufacturing plants, or any building or other place where mechanics, artisans, or laborers are employed. No corporation can be incorporated for the sole purpose of purchasing real estate in order to sell the same for profit (Code 52:3, as amended by Laws of 1901, chap. 35, and Laws of 1903, chap. 3).

2. Incorporators. — Five or more persons. There are no residential requirements (Code 54:6).

h. If the corporation desires to hold more than ten thousand acres of land in West Virginia, the agreement must set forth the maximum number of acres it desires to hold (Code 54: 6). Every corporation, including railroad and all other corporations holding more than ten thousand acres of land in this State, shall pay a tax of five cents per acre for each acre in excess of ten thousand acres. Corporations heretofore incorporated and foreign corporations heretofore authorized to hold property and transact business in this State, which are liable to pay such tax and have not paid the same, shall pay the same to the Secretary of State before August 1, 1905. Such corporations shall, under the hand of the president and seal of the corporation, and attested by the secretary, apply to the Secretary of State for a certificate authorizing the holding of the number of acres stated in such application, and pay the tax thereon, and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to issue to such corporation a certificate stating the amount of tax paid and number of acres on which paid, and the number of acres the corporation is thereby entitled to hold. 5. Procuring the Charter. — The agreement of incorporation must be signed and acknowledged by each of the five incorporators. Each incorporator must be a subscriber for at least one share of stock. Two of the incorporators must give their affidavit that the amount stated therein to have been paid on the capital stock has been in good faith paid in for the purposes of the business of the intended corporation and with no intention or understanding that the same shall be withdrawn. When application is made to the Secretary of State for a certificate of incorporation for a resident corporation, two of the incorporators must make affidavit to the following effect that the statement made in such certificate, to wit, "That said corporation shall keep its principal place of business at _____ in the county of _____ and State of West Virginia," is true, and that said principal place of business and chief works have been so located in good faith, and not for the purpose of evading any law of the State of West Virginia, etc. Within three months after filing the agreement of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State, a certified copy thereof must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the county in which the principal office is located, if within West Virginia; or if the principal office is located out of the State, then such certified copy must be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which the statutory attorney resides (chap. 54, sec. 20; Laws of 1901, chap. 35; Laws of 1905, chap. 36, sec. 127).

7. Organization Tax. — The organization tax is in fact the first year's annual tax. The statute distinguishes between resident corporations and non-resident corporations in the matter of organization taxes. Resident corporations are those whose principal place of business and chief works are located outside of West Virginia. For both classes of corporations the license year begins July 1st. On every certificate issued after September 30th of any year the State collects only one-tenth of the amount of the annual tax for each month or fractional part of a month to ensue before the first day of the next license tax year, which commences on July 1st of each year. But in no case shall the amount assessed and collected be less than $5 for a resident corporation, nor less than $10 for a non-resident corporation. If the certificate of incorporation be issued on or after the 1st day of May in any one year, and before the 1st day of July of any year, the Secretary of State shall assess and collect the tax for the full year beginning on said July 1st in addition to the annual tax for the current year (Acts of 1907, Extra Session, chap. 16).

For resident corporations the annual license tax is as follows: $5,000 or less, $10; more than $5,000 and not more than $10,000, $15; more than $10,000 and not more than $25,000, $20; more than $25,000 and not more than $50,000, $25; more than $50,000 and not more than $75,000, $45; more than $75,000 and not more than $100,000, $50; more than $100,000 and not more than $125,000, $55; more than $125,000 and not more than $150,000, $60; more than $150,000 and not more than $175,000, $70; more than $175,000 and not more than $200,000, $75; more than $200,000 and not more than $300,000, $90; more than $300,000 and not more than $400,000, $105; more than $400,000 and not more than $500,000, $120; more than $500,000 and not more than $1,000,000, $170; $1,000,000, $170, and $60 on each $1,000,000 or fraction thereof in excess of $1,000,000 (Laws of 1909, chap. 68, sec. 126).

For non-resident corporations the annual license tax is as follows: $10,000 or less, $15; more than $10,000 and not more than $25,000, $20; more than $25,000 and not more than $50,000, $30; if more than $50,000 and not more than $75,000, $40; if more than $75,000 and not more than $100,000, $50; if more than $100,000 and not more than $1,000,000, $50, and an additional 25 cents on each $1,000 or fraction thereof in excess of $100,000; if more than $1,000,000 and not more than $2,000,000, $275, and an additional 20 cents on each and every $1,000 or fraction thereof in excess of $1,000,000; if more than $2,000,000 and not more than $4,000,000, $475, and an additional 10 cents on each and every $1,000 or fraction thereof in excess of $2,000,000; if more than $4,000,000, $675, and an additional $50 on each and every $1,000,000 or fraction thereof in excess of $4,000,000 (Laws of 1905, chap. 36, sec. 128). Non-resident domestic corporations must, at the time of taking out their charter, pay to the State Auditor, as their attorney in fact, upon whom service of process may be made (see post, sec. 9), $10 for his services as such for the then current year ending on the 30th day of April next ensuing; and on or before the 1st day of May of each year thereafter such corporation shall pay to the State Auditor the like sum of $10 for his services as such attorney (Laws of 1907, Special Session, chap. 9).

Filing and Recording Fees. — To the Secretary of State for certificate of incorporation or copy thereof, $10; for each certified copy of certificate of incorporation, $10; for each certificate of change of name, or increase or decrease of authorized capital stock, or change of principal office, or amendment to certificate of incorporation, $5; for recording power of attorney, $3; for endorsing and filing reports of corporations, $1 each (Laws of 1904, chap. 13). Filing and recording fees in local county office average about $2.50.

9. Commencing Business. — The corporation must hold its organization meeting within six months after the issuance of the certificate of incorporation. Every domestic corporation shall within thirty days after its first election of officers, by power of attorney duly executed, appoint some person residing in the county in this State wherein its business is conducted to accept service on behalf of said corporation and upon whom service may be had of any process or notice; such power of attorney to be recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the attorney resides, and filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State. Any corporation failing to comply with such requirement within twelve months from the date of incorporation shall thereby forfeit its charter (Acts of 1907, Extra Session, chap. 10). Within ninety days after incorporation non-resident domestic corporations must, by power of attorney, duly executed and acknowledged and filed in the Auditor's office of the State, appoint the said Auditor and his successors in office their attorney in fact to accept service of process and notice in the State for such corporation, and by the same instrument they must declare their consent that service of any process or notice in the State upon said attorney in fact, or his acceptance thereof endorsed thereon, shall be equivalent for all purposes, and shall be and constitute due and legal service upon said corporation. The post-office address of all non-resident domestic corporations must be filed with the power of attorney. Non-resident domestic corporations may, if they choose, however, designate, in addition to the State Auditor, other persons within the State as their attorney in fact upon whom service of process may be made (Laws of 1905, Senate Bill No. 77, passed February 22, 1905). Business must be commenced within one year after incorporation (Laws of 1901, chap. 35).

Any delinquent corporation may, on or before the 1st day of November following, or at any time before judgment or decree is entered, pay the amount of such taxes, and a penalty of one per cent for each month or fractional part thereof that such failure has continued, but the amount thereof shall not be less than $5. Between the 1st day of February and the 1st day of December the Auditor shall certify to the governor and Secretary of State a list of all delinquent corporations (Acts of 1907, Extra Session, chap. 16. 23. Amendments. — Any corporation formed, or which may hereafter be formed, or which has accepted or may accept the provisions of this chapter, may, by a resolution at a general or special meeting of the stockholders thereof, change the place of its principal office, or make such reduction or increase in the number of shares of its capital stock, or the par value of each share, as may be decided upon by said stockholders, a majority of the stock of such company being represented by the holders thereof at such meeting in person or by proxy and voting therefor; provided that notice be given by advertisement published at least two weeks before such action in some newspaper of general circulation printed in the county wherein the principal office of such corporation is located, if such office be within the State; and if such office be not in this State, then in some newspaper printed at the capital of this State, of the intention to offer such resolution; and provided, further, that such resolution may be adopted without such notice being published, if the meeting at which it is adopted be assented to in writing by all of the stockholders of the company at the time or before the meeting is held. Any corporation heretofore incorporated, or that may be incorporated before this act takes effect (that is, before February 18, 1901), may reduce its authorized capital stock, in the manner prescribed in this act. If such application be made to the Secretary of State before January 1, 1903, he shall charge no fee whatever for such certificate, or for any work in connection therewith or relating thereto provided in this act, nor shall he collect a tax for the State seal thereon (Code 54:21, amended 1901, Act 35).

When such change of principal office or increase or reduction shall have been made by any such corporation, the president thereof shall, under his signature and the seal of the corporation, certify the resolution to the Secretary of State; and the Secretary of State, under his hand and the great seal of the State, shall issue to the corporation so making such change of principal office or increase or reduction, a certificate reciting the resolution and declaring the proposed change of principal office or increase or reduction to be authorized by law, which certificate shall be received in all courts and places as evidence of the change in the number or par value of the shares of the capital stock of such corporation, and of the authority to increase or reduce the same, or of such change of said principal office (Code 54:22, as amended by 1901, Acts 35). A corporation at any time, when it accepts the provisions of this chapter, may change the par value of its shares, as the stockholders thereof in general meeting, or the board of directors under the authority given them by the stockholders, may determine; in which case the statement to be filed as aforesaid with the Secretary of State shall show the proposed change, and the same shall have effect from the date of the certificate of incorporation (Code 54:13).

If the stockholders of a joint company desire to change the name thereof, they may do so in the same manner that they may increase or reduce the number of shares of the capital stock, and, after doing so, such resolution changing such name, certified under the common seal and signature of the president of the corporation, shall be delivered to the Secretary of State, who shall issue his certificate under seal reciting the resolution, and declaring that the corporation is to be thereafter known by the new name so adopted; and such certificate shall be evidence of the change of name therein specified, and the Secretary of State shall keep an index in his office showing the new name and the change from the old name, and the old name showing the change to the new name (Code 53:12, amended 1901, Act 35).

Any corporation, except railroad companies, may agree to and adopt a new agreement, so as to enlarge or diminish the objects and purposes for which it was incorporated, by signing and acknowledging a new agreement in all respects as the original agreement was signed and acknowledged. Such new agreement must be signed and acknowledged by the holders of a majority of the stock of the corporation, and a resolution showing that such new agreement has been made must be spread upon the minutes of the stockholders' meeting and concurred in by the holders of a majority of the stock. When such new agreement is made, the same and a certified copy of such resolution, under the hand of the president of the corporation and the seal of the corporation, shall be delivered to the Secretary of State, and the Secretary of State shall issue his certificate in the form prescribed in the ninth section of this chapter, so far as the same may be found practicable; and from thence such corporation shall be subject to such new agreement and certificate. And all the provisions of this chapter shall apply to such new certificates and to the corporations receiving the same, in like manner as to original certificates of incorporation and agreements, except as herein otherwise provided.

24. Extension of Corporate Existence. — May be extended upon compliance with the statute for an additional period of fifty years (Code 54, sec. 11, as amended by Laws of 1901, chap. 35).

25. Dissolution. — A majority of the stockholders may at any time at a meeting resolve to discontinue the corporate business, and may divide the property and assets that may remain after paying the debts and liabilities of the corporation. Before a certificate of dissolution shall issue, all State license taxes must be paid. Not less than one-third in interest of the stockholders of a corporation desiring to wind up its affairs may petition the Court of Chancery in the county in which the principal office or place of business is situated; but if there be no such office or place of business in the State, they may petition the Circuit Court of the county in which the other stockholders or any one or more of them reside, stating the grounds of their application. The charter may also be voluntarily surrendered before organization (Code, chap. 53, sec. 56; chap. 53, secs. 57–59; chap. 53, sec. 6, as amended by Laws of 1901, chap. 35; Laws of 1903, chap. 3, sec. 4).

It must also file in the latter office a certificate from the Secretary of State showing that it has complied with the laws of the State regulating the transaction of business therein by foreign corporations. It must also file with the Secretary of State a written acceptance of the condition that it will exercise its powers subject to same conditions imposed upon domestic corporations. Foreign corporations must at the time of procuring authority to do business in the State, by power of attorney duly executed and acknowledged and filed in the State Auditor's office, appoint such State Auditor as its attorney in fact upon whom process and notices may be served. At the same time they must pay to the State Auditor $10 for his services as such for the then current year ending on the 30th day of April next ensuing; and on or before the 1st day of May for each year thereafter such corporation shall pay to the State Auditor a like sum of $10 for his services as such attorney. The post-office address of the corporation must be filed at the same time (Laws of 1905, Senate Bill No. 77, passed February 22, 1905; Acts of 1907, Extra Session, chap. 9). If the certificate of authority be issued after the last day of July the Secretary of State shall assess and collect $1 for each month or fractional part thereof to ensue before the 1st day of the next May; and on or before the said 1st day of May in each year the said corporation shall pay to the Auditor a like sum of $10 for his services as such attorney, provided that if the certificate of authority be issued in the month of March or April the Secretary of State shall assess and collect the sum of $1 for each month and shall in addition thereto at the same time assess and collect the full fee of $10 for the year beginning with the 1st day of the ensuing May (Acts of 1907, Extra Session, chap. 9).

Every foreign corporation at the time of its application for the certificate mentioned in sec. 30, chap. 54, of the Code, shall file with the Secretary of State a report, preliminary to the annual report hereinafter mentioned, which preliminary report shall contain sufficient information upon which to base an assessment of its license tax for the then current year. Before issuing such certificate the Secretary of State shall collect the amount of license tax he finds to be proper for the license tax year ending with the 30th day of June. If the certificate be issued after the 30th day of September and before the 1st day of July of the ensuing year the Secretary of State shall assess and collect such taxes at the rate of one-tenth of the amount of the annual license tax for each month or fractional part of a month to ensue before the said 1st day of the ensuing license tax year. Thereafter on or before the 1st day of the license tax year next following the date of the certificate of authority, and on or before every succeeding first day of the license tax year, the Auditor shall collect such tax for the full year, provided that if the certificate of authority be issued in either the months of May or June of any one year the Secretary of State shall assess and collect the license tax for said months as well as for a full year beginning with the 1st day of July of the ensuing license tax year (Acts of 1907, Extra Session, chap. 16).

Every foreign corporation holding property or doing business in the State shall make a report to the Auditor annually in the month of April of each year, in which report shall be set out:

1. The name of such corporation, the name of the State or country by which incorporated, the date of incorporation, the date of the certificate of the Secretary of State authorizing it to do business in this State, the place of its principal office, the names and post-office addresses of its president, secretary, and of its officer (if any) charged with the duty of making returns of its property for taxation, and the name and post-office address of its attorney of record in this State.

4. The proportion of its capital stock which is represented by property owned and used in the State of West Virginia, which report shall be verified by the affidavit of the president, secretary, or other executive officer of such corporation. It shall be the duty of the Auditor to assess and fix the license tax according to the proportion of the capital stock which is represented by the property owned and used in this State, according to the rates prescribed in sec. 126 of this chapter, if the assessed value of its property located in this State amounts to $5,000; but if the assessed value of such property be less than $5,000, the assessment shall be according to the rates prescribed in sec. 128 of this chapter; provided that no such corporation shall pay an annual license tax of less than $100. The Auditor may in any case require such additional information as he may deem necessary to enable him to assess and fix the just amount of license tax of such corporation; and it shall be his duty to notify every such corporation of the amount so assessed by him; and it shall be the duty of the corporation to pay the same into the treasury of this State within thirty days thereafter, and if it shall fail to do so, it shall be liable to the penalties prescribed in secs. 136 and 137 of this chapter.

If the corporation has property to the amount of $5,000 or over within the State, it must pay the same annual license tax as is required of domestic corporations. If the amount of its property is not $5,000, it must pay the same annual tax as is required of non-resident domestic corporations (Laws of 1905, chap. 36, secs. 126, 128, 130, 137; Laws of 1909, chap. 68, sec. 126).

If any foreign corporation desires no longer to hold property and transact business in this State, it may surrender to the State its authority therefor in the following manner: It shall publish once in each week for four successive weeks, in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county in the State where it carries on its business, a notice of its intention to withdraw from the State. After such publication it shall make application to the Secretary of State for a certificate of withdrawal, which application shall be signed by the president of the corporation, sealed with its corporate seal and attested by its secretary, and be accompanied by a copy of the said notice and the publisher's certificate of its publication. The Secretary of State shall file the same in his office and issue to said corporation a certificate of withdrawal, but said certificate of withdrawal shall not be issued unless and until the corporation has paid into the State treasury any amount it may owe as license tax, including all fines, interest, and penalties as provided in sec. 56 of chap. 53 of the Code. The issuance of such certificate of withdrawal shall not relieve the corporation of any debt or obligation due from it to the State or any resident thereof.

Upon receipt of such certificate the Secretary of State shall issue a certificate of incorporation (Laws of 1905, chap. 507; Laws of 1909, chap. 355). The better practice is upon incorporation to have the articles executed as duplicate originals. No corporation shall have a legal existence until such articles have been so left for record. The organization tax must be paid to the Secretary of State at the time the articles are presented to him for filing (R. S., sec. 1773, as amended by chap. 238, Session Laws of 1901). Business cannot be commenced until one-half of the capital stock is subscribed and twenty per cent paid in (R. S., sec. 1773).

S., sec. 1772, as amended by chap. 238, Session Laws of 1901; Laws of 1905, chap. 507; Laws of 1907, chap. 562; Laws of 1909, chap. 355).

Heath v. Company, 39 Wis. 146.

8. Filing and Recording Fees. — There are no fees for filing articles in the office of the Secretary of State other than the payment of the organization tax. For certified copy of articles of incorporation, the charge is 12 cents per

The meeting may be called by any two of the incorporators on ten days' notice in writing given personally or by two weeks' publication, but the notice may be waived if all of the subscribers for stock are present in person or by proxy (R. S., sec. 1773). The meeting cannot be held until one-half of the capital stock has been subscribed (R. S., sec. 1773). Until organization the incorporators have by statute the direction of the affairs of the corporation (Id.).

Heath v. Company, 39 Wis. 146.

11. Meetings of Stockholders and Directors. — Stockholders' meetings must be held within the State (R. S., sec. 1762). Directors' meetings may be held without the State if the by-laws so provide (R. S., 1776). Unless a provision to the contrary is inserted in the articles of incorporation and recited in each certificate for any share of stock issued by the corporation, every stockholder of any corporation shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock owned and held by him at every meeting of the stockholders, and at every election of the officers thereof, and may vote either in person or by proxy at such elections, and by proxy at other meetings when so provided by the by-laws of the corporation; and every executor, administrator, guardian, assignee for creditors, receiver or trustee shall represent the shares of stock in his hands at all meetings of the stockholders and may vote thereat as a stockholder (sec. 1760, as amended by Laws of 1911, chap. 532).

S., secs. 1765, 1773); also for failure to make reports or refusing to allow inspection of books and accounts (Laws of 1905, chap. 347). Directors may avoid liability by entering their dissent in writing in the minutes of the directors' meeting (Laws of 1903, chap. 474).

Neither preferred nor common stock shall bear interest. Certificates of both preferred and common stock shall state on the face thereof all the privileges accorded to and all restrictions imposed upon the preferred stock. No change or amendment in relation to such preferred stock shall be made except by way of amendment to the articles of organization adopted by unanimous vote of the holders of all the outstanding stock, both preferred and common (sec. 1759 a, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 576).

21. Annual License Tax. — There is no annual license tax.

22. Statutory Grounds for Forfeiture of Charter. — The charter may be forfeited for failing to keep an office and a managing officer or superintendent within the State (R. S., sec. 1750), for entering into illegal trusts (sec. 1791 j, k, l, Laws of 1905, chap. 507; Laws of 1907, chap. 562), also where charter is procured upon some fraudulent suggestion or enactment (R. S., secs. 3240, 3241). If a corporation remains insolvent or neglects to pay its debts or suspends its ordinary business for one year, it is deemed to have surrendered its charter, and shall be adjudged to be dissolved (R. Duplicate copies of such amendment must be prepared with a certificate thereto attached signed by the president and secretary and sealed with the corporate seal, stating the fact and the date of the adoption of such amendment, the total number of shares voting in favor of such amendment, and that such copy is a true copy of the original. These are then forwarded to the Secretary of State, one to be filed by him and the other copy to be returned with his certificate attached to the register of deeds, who must record the same within thirty days after filing with the Secretary of State. The register of deeds then transmits to the Secretary of State a certificate stating time when such amendment was recorded in his office. Upon receipt of such certificate the Secretary of State issues a certificate of amendment (Laws of 1905, chap. 507). No amendment to the articles of any corporation increasing the capital stock shall be filed unless accompanied by the vote of the president and secretary that at least one-half of the capital stock, including the proposed increase, has been duly subscribed and at least twenty per cent thereof actually paid in. The aforesaid officers and any other officer or stockholder consenting to the incurring of any debt or liability by such corporation, while having knowledge that less than one-half of the authorized capital stock has been subscribed, or that less than twenty per cent thereof has been actually paid in shall be personally liable upon the same (Laws of 1911, chap. 532, sec. 2).

(e) The proportion of the capital stock represented in the State of Wisconsin by its property located and business transacted therein during the preceding year. In determining the proportion of capital stock employed in the State, the same shall be computed by taking the gross business in dollars of the corporation in the State, and the full value in dollars of the property of the corporation located in the State. The same shall be the numerator of a fraction of which the denominator shall consist of the total gross business in dollars of the corporation, both within and without the State, added to the full value in dollars of the entire property of the corporation, both within and without the State. The fraction so obtained shall represent the proportion of the capital stock represented within the State. The Secretary

In case of failure to file such report in the time above stated, the corporation shall pay to the Secretary of State a penalty of $25, if the same is not filed before May 1st. In case such report is not filed by May 1st, or if said corporation shall remove or make application to remove in any District or Circuit Court of the United States any action or proceeding commenced against it by any citizen of Wisconsin, upon any claim or cause of action arising within this State, the license issued to said corporation shall be void, and the Secretary of State shall enter such forfeiture in the records of his department (sec. 1770 b, as amended by Laws of 1907, chap. 562). Such notice shall be published three times in such newspaper, for which a charge of $5 shall be the legal rate for the publication of the three notices. The incorporators must, within said thirty days, file in the office of the Secretary of State the publishers' proof of such publication and receipt for same, and pay the Secretary of State for filing and indexing such proof (Laws of 1905, chap. 13).

6. Corporate Indebtedness. — The indebtedness shall at no time exceed amount of the capital stock (R. S., secs. 3049, 3053; Laws of 1907, chap. 70).

If the certificate of incorporation so provides, the power to adopt by-laws may be bestowed upon the directors.

b. S., secs. 3048, 3049). To avoid this liability as to dividends only, a certificate of objection must be filed with the secretary of the company, and with the county clerk of the county wherein the meeting is held (Laws of 1907, chap. 70). But before any corporation shall be entitled to diminish the amount of its capital stock, if the amount of its debts and liabilities shall exceed the amount of capital to which it is proposed to be reduced, such amount of debts and liabilities shall be satisfied and reduced so as not to exceed such diminished amount of capital, and any existing company heretofore formed under the general law or any special act, may come under and avail itself of the privileges and provisions of this chapter by complying with the following provisions, and thereupon such company, its officers and stockholders, shall be subject to all the restrictions, duties, and liabilities of this chapter (sec. 3053).

The holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to receive, when and as declared from the surplus profits of the company, yearly dividends at the rate of six per cent per annum, and no more, payable semiannually on dates to be fixed by the by-laws. The dividends on the preferred stock shall be cumulative, and shall be payable before any dividend on the common stock shall be paid or set apart, so that if in any year dividends amounting to six per cent shall not have been paid thereon, the deficiency shall be payable before any dividends shall be paid upon or set apart for the common stock.

Whenever all cumulative dividends on the preferred stock for all previous years shall have been declared and shall have become payable, and the accrued semiannual instalment for the current year shall have been declared, and the company shall have paid such cumulative dividends for previous years and such accrued semiannual instalment or shall have set aside from its surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment thereof, the board of directors may declare dividends on the common stock payable then or thereafter out of any remaining surplus or net profits, provided, however, that the dividends upon the common stock shall be so limited that the same shall never in any one year exceed the rate of ten per cent, so long as there shall remain outstanding and unredeemed any of the four and a half per cent mortgage and collateral trust gold bonds of the company.

In distribution of assets other than profits, there shall be paid, as far as the same will go, first, upon the preferred stock to the amount of the par value thereof and its six per cent cumulative dividends that are unpaid, if any, less the amount, if any, paid thereon, in any previous distribution of such assets; next, upon the common stock, to the amount of the par value thereof, less the amount, if any paid thereon in any previous distribution of such assets, and then upon the two classes of stock equally per share.

IOWA.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION

COMPANY.

We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, have associated ourselves as a body corporate, under the provisions of Chapter 1, Title IX. of the Code of Iowa, and acts amendatory thereto, and to that end have adopted the following articles of incorporation.

Article I.

The name of this corporation shall be:

Article II.

The principal place of business of this corporation shall be at the city of _____, and State of Iowa.

(NOTE. If the corporation does not transact business in this State, it is not necessary that the articles name its principal place of business, or that such principal place of business be in this State.)

Article III.

The general nature of the business to be transacted by this corporation shall be:

(NOTE. It is customary to state the general nature of the business to be transacted quite fully, making this statement broad enough to cover all the contingencies that may possibly arise.)

Article IV.

This corporation shall have all of the powers necessary for, or incidental to, the convenient transaction of the business for which it has been organized, including the power to borrow money, and to issue its negotiable notes, bonds, or other evidences of such indebtedness, and to secure the repayment of the same by liens upon all or any portion of its property, real or personal, by way of mortgage or otherwise, and including the power to own, lease, buy, and sell real estate; and further among its powers shall be the following:

1. To have perpetual succession;
2. To sue and be sued by its corporate name;
3. To have a common seal, which it may alter at pleasure;
4. To render the interests of the stockholders transferable;
5. To exempt the private property of its members from liability for corporate debts;
6. To make contracts, acquire and transfer property, — possessing the same powers in such respects as natural persons;
7. To establish by-laws, and make all rules and regulations necessary for the management of its affairs.

(NOTE. This section is not absolutely necessary. It is, however, customary, and the provisions, especially with reference to borrowing money, etc., will be found in actual practice to facilitate such transactions.)

Article V.

The amount of the authorized capital stock of this corporation is the sum of _____ dollars divided into _____ shares, each of the par value of _____ dollars. Not less than _____ dollars of the capital stock of this corporation shall be paid in in cash, or in property at its reasonable cash value, before the corporation transacts business except the business incident to its organization.

FORMS AND PRECEDENTS.

(1) The remainder of the capital stock of this corporation shall be issued and paid in from time to time as the board of directors may direct.

(2) The par value of all stock shall be paid in, either in cash or in property at its reasonable cash value, at the time that the stock is issued.

(NOTE. The sentence indicated as (1) above, may be omitted if the stock is all to be paid in when the corporation commences business. If it is not all to be so paid in, there should be something of this character inserted, prescribing when the remainder of the stock shall be issued. The sentence (1) follows the method usually adopted in Iowa, but any method may be adopted which makes the articles state when the stock not issued when the corporation is organized shall be issued.)

(Sentence (2) above, should be omitted unless the stock is to be paid up as stated. If the stock is to be paid up entirely in cash when issued, or all of it in property when issued, modify this article to conform to the facts. It is not essential that this sentence be inserted, but if the stock is to be fully paid, it is desirable that the articles should show it.)

Article VI.

This corporation shall commence on the _____ day of _____, A. D. 19____, and shall continue for the term of twenty years thereafter, with the right of renewal as provided by law, unless sooner dissolved by a vote of not less than _____ of the stock then outstanding.

(NOTE. Under the law it takes unanimous consent to dissolve before the expiration of the term unless the articles provide otherwise. It is therefore not unusual to put in a provision that a designated majority, as two-thirds or three-fourths, may dissolve the corporation. The italicized portion above is, however, not necessary, if such right is not desired.)

Article VII.

The affairs of this corporation shall be conducted by a board of not less than nor more than directors.

Within said limits the number of directors may be fixed by the stockholders at any regular or special meeting; until otherwise fixed by the stockholders the board of directors shall consist of _____ members.

The board of directors shall have general charge of the business and affairs of this corporation, and all of the powers of this corporation are vested in its board of directors except as otherwise provided by law, or by the by-laws of this corporation, and subject to such action restricting said powers as may be taken from time to time by the stockholders, either at an annual or at a special meeting, duly called therefor.

The directors of this corporation may delegate their powers and may in writing authorize others to act for them, as their proxies, at any meeting or meetings of its board of directors; provided, however, that the stockholders of this corporation may at any time limit, restrict, or prohibit such delegation of power by its directors, and while so limited or restricted said power shall only be delegated pursuant to such limitations or restrictions; and if so prohibited it shall not be delegated during the continuance of such prohibition.

(NOTE. Much of the above is not necessary. It has, however, proved to be a matter of very great convenience. In lieu of the above the following article would fill the requirements of the law :

"The affairs of this corporation shall be conducted by a board of directors who shall have general charge of its business.")

Article VIII.

The officers of this corporation shall be a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. The directors may appoint a cashier and executive committee and such other officers as the convenient transaction of its business may require.

All officers and directors of this corporation shall hold office for one year, or until their successors are chosen and qualified, and any vacancy in any office, or in the board of directors, may be filled by the remaining directors until the successor of the person thus chosen to fill such vacancy is elected by the stockholders or directors, at an annual or special meeting, and has duly qualified.

Article IX.

The board of directors of this corporation shall be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders, which shall be held on the second Tuesday of in each year, commencing with the year A.D. 19 , at the principal office of the company at such hour as may be fixed by the directors or by the by-laws. The officers of this corporation shall be chosen by the directors at the annual meeting of the directors, which shall be held each year immediately after the annual meeting of the stockholders.

Until the annual meeting of the stockholders in the year A.D. 19 , and until their successors are chosen and have qualified, shall constitute the board of directors of this corporation, and its officers shall be president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

(NOTE. Of course any date may be fixed for the annual meeting.)

Article X.

Each director shall be a stockholder, and if any director shall cease to be a stockholder he shall forthwith by virtue of that fact cease to be a director. Two or more offices may be held by the same person at the same time.

(NOTE. The preceding article is not necessary to a legal organization.)

Article XI.

At all meetings of the stockholders each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock held by him, which votes may be cast either in person or by proxy duly authorized in writing.

(NOTE. The preceding article is not necessary to a legal organization.)

Article XII.

The highest amount of indebtedness to which this corporation shall at any time subject itself shall be an amount not in excess of two-thirds of its capital stock then issued and outstanding.

Article XIII.

The private property of the stockholders of this corporation shall be exempt from corporate debts.

Article XIV.

These articles may be amended at any annual meeting of the stockholders or at any special meeting called for that purpose ; but no such amendment shall be made without the affirmative vote in its favor of of the shares of stock then outstanding.

(NOTE. This article is probably unnecessary but it is better to have it, and it is required, if an amendment by a bare majority of a quorum is to be precluded.)

To acquire by purchase, subscription, or otherwise, and to hold or to dispose of, stocks, bonds, or any other obligations of any corporation formed for, or then or heretofore engaged in or pursuing, any one or more of the kinds of business, purposes, objects or operations above indicated, or owning or holding any property of any kind herein mentioned, or of any corporation owning or holding the stocks or the obligations of any such corporation.

To hold for investment, or otherwise to use, sell, or dispose of, any stock, bonds, or other obligations of any such other corporation; to aid in any manner any corporation whose stock, bonds, or other obligations are held or in any manner guaranteed by the Company, and to do any other acts or things for the preservation, protection, improvement, or enhancement of the value of any such stock, bonds, or other obligations, or to do any acts or things designed for any such purpose; and, while owner of any such stock, bonds, or other obligations, to exercise all the rights, powers, and privileges of ownership thereof, and to exercise any and all voting power thereon.

The business or purpose of the Company is from time to time to do any one or more of the acts and things herein set forth; and it may conduct its business in other States, and in the Territories, and in foreign countries, and may have one office, or more than one office, and keep the books of the Company outside of the State of New Jersey, except as otherwise may be provided by law; and may hold, purchase, mortgage, and convey real and personal property, either in or out of the State of New Jersey.

Without in any particular limiting any of the objects and powers of the corporation, it is hereby expressly declared and provided that the corporation shall have power to issue bonds and other obligations in payment for property purchased or acquired by it, or for any other object in or about its business; to mortgage or pledge any stocks, bonds, or other obligations, or any property which may be acquired by it, to secure any bonds or other obligations by it issued or incurred; to guarantee any dividends, or bonds, or contracts, or other obligations; to make and perform contracts of any kind and description and in carrying on its business, or for the purpose of attaining or furthering any of its objects, to do any and all other acts and things, and to exercise any and all other powers which a copartnership or natural person could do and exercise, and which now or hereafter may be authorized by law.

IV. The total authorized capital stock of the corporation is eleven hundred million dollars ($1,100,000,000), divided into eleven million shares of the par value of one hundred dollars each. Of such total authorized capital stock, five million five hundred thousand shares, amounting to five hundred and fifty million dollars, shall be preferred stock, and five million five hundred thousand shares, amounting to five hundred and fifty million dollars, shall be common stock.

From time to time, the preferred stock and the common stock may be increased according to law, and may be issued in such amounts and proportions as shall be determined by the Board of Directors, and as may be permitted by law.

The holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to receive when and as declared, from the surplus or net profits of the corporation, yearly dividends at the rate of seven per centum per annum, and no more, payable quarterly on dates to be fixed by the by-laws. The dividends on the preferred stock shall be cumulative, and shall be payable before any dividend on the common stock shall be paid or set apart; so that, if in any year dividends amounting to seven per cent shall not have been paid thereon, the deficiency shall be payable before any dividends shall be paid upon or set apart for the common stock.

Whenever all cumulative dividends on the preferred stock for all previous years shall have been declared and shall have become payable, and the accrued quarterly instalments for the current year shall have been declared, and the Company shall have paid such cumulative dividends for previous years, and such accrued quarterly instalments, or shall have set aside from its surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment thereof, the Board of Directors may declare dividends on the common stock, payable then or thereafter, out of any remaining surplus or net profits.

FORMS AND PRECEDENTS.

In the event of any liquidation or dissolution or winding up (whether voluntary or involuntary) of the corporation, the holders of the preferred stock shall be entitled to be paid in full both the par amount of their shares, and the unpaid dividends accrued thereon, before any amount shall be paid to the holders of the common stock; and after the payment to the holders of the preferred stock of its par value, and the unpaid accrued dividends thereon, the remaining assets and funds shall be divided and paid to the holders of the common stock according to their respective shares.

V. The names and post-office addresses of the incorporators, and the number of shares of stock for which severally and respectively we do hereby subscribe (the aggregate of our said subscriptions being thousand dollars, is the amount of capital stock with which the corporation will commence business), are as follows:

(Here follow the names and post-office addresses of each of the incorporators, and the number of shares of stock subscribed for by each.)

VI. The duration of the corporation shall be perpetual.

VII. The number of Directors of the Company shall be fixed from time to time by the by-laws; but the number, if fixed at more than three, shall be some multiple of three. The Directors shall be classified with respect to the time for which they shall severally hold office by dividing them into three classes, each consisting of one-third of the whole number of the Board of Directors. The Directors of the first class shall be elected for a term of one year; the Directors of the second class for a term of two years; and the Directors of the third class for a term of three years; and at each annual election the successors to the class of Directors whose terms shall expire in that year shall be elected to hold office for the term of three years, so that the term of office of one class of Directors shall expire in each year.

The number of the Directors may be increased as may be provided in the by-laws. In case of any increase of the number of the Directors the additional Directors shall be elected as may be provided in the by-laws by the Directors or by the stockholders at an annual or special meeting; and one-third of their number shall be elected for the then unexpired portion of the term of the Directors of the first class, one-third of their number for the unexpired portion of the term of the Directors of the second class, and one-third of their number for the unexpired portion of the term of the Directors of the third class, so that each class of Directors shall be increased equally.

In case of any vacancy in any class of Directors through death, resignation, disqualification or other cause, the remaining Directors, by affirmative vote of a majority of the Board of Directors, may elect a successor to hold office for the unexpired portion of the term of the Director whose place shall be vacant, and until the election of a successor.

The Board of Directors shall have power to hold their meetings outside of the State of New Jersey at such places as from time to time may be designated by the by-laws or by resolution of the Board. The by-laws may prescribe the number of Directors necessary to constitute a quorum of the Board of Directors, which number may be less than a majority of the whole number of the Directors.

Unless authorized by votes given in person or by proxy by stockholders holding at least two-thirds of the capital stock of the corporation, which is represented and voted upon in person or by proxy at a meeting specially called for that purpose, or at an annual meeting, the Board of Directors shall not mortgage or pledge any of its real property, or any shares of the capital stock of any other corporation; but this prohibition shall not be construed to apply to the execution of any purchase-money mortgage or any other purchase-money lien.

As authorized by the Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, passed March 22, 1901, amending the seventeenth section of the Act concerning Corporations (Revision of 1896), any action which theretofore required the consent of the holders of two-thirds of the stock at any meeting, after notice to them given, or required their consent in writing to be filed, may be taken upon the consent of, and the consent given and filed by, the holders of two-thirds of the stock of each class represented at such meeting in person or by proxy.

Any officer elected or appointed by the Board of Directors may be removed at any time by the affirmative vote of a majority of the whole Board of Directors.

INCORPORATION AND ORGANIZATION OF CORPORATIONS.

Any other officer or employee of the Company may be removed at any time by vote of the Board of Directors, or by any committee or superior officer upon whom such power of removal may be conferred by the by-laws or by a vote of the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the whole board, may appoint from the Directors an executive committee, of which a majority shall constitute a quorum; and, to such extent as shall be provided in the by-laws, such committee shall have and may exercise all or any of the powers of the Board of Directors, including power to cause the seal of the corporation to be affixed to all papers that may require it.

The Board of Directors, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the whole board, may appoint any other Standing Committees, and such Standing Committees shall have and may exercise such powers as shall be conferred or authorized by the by-laws.

The Board of Directors may appoint not only other officers of the Company, but also one or more vice-presidents, one or more assistant treasurers, and one or more assistant secretaries; and, to the extent provided in the by-laws, the persons so appointed respectively shall have and may exercise all the powers of the president, of the treasurer, and of the secretary respectively.

The Board of Directors shall have power from time to time to fix and to determine and to vary the amount of the working capital of the Company; and to direct and determine the use and disposition of any surplus or net profits over and above the capital stock paid in; and in its discretion the Board of Directors may use and apply any such surplus or accumulated profits in purchasing or acquiring its bonds or other obligations, or shares of its own capital stock, to such extent and in such manner and upon such terms as the Board of Directors shall deem expedient; but shares of such capital stock so purchased or acquired may be resold, unless such shares shall have been retired for the purpose of decreasing the Company's capital stock as provided by law.

The Board of Directors from time to time shall determine whether and to what extent, and at what times and places, and under what conditions and regulations, the accounts and books of the corporation, or any of them, shall be open to the inspection of the stockholders, and no stockholder shall have any right to inspect any account or book or document of the corporation, except as conferred by Statute or authorized by the Board of Directors or by a resolution of the stockholders.

Subject always to by-laws made by the stockholders, the Board of Directors may make by-laws, and, from time to time, may alter, amend, or repeal any by-laws; but any by-laws made by the Board of Directors may be altered or repealed by the stockholders at any annual meeting, or at any special meeting, provided notice of such proposed alteration or repeal be included in the notice of the meeting.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

Be It Known, That by virtue of the general laws of the land (here insert names of incorporators) are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of for the purpose of

The capital stock of said corporation shall be dollars.

The general powers of said corporation are: To sue and be sued by the corporate name; to have and use a common seal, which it may alter at pleasure; if no common seal, then the signature of the name of the corporation by any duly authorized officer shall be legal and binding; to purchase and hold or receive by gift, in addition to the personal property owned by said corporation, any real estate necessary for the transaction of the corporate business, and also to purchase or accept any real estate in payment or part payment of any debt due to the corporation, and sell realty for corporation purposes; to establish by-laws and make all rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the laws and Constitution, deemed expedient for the management of corporate affairs, and to appoint such subordinate officers and agents in addition to a President, Secretary, or Treasurer, as the business of the corporation may require, designate the name of the office, and fix the compensation of the officer.

The following provisions and restrictions are coupled with said grant of powers: A failure to elect officers at the proper time does not dissolve the corporation, but those in office hold until the election or appointment and qualification of their successors. The term of all officers may be fixed by the by-laws of the corporation; the same not, however, to exceed two years. The corporation may, by by-laws, make regulations concerning the subscriptions for, or transfer of stock; fix upon the amount of capital to be invested in the enterprise; the division of the same into shares; the time required for payment thereof by the subscribers for stock; the amount to be called for at any one time, and in case of failure of any stockholder to pay the amount thus subscribed by him at the time and in the amounts thus called, a right of action shall exist in the corporation to sue said defaulting stockholder for the same. The Board of Directors — which may consist of five or more members, at the option of the corporation, to be elected either in person or by proxy, by a majority of the votes cast, each share representing one vote — shall keep a full and true record of all their proceedings, and an annual statement of receipts and disbursements shall be copied on the minutes, subject at all times to the inspection of any stockholder. The books of the corporation shall show the original or subsequent stockholders, their respective interests, the amount which has been paid on the shares subscribed, the transfer of stock, by and to whom made; also other transactions in which it is presumed a stockholder or creditor may have an interest.

The amount of any unpaid stock due from a subscriber to the corporation shall be a fund for the payment of any debts due from the corporation, nor shall the transfer of stock by any subscriber relieve him from payment unless his transferee has paid up all or any of the balance due on said original subscription.

By no implication or construction shall the corporation be deemed to possess any powers except those hereby expressly given or necessarily implied from the nature of the business for which the charter is granted, and by no inference whatever shall said corporation possess the power to discount notes or bills, deal in gold or silver coin, issue any evidence of debts as currency, or engage in any business outside the purpose of the charter.

The right is reserved to repeal, annul, or modify this charter. If it is repealed, or if the amendments proposed, being not merely auxiliary but fundamental, are rejected by a vote representing more than half of the stock, the corporation shall continue to exist for the purpose of winding up its affairs, but not to enter upon any new business. If the amendments or modifications being fundamental are accepted by the corporation as aforesaid, in a general meeting to be called for that purpose, any minor, married woman, or other person under disability, or any stockholder not agreeing to the acceptance of the modification, shall cease to be a stockholder, and the corporation shall be liable to pay said withdrawing stockholders the par value of their stock, if it is worth so much; if not, then so much as may be its real value in the market on the day of the withdrawal of said stockholders as aforesaid; Provided, That the claims of all creditors are to be paid in preference to said withdrawing stockholders.

A majority of the Board of Directors shall constitute a quorum and shall fill all vacancies until the next election. The first Board of Directors shall consist of the five or more incorporators who shall apply for and obtain the charter.

The said corporation may have the right to borrow money and issue notes or bonds upon the faith of the corporate property, and also to execute a mortgage or mortgages as further security for repayment of money thus borrowed.

Said corporation shall have the power to raise, buy, sell, and deal in agricultural products, operate flouring and other mills, and deal in merchandise.

Annually, during the month of January, the President shall make and publish in a newspaper printed in the county where the principal office of business is located, or if no newspaper is printed in that county, then in an adjoining, or the nearest county where a newspaper is printed, a sworn statement, showing the amount of the capital stock and existing liabilities, and a list of the names of the stockholders.

Nothing but cash shall be taken in payment of any part of the capital stock, or land at a fair cash valuation, or patents to the amount of their value, as agreed on by the subscriber and the corporation, and no loan of money shall at any time be made to any stockholder thereof, and any such loan shall render the Directors consenting thereto individually liable for the amount thereof; this liability to extend in favor of innocent stockholders as well as creditors.

The making of a false statement, to be printed as aforesaid, shall render all persons assenting thereto individually liable to all persons dealing or trading with said Company upon the faith of said fraudulent statement.

If the indebtedness of said Company shall at any time exceed the capital stock paid in, the Directors assenting thereto shall be individually liable to the creditors for said excess. The stockholders are jointly and severally liable individually at all times, for all moneys due and owing to the laborers, servants, clerks, and operatives of the Company in case the corporation becomes insolvent.

If the Directors declare and pay any dividend when the Company is insolvent, on which declaration of a dividend would diminish the amount of the capital stock, they shall be jointly and severally liable to creditors for the amount of dividends thus declared. Any Director may avoid liability by voting against the dividend, or by filing his objections in writing as soon as he ascertains a dividend has been made.

WEST VIRGINIA.

FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.

In order to do business in West Virginia, a foreign Corporation must take the following steps:

1. File a certified copy of its charter, or of its articles of association, with the Secretary of State of West Virginia. This copy may be certified as correct by the Secretary of State or other officer who issued the original, of the State by which the Corporation was incorporated; or it may be certified by the President of the Corporation, under his hand and the seal of the Corporation, and attested by the Secretary of the Corporation; and such certificate may be in this form:

I, , President of the Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of , do hereby certify to the Secretary of State of the State of West Virginia, that the foregoing and annexed is a full, true, and correct statement of the certificate of incorporation or articles of association, as the case may be, with all amendments and additions thereto, of the said corporation.

Given under my hand and the seal of said corporation, this day of (SEAL.) , President of Company.

Correct — Attest; , Secretary of Company.

2. A copy of the charter, or of the articles of association, certified as aforesaid, must also be filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county, or one of the counties of West Virginia in which the Corporation conducts business. The proper county in which to file and record this copy would seem to be that county in which the Corporation may have a branch office in this State, or in which it makes its headquarters in this State, or in some county in which it does, or will do business.

It will be seen that two certified copies of the charter, or of the articles of association, are required: one to file in the Secretary of State's office, and one to file and record in the county clerk's office.

3. The Corporation must also file in the Secretary of State's office a writing of acceptance of section 30 of chapter 54 of the Code of West Virginia before he is authorized to issue his certificate. Such certificate of acceptance may be in this form:

I, _____, President of the _____ Company, a Corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of West Virginia that at a meeting of the board of directors (or other governing body of the Corporation) of said Corporation regularly held at the office of the Corporation on the _____ day of _____, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, by the Board of Directors of the _____ Company, a Corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of _____, That, whereas said Corporation desires authority to hold property and transact business in the State of West Virginia, the said Corporation hereby accepts the provisions of section 30 of the chapter 54 of the Code of West Virginia and agrees to be governed thereby.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Corporation this _____ day of _____.

4. The Corporation must also file with the Secretary of State the preliminary report required in section 2, upon which to base the assessment of its initial license tax for the current license-tax year. The form of this report will be furnished on application to the Secretary of State. It must pay such tax to the Secretary of State before it can be admitted into the State.

5. The Corporation must also appoint an attorney of record, usually called "Statutory Attorney."

6. On receipt of the certified copy of charter, the certificate of acceptance of the law, and the preliminary report, the Secretary of State will issue a certificate of attorney to the Corporation, which will be the evidence of its compliance with the law and of its authority to hold the property and transact business in the State of West Virginia. This certificate of authority must be filed and recorded in the said county clerk's office of the county in which the certified copy of the charter is filed and recorded as referred to in section 1. As the Corporation must file and record in the county clerk's office the certificate of authority of the Secretary of State and as each corporation will doubtless want one also in its own possession it would seem that two such certificates of the Secretary of State would be needed. The costs of the proceedings in the Secretary of State's office are as follows:

For two certificates of authority	$10.00
For filing and recording the certificate of acceptance	1.00
	$11.00

The other costs are: recording the copy of charter and the certificate of authority in the county clerk's office, $2.50 for charter, and $1.00 for the certificate, making $3.50.

(Two copies of this Report should be made at the time of making application to be authorized to do business in this State.)

All moneys received by the Trustee under this article shall be held and applied by it to and for the purposes of the sinking fund, hereinafter created; provided, that if at the time of the receipt thereof any prior bonds which are a lien on the land so sold should be outstanding, then in case any such money shall be received by the Trustee from or on account of any parcel of land now subject to the trust deeds securing the prior bonds, the Trustee shall turn over such money to the Trustee or Trustees thereunder for the time being, to be held and disposed of by it or them as therein prescribed.

ARTICLE SIXTH. — I. III. As between the Company and the Trustee, all the machinery, tools, and other personal property used and to be used in connection with the said trust properties shall be considered fixtures, and be held to be covered by the lien of these presents.

In case default shall be made by said Company in the performance of any of the covenants and agreements contained in the several prior bonds, or in the trust deeds securing the same, so as to entitle the Trustee or Trustees therein, or either of them, to exercise the power of entry provided for therein; or in case the said Company shall, at any time, make default (a) in paying the principal or interest, or any part thereof, which, in and by said general mortgage bonds, it has promised to pay, on any day whereon the same shall be payable and shall have been demanded; or (b) in paying all or any part of the taxes and assessments which shall at any time be lawfully imposed upon the properties covered, or intended to be covered, by these presents, as each shall respectively fall due; or (c) in setting apart and applying, at the times and in the manner hereinafter directed, the sinking fund hereinafter provided for, or some part thereof; and in case one or more persons holding a majority of said general mortgage bonds, as to which such defaults, or one or more of them, exist, shall have made a demand upon said Trustee in writing to that effect, then, upon the continuance of such defaults, or one or more of them, for six months, it shall be lawful for said Trustee:

I. To enter into and upon all and singular the trust properties covered, or intended to be covered, by these presents, and to take the same, and each and all of them, into its own possession, and to control, manage, and operate the same, by itself, or by its agents, attorneys, and employees, as it shall think proper, in like manner as the said Company theretofore had or might have done; and to collect, use, and dispose of the products, earnings, rents, profits, revenues, and income thereof (first) in and toward paying the expense of operating said properties, and of keeping the same in good and efficient working condition and repair, including a reasonable compensation to the said Trustee for managing and operating the same, and also the fees of counsel employed by it in that behalf; and, if any surplus shall remain, then (second) to use such surplus in making good the default or defaults which may have so occurred, whether before or after its taking possession as aforesaid, to (or for the benefit of) the parties who may have suffered thereby; and, upon and after having so made good all such defaults, in trust to restore the said

II. In case any one or more of the defaults in this article mentioned shall have occurred, and continued for more than six months, and upon a like written demand upon said Trustee to that effect, made by one or more persons holding a majority of said general mortgage bonds as to which such defaults, or any one or more of them, shall exist, then in trust to sell, or cause to be sold, the said trust properties, or so much thereof as shall be necessary for that purpose, at public auction, at _____, after having given notice of the time and place and terms of sale, by publishing the same once in each week for nine consecutive weeks immediately preceding such sale, in one newspaper published in the City of New York and in one newspaper published in the City of _____; and upon such sale or sales to execute and deliver to the purchase or purchasers of the property sold, both in its own name and in the name of the Company, and as its attorney in fact, irrevocable (hereby duly appointed and authorized), such good and sufficient deeds of conveyance, or other instruments of assignment or transfer, as may be necessary or convenient; to vest in the purchaser or purchasers all the estate, right, title, and interest, both of the said Trustee and of the said Company, of, in, and to the property so purchased; and in trust, to receive, collect, use, and apply the net proceeds of such sales, after deducting therefrom all expenses incurred in making such sales, including a reasonable compensation to the said Trustee for administering this trust, and also the fees of counsel employed by it in that behalf, in and towards the payment in full (or if not in full, then pro rata), of the interest first, and then of the principal, due upon any and all the said general mortgage bonds then outstanding and unpaid, in such manner that, after such payments shall have been made, the amounts remaining unpaid upon each bond, whether of principal or interest, shall be equal one with another.

III. Nothing in this article contained shall be construed as to prevent or hinder the said Trustee from applying to any Court of competent jurisdiction, after any default in the performance of any of the terms and provisions hereof, for a judicial foreclosure of these presents, or for any relief, provisional, interlocutory, or final, to which it may be entitled in any proceeding, either at law or in equity, to enforce or secure any rights herein conferred. But no bondholder or bondholders shall take, begin, institute, or prosecute, or have the right to require the Trustee to take, begin, institute, or prosecute, any suit or suits, proceeding or proceedings, to enforce the provisions of or to foreclose this mortgage, until after the expiration of the period of six months from the date of any such default. And no bondholder or bondholders shall, at any time, take, begin, institute, or prosecute any suit or suits, proceeding or proceedings, until after he or they shall have requested the Trustee in writing to take, begin, or institute such suit or suits, proceeding or proceedings, and offered proper indemnity, as hereinafter provided, and the Trustee shall have thereupon refused to comply with such request. The Trustee shall have the right to require the person or persons presenting any such request, or any request or demand mentioned or provided for in this mortgage, to furnish proof, by affidavit or affidavits of the signers, as to the ownership of the bonds represented by him or them, and of his or their authority to subscribe such request, in case the same shall be subscribed by any other persons than the owner; and, if such proof be so required, the said request shall be without effect until such proof shall have been furnished to the Trustee.

IV. Any of the general mortgage bonds or prior bonds and overdue coupons thereon shall be received in payment of the purchase money of any property sold as aforesaid as equivalent to so much cash of the said purchase money as would be distributable and payable thereon; provided that, in case of any such sale or sales under and by virtue of the power conferred by this instrument, the Trustee shall sell the trust properties in such order as may be in writing directed by said Company, provided reasonable notice thereof shall be given to the Trustee.

On or before the first day of _____ in each year the Company shall deliver to the Trustee a supplemental mortgage or deed of trust which shall vest the title to the lands so purchased, if any, in the said Trustee, subject to all the trusts, powers, conditions, and provisions herein contained, and shall pay over to the said Trustee the reservations of said sinking fund which shall not have been invested in coal or iron lands as above provided; provided, that such delivery shall be accompanied by the affidavit of the President, General Manager, or one of the Vice-Presidents of the Company showing the entire amount of moneys reserved during the preceding year and the amount invested in the purchase of lands, and setting forth that the lands purchased on account of said sinking fund were necessary or desirable for the use of the Company; that the price paid for the same was the fair cash value thereof, and that said property had been purchased for the Company in good faith for the consideration expressed; and shall be further accompanied by a certified copy of resolution adopted by the Board of Directors of the Company authorizing or approving the purchase of the aforesaid coal and iron lands and the execution and delivery of the supplemental mortgage above provided for, which affidavit and certificate shall be conclusive evidence to the Trustee of the truth of the statements therein contained; provided, further, that the owners of a majority in amount of the outstanding bonds shall have the right at any time to require all sinking-fund reservations thereafter accruing to be paid in cash; and whenever one or more persons holding a majority of said general mortgage bonds shall have made a demand upon said Trustee in writing to that effect, the entire sinking-fund reservation shall be payable in cash from that time until the maturing of the said general mortgage bonds.

III. Immediately upon the receipt of moneys for the sinking fund, or from sales of land, as provided in Article Five, the Trustee shall proceed to invest the same in the outstanding general mortgage bonds secured by this deed of trust by purchasing them in the open market at the best price for which they can be obtained; in no event, however, paying more than par and five per centum premium with accrued interest.

IV. In case the Trustee shall not be able to purchase the bonds at the price herein limited, then, and in that event, the Trustee shall, on or before the first day of _____, in each year, draw by lot from the entire number of bonds which shall have been outstanding on the first day of _____ previous thereto such a number of bonds for redemption as it shall have funds to redeem at par and five per cent premium, and the holders of said bonds so drawn shall be forthwith notified by advertisement published daily (Sundays excepted) for two weeks in two newspapers in the City of New York, and in one newspaper in _____ that their bonds will be redeemed at five per cent above par with accrued interest on the first day of _____ then next ensuing, and such bonds shall thereupon cease to draw interest from the date fixed for redemption, and shall be redeemed by the said Trustee on and after that day, and at the price aforesaid, out of the moneys placed in its hands on account of said sinking fund.

V. All bonds that shall, from time to time, be purchased or redeemed through the sinking fund herein created shall be destroyed forthwith by the said Trustee in the presence of some officer or other person to be designated by the Company, and said Trustee shall certify to said Company, in writing, the fact of such destruction and the numbers of the bonds so destroyed.

II. All powers in these presents conferred upon the said Trustee (except as otherwise herein specifically provided) shall be deemed discretionary, and it shall incur no liability in exercising any such powers, provided it acts in good faith in exercising the same.

III. The Trustee shall not be answerable for the default or misconduct of any attorney, clerk, or agent appointed by it in pursuance hereof, if such attorney, clerk, or agent be selected with reasonable care, nor for any error or mistake made by it in good faith, but only for gross negligence or willful default in the discharge of its duties as such Trustee. The Trustee shall not be individually liable for any debts contracted or any liabilities incurred by it, nor for any damage to persons or property injured, nor for salaries or non-fulfillments of contracts, during any period in which the Trustee shall manage the trust property upon entry as aforesaid, but all such debts and liabilities shall be and constitute a first charge upon the trust funds and properties.

When said indenture shall have been so executed and delivered to the said Trustee, these presents shall forthwith be deemed to have been altered, curtailed, enlarged, or added to, in accordance therewith, and the Trustee shall cause said indenture to be recorded in such recording offices as shall be by law required, to give notice to all persons affected, or to be affected thereby, but the said Trustee shall have power to refuse to agree to any such alterations, curtailments, enlargements, or additions, in case it shall think that the same shall unreasonably impair or prejudice the rights of the bondholders who do not assent thereto.

ARTICLE TWELFTH. — It is hereby expressly further mutually agreed that whenever and as often as any contingency shall arise on which the action of a majority in interest of the holders of general mortgage bonds secured hereby shall be controlling, or in which the said bondholders have by the provisions hereof any discretionary voice or power, the Trustee hereunder may call a meeting of the holders of such bonds, at the time outstanding, in manner hereinafter provided; and, until otherwise prescribed by said bondholders, such meetings shall be held at the City of New York, and notice of the objects, time, and place of such meeting shall be given by publishing the same in two newspapers published in the City of New York, and also in a newspaper published in , , twice a week for at least

II. It shall be the duty of the Trustee to call any such meeting, whenever the Company or the holder or holders of general mortgage bonds to an aggregate amount not less than _____ shall in writing request the Trustee so to do, and at the same time tender to the Trustee an adequate amount to cover the expenses of calling and holding such meeting; and if the Trustee shall fail to call such meeting in manner aforesaid within thirty days after such request and tender, or if the said Trustee shall have resigned or become otherwise incapacitated, the President of the Company or the holder or holders of such bonds to the amount aforesaid may call such meeting in manner herein provided, and at any meeting a majority in interest of the holders of said bonds outstanding may prescribe and establish such rules and by-laws as they may deem proper for the calling of future similar meetings and the regulation of proceedings thereof, and alter, repeal, or amend the same at pleasure.

III. SUGGESTIONS RELATIVE TO THE DRAFTING OF CHARTERS AND THE PREPARATION OF MINUTES FOR THE ORGANIZATION MEETINGS OF CORPORATIONS.

In presenting a few suggestions relative to the incorporation and organization of corporations it is assumed that a choice has been made of some particular State from which a charter is to be obtained, and that a duty has been imposed upon the attorney of drafting the charter under the laws of such State and organizing the corporation ready for the transaction of business thereunder. The suggestions that follow are made more with a view to utilizing to the best advantage the forms and precedents to be found in the present work rather than with the hope of presenting anything particularly new or original along this line.

THE DRAFTING OF THE CHARTER.

First, ascertain whether all the purposes the insertion of which in the charter is desired by the client may be embodied in one charter. By reference to the "Synopsis Digest" contained in Part II. of this work, this question can be readily answered. Next, turn to the forms for charters of the various States and Territories found in Part III. of the present work, and make use of the skeleton form therein found, for drafting a charter under the laws of the particular States in which this particular charter is sought. The only clauses of the charter to which particular reference need be made here are what are known as the "Object Clause," the "Preferred Stock Clause," and the "Clause for the Regulation of the Internal Affairs of the Corporation."

In drafting the first of these, the "Object Clause," reference should be first had to the "Specific Object Clauses" found in Part III. pp. 613-652, of this work. Forms for drafting the more common of such specific "Object Clauses" will be found therein. Next, it will often be found convenient and useful to add to the

"Specific Object Clauses" certain "General Object Clauses;" such, for example, as those permitting a corporation to purchase and hold its own stock and stock in other corporations as well, and to acquire patents, patent rights, trade marks, etc., and to hold real and personal property without limit, and to transact business in other States and Territories and foreign countries. Sometimes, too, it is of advantage to insert a clause authorizing the corporation to acquire an existing business or to engage in a general merchandise business. Such forms will also be found in Part III. pp. 653-654, herein.

Next, attention is called to the "Preferred Stock Clauses," forms for which will be found on pp. 661-662 of Part III. herein. In connection with the clause for the regulation of the internal affairs of a corporation, attention should first be directed towards ascertaining whether the insertion of such a clause is permitted under the laws of the particular Commonwealth from which the charter is to be procured. Examples of such clauses will be found on pp. 654-661 of Part III. herein. A stock subscription agreement should ordinarily be signed by all of the incorporators before the articles of incorporation are signed. (See Part III. pp. 835-836.)

Finally, see that the requisite number of incorporators sign the articles and acknowledge their execution (when the same is required) before a notary public or other officer authorized to take acknowledgments. In some of the States, notably New Jersey, if the articles are acknowledged without the State, a certificate must be obtained certifying to the officer's due appointment as well as to his authority to take such acknowledgments.

THE PROCURING OF THE CHARTER.

Ordinarily three copies of the charter should be prepared: the first of these should be signed and acknowledged by each of the incorporators, and becomes the original; the second is for the purpose of filing (when duly certified) in local county office (when the same is required by statute), and the third — after being properly certified — remains the property of the corporation.

In most of the Commonwealths at the time the charter is presented to State officials for filing and recording, it must be accompanied by a sufficient remittance to cover not only the organization tax but the filing and recording fees as well. (See Part II. pp. 663-744.) After the certificate of incorporation is issued by the proper State officials, a certified copy thereof should (when the same is required by statute) be promptly filed in the proper county office.

ORGANIZING THE CORPORATION.

(See Composite Form of Minutes and By-Laws, Part III. pp. 512-524.)

The organization meeting of the corporation must be held within the domiciliary State of the corporation unless such meetings are expressly authorized by statute to be held without such domiciliary State. The most convenient practice is for the incorporators to sign a written waiver of notice fixing the time and place of the meeting. (See Part III. p. 836.) If other stockholders than the incorporators have signed the preliminary stock subscription agreement, they also must sign the written waiver here referred to. The meeting organizes by the election of a Chairman and a temporary Secretary. Either the charter itself (if one is issued) or, in lieu thereof, a certified copy of the certificate of incorporation should be presented and entered at length in the minutes.

The By-Laws should next be adopted section by section and entered in the minutes. If the certificate of incorporation names the first Board of Directors, it is not necessary to elect a new Board at the organization meeting. Where such Directors are not named in the certificate of incorporation, the next order of business is the election of Directors. When required by statute (or when not required, if the incorporators so desire), Inspectors of Election should be appointed and sworn. If the persons so chosen as Directors are not subscribers to the capital stock of the corporation, they may become qualified either by subscribing for stock or by having one of the incorporators who is a subscriber to the capital stock assign his stock subscription to them. (See Part III. pp. 816-817.)

If it is the intention of the corporation to take over certain property (either real or personal) in exchange for its capital stock, the following suggestions may be made: Let some party who is not an officer or director in the corporation offer to enter into an agreement with the latter relative to the sale of such property for stock. (See Part III. pp. 836-837.) Then draft the minutes of the incorporators' meeting, so that provision is made for the acceptance of such offer in exchange for a certain specified number of shares in the corporation. The resolution thus passed may be so framed as to operate as a payment of the capital stock subscribed for by the incorporators. (See Part III. pp. 820-821.) Under this resolution the matter is referred to the Board of Directors for more formal action. The Board may, if it sees fit, authorize the execution of a formal agreement covering the transfer of such property for stock in substantially the form set forth in Part III. pp. 837-838. This secures the issuance of the capital stock either in whole or in part as full-paid and non-assessable, providing the Directors in appraising the property are not guilty of fraud or gross overvaluation in appraising the same. Next, if it is desired to place some of this stock so that it may be sold to procure working capital for the corporation, the party to whom it is issued may transfer the same in trust to the corporation for that purpose. (See Part III. p. 838.) This stock, when so transferred, can be sold under the order of the Board of Directors of the Corporation, at such times and for such prices as they may deem proper; and parties purchasing such stock will then receive the same free from any future liability for unpaid instalments thereon, even though they have purchased such stock at considerably less than par.

The seal of the Company should be adopted at this meeting. It is not necessary for the incorporators to be present in person at the meeting. They may all be represented by proxy if desired. Immediately after adjournment of the incorporators' organization meeting, or later if more convenient, the Directors should meet pursuant to a written waiver of notice signed by all of them fixing the time and place of such meeting. (See Part III. p. 822.) The Board then proceeds to elect such officers of the Company as are provided for in the By-Laws adopted at the incorporators' meeting. If the By-Laws provide for an Executive Committee, they should be appointed at the same time the officers are elected. A form of stock certificate should also be passed upon and approved, and the Secretary given authority to procure necessary stock certificates, corporate books, seal, etc. It will be found convenient at this meeting to pass a resolution authorizing the opening of a bank account designating the bank therein and the officers of the corporation by whom checks and drafts shall be signed. (See Part III. pp. 818-819.) Where it is necessary to provide for the maintaining of the domiciliary office for the corporation or the appointment of a registered agent, this should be attended to at the first meeting of the incorporators and Directors. The form for the proper resolutions relative to this matter to be passed at the incorporators' meeting, will be found on page 775. ante. Such resolutions should properly be followed by action taken at the directors' meeting, to the following effect. The Board of Directors at their organization meeting should pass the following resolutions:

"RESOLVED, that in compliance with the laws of _____ and the certificate of incorporation of the Company, the principal (or registered) office of the Company be established and maintained at the office of _____, in the city of _____, and that a sign with the Company's name thereon be conspicuously displayed at the entrance of said office; and be it further (to be passed only where the incorporation act specifically requires it).

"RESOLVED, that the President of the Company be _____ and he hereby is authorized and directed to execute in the name of and on behalf of said corporation the statement required to be filed by domestic corporations under the provisions of the statutes of the State of _____ in such case made and provided and attach the seal of the corporation thereto, and in such statement to designate _____, a resident of the State of _____, residing and having his office at No. _____, Street in the City of _____, State of _____, as the person upon whom process against the corporation may be served within the State of _____, and further to do all acts and things necessary to comply with the statutes of said State in such case made and provided."

The issuance of stock in exchange for property should be provided for by resolution in accordance with the terms of a similar resolution passed by the incorporators at their organization meeting. If the stock is to be paid for in cash, a resolution substantially in the following form should be passed by the Board, to wit:

"RESOLVED, that an assessment be, and the same hereby is, made of _____ dollars per share from the amount unpaid upon the shares of the capital stock of the Company, and that the same be paid to the Treasurer of the Company on or before the _____ day of _____, 190 _____."
